NAME MODEL'S RICH 'ANGEL'

RED TRIAL IS TEST BETWEEN SOVIET AND U.S.

Both Sides Accept It as Genuine Issue.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

St. Joseph, Mich., March 24.—[Special.]—The court struggle at St. Joseph between the international reds and the "bourgeoise state" of Michigan is taking on a wider and deeper significance each day.

From the point of view of the state and the federal department of justice here in this little coprtroom, facing a jury of normal minded American citizens, sit the brains, the genius, and the directing forces of all the disloyalty and industrial unrest in this country.

Will they be permitted to go forth to spread their doctrines of soviet rule of America, or will they be held in prison upon proof that they are members of the illegal communist party and as such cannot be "harmless philosophers"?

Chip on Wave of Events.

From the communist point of view the trial of William Z. Foster (Comrade Borden) is but an incident in the world conflict in which the higher intelligence which they represent is coming into open conflict with "bourgeoise justice"—and they expect nothing but misunderstanding and martydom.

Nevertheless, by every evasion and camouflage, the communists are seeking to free Foster, realizing that this is a test case and that his conviction under the Michigan anti-syndicalism law will mean that they will all go to jail and that their program for revolution in America will be delayed for years. Such leadership is hard to develop.

Next week the state will be pitted against the cleverest brains in the red movement. Whether Frank P. Walsh will put Foster on the stand is still a matter of speculation.

See Movements Dovetail.

Charles E. Ruthenberg, the first defense witness, who will resume his testimony tomorrow, has denied that there is a communist party in America now. But this is merely technical. The state will show that the Workers' Party of America, of which he's secretary, and the Trades Union International league of which Foster is head, are integral, vital parts of the Russian Communist movement, tactics adopted by the Comintern at Moscow.

The trial is revealing for the first time to American people the methods which the international communists, led by Lenin and the Russian comintern, have adopted to swing the workers of this country toward revolution. The resolutions of the adjustment committee adopted at the Bridgman convention declared that the communist party is not bound by existing laws in our country. The necessity of wresting the power of Gompers and the "decent trade union men" in the American Federation of Labor is emphasized.

The extent to which this propaganda has reached the trade union groups is explained by Foster. Particularly in Chicago, he said, he could "get by with anything" in the Chicago Federation of Labor. Ed Nockels, secretary of the federation, is a trial spectator and is supposed to be a Fosterite.

The Famous Foster Speech.

The Foster speech was testified to in advance by Francis Morrow, government operative, who attended the convention and took notes. Full notes of the speech, according to a government transcript were not admitted in evidence because of a technicality. Morrow supported the adjustment committee report. His address in part follows:

"Revolutionists differ in their opinion as to the importance of the trade unions in the struggle. They say it will never really become a revolutionary factor. Others take the position that it is one of the real revolutionary instruments of the proletariat and will function as such in the eventual struggle. The syndicalists take the view that the trade union is the whole thing.

"But there is one thing that we must agree on—we may differ upon the relative value of the union, but we must agree on the negative factor, and that is this, that it is expected that we cannot have a revolution in a country unless you control its unions. The fact alone should justify the party, such as the communist party of the United States is working out.

Hangs on Lenin's Words.

"After our delegation came back from Moscow last year, with a program which we thought was a good practical program for this country—and I want to say here that I found

TWO BROTHERS SHOT AS "GANG" WAR FLARES UP

Two men were shot, one of them probably fatally, early this morning in what the police believe was a quarrel between members of a band of thieves.

The men were Herbrt and John O'Donnell, brothers, living at 4641 Lake Park avenue. Herbert was shot in the right leg; his brother was shot in the stomach. The latter's wound, physicians say, may prove fatal.

The shooting occurred at the intersection of 50th street and Calumet avenue. Witnesses said they saw six men standing at the corner. Suddenly shots rang out. The O'Donnells fell. The other men jumped into an automobile and drove away.

The brothers were taken to the Washington Park hospital by a passing taxi driver. Neither of the wounded men would give the police information regarding the shooting.

Both of the O'Donnells are "police characters" and have frequently been arrested, it is said, on charges of theft.

'BILLY' HITT WINS HIS BRIDE AGAIN

Former Miss Elkins in Second Romance.

Washington, D. C., March 24.—[Special.]—Mrs. Katherine Elkins Hitt and William F. R. Hitt, married in 1913 and divorced in 1921, were remarried here today and left this afternoon for New York on their second honeymoon. The announcement was made tonight by Mrs. Stephen B. Elkins, mother of the bride.

Exactly where Mr. and Mrs. Hitt were married and by whom remain a mystery. It appears that they left the home of Mrs. Elkins, whose guests they were, this morning, "to take a walk." They returned about an hour later with the news that they were again married.

Mother Keeps Secret.

After their departure, Mrs. Elkins issued an announcement stating only that "the marriage had taken place today in Washington," but refusing to give any additional facts.

The first marriage of the young couple came as the climax of a tangled romance. They were boy and girl sweethearts, but later it was announced that Miss Elkins, daughter of the then Senator Stephen B. Elkins, was to marry the Duke of the Abruzzi, cousin of the king of Italy and member of the house of Savoy. The engagement was broken, it was reported at the time, as a result of the objections made by members of the royal family of Italy.

Duke Ruled War Navy.

The duke later became commander of the Italian navy in the world war.

During all of the courtship by the nobleman "Billy" Hitt, the son of the late Robert R. Hitt, congressman from Illinois, remained a suitor, although modestly keeping in the background. He finally won, and they were married at the Elkins estate in Virginia.

The divorce was granted in Paris. "Incompatability" was given as the cause. Since that time, however, they have been good friends, but their remarriage came as a complete surprise to society in Washington.

Mayo Brothers' Serum Cures Sleeping Sickness

Rochester, Minn., March 24.—Three injections of Rosenow serum at the Mayo clinic completely cured Charles Laack, 9, of sleeping sickness. This was the first specific instance of an actual cure for sleeping sickness through the use of Rosenow serum, developed at the Mayo clinic here. Laack had been suffering with the malady for twelve days. He was aroused from his stupor after the first injection and the two succeeding ones effected a complete cure.

ROBBER, BLIND TO BEAUTY, HOLDS UP BEAUTY PARLOR

Women customers, in various stages of dishabille, were startled yesterday afternoon when a young man armed with a revolver walked into a beauty parlor at 3655 Broadway, owned by Miss Elizabeth Watts.

Hastily throwing blankets over themselves, they obeyed his order to line up against the wall while he searched them, without result, however.

He then turned his attention to the cash register, from which he took $102, afterward visiting the siderooms where the women's outer clothing was. Here he found a gold mesh bag containing $48, but directly afterward became alarmed and fled. Some of the women, their hair still down their backs, ran after him but he escaped.

Photograph Brain of Child Without Injury to Health

New York, March 24.—[Special.]—A method of photographing the brain of a living person without affecting the health of the patient has been discovered at the University hospital, it was announced today. Working in the clinic of Dr. Charles Frazier, Dr. Temple Fay and Dr. Francis C. Grail made several flashlights of the inside of the brain of a ten month old baby. These photographs may prove invaluable in the treatment of water on the brain and cerebral tumors.

"NO QUARTER," LAST WEEK CRY ON MAYORALTY

Both Sides Ready to "Shoot It All."

BY PARKE BROWN.

Regardless of Forecaster Cox's predictions this week will be a warm one—for the politicians.

The final week of a mayoralty campaign always is a little hotter than the preceding ones, but this year the "holdback" tactics have been used to such an extent that both sides feel they have kept most of their powder dry and reserved their heaviest ammunition for the closing days of the battle.

Both admit that a great deal depends on the events of the next six days. They confess that there is a large "undecided" vote that may be swung one way or the other before the end of the week. While they differ concerning the possible effects of such a swing, they aren't taking any chances on having it go against their candidate.

Quiet Jockeying So Far.

Up to this point the main forces in both the Dever and Lueder campaigns have been restrained within "gentlemanly" lines and only the offshoots of the organizations have brought anything of an unpleasant nature into the contest.

Cunnea, the Socialist, has taken the offensive against his opponents, but both Lueder and Dever have confined themselves almost entirely to constructive arguments, statements of what they hope to do in the mayor's chair. Dever has been quoted as challenging his opponent to debate. But he has done nothing of the sort. And Lueder, except for a few references to the discrepancies between his age and Dever's, has barely alluded to his chief opponent.

Shooting Due to Start.

But the quiet days of the preliminary weeks are said to have reached their end just as the politicians knew they would. The real shooting is starting tomorrow.

There is much secrecy about just what material each camp has in store, but advance preparations have indicated some of the main points of attack. Platform utterances during the last two weeks have shown the sort of closing hostilities that may be expected.

It is believed generally that there will be a Democratic effort to pin the city hall label on Lueder and it is recognized that if this is done the Republican forces will hammer away at the Lundin support that is going to Dever.

City Hall Divided.

On the one hand, the Democrats will show that important cogs of the old city hall organization, in fact most of it, has amalgamated with the Brundage-Crowe-Deneen coalition since the primary. George F. Harding and his followers have been with Lueder since the beginning, but during the last few weeks other city hall veterans like William H. Reid, James A. Rea and other former Litsinger supporters have swung into line.

In response to a showing of this sort, the Republicans intend to stress the fact that Michael J. Faherty, father of the expert system, Oscar De Priest, Second ward colored leader, Percy B. Coffin, Gov. Small's Chicago lieutenant, Leslie P. Volz, Lundin's secretary, and other Lundin followers, are out for Dever.

A second point for Democratic attack, it has been indicated, will be the school investigation coupled with charges that Lueder is the Brundage-McCormick hand picked candidate.

"Hearst-Dunne" Man.

The Republican answer to this form of assault already has begun to crop out here and there. The Lueder Real Estate league has begun to shoot at the personnel of the Democratic committee which selected Dever and has started to call him the "Hearst-Dunne" candidate.

And yesterday there bobbed up mysteriously here and there some small cards bearing in large letters the words:

"Help Hearst to the Presidency!
"Vote for Dever!"

These are thought to be of Republican origin.

Another blanket issue that already has begun to show itself openly is the religious question. On Friday Harold L. Ickes, chairman of the Independent Dever club, made a thinly veiled charge that this issue had been raised against Dever at a luncheon given by Thomas D. Knight, chairman of the Committee of 100, which is backing Lueder.

Short and Ugly Word.

Now Knight has written a letter to Ickes upbraiding him for the charge

Bernhardt, Noted Stage Star, Dying

BULLETIN.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

PARIS, March 25, 4 a. m.—At 3 o'clock this morning Mme. Bernhardt was in a state of coma and death is a matter of hours. Her violent uremic pains were quieted by morphine and this was succeeded by coma and rapid sinking. Mme. Bernhardt's huge prisonlike house on Boulevard Pereire was locked up at 3:30 this morning and the crowd waiting in the courtyard there was put out. Some of her devoted admirers are still keeping their vigil in the street outside.

BULLETIN.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

PARIS, March 25, 3 a. m.—Sarah Bernhardt was delirious at midnight. Physicians administered an opiate and at this hour she is in a stupor. Six specialists, Drs. l'Abbe, Desnos, Obissier, Prevost, Rudinesco, and Marot, are in attendance. Her son, Mausice Bernhardt, and her daughter, Madame Louis Verneuil, are at her bedside. Her condition is growing worse rapidly.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, March 24.—Sarah Bernhardt, the world famous actress, suddenly had a relapse today and her condition tonight is most serious.

Drs. Marcel, l'Abbe, and Desnos, noted Paris specialists, were called in this afternoon by Mme. Bernhardt's regular physicians. All admitted afterward that the tragedienne is sinking. The admission itself is proof of the gravity of her condition, since by Mme. Bernhardt's command no information was given out at the time of her previous illness.

The newspapers gave proof of the devotion of all Frenchmen to the great artist during her recent illness, when no news of the gravity of her condition appeared because of her doctors' statement that she demanded newspapers every morning that she was conscious. This prohibition was lifted this evening and tomorrow's papers will carry the admission that her end is near.

Stricken as Film Is Finished.

Since her recent illness the "Divine Sarah" has given proof of her indomitable will, according to American movie picture directors, who told of her determination in taking the part of an aged and poverty stricken paralytic in a Paris garret. The film was barely finished when she suffered her relapse.

The movie was taken in the conservatory of Mme. Bernhardt's palatial home. She was wheeled in each day by her aged servants, acting for an hour or two. The American director said her work was an amazing exhibition of her unconquerable will, as well as of her peerless art.

Bulletin Is Pessimistic.

PARIS, March 24.—[By the Associated Press.]—After a long consultation tonight, Mme. Sarah Bernhardt's physicians issued the following bulletin:

"The condition of Mme. Bernhardt has become aggravated in the last few days, and the prognosis must be reserved."

The guarded terms used would lead to the belief that the possibility of Bernhardt's recovery is not great.

Her friends cried as they left her bedside. One said: "Her heart of gold still beats. Every now and then her wonderful smile reaches those about her. She dozes and seems to lose consciousness, then revives and smiles again, saying softly, 'I am sorry to give you pain and trouble.' Her voice is melodious and caressing, her courage and faith beautiful to behold."

Patience Amazes Physicians.

All the physicians are amazed at the patience and endurance of the great actress, and one remarked that he would not be surprised if she again survived the crisis.

Her son Maurice and others of her kin are remaining constantly by her side.

Mme. Bernhardt, who observed her seventy-seventh birthday on Oct. 23 last, suffered a collapse at the rehearsal of a new play in Paris on Dec. 15. She made light of the affair at the time, terming it a mere fainting spell and declaring that she would soon be back before the footlights. She suffered several relapses and on Dec. 24 was reported to be dying. She slowly recovered from this setback, however, and on Jan. 10 felt so strong that she insisted upon attending the theater. Since then, until the news today of her sudden sinking spell, her condition was not thought to be serious.

Muratore Recovering, but Cancels All Engagements

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

MENTONE, France, March 24.—Lucien Muratore is convalescing slowly from a second abdominal operation at his home near here. Despite his wife's careful nursing, all his singing engagements have had to be postponed indefinitely as he is not strong enough to appear in public.

SLAIN WOMAN'S ADMIRER IS KIN OF STOTESBURY

"Marshall" Nephew of S. Weir Mitchell.

New York, March 24.—[Special.]—The mysterious "Mr. Marshall," whose identity has been concealed for nearly ten days by authorities investigating the strange chloroform murder of Dorothy Keenan, beautiful blonde cloak model, is known at last. The murder occurred on Thursday, March 15.

"Mr. Marshall" is John Kearsley Mitchell, member of one of Philadelphia's wealthiest and most aristocratic families, president of the Philadelphia Rubber company of Philadelphia and Akron, O., and head of numerous other corporations. He is a member of a dozen exclusive clubs, nephew of the late Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, celebrated neurologist and author, and son-in-law of Edward T. Stotesbury, noted capitalist who is the head of the Drexel banking inerests and a partner of J. P. Morgan & Co.

Kissed Model Farewell.

Admitting a week ago to Assistant District Attorney Ferdinand Pecora that he kissed Miss Keenan good-by the night of her murder, Mr. Mitchell, so far as has been disclosed, is the last person who saw the Broadway favorite alive.

As a result of the constant interrogation of Mr. Mitchell for the last six days, Inspector Coughlin tonight announced the forthcoming arrest of a notorious Broadway blackmailer. He will be charged with the murder of Miss Keenan, who, it is believed, signed her own death warrant when she flatly refused to become a party to extortion against Mr. Mitchell, based on five letters which the police found in the girl's safety deposit box.

Letters Filled with Love.

These letters, it was said at headquarters, were written to the model by Mr. Mitchell and are replete with endearments.

The second sensational disclosure of the day came when Mr. Pecora, who had successfully concealed the identity of his wealthy vis-à-vis in numerous questionings, also with reluctance made public the real name of "John Wilson."

"Wilson," it had been known all week, was the supposed secretary of "Mr. Marshall," whose numerous clandestine visits to the model's apartment in the heart of the New York theatrical district were always preceded by the advance of "Wilson" to see if the coast were clear for the approach and entrance of the Philadelphian.

"Wilson" a Prominent Attorney.

And "Wilson" is John H. Jackson, prominent New York attorney and member of the firm of Moore, Hall, Swan & Cunningham. He is a specialist in corporation law and has handled business and "confidential" matters for Mr. Mitchell for more than five years.

Both men are married.

Mr. Mitchell was born in Philadelphia City on Oct. 15, 1871. He is a son of Lieut. Col. Nathaniel Chapman Mitchell. He was educated at St. Paul's school, Concord, N. H., and was graduated from Princeton university in 1892. He married on Jan. 5, 1909, Miss Frances B. Stotesbury, youngest daughter of Edward T. Stotesbury. Among the guests at the wedding were the late J. Pierpont Morgan and his son, the present head of the banking company.

Valuable Wedding Gifts.

On her wedding day Mr. Stotesbury gave his daughter a check for $1,000,000 and jewelry valued at $500,000. In 1911 he gave the young pair Red Rose Manor, one of the finest country places in America, situated at Villanova, near Philadelphia. It contains more than 800 acres. The Mitchells have a town house in Philadelphia and a summer residence at Bar Harbor, Me.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell have two children, a daughter about 12 and a son several years younger. They are among the most prominent in exclusive social circles of Pennsylvania and are extensive entertainers.

Mr. Mitchell belongs to the following clubs of Philadelphia: Philadelphia, Rittenhouse, Union League, Staten Schuylkill (Fishhouse), the oldest club in the world; Racquet, Corinthian Yacht, Radnor Hunt, Philadelphia Country, Huntington Valley Golf, and La Movinganta Klubo. He is also a member of the Brook and New York Yacht clubs of New York and the Tennis and Racquet of Boston. His town house is 327 East Rittenhouse square, Philadelphia.

Not Concerned in the Murder.

In making public the identities of the two men, Mr. Pecora emphatically reiterated his previous statements that neither of them in any way was concerned in the chloroforming of the girl. He said that his only reason for questioning them had been to get corroboration of certain information he had received and that they had corroborated this information at vital points.

DRAGGED INTO NOTORIETY OF MODEL'S MURDER

Mrs. J. Kearsley Mitchell III. and her two children. Mrs. Mitchell is the youngest daughter of E. T. Stotesbury, Philadelphia capitalist and partner of J. P. Morgan & Co. Her husband has been identified as the mysterious "Mr. Marshall" who showered gifts of money and jewelry on Dorothy Keenan, victim of chloroform slayer in New York.

Out in full view of the public they had successfully mystified for more than a week, neither Mr. Mitchell nor Jackson would make any statement. Their attorney, Neilson Olcott, who participated in the questioning at the district attorney's office until late tonight, said that their silence was on his advice. Mr. Mitchell, however, a dignified man of middle age, granted the requests of the photographers and posed for a picture. Jackson declined to face the camera.

Statement by Prosecutor.

Mr. Pecora in his dictated statement revealing the men said:

"My attention has just been called to the publication in one of the New York papers that the man known as 'Marshall,' whose name appeared in connection with the death of Dorothy Keenan, is in reality one J. K. Mitchell of Philadelphia.

"I regret that such publication has been made. Inasmuch as it has been made, without my consent or authority, I think it only fair and proper for me to confirm the fact that the man known as 'Marshall' is John Kearsley Mitchell.

"When Mr. Mitchell, through his attorney, Nielson Olcott, expressed a desire on Friday, March 16, the day following the murder of Miss Keenan, to be interviewed by the authorities he requested that the interview be held at a place other than police headquarters, in order that he might avoid what was considered to be undue notoriety in connection with the case.

Confers as to Secrecy.

"When this request was made to me I immediately telephoned to Inspector Coughlin, in charge of the detective division of police headquarters, who, with Capt. Carey of the homicide department, was actively directing the investigation of Miss Keenan's death. They saw no objection to questioning Mitchell at the district attorney's office the following morning, and arrangements for such interview were thereupon made.

"Hence on Saturday, March 17, Mr. Mitchell, accompanied by a man heretofore known as Wilson, but who in reality is a New York lawyer named John H. Jackson, came to this office and both were questioned at considerable length by Inspector Coughlin, Capt. Carey, and myself.

"Both Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Jackson at that time had every desire to be frank and truthful and we were all satisfied with their attitude.

Asked Names Be Withheld.

"They requested, however, for the sake of their families, that their identities be concealed until such time as it might become necessary in the interest of the public good to have them made known.

"It especially seemed to me that the only tangible results that could follow the giving of any publicity to their true identities would be to inflict needless pain, humiliation, and suffering upon the respective families of Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Jackson.

"The revelation, however, has been made from a source unknown to me, and there is nothing further I can do to stay the humiliation and distress that will undoubtedly be visited upon members of their families."

Announcement that "Marshall" and "Wilson" had been directed to appear at the Criminal Courts building for further questioning in the light of information supplied to Mr. Pecora in the last few days brought a small crowd to the corridors early.

Name Finally Disclosed.

When Mr. Pecora came in at 12:15 o'clock, complaining of lack of sleep due to newspaper activity, he denied that he had conferred with either Mitchell or Jackson and said that he planned to get into communication with Mr. Olcott at once, setting a time for the meeting.

Mr. Olcott arrived at the office just about the time that a copy of a newspaper with flamboyant headlines "exposing" Mitchell was handed to the chief assistant district attorney.

When Mr. Olcott was asked if Mitchell was his client he became rather excited, but steadfastly refused to admit the truth of the story.

Once in the office, Olcott or the officials put in a long distance telephone call to the Mitchell home in Philadelphia. Reporters, however, had reached the Rittenhouse square dwelling before the call was made and had encountered Mr. Mitchell in between bath and breakfast. He stoutly denied all knowledge of "Marshall" and said his only information on the "Keenan murder has come from reading the newspapers." He then instructed his household to bar the front door against any more visitors from the Philadelphia press.

Takes Train to New York.

When the telephone message came from the Criminal Courts building here Mr. Mitchell promptly boarded the next train and, going to an uptown hotel, was joined by Jackson and by Warren W. Cunningham, Jackson's law associate.

In the meantime, Mr. Pecora, according to the talk he had had over the telephone with Mr. Mitchell, discussed with Coughlin and Carey the advisability of them making a formal statement definitely linking the Philadelphian with "Marshall." Mr. Olcott, it was said, remained firm in his contention that doing so would serve only to bring humiliation upon the families of the two men.

In view, however, of Mr. Mitchell's determination to come right out and "face the music," the authorities finally decided to make the formal announcement.

Once he had issued the statement, the prosecutor lapsed back into his own office to begin the questioning of Ella "Billie" Bradford, the colored maid who found her mistress dead in bed.

While the maid was being grilled John Thomas, the Negro who operates the elevator in the studio apartment house, was brought down by detectives. The arrival of Thomas for questioning immediately prior to the re-examination of Mr. Mitchell caused some speculation, inasmuch as the reported statements of the operator and the Philadelphian do not agree as to the time of his departure.

Mitchell is a man of about five feet six or eight inches in height. He is smooth shaven and his complexion, ruddy and healthy appearing, is seamed with fine lines. He seemed to be deeply concerned at the notoriety that had come to him. He wore a gray felt hat and a spring overcoat of light color.

Jackson Tall and Pale.

Jackson proved to be tall and rather pale. He looked much younger than Mitchell, even more than the ten years that are reported to separate them. He was dressed in blue with a black overcoat.

The examination began with Thomas in one room, Miss Bradford in another, and Mitchell, Jackson and the officials in the main room of the suite. After about two and a half hours of talking, during which Mr. Pecora laid before Mitchell and Jackson the information he had obtained, and sought their verification, the prosecutor came out for a recess.

"Mr. Mitchell," Mr. Pecora declared, "told me that he knew of no circumstance that would tend to indicate that he was about to be made the victim of blackmail. My information was to the effect that Dorothy Keenan had been urged for many months to join in an organized effort to wring money from Mr. Mitchell. I am informed that she had been fighting it off and had refused to consent to join any such scheme, even after her life had been threatened.

Girl May Have Yielded.

"I do not know as yet whether she finally yielded or not. There are some circumstances in my information that tend to show that she might have consented at the last moment, but Mr. Mitchell says that there was no indication of the truth of this, so far as he had been able to judge.

"I believe that a man whose name has been supplied to me was at the back of the blackmail scheme. I do not know whether he had confederates, but I assume that he probably has. I believe that this person, failing to enlist Dorothy, or for some other reason, went to get letters and bungled the administration of chloroform."

Asked about the pajamas found in the apartment, Mr. Pecora replied, "They were Mr. Mitchell's."

Mr. Mitchell was one of the first to learn of the model's death, Mr. Pecora said. Shortly after noon on Thursday, the day after he last went to the apartment, he telephoned to the studio and a strange voice answered. He asked for Miss Keenan and the voice replied, "Dorothy is dead."

Shocked by Discovery.

Mr. Mitchell was so shocked that he hung up the receiver. He directed Mr. Jackson to find out further details. Jackson called a private detective, who called the medical examiner's office.

It was the dead girl's mother who answered the telephone, and she has corroborated Mr. Mitchell's statement that a man telephoned for Dorothy on the morning following the murder.

It was not until shortly after 7 o'clock tonight that Mitchell and Jackson left the Criminal Courts building. They departed for a hotel in a taxicab, and, it was said, Mr. Mitchell planned to return to his Philadelphia home on an early train.

Following the conference, Inspector Coughlin sent a list of twenty-four articles, consisting of furs, handbags, and jewelry, valued at $14,835, belonging to the model, to all the pawnshops as "missing property." The most valuable gem was a large diamond ring with a stone of seven carats, valued at $3,200. A platinum cigaret case with the initial "K" in rose diamonds was valued at $1,000.

History of Chloroform Killing

The story of Dorothy Keenan, known also as Dorothy King in the Broadway cabarets, began some five or six years before her body was found lying twisted in a bed in her luxurious apartment on the morning of March 15.

After she left her uptown flat and her chauffeur-husband, Eugene Oppell, prosperity came swiftly to her on the primrose path among the cafes and dance places in the white light district. She had her "papas," "daddies," and "sweeties" like all the rest and became a figure in the night life of Manhattan.

Then she was found murdered with an empty chloroform bottle by her side. All of her jewels and fine clothes that had been heaped upon her by a rich admirer that Broadway knew only as "Mr. Marshall" were missing.

At first it was only another case of sudden death. Then the element of mystery arose and theory after theory was advanced as to the motive for the crime.

Robbery, said the police. Then friends began to tell of Dorothy's wealthy friend. Immediately blackmail was suspected. Investigation of the slain girl's past life showed more than one man.

How she called the mysterious "Mr. Marshall" her "darling" and at the same time referred to Albert B. Guimares, another friend as "my baby," were revealed.

Guimares was called. He described his amazement when he learned that Dorothy had shared her affections with other men.

Detectives found hidden clews and finally the trail pointed to a blackmailing plot in which "Marshall" was to be the victim. The police suspected a race between an organized band of blackmailers and a rich suitor to gain possession of a packet of love letters written by the wealthy admirer. The girl's safety deposit box was opened and the letters were found, but their contents have been kept carefully guarded.

Meanwhile Guimares had been arrested. Later he was freed under heavy bail. Then a letter containing important information from another woman was received by the prosecutor. "Marshall" was summoned to be questioned again and his true identity revealed.

DIVORCE RIDICULOUS, SAYS MRS. MITCHELL; AMAZED AT TRAGEDY

Palm Beach, Fla., March 24.—Mrs. J. K. Mitchell of Philadelphia, wife of John Kearsley Mitchell, named as the mysterious "Mr. Marshall" last to see Miss Dorothy Keenan, the slain model, alive, late today professed utmost surprise when acquainted with the details of the announcement.

Mrs. Mitchell is here with her father and children. The family, accompanied by Mr. Mitchell, arrived here three weeks ago. Mr. Mitchell remained with his family for over a week before returning to Philadelphia, Mrs. Mitchell said, to resume business affairs.

"I know nothing at all about it," said Mrs. Mitchell with an expressive wave of her hands when told "Mr. Marshall" was alleged to be an admirer of the slain model and that he had given her $10,000 in cash and jewelry in the year.

"How interesting," she remarked, with a quick smile that died out at once.

Mrs. Mitchell was informed the model's mother told New York police that "Mr. Marshall" had expressed a willingness to divorce his wife and marry the model in Paris.

"Talk of a divorce is perfectly ridiculous," she answered quickly. "There is absolutely no truth to it."

"Will you go to Mr. Mitchell in Philadelphia?" she was asked.

"Why, of course, I will, as soon as I learn whether there is any truth in this report. I have entire confidence in Mr. Mitchell."

CALL OFF DINNER AS SUTHERLAND RESENTS LIQUOR

Washington, D. C., March 24.—[Special.]—A dinner which was to have been given tonight in honor of Justice Sutherland of the Supreme court by the Phi Delta Phi fraternity had to be called off, because the honor guest refused to attend.

The reason for his refusal was that the invitations were facetiously framed in ridicule of the Volstead prohibition enforcement act. Invited guests were asked if they possessed any liquor and how much of their supply they intended bringing to the dinner.

What of the Dry Law?

The invitations took the form of "summonses" and threatened those who failed to respond with extraordinary "default" proceedings. In tongue twisting legal phraseology, the defendant members were interrogated as to their view of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act.

"Do you believe in the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead law?" the bill of interrogatories asked.

"Have you a supply in your cellar or other place of concealment, or confinement? If you answer in the affirmative, then answer this: How much do you intend to bring?"

"Whether you have a supply or not how much do you intend to get and bring with you? (Remember the less fortunate who have none of it and might desire some on such an occasion as this.)"

Mr. Sutherland Dismayed.

Justice Sutherland was indignant and declined to be present. Justice Stafford of the District of Columbia Supreme court was to have been toastmaster, and he too, found that the character of the invitations did not accord with his judicial dignity.

Responsibility for the offensive wording of the invitations was assumed by Philbrick McCoy, a son of Justice McCoy of the District Supreme court, who admitted that his humor was misplaced, and who wrote letters of explanation to the offended justices. George Clark Ober, president of the association, also wrote a letter of apology to Justice Sutherland.

BERLIN GUARDS DOUBLED; FEAR FASCISTI COUP

Hittler's Revolt Order Is Captured.

BY JOHN CLAYTON.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, March 24.—Double guards were placed around the reichstag, in the Wilhelmstrasse, and on Pariser plain today. The police were ordered to do extra duty for five days. These measures were taken following the arrest of one of Herr Hittler's couriers at Weida, near the Bavarian border. He bore secret orders for a Hittler company of thirty-four men to gather at the town of Hof, just across the Bavarian border, today at 2 o'clock prepared to march to a secret destination.

At the same time other couriers were seized who bore warnings to other Thuringian bands of Fascisti affiliated with Herr Hittler. It is believed that several of the bands were to have gathered at Gera.

The secret police assert couriers left Herr Hittler's headquarters yesterday in motor cars to warn the entire organization of gray shirts of the impending action. It is said here that Herr Hittler has chosen this as the best time to attempt a Fascisti coup and he hopes to make use of the nationalist bands affiliated with him in the north.

Calls Out Storm Troops.

Munich telegraphs that Herr Hittler's storm troops have been called to field maneuvers outside of Munich tomorrow afternoon, while other bands will drill in Stuttgart.

The Prussian borders are being protected by increased forces of police, who have instructions to check the Hittlerites at all costs.

Communists and nationalists nearly came to blows this afternoon in the reichstag during discussions regarding the arrests of members of the freedom party.

French Ready to Halt Coup.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

PARIS, March 24.—The French military authorities have been fully cognizant of the projected German nationalist coup and plan for an invasion and uprising in the Ruhr. They have taken every precaution to smash the outbreak if it occurred, THE TRIBUNE learns.

These measures are designed to protect the police from sudden assassination and guerilla warfare and to safeguard the civilian population from being forced to aid the rebels.

When Gen. Degoutte obtained information of the plot, batteries of French artillery were posted outside all the large cities. The guns are constantly trained on the railway stations, post and telegraph offices, city halls and other strategic points which the revolutionary forces may try to capture. Since the Berlin government learned of the projected coup, the German authorities have been secretly cooperating with the French in the Ruhr for military aid to prevent an outbreak there.

ESSEN, March 24.—The appearance of French soldiers in the vicinity of the state employment office, where resistance doles were being paid, had unexpected results today.

Fearing the money was to be confiscated the German officials closed the office and hid the funds. The unemployed marched to the city hall, where details guarded the doors and permitted no one to enter or leave. A few aldermen got into the building through a door leading from a rathskeller, and sent for a deputation of five of the demonstrators.

The men told the city fathers they wanted immediate recognition as the council of unemployed and demanded that the payments be resumed. The aldermen recognized the status of the delegates and the paymaster was back on the job in a few minutes.

A miner failing to halt on the order of a sentry last night was shot and killed near Hagen.

An agreement has been reached whereby the French permit two trains of coal daily to enter the British zone without tax or interference.

"Green Shirts" Terrorize Ruhr.

Berlin, March 24.—[By the Associated Press.]—Bands of unemployed wearing green shirts have been terrorizing the country at night in the Rhine-Essen district, near Essen, and the French are sending additional troops to this region to end the trouble. German officials say most of these men are communists, led by a Russian officer, and that their object is to show their strength against the Nationalists, whom the communists oppose in every way.

At least eleven Germans have been wounded in the last few nights in consequence of the activities of the Green bands, according to German officials.

Belgian Nurses Attacked.

BRUSSELS, March 24.—[By the Associated Press.]—Two Belgian nurses were recently attacked, insulted, and arrested by Germans at Hagen, Prussian Westphalia, according to newspaper dispatches, and the Belgian government has decided to impose penalties in the occupied area as a punishment.

Forbid Aid to French.

BERLIN, March 24.—An order has been issued by the ministry of railways forbidding railway men in the occupied areas to obey or cooperate with the Franco-Belgian railway administration.

Seize German Machinery.

DUSSELDORF, March 24.—Thirteen hundred tons of machinery and tools were seized here today by order of the restitution office in Wiesbaden. The seizures were in accordance with two ordinances promulgated by the interallied Rhineland commission a week ago with a view to assuring resumption of reparations in kind from Germany. The goods taken will be divided between the French and Belgians. Orders have been given for similar seizures at Siegburg.

BERLIN PAID ALLIES $1,125,000,000 IN '22 FOR RHINE ARMIES

[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, March 24.—Germany spent 4,500,000,000 gold marks ($1,125,000,000) for the allied army of occupation in the Rhineland in 1922, according to a statement of Germany's treasurer, Herr Albert, in the reichstag today.

"The money was spent without profit to anybody," the treasurer said, "while it could have helped rebuild the vast areas of northern France. The cause of these enormous expenses is the size of the Rhine army. The Versailles treaty prescribed that the same number of interallied soldiers were to replace the former German army in the Rhine district. The Germans quartered 70,000 men in the Rhineland garrisons, while at present the interallied forces total 145,000 men. Besides the soldiers never come alone, but they bring their entire families.

"The 4,500,000,000 gold marks, not including America's quota, has been paid in cash and deliveries in kind.'

ARMY AIRPLANE BREAKS RECORD AT 250 M. AN HOUR

Washington, D. C., March 24.—[United Press.]—All airplane speed records were broken by the United States army air service when one of its machines established the record of 250 miles an hour, the war department officially announced today.

The record was established during a flight from Nogales, Ariz., to Fort Bliss, Tex. The plane, a D. H. 4-B, was piloted by Maj. Leo Heffernan, with Sergt. Jensen acting as observer. The distance of seventy-five miles from Columbus, N. M., to Fort Bliss was traveled in 18 minutes, an average speed of 250 miles an hour, the department stated.

MISS HIGGINSON IS WED IN BOSTON TO B. F. ROGERS JR.

Boston, Mass., March 24.[Special.]—Recent bereavement in the family of the bride caused a modification in the originally elaborate plans for the wedding of Miss Corina Shattuck Higginson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Lee Higginson, of 274 Beacon street, and Bernard Fowler Rogers Jr. of Chicago, which took place at noon today in Emmanuel church.

The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Elwood Worcester, rector of the church.

JOHNSON VISITS MONTE CARLO; MAKES NO BETS

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

MONTE CARLO, March 24.—The gambling casino here has none of Senator Hiram Johnson's money. The senator from California was piloted through the gambling rooms on his arrival here by the new ambassador to Spain, Alexander Moore, who has been here before, but he did not chance even a white chip.

"I'm glad there is no place like this in America," was the senator's only comment.

KING'S PHYSICIAN GOES TO BEDSIDE OF GEORGE GOULD

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

MONTE CARLO, March 24.—George J. Gould is suffering increasing weakness and Lord Dawson, personal physician of King George, has arrived from London especially to consult with Dr. Stanley Randall.

Mrs. Gould, Howard Gould, the brother of Lady Decies, Mrs. Anthony Drexel, and George Gould Jr. are at Villa Zoraida at the bedside of Mr. Gould.

BOY SCOUTS HOLD DOWN SEATS OF CITY'S MIGHTY

Govern 3,000,000 for Whole Hour.

For an hour yesterday morning the municipal government of Chicago was in the hands of the Boy Scouts of America. It was Chicago's annual Boy Scout day and promptly at 11 o'clock, when all city officials and cabinet officers vacated their desks, there was a khaki-clad youth, many of them hardly out of their teens, ready to take their places.

Every position from mayor down to aldermen was filled by a boy and in addition the busiest traffic corners in the loop were manned by scouts and the office of the harbor master was under the supervision of a sea scout.

"Mayor" Irvin Howes got into action early by calling a council meeting. He presided for nearly an hour in Mayor Thompson's chair, while "aldermen" representing different wards of the city introduced resolutions similar to those introduced in regular council meetings.

One Wants Pay Increase.

One "alderman" asked for an increase in pay for pumping station engineers; another wanted the board of local improvements to cut Michigan avenue through from 63d street to West Pullman, while a third suggested various street widenings.

After the council meeting fourteen youths were installed in the various offices throughout the building. Raymond Marsh was chief of police and had a lot of fun digesting the daily crime report.

Charles Moore relieved Dr. H. E. Bundesen as commissioner of health, and when his hour of duty was up he said he was glad there had been no epidemics.

Other Office Holders.

Stephen Hajovich was fire marshal, Francis Huff corporation counsel, William Bahlman judge of the Boys' court, William Wilson city clerk, Fred Fillung city attorney, Joseph Newton city treasurer, Sidney Miller commissioner of public works, and Sea Scout Harold Jennings harbor master.

At the same time Ben Atchley was occupying the desk of Superintendent of Schools Peter A. Mortenson and for an hour the work of directing an institution spending $50,000,000 annually and employing over 11,000 people rested on his shoulders. He received a delegation from the South Town Chamber of Commerce complaining of conditions at several schools and later made recommendations to the board of education asking that immediate action be taken to remedy conditions.

While the boys were in charge a telegram was received from 12 year old Robert Plummer, who was Boy Scout mayor of Minneapolis during Boys' week in December. "We'll be running this town in twenty years," the message said, "and it is a good thing to learn how while we are kids."

Hundreds Chase Big Wolf That Flees from Park Zoo

SAUNDERS AGAIN HITS EXCHANGE; ASKS SHOWDOWN

Memphis, Tenn., March 24.—[By the Associated Press.]—Clarence Saunders, awaiting settlement with "shorts" caught in the jam when trading in Piggly Wiggly was stopped by the New York stock exchange Tuesday, will decline to accept in settlement, "at this late day," any of the stock sold under his "$100 a share" offer of yesterday.

Mr. Saunders holds that the offer of yesterday was a "one day" proposal and those still "short" cannot now make settlement with that stock. In support of his stand Saunders cited a provision of the constitution of the stock exchange which, he holds, prohibits members from trading in a suspended stock, under penalty of expulsion.

Mr. Saunders in making public his intention to combat any effort to tender the stock bought yesterday again bitterly denounced he action of the stock exchange in extending the time of settlement.

Definite figures as to the extent of stock outstanding were not available tonight, but are estimated at more than 23,000 shares.

SPIRITS HOVERING AT COFFIN SEEN IN PHOTO, CLAIM

Camera Men Mystified by Figures on Plates.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 24.—Three distinct ovals corresponding to life size heads, appeared today in prints of photographic plates taken last evening over the casket during the funeral of Mrs. Mary Fairfield McVicker, pastor of the Central Spiritualist church.

Commercial photographers who took the photographs say they cannot explain the ovals. Friends of the dead pastor say they give the impression of the heads of Mrs. Mary Fairfield McVicker, her husband, dead a year, and a friend, A. J. Davis, dead several years.

Old Friend in Charge.

A. H. Hetzel, life time friend of the spiritualist, and whom she requested to take charge of the post mortem photography over her casket to reveal the spirit at five o'clock on the afternoon of her funeral and photographers in the studio of C. H. Monroe, commercial photographer, were responsible for the declarations concerning the results of the photography.

The photographs, taken in the Central Spiritualist church here, were, according to the photographers, exposures in daylight of a green velour background suspended above the casket of Mrs. McVicker. The photographers assert they carefully inspected the velour and the conditions of it, and declare there was nothing they could discern that would register photographically other than the plain green velour.

Developing of the plates last night and printing today, they assert, showed three ovals, corresponding in general form to human heads and to one of which were longer lines than might possibly suggest an arm or part of a body. The photographers assert they cannot say what caused the registration of these lines on the plates.

Wait for Clarification.

"The impressions are faint and we believe them to be the spirits of Mrs. McVicker in the center and A. J. Davis and her husband, Mr. McVicker, on either side," said Mr. Hetzel.

"At the suggestion of Mrs. Mary C. Vlasek, pastor of the congregation, 100 prints have been made and placed in a dark room where they will be kept for five days while the congregation holds services by which they hope the spirits photographed will clarify themselves on these prints and assume unmistakable form and be clearly identified by all who see them. After these five days, they will be broadcast throughout southern California in line with the expressed wish of Mrs. McVicker."

Indict Union Painters for Malicious Mischief

Arthur Wallace and Herbert Spanhols, members of the Painters' union, were charged with malicious mischief in indictments returned yesterday by the grand jury. The two men were arrested March 10, after a slingshot and a number of small bolts and nuts, which they were alleged to have been using in breaking windows of nonunion paint concerns, had been found in the tonneau of an automobile in which they were riding.

LARSON SEEN AT 'BUSIEST CORNER,' WOMAN ASSERTS

Lewis E. Larson, missing real estate man, was seen yesterday afternoon at State and Madison streets, according to Mrs. G. W. Muir of 172 Gale avenue, Lake Forest, former principal of the Pickard school, who had seen the former secretary of the school board scores of times in the offices of the board of education.

"He was standing not five feet from me on the southeast corner," she said. "I have known him for nineteen years and could not be mistaken. He looked listless and weary and absent minded."

Mrs. Muir spoke to a traffic policeman, but says he refused to believe it was the missing realtor and allowed the man to mingle in the crowd and escape.

"I am speaking only to let Mrs. Larson know that her husband is alive and nearby, not from any hope of reward," she added. Her story supplies the first clew in several days on which the searchers have to work.

KIN SAYS WOMAN TOLD OF KILLING N. Y. CONTRACTOR

Admits Getting Revolver for Sister-in-Law.

New York, March 24.—William Turc, brother-in-law of Mrs. Anna Buzzi who was held on a charge of homicide in connection with the slaying of Frederick Schneider, wealthy Bronx contractor, today told District Attorney Glennon that Mrs. Buzzi had confessed the slaying to him.

Turc, held in high bail as a material witness, declared that Mrs. Buzzi made her confession when he visited her after the slaying to reclaim a pistol he had loaned her.

Attorney Gives Statement.

Samuel Goldstein, Turc's attorney, gave the following version of Turc's statement.

"Turc told Mr. Glennon that the reason he had kept quiet was because he was between two fires, his own wife, and his sister-in-law. He said on many occasions Mrs. Buzzi asked him to procure a pistol for her. He said he had asked her what she wanted it for and she would reply, 'After I get it, I'll let you know.'

"He said he finally procured a pistol and gave it to her.

Tells of Shooting.

"He said he went to her apartment late Monday, the day of the shooting, and asked her if she had the gun. She said, Turc told the district attorney, 'I just shot Fred Schneider.' Turc said he told her he didn't believe her and Mrs. Buzzi said: 'Yes I have done so.'

"He said he had warned her not to do anything of the kind, and did not believe she had the nerve to do it."

N. U. Co-ed Athletes Adopt Rigid Rules for Training

Eight hours' sleep, six glasses of water daily, and no sweets between meals is the Spartan régime of the girl athletes at Northwestern university, according to Miss Gertrude Hawley of the department of physical education. Miss Hawley devised a weekly questionnaire last semester from which she obtained her facts, incidentally awarding Irish Boulton of Evanston the highest score for her answers.

—the practical Easter gift
Whether she is your mother, your wife, your sister or your sweetheart, you'll surely give her the usual box of candy this Easter.
What candy will it be this year? Well, it will be the best you can buy, certainly, for you would give her no other.
And don't forget! Ribbons and frills cost money, but she can't eat them. It's the contents of her box that give her real, lasting enjoyment.
If the candy you buy is fairly priced, the money you save on a fancy box should buy her five pounds instead of three pounds.
So, it should be candy of high quality, packed in attractive, dignified style, and sold at a low price—and these three things have made the leaders in preference among a whole nation of sensible candy buyers. Give "her" a box of Martha Washington Candies, and your thoughtfulness this Easter will be long remembered.
Martha Washington Candies

DEFEAT GARNER AND ARMITAGE, M. V. L. WARNING

Gives Report on Last Ten Council Contests.

Two more Thompson-Lundin aldermen—John P. Garner, in the Thirty-seventh ward, and Edward R. Armitage, in the Forty-first ward—were marked for defeat yesterday by the Municipal Voters' league in its recommendations on the last ten of the twenty wards which must go into a supplemental election on April 3.

In its report the league points out that Chicago is a council governed city, and it is the fault of the citizens themselves if the city fathers elected are weak or dishonest men. Tuesday, April 3, is the last time for two years that Chicago will be given an opportunity of voting for aldermen, and it is recommended that strong, faithful men, sworn to protect the homes, schools, and business of the city from the hands of plunderers and boodlers, be elected.

Analyses by Wards.

The recommendations in the last ten wards follow:

Thirty-fifth Ward—Vote for Self.. George Self, active, energetic and well spoken of. Stock salesman with knowledge of municipal government, having been fireman and assistant fire chief at Streator, Ill., for three years. Has lived in Chicago and ward for seventeen years. Was chief investigator in city attorney's office under Mayor Harrison. Examiner of chauffeurs for the state, 1915-1917. James J. McComb, Thompson man. City harbormaster under Mayor Thompson and a member of the state board of equalization. Thompson ward committeeman and has been associated politically with William Stocker, city sealer, who was convicted last year of gross violation of civil service law.

Thirty-sixth Ward—Nusser preferred.. Eugene L. Nusser, employe of State's Attorney Crowe's office. Has lived in Chicago sixteen years and ward six years. Attended law school and then became minute clerk in Circuit court; was chief clerk in city attorney's office for eighteen months. Energetic and well spoken of. Adolph C. Sievers, grocery and market proprietor for twenty-five years. Lived in ward for twenty-four years. For time was director of Noel State bank. Business record clear. Nusser has greater public experience.

Thirty-seventh Ward—Vote for Mills. Wiley W. Mills, lawyer. Admitted to bar in 1896 and has lived in ward for nineteen years. Member of school board, 1906-1909. For years has been active champion of municipal ownership and of the L and R. Possesses the staunchness, courage and ability so much needed in the council. Ald. John P. Garner, finishing second term. Voted 100 per cent against the people for Faherty's experts. Voted to confirm Davis and Severinghaus as school trustees and after their indictment voted against forcing their resignation. Voted against investigating holdup of city employes in Riverview park scandal. In the council has steadily disregarded the people's interests to cooperate with the city hall bosses from Ald. Louis B. Anderson up.

Forty-seventh ward—Vote for Peglow—Herman F. Peglow, cement contractor. In Chicago nine years and ward four years. Was fireman, assistant engineer, and machinist before entering present line of business. President of West End Lake View Improvement association and has been active in local ward matters. Man of energy and determination. Generally well spoken of. Harry W. Klinke, engraver. Born in ward thirty-five years ago. Ex-service man. Member North End Improvement club. Very active and bears good reputation. Both men formerly members of Thompson-Wesbey city hall organization, but both left because of dissatisfaction. Aided in defeat of Ald. Capers, Thompson follower. Both good men, but Peglow probably best qualified.

Forty-eighth ward—Vote for Link — Ald. Frank J. Link, finishing eighth year in council. Voted against confirming Davis and Severinghaus, and after their indictment voted to force their resignations. Voted to investigate holdup of city employes in Riverview park picnic scandal. Voted against asking legislature to increase Chicago's tax rate. One of committee which aided in bringing about settlement of street car strike last summer. Has endeavored to protect residence districts from encroachment. Man of high character and excellent record. George T. Trumbull, president of safe and vault company, 65 years old. In Chicago thirty-nine years and ward nineteen years. Served one year on school board. Ran for alderman in 1916. Good business and personal reputation.

Forty-ninth ward—Vote for Frankhauser—Ald. Hil I. Frankhauser, finishing first term in council. Voted 100 per cent against Faherty's experts and for the people. Voted to investigate holdup of city employes in Riverview park picnic scandal. Voted against confirming Davis and Severinghaus and after indictment voted to force their resignations, being one of the leaders in the fight. Has striven to protect residence neighborhoods against encroachment. Thoroughly honest man who faithfully represents his section. John R. Maloney, undertaker. Has lived in the ward eight years. Member of the county board, 1912-'14 and was chairman of the finance committee fourteen months. Generally good reputation.

Fiftieth ward—Fenlon preferred—William H. Fenlon, deputy comptroller forest preserve district and real estate dealer. Clerk in Municipal court six years and then secretary to Peter Reinberg, president of county board. Ran for alderman in 1918. Good general reputation. Clyde C. Fisher, assistant state's attorney. Former newspaper man and advertising solicitor. Ran for state representative in 1914. Was recently attorney for Lake View West End Improvement association. Good reputation, but lacks the public experience of his opponent.

M. V. L.'s Recommendations

The following are the Municipal Voters' league's recommendations for aldermen in the twenty wards in which a second election is necessary to decide the contest. Sitting aldermen are marked by asterisks:

"NO QUARTER," LAST WEEK CRY ON MAYORALTY

Both Sides Are Ready to "Shoot It All."

which he says he, Knight, has denied repeatedly.

"If the religious issue is in this campaign," read his letter to Ickes, "you have put it there by these vile and baseless charges in making which you are just a plain liar.

"Before you repeat this calumny I suggest that you make a careful study of the law against libel as I expect to protect my name."

The question of the financial backing behind each candidate also has been stirred up to some extent. From a Democratic source the charge was made that the Republicans have raised $500,000 for use in the last week. The story was that this had been raised by means of a list of 500 business men, each of whom had been asked to contribute $1,000.

G. O. P. Lacks Funds.

As a matter of fact, the Republican organization has been hampered by the lack of funds and has not yet obtained assurances that will enable it to cover its budget of ordinary expenses.

"Even superficial observation would show where the money is this year," said Homer K. Galpin, Republican county chairman. "Look at the extent of the Democratic headquarters with forty or fifty clerks where we have five. Look at the numerous Dever billboards, the thousands of Dever signs and lithographs and watch the amount of Dever mail matter going out every day. Listen to Dever noise making trucks on the streets and see the list of their expensive meetings.

"There is no indication there that they have been forced to make up lists of business men and ask them for $1,000 donations. That would be a sign of poverty, not evidence that the big corporations have contributed vast sums."

Cunnea Unknown Factor.

There is considerable difference of opinion between Democrats and Republicans over the effect of a large vote for Cunnea. The general opinion is that this vote would draw strength from Dever more than from Lueder, and one of the bits of propaganda being circulated is an argument that the labor union member who wants to vote for an Irishman should vote for one who was born in Ireland—Cunnea.

And the issue of nationalism has been whispered against Lueder because he is of German descent. This has been used chiefly among ex-service men.

While hostilities of this type are increasing the major operations of both organizations will reach their climax in a week of big meetings. The Republicans begin tomorrow noon at Cohan's Grand with Gen. Milton J. Foreman, United States Senator Medill McCormick and Lueder as the speakers.

All-American Dinner.

In the evening there will be a big "All-American" dinner at the Hotel Morrison for which 800 reservations have been made. According to Felix J. Streyckmans, secretary of the citizens' mayoralty committee, there will be representatives of thirty-two nationalist and racial groups present.

This dinner, it was announced, was arranged at the suggestion of members of the Liberty loan drive organizations who were associated with Lueder in that work. The candidate and Senator McCormick will speak.

Republican noon meetings will be held at the Cort theater on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday and at least two theaters on the Monday before election day.

Rallies by Democrats.

The Democrats start the week with two noon meetings at downtown theaters—the Cort and the Sudebaker—tomorrow, and it is the general plan to have two such meetings each day of the week. The Democratic organization will have charge of one and the Independent Dever club will be in control of the other.

Among the Democratic speakers will be Carter H. Harrison, Edward F. Dunne, James Hamilton Lewis, Everett Jennings, Robert M. Sweitzer, John E. Traeger, Francis X. Busch, and Michel L. Igoe. Among the former progressives and Republicans to appear at the other series are Raymond Robins, Charles E. Merriam, and Miss Mary E. McDowell. Dever will appear at both series.

The Independent Dever club will also have charge of the largest meeting of the campaign, one called for the Auditorium theater Thursday night. A meeting that is expected to rival it in size will be held at the Arcadia on Tuesday night. The Dever supporters are determined to beat the size of the crowd that greeted Lueder there last week.

POLITICAL NOTES

Daniel W. Hoan, mayor of Milwaukee, and William H. Cunnea, Socialist nominee, will speak at the West Side auditorium at 2:30 today.

Friends of Al F. Gorman, Democratic nominee for city clerk, cite the fact that he was the state senate leader who helped materially in the passage of the present nonpartisan aldermanic election law.

To offset the Lueder Real Estate league, Dever supporters have organized the Real Estate and Brokers Dever club. William F. King is president and M. G. Frankel is secretary.

A circular reproducing an attack upon Dever by Michael J. Faherty has been circulated widely. Faherty, it is reported, is now supporting Dever.

Miss Margaret Haley will speak for Dever this afternoon at St. Agnes' school, 38th place and Washtenaw avenue.

William A. Cunnea, Socialist mayoralty nominee, issued a statement yesterday advocating salaries for members of the board of education.

LUMBER DEALERS OPPOSE SMALL'S ROAD BOND ISSUE

The Illinois Lumber Merchants' association yesterday went on record against the proposal before the legislature to vote $100,000,000 in good roads bonds. E. P. Krum of Bloomington, president of the organization, announced that the board of directors had adopted the following resolution:

"The board of directors of the Illinois Lumber Merchants' association do not look with favor upon the proposed $100,000,000 bond issue for an enlarged program of hard road building. We do not believe the time is opportune to increase the indebtedness of the state of Illinois, and we do not think people of this state are favorable to a project that will add to their tax burdens, either directly or indirectly."

Deranged Woman Caught After Leap from Window

While she was left unattended yesterday, Miss Fern Roberts, 21 years old, 3137 Osgood street, said by police to be of unsound mind, jumped from a second story window and ran away. She was quickly recaptured and found to have suffered no ill effects from her leap. She was taken to the Psychopathic hospital for observation.

for years the question of good taste in glasses.

A walk down the street, half an hour in almost any company, shows a discerning man or woman the need for such a study.

So many pairs of glasses, all right in themselves, are not suited to those who are trying to wear them.

It is not a question of the glasses, or of the people. Merely one of getting the right glasses and the right people together.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Arthur C. Lueder, the Republican candidate for mayor, still has a substantial handicap to overcome in order to win, while William E. Dever, the Democrat, has only to hold his own to get the prize, according to THE TRIBUNE'S canvass of voters.

What change in sentiment there may be in the next week remains to be seen, and no attempt is made here to predict the final outcome of the mayoralty contest.

Directing Republicans insist that their candidate has recently made huge strides and is on equal terms with his opponent. Prominent Democrats believe their entry has increased his advantage in the last week. Both cannot be right. THE TRIBUNE'S poll indicates that both are wrong.

Lueder Showing Better.

It says, to the Republicans, that the two candidates are not yet running neck and neck, but that Dever is in front. It says, to the Democrats, that Dever's advantage has not been increased recently. The value of what the poll says depends directly upon the success of the canvass in getting typical samples of public sentiment.

Lueder appears to have checked the growth of the Dever advantage, and in addition has reduced it a trifle. That is what the figures show, reckoned by the method which seems most trustworthy.

The loss in Dever's advantage, calculated upon a plurality, is around 8 per cent. This is upon the theory that Cunnea, the Socialist candidate, will not poll more than 85,000 votes. If he gets a materially larger vote, as Socialists are predicting, the Dever advantage will probably be decreased accordingly.

Dever 32,000 Ahead Wednesday.

Putting it perhaps more plainly, if the election had been held last Wednesday Dever could have expected to win —according to THE TRIBUNE'S poll—by a plurality of between 47,000 and 32,000, instead of 40,000, as on the preceding Wednesday. If however, Cunnea can be credited with a much larger vote than 85,000 then the Dever advantage must be shaved.

It is entirely possible for Lueder in the final week of campaigning to wipe out Dever's 32,000 advantage as shown by the poll as of last Wednesday. Such feats have been performed, but no opinion is here expressed on whether such an accomplishment will or will not take place in the present campaign.

"Silent" Vote Big Factor.

Many persons, to whom the opportunity has been given, have refrained from voting in THE TRIBUNE'S poll. That so called "silent" vote is highly important.

Eleven employes of THE TRIBUNE spent five evenings last week on the telephone to get a basis of reckoning two factors in the campaign. One was the size of the muffled vote and the other was the attitude of the native vote as distinguished from that of the foreign born citizens and their first generation. To get these two "slants" on the electorate, a secret telephone vote was devised. The voters elected for this test live largely in residences and apartment buildings where even the canvassers of the political parties have little or no chance to ascertain the sentiment. Nine telephone exchanges covering such districts were selected. In this test Lueder received 54.5 per cent of the votes, Dever 43.3 per cent, and Cunnea 2.1 per cent. It is the opinion of some observers of the campaign that this so called American vote will have a large influence, akin to a balance of power, in the election.

Many Still Undecided.

This test also showed that 22.8 per cent of the persons called failed to express a choice for mayor. Probably in a majority of cases the person answering the phone said that he had not decided how he would vote. Reports from canvassers by the personal method of poll show an equally large percentage who refrained from voting. If these reports held good throughout the entire electorate of the city, then there are approximately 260,000 voters who have not made their decisions on the candidates.

In the telephone poll, a total of 8,145 persons was called. This is approximately 13 per cent of the more than 61,000 phone users in the phone exchanges utilized, but the test was made on the theory that these citizens are typical of a much larger group in the city.

Lueder Leads Phone Poll.

The results of this poll, showing the number of votes for each candidate in each exchange, number of voters who were not ready to commit themselves, and the total number given the opportunity to vote, are as follows:

Exch.	Dever.	Lueder.	Cunnea.	Non-com.	Tot.
Superior	234	236	13	325	788
Harrison	413	547	35	323	1,318
Hyde Park.....	349	475	7	322	1,154
Columbus	467	359	20	336	1,182
Beverly	114	304	3	185	606
Kenwood	261	426	16	268	971
Atlantic	191	169	9	108	327
Austin	426	473	12	299	1,210
South Shore....	152	233	5	187	609
Totals.	2,511	3,163	120	2,351	8,145

"Why waste your time and THE TRIBUNE'S money on such a poll?" will be asked by several Democrats today and tomorrow. Here is the answer. It is not expected that more than 80 per cent of the 905,000 registered voters will go to the polls April 2. That means about 724,000 ballots, which is 34,000 more votes than were cast in 1919 at the mayoralty election. Of the total number of mayoralty voters, around 454,000 will be men and 270,000 will be women.

Peeping In the Melting Pot.

To that point it is the usual political forecasting. But, after a week of investigating and two days of calculating, the writer is convinced that about 183,000 of the mayoralty voters will be native whites whose parents were born in this country. Approximately 47,000 will be colored citizens, 218,000 will be foreign born naturalized citizens, and about 274,000 will be native white citizens with foreign or mixed parentage.

Of the class containing 274,000, about 213,000 will be native white citizens who have foreign born parents and the other 61,000 will have mixed parentage.

Taking another view of the expected electorate April 3, there will be around 432,000 voters of foreign birth or of foreign born parentage, 61,000 of mixed parentage, 47,000 of Negroes, and 135,000 of native whites whose parents were born in this country.

"Politics By Inheritance."

The writer agrees with the view of most of the practical politicians of Chicago that the average citizen gets his politics from his parents. So the nationality or national extraction of the voters is highly useful information in attempting to prejudge an election. The political inclinations of various nationalities are generally known or may be obtained by THE TRIBUNE canvass.

Ascertainment of the choice for mayor of the so called native citizens is a part of the general plan of the poll. So in the phone poll presented today, Lueder would have an advantage of 20,500 votes, if this poll is typical of the so-called native voters of Chicago. But it appears to have two defects—that need not be mentioned here—which other polls will either verify or refute.

UNCLE SAM FIRES FIRST GUN IN WAR WITH OLD POSEY

Renegade Chief Has a Price on Head.

BY EDWARD DOHERTY.

Blanding, Utah, March 24.—Chief Old Posey, who shook the dust of a century from his gaudy blanket thirteen years ago and over whose head hangs a reward for his capture, dead or alive, continues to evade posses who are seeking him and his band of renegade Piutes and Utes.

Armed with federal warrants charging insurrection against the United States, United States Marshal Ward is leading every white man in this section old enough to bear arms in the hunt for the fugitive reds.

War Supplies on Way.

Supplies of rifles, binoculars and other fighting equipment are on the way here from Salt Lake. While awaiting supplies for a determined drive into the box canyons of the mountains where the renegades are hiding, scouting parties under federal direction are believed to have killed two of the outlaw tribe, and the five Indians who made their escape yesterday have been captured and placed under guard here where a barbed wire stockade is being built for the captives and their squaws.

Blanding resembles a military camp in every respect save for the uniforms of troops. The arrival here of bands of friendly Navajos has lent color to the scene, together with the presence of those Piutes, under the leadership of Old Polk and Mancos Jim, who are friendly to the whites.

Squaw Breaks Tie.

Old Polk is a deadly enemy of Old Posey, who, before he joined the renegades, was acting leader of the tribe. His hatred of the outlaw leader dates back several years when Posey, after he had killed his squaw in a fit of anger, compelled Polk's sister to live with him as his squaw.

That broke a lifetime friendship between the two reds and is probably the reason that Old Posey's band is not strengthened by the presence of the other leader.

Military Law Rules.

The trouble zone has been put under military rule by the Indian commissioner, who has been authorized to call for troops if needed.

Offer of the reward, which was made today by Acting Governor Crockett, is expected to cause the Navajos to bring the body of Old Posey to the paleface chief. This, it is believed, would end the outbreak.

Organize Speakers for Drive on Sunday Movies

"Minute men" and Two Minute women" have been appointed by churchmen of Oak Park to appear in the various churches every Sunday between now and election day, April 3, to protest against Sunday "movies." Frank Alden, the banker, opens the drive with a speech today at the First Methodist church. The issue is to be decided by vote on election day.

S. D. NICHOLSON, SENATOR FROM COLORADO, DIES

Denver, Colo., March 24.—Samuel D. Nicholson, United States senator from Colorado, died here at 9:15 o'clock tonight. Carcinoma or cancer of the liver caused his death. He had been ill for nearly a month. Senator Nicholson was unconscious when he died.

Senator Nicholson was born Feb. 22, 1859, in Springfield, Prince Edward Island, and drifted to Colorado during the gold rush of 1881.

From a laborer in the gold mines near Leadville, he rose to a place as mine owner, millionaire and United States senator.

He was defeated in the Republican primaries for governor of Colorado in 1914 and 1916, and in 1920 he was elected to the senate.

Cuts G. O. P. Majority.

Washington, March 24.—The death of Senator Nicholson and the expected appointment by Gov. Sweet of Colorado of a Democrat to succeed him will reduce the Republican majority in the new senate to nine. The change will also weaken by one vote the bloc of regular administration senators, of which Senator Nicholson always was counted a member.

Joke Dever on His Stadium; Ask What's Lueder's Record!

FOR LUEDER

Arthur C. Lueder, Republican candidate for mayor, and his supporters yesterday peppered the Democratic camp with statements, speeches and challenges.

Advocacy of a municipal stadium for civic athletic carnivals by Judge Dever, was made the basis for a statement by the Lueder Real Estate league, in which Dever was asked to note that "work on the stadium already has been started by a Republican administration."

Oscar A. Kropf, speaking before the Lawyers' Lueder club, charged Dever would, if elected, turn the schools over again to politicians. He also paid his respects to Margaret Haley, business representative of the Chicago Teachers' federation, a supporter of the Democratic candidate, with the assertion "she again is in action with her blackjack."

"Well, Jedge, Shake!"

The league in its statement on the stadium said:

"Well, jedge, shake hands. It's a brilliant idea. The fact that work on the stadium already has been started by a Republican administration need not embarrass you. You've been away a long time, jedge, and naturally cannot be expected to know all the amazing things that have been happening in our civic affairs.

"Time indeed brings many changes, jedge, as you probably realized when you came out for a breath of fresh air after thirteen years in the courts. Remember Mike Faherty? He's trying to make you mayor now. And Mike's the boy who hired the five 'experts' who went south with $3,000,000 of the taxpayers' money."

Some Bedfellows.

Further, the statement invited Dever to look over the persons who "are sitting around the fire with you," enumerating them as follows:

"Mike Faherty, who hired the experts.

"Edward F. Dunne, who took home rule away from Chicago.

"William Randolph Hearst, who can turn around in politics so fast the heels of his shoes will be in front.

"Margaret Haley, who is trying to make our schools a political institution.

"Oscar De Priest—well, jedge, you shorely know who Oscar De Priest is!"

Leader in His Prime.

In his speech Kropf said:

"Judge Dever wants comparisons. I agree with him. He and Mr. Lueder are different. Mr. Lueder is in his prime; Judge Dever is in his decline. Lueder is on the sunny side of 50; the judge is past the biblical three score and is rapidly consuming his final ten. Lueder's eye is bright with the vigor and fire of young manhood; the judge's is dull with the sunset of life. Lueder has vision, ambition, hopes."

He reviewed the school situation as the most important problem in the city, and asked:

"What has Dever done. Lueder has a bill introduced that will enable him to clean house. Dever talks about 'weeding out,' but he knows that without the legislation Lueder has introduced he cannot 'weed out' the school board. He is four flushing. If he is elected, the schools will be run, not by the board of education but by Margaret Haley."

"Miss Haley is again in action with her blackjack. Why? Because under Lueder she knows she won't run the schools."

Challenge to Debate.

A challenge to a public debate was issued by a committee of colored clergymen asking Bishop A. J. Carey and Oscar De Priest to "explain their reasons for deserting the Republican candidate." The challenge was signed by the Revs. L. K. Williams, William Harrison, W. L. Petty, S. S. Spriggs, J. W. West, John W. Robinson, J. H. Gibson, J. H. Sharpe, W. Edward Williams, William Madison, S. A. Anderson, W. S. Bradden, and J. Tipper, editor of the Chicago Enterprise.

Mr. Lueder spoke before the Lawyers' Association of Illinois; a reception of the Eleventh ward Italian club; in K. P. hall in the Seventh ward; in the Ewing theater, at a meeting arranged by Oscar Wolff, coroner; at the Auburn Park Masonic temple, and at a meeting of Spanish war veterans at South Chicago post No. 493 of the American Legion. At the latter place he greeted men he has known ever since 1898, when he served in an Illinois regiment.

FOR DEVER

Space limitations were against the two thousand men and women who tried to crowd into the Cosmopolitan hall, 79th and Halsted streets, last night to hear William E. Dever, Democratic candidate for mayor. There was room for only a thousand and Judge Dever himself had to fight his way in.

It was easier for him to get in than out, for by the time he had finished the stairways, aisles, and corridors were filled.

Judge Dever proved himself a good football player and the struggle aroused his fighting blood. He wanted to fight and he said he wanted his opponent to be Arthur C. Lueder, the Republican nominee.

At the next meeting, in the Columbus school, Leavitt and Augusta streets, Judge Dever advocated a municipal convention hall.

"One that would be so large that no convention would ever go any place but Chicago," he explained. "Chicago should be the convention city and we must bring it about. It will bring millions of dollars yearly to our citizens."

Count Dever Pictures.

Judge Dever's secretary, Arthur P. O'Brien, had adopted the pastime of counting Dever pictures in the windows as the automobile passed.

"Look, three in that building," on Garfield boulevard. "Two here. Twenty to the block." It was the same north bound on Ashland avenue.

"Look's good," Judge Dever agreed with O'Brien, "but I'm thinking of getting some sleep. I wish this were the last meeting."

"We've about 800 left in the hall," said Senator "Big Mike" Maher, who was waiting to open the door of Judge Dever's machine. "It's 10:30, and about 200 wouldn't wait, but they said they'd vote for you."

On Old Stamping Ground.

Ward Committeeman Joseph F. Higgins led Dever to the platform, where the candidate received a royal reception. He was personally known in that neighborhood, having been alderman of the adjoining ward.

Judge Dever discussed transportation, his subway plans, the school situation, vice, and the good and evil of Chicago and his ideas of making it all good. He dwelt upon his council experience.

"My ten years as alderman will be of more benefit to Chicago, if I am elected, than my thirteen years as judge. I ask the public to judge me on that record and to judge my opponent on whatever his record is. I don't know his record, and perhaps you do not either, but judge him on it anyway. If he had ever done anything he would have a record."

CONGRESS RACE IN SECOND QUIET AS A WHISPER

Probably the quietest race in progress in preparation for the election of April 3 is the congressional election in the Second district to fill the vacancy left by the death of James R. Mann.

The Republican primary contest, fairly spirited, was won easily by Morton D. Hull, former state senator, but because the district always has been overwhelmingly Republican there has been little action visible since that time.

Barratt O'Hara, who was lieutenant governor during the Dunne state administration, won the Democratic nomination with little opposition. Since this was regarded as almost an empty honor, the Democratic organization took little interest in it, and is said to be taking no part in O'Hara's effort to get votes for election day.

Hull's Record Notable.

Hull served eight years in the Illinois house of representatives and six years in the state senate. During those periods he was identified with the enactment of the statute requiring state treasurers to turn over interest on public funds in their possession, laws limiting the hours of labor for women, the workmen's compensation act, and other reform measures.

O'Hara Regarded as "Accident."

O'Hara's election as lieutenant governor was regarded as a political accident. During his term in that office he was continuously criticized as a notoriety seeker, particularly in connection with a "white slave" investigation, that cost the state of Illinois a large amount of money but produced little except publicity for O'Hara.

During that period also he was accused of attempting to usurp authority that did not belong to his office and was charged with killing an attempt to bring private banks under state supervision.

HOLD SISTERS ON MURDER CHARGE; BARE LOVE PLOT

Youths Confess Giving Pistols to Girls.

Infatuation of two sisters, one married, for two young men led them to kill the husband who stood in the way of one of them.

Police thus explain the shooting of Michael McGinnis, city fireman, on March 13, for which his wife, Mrs. Annabelle McGinnis, 5611 South Fairfield avenue, and Miss Myna Pioch, 5216 South Paulina street, were held without bail on charges of murder. Francis Nee, 19, 1417 West 63d street, and Charles Schade, 19, 4320 South Rockwell street, were held in $10,000 bail as accessories to the murder at a hearing yesterday before Judge Asa G. Adams in Englewood court.

Youths Contradict Women.

Both Nee and Schade have told the same story, according to police—a story directly contradicting the first story of Mrs. McGinnis, who said the fireman had attempted to attack her and that her sister had shot him in self-defense. When confronted with the youths' version of the affair the police said the two women partially admitted its truth.

Nee is said to have admitted that Mrs. McGinnis told him she was tired of living with her husband and plotted to do away with him. He said Miss Pioch knew and approved of the plot. On the night of the shooting he gave Miss Pioch a revolver, police said, and with the two women and Schade went to the McGinnis home. Mrs. McGinnis was also armed, he is said to have confessed, while McGinnis was without a gun. After a short quarrel both women drew their guns and fired. The police believe it was a bullet from the gun held by Miss Pioch which killed the fireman.

Hearing on Writ Tomorrow.

Hearing on a writ of habeas corpus for release of the women before Judge Hugo Pam in the Superior court was continued until tomorrow. The proceedings in Municipal court were continued until March 30 by Judge Adams when the police informed the court that the inquest into McGinnis' death would be held March 29.

ORDER TO CLEAN UP PARIS SHOWS STIRS DISPUTES

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, March 24—Premier Poincare's decision to establish a stage censorship which will blue pencil suggestive lines and songs and add figurative clothing to semi-nude actresses has stirred up the most violent discussion throughout Paris.

The press is evenly divided as to whether the women should be permitted to appear half clad, but it is unanimous that the vulgar jokes, rough stuff, cuss words and suggestive titles should be eliminated.

Official circles practically admit that the imminent influx of American tourists has prompted the move for censorship. Critics point out that the overwhelming majority of spectators at these performances are foreigners—chiefly Americans and English.

It is known that political sketches dealing with government leaders, as well as foreign potentates, has caused considerable embarrassment to M. Poincare.

Supporters of indecency on the stage assert that this is a result of the war and the growth of popularity of athletics making people, like the ancient Greeks and Romans, appreciate the beautiful lines and perfect figures.

JAPAN UPRISING OF OUTCASTS IS FEARED IN TOKIO

BY RODERICK MATHESON.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

TOKIO, March 24.—Reports from central Japan state that members of the "Eta," outcasts, are gathering in various places and are threatening vengeance on members of the "Society for Upholding the National Spirit" and other anti-Eta groups.

The first serious trouble, which occurred at Nara, was stopped by the police, who forced an insulter of an Eta bride to apologize publicly, but the long smouldering, nation-wide hostility between the Eta and the rest of the Japanese seemingly is coming to a head and is creating a situation which is alarming to the national and provincial authorities.

The Eta comprise an eighth of the population, and include many rich and powerful members, although they are social outcasts. Recently this group held a secret national convention, at which, it was reported, the members decided to strike back against the centuries of oppression. They were especially provoked at newspaper writers who have been decrying their desire for equality.

As a result of the rumors, which include talk of assassination, the press is handling the situation with extreme delicacy, while the authorities are reported to be afraid to take drastic steps to suppress the Eta mobilizations.

The members of the Eta describe themselves as "Jews," and therefore it is believed in some quarters that they feel inspired by the Jewish success in Russia which they desire to emulate. These reports are not printed here, but they are being widely discussed. The lack of publication of the full news probably leads to the exaggeration of the rumors.

SIXTEEN HOMES OFFERED CHILD IN DOPE TRAGEDY

Sixteen offers of a home for Howard Robinson, 9 months old son of Mrs. Edna Robinson, the drug addict who murdered her mother, Mrs. Ella Woolsen, and then killed herself in a rooming house at 2317 Indiana avenue, have been received by the Illinois Children's Home and Aid, it was announced yesterday.

No decision regarding the adoption of the child will be made until his father, John Robinson, now an inmate of Kankakee, where he is making a fight against the grip of narcotics, has been consulted. Physicians declare there is no ground for the fear that the child will inherit the drug habit.

40 NEW ARRESTS NEAR IN GARY RUM CONSPIRACY

Hammond, Ind., March 24.—[Special.]—As a result of evidence which was brought out in the Gary conspiracy trial at Indianapolis, it is reliably reported that forty new warrants in the conspiracy are in the hands of federal marshals for service next week. It is known that the number of warrants served on the first batch of federal grand jury indictments was about forty short of the number returned and that the government did not issue these warrants because it was feared the case would be too unwieldy. Prominent Gary men are said to be affected.

Legislator on Stand.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 24.—J. Glenn Harris, legislative representative from Lake county, testified for the defense in the Gary liquor conspiracy trial in federal court today.

Harris denied the testimony of Philip Ukman, star government witness, that he had urged Ukman to sign a statement accusing federal prohibition agents of complicity in a scheme to blackmail prohibition law violators. He said Ukman called him to the Crown Point jail and told him "they are trying to frame on me."

Myron Harris, a newspaper man, testified concerning the arrest of Ukman. On cross examination Prosecutor Elliott sought to bring out that the real intention of Gary officials in arresting Ukman was to discredit Bert C. Morgan, federal prohibition director for Indiana, and George Winkler, group chief, who were in charge of the investigation.

The APOLLO

Trade-Mark Registered

THERE is no accounting for the magic of music—the strange power which lies in a set of quivering vibrations. It starts a man to dreaming, a woman to weeping, a child to dancing. The immediate response to a given piece varies with every listener. It is there for you to get out of it what you will—and what you need. But the thrill is brought to a focus by the tone. If the tone produced by a performer is dull and lifeless, or if the brilliant playing of master pianists loses its vitality when reproduced, you feel no answering thrill. The Magic of Music is not there! But the APOLLO supplies the tone with a thrill—a Living Tone.

Hear the marvelous Apollo Reproducing Piano today at the Chicago Theatre—next week at the Tivoli. Fred Berrens in "Fantastique Moments — Musicale," an added attraction, a musical mystery in which the Apollo "plays" a very important part.

Hotel Sheridan-Plaza

SHERIDAN ROAD AT WILSON AVENUE

500 Rooms—Each with Private Bath

Until you have seen them you cannot appreciate the values. Let us make plain the reason for such values: This hotel is heavily favored by the very best class of transient visitors to Chicago. They, of course, pay full daily rates, therefore, unlike hotels dependent wholly upon permanent guests, the Sheridan Plaza balances its business by quoting remarkably moderate rates on a definite percentage of its rooms for occupancy by the month.

This hotel, conducted upon most conservative lines, attracts and seeks only an especially desirable class of patrons—a feature of utmost importance when family residence is under consideration.

Transportation by elevated, Broadway surface cars or motorbus. Business men resident here find they can ride to and from the loop in taxis, daily, and still effect substantial savings as compared with the cost of less satisfactory accommodations closer to their loop places of business.

You are invited to come today, or any day or evening this week, to tour "Uptown Chicago's Most Favored Hotel" and compare with accommodations elsewhere the large, airy, attractively furnished rooms at prices ranging from $22.50 to $35 a week. If you are paying $5, $6 or even $8 a day, ask to see one of the rooms to be had here at $27.50 a week.

COURT STRIKES NEW BLOW AT AUTO KILLERS

Refuses to Interfere in Damage Verdict.

Another blow at reckless driving, which has claimed 139 lives in Cook county this year, was registered yesterday when Judge Joseph Fitch refused to interfere with a jury's verdict awarding Joseph Velovich, 1418 South Paulina street $10,000 damages from the A. Gilman company, whose speeding truck killed his 5 year old son in June, 1920.

On Friday a jury in Judge John A. Swanson's court found Raymond Kemming, 4652 West North avenue, guilty of manslaughter in connection with the death of Anna McInery, 11 years old. Kemming faces imprisonment for from one year to life.

"Verdicts such as those rendered by juries in the last two days spell the beginning of a new era for the pedestrian in Chicago," said Coroner Oscar Wolff. "Although I favor the amendment of existing motor vehicle laws to place more rigid restrictions upon the motorist, I am also convinced that full enforcement of the present laws will save hundreds of lives in a year.

One Boy Killed, One Injured.

Paul Soriets, 8 years old, 337 West 14th street, was killed almost instantly late yesterday afternoon while returning home from a movie show when he was struck by an automobile in front of 323 West Roosevelt road. Edward Pavelick, 355 North Fairfield avenue, driver of the automobile, is held pending the inquest.

Woodrow Wilson Windisham, 8 years old, 1130 West Grand avenue, was probably fatally injured last night when he was struck by an automobile driven by L. A. Olson, 163 East Chicago avenue, while crossing North Clark street between Erie and Ontario.

Olson failed to stop and was taken into custody by Policemen McGuire and Walsh, who chased him half a block. Police say he was driving on the wrong side of the street.

Street Car's' Crush Truck.

Four persons, including two boys stealing a ride, miraculously escaped death when the automobile truck in which they were riding was crushed between two street cars at 63d and Racine avenue. Although the truck was demolished none of the quartet was seriously injured and passengers in the two crowded street cars escaped with a severe shaking up.

According to witnesses John Bangs, 1943 Flournoy street, driver of the truck, attempted to speed past a west bound street car on the wrong side at 63d street. Without warning an east bound car appeared and the truck was caught between them.

Crews of fire department trucks, pulmotor squads, and four ambulances which responded to the calls for help found only slight injuries were sustained by Bangs, Harry McLeod, and the two boys, Daniel Gordon, 11, 6359 South Hoyne avenue, and William Huizenga, 13, 6315 Hamilton street.

Taxi Driver Nabs Speeder.

A wild chase along the "Gold Coast," which sent pedestrians scuttling when the pursued machine took to the sidewalk, culminated in the capture by William Deutch, 5920 South Marshfield avenue, a Yellow taxi driver, of four occupants of a sedan which had damaged his cab in a crash at State and Oak streets.

Charles B. Gorin, 4709 Beacon street, driver of the sedan, was held, charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated. Marshall P. Fox, 20 East Jackson boulevard; Miss Ethel Keenan, 21 years old, 101 Chicago avenue, Evanston, and Miss Dorothy Blood, 20, 1414 Lunt avenue, his companions, were released.

Held as Reckless Driver.

Edward J. McNeary, 6146 Rhodes avenue, was charged with reckless driving and assault with an automobile after his machine crashed into a taxicab yesterday at East 30th street and Indiana avenue.

Motorcycle Policeman Paul St. Germain was probably fatally injured when he was struck by the automobile driven by Carl C. Pfeiffer, 3349 West 63th street, at 63d street and Kedzie avenue. Pfeiffer, an engineer, was speeding at more than thirty miles an hour when he crashed into the policeman's motorcycle, it is alleged. He was arrested.

Police renewed their search yesterday for the "vampire" driver whose car struck down Verdna Peterson, 8, 11 West Division street, and Helen Dular, 7, 1108 North Dearborn street, Friday night. Witnesses were unable to positively identify E. L. Taylor, 2111 East 67th street, as the motorist who fled after conveying his little victims to Henrotin hospital.

130 Students Saved When College Building Burns

TO ATTEND FOREIGN TRADE MEET.

Twenty-five prominent Chicagoans have notified the Chicago Association of Commerce that they will attend the National Foreign Trade convention to be held at New Orleans on May 2, 3, and 4, at which E. M. Stevens, vice president of the Illinois Trust and Savings bank, and C. H. Markham, president of the Illinois Central railroad, will speak.

HUNT RUNAWAY BOY.

Help of The Tribune has been asked in the search for Thomas R. Baker, 15 years old, 1436 Meridian place, Washington, D. C., who left home on March 17 and has not been seen since. It is believed that he set out to beat his way to Chicago.

"PAY AND THEN PROTEST," EDICT FACING EXPERTS

"Pay first and then protest, if you think you have a kick coming," is the edict faced by the five Chicago real estate and building "experts" who on Friday lost their long fight to avoid payment of income taxes for 1920, estimated at more $1,400,000.

The five men have no further rights of appeal until they pay the government's claims under protest, according to Special Assistant United States Attorney General George N. Murdock, who has charge of income tax litigation here.

Ten Days to Pay.

It is probable, Mr. Murdock said, that assessment notices will be sent from Washington within the next few days to the "experts," Austin J. Lynch, Frank H. Mesce, Ernest H. Lyons, Edward C. Waller Jr., and Arthur S. Merigold. They will have ten days from the receipt of the notices to pay up. If they fail they will be subject to heavy fines and possible imprisonment, together with percentage penalties for the assessments evaded.

After the men have paid, they can appeal to the federal income tax board of review and, if they are not upheld there, can take the matter into the federal courts.

It was held certain by interested persons that the case eventually will reach the courts, inasmuch as the board of review virtually is bound by the decision reached Friday by Internal Revenue Commissioner David H. Blair and verified by United States Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty.

Court Action Means Airing.

The procedure when the case is taken into court will be a suit to recover the taxes paid under protest, Mr. Murdock said.

Such a suit, it was predicted, would bring to public light details of the payment and disposal of huge sums received by the "experts."

A REVOLT AGAINST CIVILIZATION.

Incompetence in public places is busy making confusion out of the simple problems offered by the great lakes watershed.

The great reservoirs formed by Lakes Superior, Michigan, Huron, Erie, and Ontario, which have furnished valuable highways for commerce during the entire development of the northwest, and which were so skillfully improved by Canada, by New York, and by Illinois in earlier generations, can, with the advent of modern engineering, be rendered infinitely more useful to both countries. Unfortunately, Attorney General Herman Ekern of Wisconsin and Attorney General Andrew Dougherty of Michigan are acting to restrain the usefulness of the great watershed to its status in the days of the American Indian.

As every schoolboy knows, the watershed is fed by rain and snowfall, the quantity of which varies from year to year. Water leaves the great lakes in the form of evaporation, which varies from year to year, and which cannot be controlled; and by run-off through the connecting rivers. This run-off except from Lake Superior, has never been regulated by engineering works and depends entirely upon the ice conditions at the lake outlets. Hence a series of dry summers and warm winters result in low lake levels, while the continuance of a period of wet seasons and freezing winters make high water in the lakes.

In recent years there has been a tendency toward a lower level of Lakes Michigan, Huron, and Erie, due to the opening of the Chicago drainage canal, the enlargement of the Detroit river, and the water power works at Niagara falls, which have increased the capacity of the Niagara river. Only at Chicago has any engineering construction been erected to restrict the outflow of water, and except that the outlets have been enlarged and flow more water than formerly, the Detroit and Niagara rivers are as free from the improvements of civilization as when they were guarded by the Iroquois.

The St. Lawrence watershed, as in the case of all watersheds, has a tendency to floods in the spring and to low water in the fall. In consequence the currents of the St. Lawrence river are difficult to navigate in June, and complaints of shallow water are heard in October.

The same construction which would establish the levels of the great lakes at any height desired by the harbors of Wisconsin and Michigan would cut down these embarrassing currents in the spring and would permit the desired depth of canal and river in the fall. Such regulation of the outflow of the great lakes is desirable for the St. Lawrence navigation whether the seaway be constructed or navigation be restricted to the present fourteen foot canal.

The problem of the great lakes to the gulf deep waterway, the measure now being fought by Attorneys Ekern and Dougherty, lies in the fact that during three-quarters of the year the watershed of the Illinois river does not supply sufficient water to make that river navigable, while the Mississippi river between St. Louis and Cairo is often embarrassed.

In order to provide navigation on the Illinois river it is necessary to flow a quantity of water through the Chicago drainage canal during this period, amounting to less than 5 per cent of the volume flowed through the Niagara river. This water flow, which would place Michigan and eastern Wisconsin on the Lakes to the Gulf waterway, and put Iowa, Missouri, and the Mississippi river states on the Great Lakes and Seaway systems is the water flow that the attorneys general of Wisconsin and Michigan propose to prevent by means of an injunction in the Supreme court of the United States.

Plans for engineering improvements in the Detroit, Niagara, and St. Lawrence rivers, which will regulate levels of the great lakes to whatever heights may be desired, which will prevent floods in the St. Lawrence river, and which will afford water for navigation in the Illinois and Mississippi rivers, are all prepared. Money to build these works has been appropriated, but Attorney General Ekern of Wisconsin and Attorney General Dougherty of Michigan stand in the path of progress like the Iroquois of colonial days, insisting that the lakes to the gulf waterway be not built; that Iowa, Missouri, and the Mississippi river states shall not be given access to the great lakes; that the great lakes states shall not have water transportation to the gulf. They are working to break up the community of interest whereby the hope for the St. Lawrence seaway may be realized. They are men of that type now emerging in public affairs who would replace our civilization with the jungle.

JOIN THE RESERVE.

Until next November 11 any officer of the late war, whose record justifies it, can obtain a commission in the reserve. After that date he must submit to examination like any other civilian.

But why go into the reserve? We shall not argue the claims of patriotism in answer to that question because we have full faith in the patriotism of the officers of the late war, and we assume they have thought the matter over from that viewpoint. In the case of many men who would be quick to enlist in case of need, circumstances oppose joining the reserve, and others doubtless feel that war is improbable and a new generation will have to fight if another war finally arrives.

For the latter we would say that most Americans in 1914 thought the same, and they were caught unprepared. We all pray that we shall never have to go to war again, but the world seems far from peace and we are a part of the world. If reserve service involves too great a sacrifice in any particular case, we do not urge it, but there are a great many ex-officers who, we believe, would not find it a sacrifice, but rather a benefit and an inspiration. Only two weeks' training a year is required, and that offers a fine association in a splendid body of men and interesting activities, but in addition there must be a real satisfaction in feeling that one is ready for the defense of the flag.

There is also this practical question: What if war, or threat of war, should come? In that event precedence and seniority will go to those in the reserve.

Finally, don't overlook the truth that, as Washington said, one of the best means of preserving peace is to be at all times ready for war, and that by joining the reserve the American veteran is helping to give the nation an organized defense which will make other nations respect our strength and will, therefore, render aggression less likely. The reserve may never be called to fight, and we all hope it will not, but it is serving the nation and the cause of peace by its mere existence.

PARLIAMENT DEBATES SOCIALISM.

An interesting debate began last week in the house of commons on a motion condemning capitalism and proposing the nationalization of the instruments of production and distribution.

This is the Socialist formula for the cure of poverty and other ills afflicting society, and it is significant that it has been permitted to come up for discussion at a time when unemployment, strikes, and other grievous sources of complaint are testing the forces of order and government. In America in such circumstances we should probably try to evade or suppress revolutionary proposals. Certainly we should not give them conspicuous place in the agenda of congress. But the British stoutly believe in freedom of speech, and allow it to a degree Americans do not permit. They believe in letting extremists talk, having a confidence in the solidity of their institutions that we lack.

We are not implying that either the British are too lenient or Americans too strict, for our conditions differ, and the subject is not so plain and simple as our theorists believe.

At any rate, the house of commons is not afraid to talk about socialism, and we believe the discussion will have good effect in airing the fallacies of Socialist dogma at a moment when the misfortunes of millions of the British people must incline them toward any promise of fundamental change. We have seen how in America the comparatively mild misfortunes of our clumsy deflation have brought out a rash of socialistic proposals offered by impassioned doctors of discontent as "progressive," and we believe that the British set us an example of candor, courage, and good sense in facing the radical proposals of Socialist doctrine in confidence that they can be refuted to the satisfaction of the mass of the British public. We in America seem to be afraid to attack anything which is proposed for ameliorating suffering or offers itself in the guise of democracy or of moral betterment. We are afraid we shall be charged with hard heartedness or selfishness or complicity in oppression; so legislators pass laws which they do not believe in, and citizens who have no faith in the prescriptions of reform remain silent. This is a surprising development in a nation which considers itself free, for it represents a tyranny demoralizing in the degree that it is intangible and without form of authority.

As for the British debate, it was opened by one of the most emotional of the doctrinaire Socialists, a man of great and sincere sensitiveness to the evils of poverty and a speaker of eloquence. His assertions are characteristic of a good deal of thinking about these evils. For example, we have the familiar assertion that 80 per cent of the wealth of the nation is owned by 2½ per cent of the population. The statistical foundation for this assertion, which is made about America also, with perhaps a slight change in percentages, we have never seen. We doubt the assertion; but, even if it were true, the impression it is intended to give is a grotesque distortion of reality. It is not true that 97½ per cent of the people are living on 20 per cent of the actual wealth of the country, while 2½ per cent gorge themselves upon the remaining 80 per cent. A man might own a million acres of arable land, but he cannot enjoy all its produce. Yet the Socialist rhetoric on the concentration of wealth strives to give the impression that we are practically all impoverished because 2½ per cent of our number are withholding the enjoyment of the nation's riches from the remaining 97½ per cent.

Concentration of wealth does not mean concentration of enjoyment, but concentration of control. This may involve inequities, and, human nature being what it is, it does involve inequities. We share with the Socialist regret for these inequities and inequalities, but we do not agree with him that to take the management of wealth out of the hands of individuals and other agencies developed under capitalism and place it in the hands of what is called the state, that is, organized political agencies, is going to benefit the 97½ per cent, or any considerable part of them.

Socialism goes strong while it is pointing out the wretchedness that exists among the inadequate and the unfortunate. But when it ascribes virtually all this wretchedness to a system—in a word, to capitalism—we begin to part company with it; and when it offers as a cure-all a new system, namely, the control of all wealth and wealth producing agencies by some form of popular control, municipal or national, we can see no promise of betterment. Another proposed substitution is coöperation for competition and the elimination from human motives of personal profit for collective or common profit. We do not find in human experience or in our analysis of human character any reason to think it would improve human conditions to eliminate the energizing influence of competition for personal advantage. On the contrary, history shows that experiments in that line have soon ended in dismal failure.

Socialism offers us either state control, which is, in fact, political bureaucracy, or communism, which either ignores expert directorship or produces an inferior form. It offers a control and management of resources which will produce less wealth for division, whereas the history of civilization demonstrates that progress for all lies in increased production. Modern capitalism has enormously increased the common fund of wealth, and with it the whole level of individual well being has been raised. Socialism would slow down this whole movement, and the economies it expects to accomplish by the elimination of what it considers the waste of competition would be more than offset, as Russian socialism has learned, by the loss of the energising force of the motive of personal gain.

In America doctrinaire socialism is feeble, but there is a considerable tendency to express discontent and seek remedies for inequalities by resort to socialistic devices, by artificial laws, and the increase of government action in the field of private enterprise, that is, the growth of bureaucracy controlled by political officials. If Americans understand the factors of prosperity they will wake up to these tendencies and resist them before they have thoroughly undermined the American system.

THE COMMUTERS' TICKET.

Impatience generally is more satisfactory than satiety. It has a future and satiety a past. Odysseus grew sick of his amorous isle of violets and wanted the winds of gaunt Ithaca. A March blizzard driving out of the gray of the north may be a physical check to the person who wants to get up from the fireside chair and go out to meet the south wind, but it is part of the conditions which give us spring as a drama and not as a parade of flowers.

We come within reach of hepatica and blood root and are beaten back with snow beating the bare arms of the oaks. There is one clear song and then the singer is driven, silent, to cover. The stream is free with melting snow from the slopes and then seized again by ice and locked.

The person by the fire is impatient, but there is zest in the drama. In our latitudes we come to thorn blossoms through a struggle. Life has many facets and its reflections are brilliant. The variety is infinite.

IMPROVE OUR JURY SYSTEM.

One of the most important measures before the present assembly is the bill for reforming our jury system. It is the work of one of the ablest of our jurists, Judge Albert C. Barnes, who has made good use of investigations and reports and the accumulated experience of a quarter century of our present system. The measure is proposed by the Industrial club of Chicago, which since as far back as 1907 has taken a public spirited interest in this important problem and, among other efforts, financed investigation by Judge Kavanagh, who made an exhaustive report after a trip to study British methods.

Judge Barnes' bill was introduced by Representative Thon and is now on the house calendar awaiting disposal. Its two most important features are, first, it provides that the jury list shall consist of not less than 10 per cent of the electors of the county, as shown by the aggregate vote at the latest presidential election, which list shall be composed of residents of different parts of the county and of various occupations; second, it provides that electors shall be given opportunity to designate two or more terms of court when they can best serve as jurors with the least loss and embarrassment to their business interests. When an elector has once served as juror he shall be excused from serving again as long as it is practicable to select other qualified persons who have not served. It is estimated this should not require service oftener than once in ten years.

It is of the utmost importance that jury service should be made as little of a sacrifice as possible. At present a juror may be required to serve soon after he has given service, and he may be called at a time when his business is most active and he can least afford to leave it. The result of this, apart from other reasons, is that a very large number are excused, with the consequences that juries are too often made up of a residuum of men of least experience, intelligence, and character.

This is a very grave condition, conducive to the defeat of justice and the intelligent application of the laws. The proposed bill should better the situation materially, and also should accomplish economy in the expense of jury administration, which, on account of the great number of citizens excused, is unduly high.

We trust that this relief will be granted by the assembly, as it is sorely needed in Cook county.

Editorial of the Day

ALTRUISTIC INDIANA.

[Cleveland Plain-Dealer.]

For many years nature lovers of Chicago and scientists throughout the United States have been vainly laboring to persuade congress to set aside as a national park the dune area at the southern end of Lake Michigan. The region is unique. Not elsewhere in the world are there such immense dune formations, nor is there at any other place so extensive and magnificent a natural display of plant associations. The dunes are of all ages, ranging from those which are still "alive" and in motion to those which have been dead for countless years. The region includes nearly every variety of natural environment, and has gathered within its limits plants from the far north and the far south, swamp plants and desert plants, plants of highland and lowland. It has attracted botanists from all over the world. But even more important from a practical standpoint, the dune region has served as a wonderful playground and health resort for the people of Chicago.

Because of its close proximity to the great city the dune area has been constantly diminished by the encroachment of manufacturing interests. The mushroom city of Gary was built in the midst of the dunes, and converted an extensive tract of nature's wonderland into a grimy, stodgy manufacturing town. The people of Chicago have long seen the dunes slowly but steadily diminishing, but they could do nothing but appeal to the federal government. They could make no progress through state action, for, unfortunately, the dunes are in Indiana. And the people of Indiana were far less interested than the people of Chicago.

Now, however, Indiana has taken action which marks her as an altruistic commonwealth. The legislature has voted to appropriate 2,000 acres of the dunes to be preserved as an Indiana state park. Unquestionably the action will benefit the state of Indiana, but it will be far more beneficial to the city of Chicago. And incidentally it will save from destruction one of the most notable of American wonderlands.

The only regret is that congress, which has been so free in setting aside inaccessible regions of the far west as national parks, could not have been persuaded years ago to save this accessible and incomparably interesting region from the desecration to which it has been subjected.

PROBABLY A HIGHLANDER.

A tramp called at the house of a spinster who lived all alone.

When she opened the door he asked her if she had an old pair of her husband's trousers to give away.

The woman, who did not want to admit that she was unprotected, replied in an embarrassed voice:

"I am very sorry, my good man, but—er—my—er—hus—but—but he never wears them!"—Answers, London.

How to Keep Well. By Dr. W. A. Evans.

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation, and prevention of disease, if matters of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space will not permit, or the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered, subject to proper limitations, and where a stamped, addressed envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease. Requests for such service cannot be answered.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE.

"If a person is in perfect health, so far as he can judge, but discovers accidentally that he has high blood pressure, is he in any danger? Should he do anything about it?"

This is asking an important question. Furthermore, it is one that is frequently asked. A few thousand persons who read this column ask it of somebody every year. More than a thousand ask it of me.

Furthermore, the answers given to these thousands of questions are far from uniform. A large part of the answers given directly contradict another large group of answers.

If a man has had a stroke of apoplexy, or is persistently dizzy or has Bright's disease, or, at 40 or beyond, has developed persistent headaches not due to eye strain—if these symptoms are present, of course, the high blood pressure is important and something should be done about it.

But here is a man or woman who has no symptom except high blood pressure, who feels fine. Shall he regard a high blood pressure as important? Dr. J. W. Fisher of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company says he should. He bases his opinion on observation of the blood pressure of several thousand people and knowledge of the subsequent ills and age at death of these people. Especially was he guided by the subsequent history of several thousand people who were rejected for high blood pressure, but who had no other symptoms or disease, as shown on the insurance examination report. The average blood pressures of 50,000 people were:

15-19 years	120
20-24 years	122
25-29 years	123
30-34 years	124
35-39 years	126
40-44 years	128
45-49 years	130
50-54 years	132
55-59 years	134
60-64 years	135
65 and over	136

The pressure can run 13 above these figures without being regarded as especially high or calling for attention or causing rejection of the application. Of those where the pressure was more than 12 m. m. above grade the rates of actual deaths to expected deaths ranged from 190 to 334 per cent in the different groups. In other words, according to the law of averages, the insurance risk on persons with high blood pressure, but who are otherwise well, ranged from practically twice the normal to almost four times the normal.

Persons with low blood pressure had a death rate below the average.

The teaching of this study is that a person with high blood pressure should change his habits at once, even though he feels "as fine as a fiddle," "never felt better in his life," and the various and sundry colloquialisms used by men to bluff about their health.

BOIL THE WATER.

M. A. writes:

1. Is there any danger in drinking water taken direct from a river? I am so situated at present where I have no other water to use.

2. What are the symptoms of smallpox?

3. Is it possible for one to be afflicted with the above disease and yet not succumb to it—that is, be able to go around and do light work?

4. In the latter case how long would the attack last?

REPLY.

1. It is unless you boil it or sterilize it with hypochlorite or halosone. River water is very apt to cause typhoid fever or diarrhea. But heating or chemical treatment as above makes it safe.

2. Twelve to fourteen days after exposure fever and fearful aching comes on. This lasts three days, after which the patient gets up, feels fine, and, if he follows his inclination, he goes to a dance. The next day he notices hard, shotlike lumps in his skin, noticeably on his forehead. Before night he is sick again and sorry he did not go to prayer meeting instead of the dance. Within a day or two his hard lumps have changed to blisters and his fever is returning. These are a few of the symptoms.

3. Yes. One reason for the present trouble in controlling smallpox is the fact that the disease is often mild, and the patient continues his work or his play or goes visiting.

4. A person who is cleared up four weeks after smallpox starts is lucky.

NO WHOOPING COUGH CURE.

G. H. writes:

My 6 year old son has whooping cough.
Is there any cure for it?
Is it a contagious disease?

REPLY.

No. Symptomatic treatment gives some relief.

The disease is self-limited and cure is spontaneous.

It is highly contagious at the beginning of the disease and less so as time goes on. Contagiousness does not last as long as does the tendency to whoop.

FRESH AIR BEST TONIC.

Mrs. E. D. writes: Could you tell me of a good tonic for my blood? I break out every spring all over my arms and face, and they look terrible. I think my blood is too rich.

REPLY.

Of course there is nothing the matter with your blood. About the best spring tonic is radishes, though young onions and green peas are fine. Had you gotten out in the snow more frequently you would be having fewer pimples this spring. As it is, walking in the rain, sleet, and snow in the early spring will help greatly.

YOU MAY NEED IT.

Miss R. M. writes:

Is the juice of one lemon, taken in lukewarm water, harmful? If so, how?

REPLY.

I know of no reason why it should be. In fact, most people need some fruit and vegetable acids in the spring.

GREASE YOUR HANDS.

Mrs. W. H. S. writes:

During the winter months my fingers crack open and bleed. In spite of everything I have tried, they become no better.

REPLY.

Wear loose woolen gloves instead of light leather ones. When you wash dishes wear rubber gloves. Keep your bare hands out of direct contact with cold water or cold air. Grease your fingers each night. Use any grease you wish.

ASK MOTHER TO FORGET.

Mrs. F. M. writes:

Is frequent bathing during early pregnancy harmful in any way?

My mother insists it causes the embryo child to grow too rapidly, resulting in difficult birth.

REPLY.

No. Ask your mother to forget about 10 per cent of what she knows.

IMMIGRATION QUOTA.

Chicago, March 19.—[Friend of the People.]—Did congress, before retiring, pass the new immigration law reducing the 3 per cent quota to 2 per cent and taking the census of 1892 instead of 1910. If the bill was passed, was it signed by the President? If it did not pass will the present immigration law be enforced for the present, or until congress meets again? A. W.

Congress did not pass legislation at the last session reducing the quota to 2 per cent. No change was made in the immigration laws and the present quota act will be in effect until July 1, 1924, unless a new legislation is passed at the next session of congress.

HOWARD D. EBEY,
Inspector in charge,
United States Immigration Service.

CHANGE YOUR METHOD OF PAYMENT

Chicago, March 18.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Is there any way a lawyer can make trouble for my husband? This lawyer fought my husband's case and won it. In the meantime my husband has been out of employment, and has been doing odds and ends, but couldn't get steady work. Then he finally landed a good position through an agency for which he had to pay $65. He paid the agency by the week and has it all paid and started to pay the lawyer at the rate of $10 a week. The lawyer is not satisfied and has sent annoying letters, but we are doing the best we can. The lawyer never sends us a receipt for the money or any statement that he has received the $10. Please advise us. T. H.

Of course, he is at liberty to sue for the full amount owing. You could preserve evidence of the payments by making them in the form of money orders or checks.

The sailor should report to the immigration officials in New York and be inspected. He will then be in position to file declaration of intention.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,
Chief Naturalization Examiner.

Yes, he can.

AMERICAN MERCHANT MARINE LOSSES.

Richland Center, Wis., March 19.—I enclose copy of a letter recently received by me which partially explains why U. S. S. B. steamers do not pay now and never will pay so long as they are operated by shipping firms who get their commissions whether there is a profit or loss.

The writer of the enclosed letter is a shipowner and has been connected with shipping for many years.

"With reference to the American merchant marine and the reasons why shipping board ships cannot pay their way, respectfully invite your attention to the fact that while shipping board ships are let out to operators who receive a commission for handling each ship, and, I understand, a freight commission also, these operators do not assume any responsibility as to whether or not the vessels pay their way; hence, they engage freight to load at any port.

"They will send a vessel into port for a parcel of any size; and I have known, for instance, of vessels coming into port and taking parcels of, say, 600 tons, in which connection the steamer would show considerable loss in port charges alone, to say nothing of her cost and time. I knew of one instance where a vessel went into a port in Cuba for a shipment which gave her a revenue of $1,700. I was advised by the captain that it took $1,900 to go in and out of that port in Cuba, and then $2,200 to go in and out of the South American port where this particular parcel of freight was delivered. In other words, it cost $4,200 to collect $1,700 worth of revenue.

"This is not what one could call upbuilding the American merchant marine. Rather, it is carrying freight for foreigners at reduced rates.

"While this is only one instance of many, they all go to create the great loss which the shipping board has incurred since it began the operation of ships, which operation should have ceased the day the war was over and the armistice was signed."

VERITAS.

IN DEFENSE OF LAKE COUNTY COMMUTERS.

Highland Park, Ill., March 19.—In your issue of Saturday you criticise in a manner I think unjust those whose residence is in Lake county, but who go to Chicago every morning for business. This particularly refers to Lake Bluff, Lake Forest, Highland Park, and Ravinia. A cleaner, better governed group of towns it would be impossible to find in America. Take their group of supervisors together, they will compare with any group in the state. And these towns I have named take more interest in clean politics and law enforcement in the county than any other group of towns in it.

When Col. Smith, whom you commend, was elected, an ex-saloonkeeper opposed him. I called at some of the precincts in Lake Forest and Highland Park on the night of the election. In one large precinct in Lake Forest Mr. Smith had been elected over his opponent by 17 to 1. In another 100 votes were cast and only 3 of these were for his opponent. In Highland Park in one precinct, out of 101 votes cast, 100 were for Col. Smith, and when his house was bombed, citizens in Lake Forest and Highland Park were the first to volunteer to help pay the damage. These offers were afterward supplemented by the supervisors of Lake county.

In opposition to your statement that the commuters do not interest themselves in the rest of the county, I may say that for the last seventeen years they have maintained an organization which at every county election has sent forth the many thousands of circulars, giving an absolutely impartial, nonpolitical record of each candidate from the standard of the very highest citizenship, so that each voter shall know the facts about the candidates.

THOMAS R. QUATLA,
Corresponding Secretary Lake County Law and Order League.

FOR CONTRACT LABOR TO IMPROVE QUALITY OF IMMIGRATION.

Elmwood, Ill., March 19. — "Vox Populi," "R. M. G.," and others express proper concern for betterment in quality of those migrating to our shores. That can be brought about in but one substantial way: by repeal of the feature in our immigration laws that forbids "contract" labor entrance to our ports. Until that freedom of selection was denied by laws forced by pressure of trades unions upon timid legislators, England, France, Germany, Belgium, Switzerland, furnished from their artisans and mechanics the most and best of them, to us. Having dependable employments in their home countries, they are slow to migrate without something of assurance. Such men and their sons are of our valued industrial citizenry today. Machine work, textiles, chemistry, steel, leather, in fact all lines of skill and best practice were at once handicapped by statutes forbidding the normal right of an employer to offer and of an artisan to accept contract for industrial relations mutually desired.

POEMS YOU OUGHT TO KNOW

FAITH.

By Thomas Chatterton.

O God, whose thunder shakes the sky,
Whose eye this atom globe surveys,
To thee, my only rock, I fly,
Thy mercy in thy justice praise.

The mystic mazes of thy will,
The shadows of celestial light,
Are past the power of human skill;
But what the Eternal acts is right.

Oh, teach me in the trying hour,
When anguish swells the dewy tear,
To still my sorrows, own thy power,
Thy goodness love, thy justice fear.

If in this bosom aught but thee
Encroaching sought a boundless sway,
Omniscience could the danger see,
And Mercy look the cause away.

Then why, my soul, dost thou complain,
Why drooping seek the dark recess?
Shake off the melancholy chain,
For God created all to bless.

But ah! my breast is human still;
The rising sigh, the falling tear,
My languid vitals' feeble rill,
The sickness of my soul declare.

But yet, with fortitude resigned,
I'll thank the inflictor of the blow,
Forbid the sigh, compose my mind,
Nor let the gush of misery flow.

The gloomy mantle of the night,
Which on my sinking spirit steals,
Will vanish at the morning light,
Which God, my east, my sun, reveals.

JUDGE MORRILL DIES SUDDENLY; HEART DISEASE

Practiced Law 30 Years; Wrote Legal Works.

Heart disease caused the death last night of Judge Donald L. Morrill of the Illinois Appellate court at his residence, at 6322 Kenmore avenue. Judge Morrill, who was 63 years old, was a practicing lawyer in Chicago for more than 30 years prior to his elevation to the bench in 1920. He served as attorney for the board of education from 1891 to 1895 and as president of that organization from 1890 to 1891.

JUDGE MORRILL.

Native of Maine.

Judge Morrill was born in Maine, where his only brother is now a justice of the Supreme court. He was a graduate of Brown university. Judge Morrill was a member of the American Bar association, the Illinois State Bar association, Chicago Bar association, Lawyers' association, the Law club, University club, Mid-Day club, Iroquois club, Sons of the Revolution and the Mason lodge.

At the time of his election as judge he was a member of the state board of law examiners and president of the Chicago Law institute.

Author of Legal Works.

Judge Morrill was the author of "Federal and State Government," a textbook used in Illinois public schools for many years; and "Illinois School Law Annotated," "Manual of the Constitution of Illinois," a treatise on the Law of Persons," all widely used by legal students.

He is survived by his widow, a son, Attorney Nahum Morrill, and a brother.

SERGT. MARKHAM, LONG SOUTH PARK POLICEMAN, DIES

Sergt. Thomas Markham of the south park police, a well known figure to hundreds of Chicagoans, died on Friday at his home at 5556 Princeton avenue from pneumonia. Sergt. Markham was born in the old Irish settlement of Chicago on Dec. 8, 1859, and during the early part of his life was engaged in the lumber business. He joined the police force twenty-seven years ago and had been eligible for a pension for some time. He preferred, however, to remain at work, and continued in the force until the time of his death.

Sergt. Markham had lived continuously at the Princeton avenue address ever since his marriage thirty-four years ago. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary A. Markham, a daughter, Mary, and three sons—Robert, George, and William. Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. on Tuesday at St. Anne's church.

He was personally acquainted with practically all of the celebrities of his time when Rector's was in its glory.

In later days, when Rector opened his Broadway cafe in New York and when the new Rector's was built upon the old Chicago location, he did not remain, but embarked in the electrical business as president of the Cregier Signal company.

Hursen Is As Near As Your Telephone

There was a time, before the days of the "Hursen revolution" in funeral direction, when people would call the "nearest undertaker." In those days there was no use going beyond the immediate neighborhood. Service, such as it was, was the same everywhere. Charges were excessive everywhere. There was little or no choice between undertakers.

Hursen, appearing on the scene, changed it all in 24 hours! It was a revolution and a revelation! Hursen was called from everywhere, from all parts of Chicago, and from the suburbs, many miles away. Distance began to mean nothing. It means nothing today to those who know the unusual elegance, refinement, generosity and low cost of Hursen service.

Neighborhood acquaintance means little today, when the people demand something better than they have ever before been able to obtain—and at a lower cost than they have ever been made to pay. Hursen, and Hursen only, has been able to supply this demand from the people of Chicago and vicinity—in all things pertaining to funeral direction.

As a result, "Hursen's" is today the largest and most remarkable institution of its kind in America. There are 3 Hursen establishments in Chicago, each built like a mansion. Does Hursen elegance of service, unsurpassed beauty of automobile equipment, and unexcelled quality of everything furnished, mean anything to you? A call from anywhere to any one of the 3 Hursen establishments will bring service within 30 minutes. Call Hursen, of course!

BANK GUARANTY SEERS BOB UP AS IN BRYAN'S TIME

Plan Only Put Oklahoma $9,000,000 in Hole.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Guaranty of bank deposits, an idea over which millions of words were spouted in argument some fifteen years ago, the last time Bryan ran, is bobbing up again.

Oklahoma, which in 1908 was the "shining example," in 1923 has become the "horrible object lesson." Despite this outcome of a fifteen years' experiment, some theorists in Illinois are again singing of a bank guaranty measure. They are not regarded seriously by financial circles. In Minnesota, however, three guaranty bills were put before the legislature early in the year, and the state bankers' association has been making an active battle against them.

North Dakota is up to its neck. It was struck by a wave of bank failures. The Chicago Banker, a financial authority, recently reported the North Dakota guaranty fund is now about $5,000,000 behind, "and at present rates, if there are no failures, will be twenty-five years in paying up." The fund is collected from the banks.

Oklahoma Started It.

All told, eight states have bank guaranty laws—Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska, Mississippi, Washington, and the two Dakotas. Interest centers in the situation in Oklahoma, which was the first state to act.

The idea was born of the panic of 1907. Oklahoma was admitted as a state in November, 1907, and within a month its initial legislature had enacted a guaranty law which was to be a panacea for all financial ailments. It was given wide publicity and debate at the time. At the Denver national Democratic convention the Oklahoma contingent made more noise than all the brass bands. Gov. Haskell and "Alfalfa Bill" Murray, who had been president of the Oklahoma constitutional convention, got a bank guaranty plank into the national platform, and it was one of the issues in the campaign.

To give it a running start at Denver, a bank was closed at Coalgate, Okla., and the depositors were paid off at once; at least, the president of the bank loudly insisted that it had been shut down for no other purpose than to make a demonstration of the depositors' guaranty law for the Democrats at Denver.

Premium on Wildcatting.

At once the argument was brought out that a guaranty of deposits would increase the hazard of banking by eliminating the value of character and conservative commonsense as a banker's asset. It put more emphasis on the payment of deposits after a bank broke than upon the prevention of a bank failure. With depositors guaranteed against loss, all banks looked alike to the man wanting to open a bank account. It put a premium on wildcatting and bolstered up the loose-jointed, plunging banks at the expense of the solid, conservative establishments. And when one gets down to fundamentals, the keystone of sound banking is character plus common horse sense.

How well these arguments of twelve and fifteen years ago hit the bull's eye can now be seen from Oklahoma's experience. The guaranty scheme was one of insurance. Contrary to a widespread belief at that time, the state does not stand back of the depositors with an offer to make good if a bank crashes. The state simply serves as the administrator of a guaranty fund collected from the state banks themselves. All are assessed, the rate now being one-fifth of 1 per cent of the average daily deposits for the year. If the guaranty fund is not sufficient to pay off depositors in banks that go to the wall, the banking board may issue certificates of indebtedness bearing 6 per cent interest, thus borrowing on the credit of the guaranty fund to pay depositors. The law says these warrants shall be a first lien against the capital stock, surplus, and undivided profits of every state bank "to the extent of liability of such bank to the depositors' guaranty fund."

Nine Million in the Hole.

D. R. Crissinger, controller of the currency, in an article analyzing the operations of the bank guaranty idea, reports that between 1908, when the Oklahoma law became effective, and Nov. 1, 1921, ninety-five banks closed in Oklahoma, with capital aggregating $1,935,000 and with deposits guaranteed aggregating about $11,000,000. There had been collected from assessments on state banks for the guaranty fund $2,645,000, while collections from the assets of the failed banks amounted to $1,930,000. This makes a total of $5,575,000 to meet $11,000,000, leaving the fund $5,425,000 in the hole.

The interest at 6 per cent on the certificates of indebtedness soon runs up, and, with this and subsequent failures, the Oklahoma guaranty fund now owes some $9,000,000. So the Minnesota Bankers' association says in its report, adding, "This is about three-fourths of the state bank capital of Oklahoma."

Here is another sidelight. One authority, Thomas Bruce Robb, figures that in the twelve years, 1908-'20, the average annual rate of assessment upon the bank ran more than two-fifth of 1 per cent of daily deposits. It averaged about 3 per cent each year of the capital stock of the banks. In other words, the assessments during twelve years took about 36 per cent of the average capital stock of the Oklahoma state banks.

Yet despite this great burden, which, of course, is largely passed on to the public in one way or another, the guaranty fund is $9,000,000 behind.

Apparently it indicates the guaranty has operated to "put a premium on loose banking," as was argued fifteen years ago. In fact Mr. Crissinger's analysis shows that of ninety-five banks closed, forty-two went to the wall due to poor management, slow losses, injudicious investments, shrinkage in deposits, while no less than thirty-four were wrecked due to criminal acts on the part of officers, including embezzlement and the use of bank funds in speculation for private gain.

A guaranty law cannot guarantee character.

LOGAN SQUARE BANK REOPENS ON WEDNESDAY

Some $400,000 Needed Is Oversubscribed.

Announcement that the Logan Square Trust and Savings bank will be reopened on next Wednesday was made yesterday. Signs to that effect were placed in the windows of the bank at 2569 Milwaukee avenue last night.

Norman New, chairman of the reorganization committee, confirmed the news of the reopening, but said the committee was not yet ready to announce the personnel of the new officers. Their names will be made public on Monday afternoon. At the time of the closing of the bank by the state auditor on March 10, following the suicide of Fred W. Popp, the bank's president, the plan of reorganization called for a stock subscription of 20 per cent of the money on deposit. Unofficially, it was stated yesterday that the amount required, approximately $400,000, had been oversubscribed.

What Money Goes For.

For each $200 subscribed, the depositor was to get a share of stock, par value $100. The capital stock account was to receive $75 and $25 was to go to the surplus fund. Added to this later was the sum of $120,000 in insurance derived from Popp's death, contributed by his family.

This, it was said, assured double strength to the new bank, the first of its kind in Illinois, a community bank, where all the depositors are likewise stockholders. The depositors are to have six of thirteen directors under the arrangement said to have been ratified.

Harmony Is Reported.

Promises were made to the subscribers that every official must have the approval of the state bank examiner before being perimtted to act. Entire harmony and coöperation is said to prevail between the depositors and the bankers who worked out the plan to save the bank.

The committee seeking to reëstablish the Sixteenth Street State bank reported progress yesterday. Their plan of reorganization is practically the same.

The Illini club dance will be held at the Cooper Carleton hotel March 31 and not April 1 as printed in a recent issue of THE TRIBUNE.

An announcement of three one-act plays to be presented under the direction of Alfred E. Henderson said they would be presented by employés of the Curtis Candy company. Mr. Henderson said the candy workers were not doing the acting, but college men and girls. His first name is Alfred.

THE TRIBUNE in Friday's issue, under the caption, "What's Doing Today," stated that Senator Medill McCormick would address the Optimist club that noon. The announcement was erroneous. Senator McCormick will address the club at luncheon Tuesday.

THREATS MADE IN SMALL JURY "FIXING" INQUIRY

Call Witnesses for Quiz by Jurors Tomorrow.

Lake county's grand jury tomorrow will begin its investigation of charges that the jury which tried Gov. Len Small on charges of misuse of state funds was "fixed." Yesterday Col. A. V. Smith, state's attorney, paved the way for an exhaustive quiz when he had subpoenas issued for thirty witnesses. It is predicted that the jury will remain in session for three days.

According to reports from Springfield, among the witnesses called were Leslie Small, the governor's son; A. E. English, his son-in-law, and Attorney Werner W. Schroeder, one of his Chicago attorneys.

No official statements regarding the nature of the investigation, its scope, or what is expected to be its result have been issued by officers in charge. Rumors, however, are rife that two men, neither of them prominently identified in Lake county, will be indicted. True bills, if they are voted, will be returned on Thursday.

Threats of Violence.

While subpoenas were being served yesterday threats of violence were being made in Antioch against William Riley, an ex-saloon keeper there.

Riley, according to the report which stirred the ire of Antioch citizens, has told investigators that he handled a fund to buy up veniremen prior to the selection of the jury which acquitted Gov. Small. He is also reported to have said that he gave John B. Field of Antioch and one of the Small trial jurors $330 to vote acquittal. Field recently was appointed a deputy state game warden. He is a baseball player and popular among his townspeople.

Denies Getting Money.

When he heard of Riley's reported charge Field issued a vigorous denial. "I did not receive a penny, except the usual juryman's fees," he said. His friends waxed indignant that his character should have been reflected upon. Their talk yesterday indicated that it would be dangerous for Riley to return to Antioch.

Judge Claire C. Edwards yesterday prepared the charge which he will present to the grand jury when it convenes. Lake State's Attorney Smith, he refused to comment upon the investigation.

CHICAGO READY TO BATTLE FOR DRAINAGE CANAL

Chicago, as represented by sanitary district officials, is prepared to wage a last ditch fight with any forces seeking to impair the health assurance afforded the city by the drainage canal.

While still appealing for "common sense coöperation among the states of the great lakes region" as the only alternative to interminable litigation, a statement issued from the offices of the sanitary district late yesterday, with the approval of President W. J. Healy, served notice of this determined stand upon the "states of Wisconsin and Michigan and any others joining them" in the effort to prevent further diversion of Lake Michigan water through the drainage canal.

The statement was prepared by George M. Wisner, consulting engineer of the sanitary district; Edward J. Kelly, chief engineer, and Langdon Pearce, sanitary engineer. It refers to the conferences held here last Monday and Tuesday of the attorneys general of Wisconsin, Michigan, and Minnesota, and the assistant attorney general of Indiana—met to consider Wisconsin's charge that the sanitary district's activities had lowered the lake level six inches, to the detriment of navigation. The Wisconsin and Michigan attorneys general have declared for a "finish fight."

'KID' WILE'S WIFE MISSES $10,000 GEMS DURING FIRE

Thief May Have Started Blaze as Blind.

Simultaneously with a small fire last Wednesday noon in the basement of an apartment building at 1262 Columbia avenue, which, because of volumes of smoke, routed all the tenants, jewels totaling $10,500 in value were discovered to be missing from the apartment of Mrs. Emma J. Wile, one of the tenants, according to her report to Rogers Park police yesterday. Mrs. Wile is the wife of Joseph Wile, alleged confidence game wizard, recently released from Joliet penitentiary and widely known as the "Yellow Kid."

Investigation was started by Capt. Patrick Gallery. He called into counsel Assistant Fire Marshal Jacob Stahl and Thomas Kenney, chief of the Twentieth battalion.

Misses Jewel Bag.

According to Mrs. Wile's story to Detective Sergeant Matthew Huff, the gems were in a small chamois bag and usually kept in a dresser drawer in one of the bedrooms. Included among the missing articles were a diamond ring set in platinum, valued at $3,500; a diamond studded platinum brooch, $4,500, and a pair of earrings, $2,500.

"When the smoke began pouring from the basement two of the firemen ran into my apartment through the rear door and warned me I'd better get out. It appeared for a moment as if the whole building were going," Mrs. Wile said.

"Before going I looked in every place I could think of, but couldn't find the little chamois bag. After the excitement had died down I again ransacked the house, but have never found a trace of the jewels."

After a cursory investigation officials also reached the conclusion that a theft had been committed. Several theories were advanced. One is that the thief gained entrance to the Wile apartment unnoticed and started the fire in the basement to divert attention while making good his escape.

Fire Damages Plant.

Fire originating in an electric converter in a substation of the Commonwealth Edison company at 19 East 21st street for a while threatened the structure and lighting of a large part of the south side. Firemen confined the flames to the machinery in which it started, where damage estimated at $50,000 was done.

SECOND FLIGHT OF GIRL BRINGS SHEIK'S ARREST

Stirred by the second disappearance within two weeks of Azalia Anderson, 15 year old high school girl, living at 150 North Laporte avenue, Capt. James Gleason of Fillmore police yesterday ordered the arrest of her self-styled "sheik," George Carbaugh, alias George Edmond, 20 years old, 5430 Indiana avenue.

After a two hours' grilling, in which he reluctantly admitted that he was directly responsible for the girl's first disappearance, and that she had telephoned him since leaving home Thursday, Carbaugh was booked on a charge of contributing to the girl's delinquency. Meanwhile an unsuccessful search for the whereabouts of Miss Anderson was vigorously prosecuted last night.

It was feared that, frightened because of parental discipline, she had done away with herself or fled the city.

$250,000 SUIT OF MRS. FOX IN HANDS OF JURY

Fuchs Called Author of Plot of Cruelty.

Whether the love of Carleton Fox may be measured in dollars and cents is the perplexing question before a jury in Judge Kickham Scanlan's court, which retired at noon yesterday to consider the $250,000 damage suit brought by Mrs. Gladys G. Fox, his estranged wife, against her father-in-law, Albert Fuchs Sr., millionaire Rogers Park realtor.

Shortly before noon the "beauty proof" jury, which swore to be swayed neither by the beauty of Mrs. Fox nor the nationality of Fuchs, was given the love diary of young Fox and ordered to return a verdict which will be read by Judge Scanlan on Monday morning. Late yesterday afternoon the jury was still debating.

Denounced by Lawyer.

Closing arguments weighted with bitter denunciation of the father-in-law, who pleaded that he had acted in the rôle of peacemaker rather, than home wrecker, were directed at the jury by Attorney Frederick Bangs, counsel for Mrs. Fox. Fuchs, through his attorney, Charles B. Reagh, disdained to answer the attack.

"Fuchs has attempted to hide behind two defenses all through this case," Attorney Bangs said. "First he insists with copious tears that he did not advise or demand the separation of his son from the girl who had proved a disappointment because she was not of German descent. Then he admits that he induced the separation, but claims justification because "'my head bursts with your fighting and my wife is made sick.'"

Charges Abuse Plot.

"This loving father, who sobbed on the witness stand that he wanted grandchildren to play about his knee, induced his son to abuse and choke the girl wife, hoping to force her to leave the companion of her school days. It was hoped that she would sue for divorce on the grounds of cruelty.

"Adam blamed Eve when they were banished from the garden, despite the fact that it was his fault. Carleton, under the guidance and threats of his father, now blames his wife for their separation. Looking for a safe refuge from which to direct his evil machinations, Fuchs brought up the subject of religion and Mrs. Fox's inclination to Christian Science. All of the evidence, including young Fox's diary, clearly indicates that Fuchs hated his daughter-in-law."

Court Holds Man Charged wtih Mistreating Girl

Charged with mistreating a 9 year old school girl, Peter Devenes, 39 years old, 1534 Fullerton avenue, a dishwasher, was held to the grand jury yesterday by Judge Henry M. Walker in bonds of $5,000. The girl said that while on her way to school she was accosted by Devenes at North Marshfield and Wrightwood avenues.

RED TRIAL A TEST TO SEE IF SOVIET WILL RULE U. S.

Both Sides Silently Accept Issue as Outlined.

at the communist international a keen understanding of the fundamentals of our situation in this country, a better understanding of the general fundamental principles of the American situation than we can boast of in this country. It was a peculiar thing to find men like Lenin or Reig telling the Americans that our industrial policy was wrong and when they said that I am convinced that they were profoundly right.

"We finally arrived at what is, in my judgment, a foundation for a policy of the trade union movement here. It was laid before the communist executive committee, and indorsed, and then it was indorsed by the members, and after a while we began to organize the trade union league. The program we started out with was simultaneously sent to groups in all parts of the country.

"We have succeeded in establishing branches of the league in practically all the important centers of the country. They are small, but we have reached the point of development where we do not measure the importance of a revolutionary organization by its size.

Little Chicago Unit Formed.

"In forming the league, we were under a great disadvantage because we could not come out and say that this was a communist organization. We had to start out a little Chicago organization unknown as the national organization until we could call a conference.

"We found that the trade union movement in this country is receptive to our program, for the reason that the bureaucracy is so tight, so reactionary, that there is absolutely not a semblance of progress anywhere on the industrial field except this league. Men whom you would think have nothing in common with an organization of this character go into our organization.

"I have had some of the highest officials in the trade union movement come up and tell me to go ahead with the work. Does it mean that they are communists? It means that the bureaucracy is so hard bucked and there is such a lack of progress that they are even as we are.

"We have carried the work into the cloth trades, mining trades, etc., but particularly we have been successful in the railroad trades. Sixteen organizations of the railroad quit and started out with laying stress on the situation that they were for the 'Amalgamate.'

Successful in West.

"We have trade union connections in the west who were instrumental in sending out a letter to local unions and the idea of industrial organization caught the convention like wildfire.

"At their convention Gompers came to Chicago for the specific purpose of preventing our league from having any effect on the convention, and denounced me and the league as being financed by Moscow. At the railroad department he sent his men to go through the same procedure, but we succeeded in stampeding hundreds of officials for our program. These are all officials.

"What can we do with the rank and file? We drafted a program of industrial unionism for the railroads and sent out 11,000 copies of it. The trade unions in St. Paul and Minneapolis gave us money. The new strike was coming along and we tried to be on the job to take advantage of it. The strike came and we used the advantage by pointing out to the workers that their leaders used their cause against the cause of some of the other workers.

"It has fallen to our league to point out this lesson. Their own officials do not dare to mention it, and the result has been that our propaganda has run like fire throughout the railroad men of this country.

"The wall is broken, and we have succeeded in getting a grip in these organizations and have them coming our way. Now we are confronted with the problem of organization. We have to crystallize this sentiment and give it expression. The workers of America are ready for new ideas.

"I think that in our national conference we should adopt a clear cut revolutionary program, calling for the recognition of Russia, for the dictatorship of the proletariat in Russia, calling for industrial organization—in other words, we should adopt a militant revolutionary program as the basis of our work.

"We do not have to be afraid of being too radical with the American unions. The Gompers machine is not built upon any conviction, and it has not been strengthened by struggle with the minority groups in their organization. These figures in this country have less machine than any other labor union movement in the world.

"Boring In" Policy Urged.

"Get a following among the union men and tell them your whole program, but use your intelligence and understand the maxim of the trade unions while you are doing it. Our movement is just in the course of development, and the consequence is that our pepole are not very skilled. They do not know much about the trade unions, and they have been in a minority so long that they have fallen into a psychology.

"They are against the government. They are against the administration. My conception of the communist movement is not a movement that is primarily a rank and file movement, but that it is a militant movement, and that does not mean that you will always be in agreement with the masses. When a critical situation comes along and you draw up a program of government, you must put this program through, no matter how they are against it."

What Happens to Masses.

"The Russian revolution at the present time is now a work of the militant communists. They are the backbone of the thing, and to a great extent the masses have been overawed or are disappointed in the struggle, that they are not a positive factor in the thing. And in Russia, if the communist party decided upon a program, it will put the program into effect even if it has to coerce the masses to go along with it.

"The ignorant mass does not rise to a height of revolutionary program. And we of this country have to learn this lesson. If we are going to go along with every whim and fancy of the rank and file we will not succeed in this country.

"The masses are mostly guided by emotion, but the communist movement must not be guided by emotion. It must be guided by intelligence and the working out of intelligence.

"Our movement in Chicago is working along freely in the ranks of the Chicago Federation of Labor. Four years ago in this organization they hated a red as much as in any other labor union in this country. We said that the leadership of the Chicago Federation of Labor was honest, even if not revolutionary, and we thought we could carry on an educational campaign there.

"The result was that we merely talked to that federation, and now we can get by with nearly anything in that federation. A delegate, L. Green, brought in a resolution in the Chicago Federation of Labor demanded that the federation protest against the execution of the ordinary revolutionists in Russia.

"The Chicago Federation of Labor voted down Green's resolution unanimously, and they did not send a telegram to Russia to that effect. And they did it simply because they understand and they see with the bolshevik government. This shows an advanced state of development in that organization.

Another Lesson Learned.

"We are learning another lesson, namely, to organize a left bloc in the trade unions. This means that we want our league to consist not merely of communists but of all the honest susceptible material that can be induced to go along. This means the we are trying to organize a group against this holy bureaucracy, to smash their power, and we have to advocate such a policy that we can really incorporate these people in the trade union league.

"The communist party is the inner organization and the league stands between it and the masses. We must control the league with our party elements and extract from the trade unions all the radical element and concentrate it in the league, which we will control with the communists.

"Don't think that because they are Americans they can't be communists. We should be workers in the trade union movement. I went to Russia and I believe I learned from it.

Too Much Talk in U. S.

"One thing I learned was the policy of the communists over there in being a worker on the job and not merely a talker. We have only a talking movement in the United States.

"Go into these unions. You would be a secretary, you would be a horse, dog, or anything else of the union, that is your job. When there is any one needed to be captain of the strike pickets you must be on the job to do it. After awhile they begin to get a liking for you. You have them in a receptive mood and you can educate.

"Finally they will like communist principles also. I would like to recommend that the party go on record as instructing definitely all its members to become members of trade unions. And they should become active in this league. This league is dynamite and you have to take care of it."

Rumors that an attempt had been made to tamper with the jury were set at rest today by Sheriff George C. Bridgeman. Two men had been seen following the jury and they were investigated. They were harmless.

When present leases expire the entire building will be used by the club, after it has been remodeled. It was purchased from the Chicago Title and Trust company, trustee, through Whiteside & Wentworth.

LAKES-GULF PLAN WILL GET COURT TEST THIS WEEK

Springfield, Ill., March 24.—[Special.]—Matters of nation-wide importance in connection with the great lakes to gulf waterway attach to proceedings in the La Salle county Circuit court at Ottawa Monday involving the validity of the Illinois waterway act.

The attack on the constitutionality of the law grew out of condemnation suits instituted by the state to obtain title to thirty-seven acres of land occupying the site of the proposed Starved Rock dam and lock.

Owners of the property which the state seeks to obtain have been offered $175 an acre for the land. They ask $300 per acre. The difference, something more than $5,000, has been made the basis of the suit which, it is said, may result in costly delays in progress toward completion of the project.

Bids for the Starved Rock dam contract are being held up by the department of public works pending the litigation. Officials indicated today that they will allow the bids to elapse and advertise for new ones rather than surrender in the Ottawa court next week.

SUGAR ADVANCE IS CALLED "PURE GRAFT" BY LADD

Washington, D. C., March 24.—[Special.]—The manipulation of the sugar market, which threatens to cost the American public hundreds of millions of dollars, will create an almost irresistible demand in the new congress for drastic legislation to curb speculation in foodstuffs, Senator Ladd [Rep., N. D.] Nonpartisan leaguer, stated in a statement today.

At the same time the suggestion came from Basil M. Manly, director of the people's legislative service, that the injunctive process be used in dealing with the speculators on the sugar market. By the use of the injunction, Mr. Manly said, it would be possible to deal promptly with the speculators, hitting at sales made purely for the purpose of increasing prices and not made for delivery.

Pure Graft, He Says.

Senator Ladd, in his statement declared that the people are far ahead of the old political parties, who "seem without courage to face the problems of the American masses."

Sugar at 7 cents a pound and above Senator Ladd characterized as "pure graft and worse." He asked for the prompt prosecution of those responsible for the present "robbery of the American people by a sugar corner."

"For every 1 cent rise in the price of sugar," said Senator Ladd, "the people of this country are being robbed at the rate of $96,000,000 annually. We are told that sugar may go to 20 cents per pound before June 1.

Billion Profit Yearly.

"Under those conditions the American housewives and their families are to be robbed at about the rate of $1,000,000,000 a year for the benefit of a bunch of speculators, gamblers, and grafters, some of whom are evidently not only in high society, but, if we believe the rumors, are holding responsible positions at the will of the people.

"There has been too much of this and the common people are losing confidence and old party lines are crumbling until, as shown in the last election, party labels no longer insure elections."

Klein Denies Any Blame.

Denial of the commerce department's responsibility for the rising price of sugar was issued today by Julius Klein, director of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. Klein branded Manly's statements as "false."

Referring to the statement issued by the department on Feb. 8, Klein said: "A press resumé mistakenly interpreted that statement to mean a shortage in sugar, which was frankly acknowledged by the press organization in a statement today, and when the incorrect press resumé came to Mr. Hoover's attention he immediately instituted a departmental investigation into the matter. At his instruction I cooperated with the press in correcting this mistake and in emphasizing the fact that the survey showed a surplus, not a shortage, and did not in its text use any such term.

"This misinterpretation did give speculators a temporary advantage and a rise of 1 cent a pound in raw sugar took place before the correction had been circulated. The price went back a cent upon the correction."

Terms to Meet Your Convenience

THIS IS A STUDEBAKER YEAR

The North American Restaurant smashed bill of fare prices by one common sense innovation

Compare these prices for highest quality food with those charged by other restaurants of the best class

Fried Oysters, 7 big New York Counts, fried to your order, with Tartar or Chili sauce or ketchup - - - - - - 40c

Halibut and Peas, a big portion - - - - - - 40c

Filet of Sole - - - 45c

Breast of Chicken, (All white meat) with bacon and cream gravy or giblet sauce - - - 65c

Sirloin Steak Combination, a thick juicy sirloin, with French fried potatoes and lima beans 85c

And for Breakfast

Honey Waffles, with 3 strips of bacon, (or Mickelberry's Old Farm Sausage), butter and pure maple sap or honey - - - - - 25c

Bacon and Eggs, 2 fresh eggs fried in butter and 4 strips of bacon - - 30c

Did you ever stop to consider the high prices you had to pay to get food of the highest quality before the North American Restaurant adopted the common sense [and economical] plan of asking you to serve yourself.

A steak for just one person always cost well over a dollar. A portion of chicken, no matter how small, ran around a dollar and a quarter. Even breakfast bacon and eggs cost from 65 cents and up—usually up. And on top of the high prices, custom forced you to "tip" the waiter. And the "tip" made the prices even higher than they looked on the "Bill of Fare."

Then the North American Restaurant abandoned the old and out-worn restaurant custom; asked you to serve yourself; and cut traditional "Bill of Fare" prices in two. Today—in spite of all predictions to the contrary, from hotel and restaurant men, who said that good food could not be separated from "service" and high prices—the North American Restaurant is the outstanding success among good dining places, and feeds nearly 2 million people a year.

The prices shown at the left prove the truth of the statement we have often made that a meal at the North American costs just about half what you must pay in any good hotel or restaurant where the food is carried to your table. And one meal here will prove to your entire satisfaction, that our food can't be beaten at any price.

The one restaurant where children are welcome!

BITHER'S OFFER TO CONFESS PUTS PALS IN A PANIC

Ready to Bare School Boodle, Is Report.

Rumors prevalent yesterday that William A. Bither, former school board attorney under sentence for conspiracy in one phase of the $1,000,000 school boodle case, had offered a confession to Attorney General Edward Brundage caused consternation in the ranks of the twenty-three men who will soon go on trial before Judge Charles A. McDonald.

Judge McDonald indicated on Friday that he would refuse to quash the indictments against Fred Lundin, Virgil Rohm, and others, who, it is alleged, conspired to loot school board funds. The ruling, to be entered tomorrow morning, will be followed by pleas of Attorney Clarence Darrow, Charles E. Erbstein, and Elwood Godsell, defense counsel, for an order to force the state to particularize the charges upon which they hope to convict the former city hall boss and his henchmen.

Cronies Spurn Bither.

Strength was added to reports of Bither's defection when it was noted that during the fight led by Attorney Darrow to quash the indictment the former board attorney was apparently ostracized by his co-defendants. Bither occupied a lonesome jury seat during the four days' hearing, ignored by the men whose counselor he had once been.

Immediately after the conviction and resultant sentence to two years in prison with a $2,000 fine Bither was reported to have made overtures to State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe. The details of the graft in connection with the purchase of the Forrestville and Wendell Phillips school sites was to have been bared, it was hinted. The information was never given.

Kauf May Aid State.

Henry W. Kauf, an agent for Bither, convicted and sentenced to nine month sin jail with a $1,000 fine, may appear as a state's witness. Kauf testified in the grand jury inquiry which resulted in the blanket indictment of Lundin and his fellows.

Vigorous attacks upon the motions for bills of particulars will be launched by Assistant Attorneys General Marvis Barnhart and Edwin Raber. Lundin and the others will contend that because of the absence of details in the indictment they will be helpless to offer a defense. On the other hand, the attorneys general will contend that to specify the exact nature of the evidence against the defendants will prevent possible conviction.

Separate trials for nearly every defendant named in the blanket indictment will be asked tomorrow, it was learned, a move which will be bitterly fought by the state.

TRAINS KILL 5,776, INJURE 47,203, IN ACCIDENTS OF 1922

Washington, D. C., March 24.—Railroad train operation during 1922 occasioned the accidental death of 5,776 persons, the interstate commerce commission reported today, and the injury of 47,203 others. In 1921 deaths from similar cause were 5,587, and injuries 43,324, while in 1920 the killed numbered 6,495 and the injured 63,786.

Nearly half of the persons killed last year, or 2,424, were trespassers, while 1,236 were trainmen or other employes. Passengers killed during the year numbered 193, against 205 the previous year, while the number of passengers injured was 5,813, compared with 5,564 the year before.

BIGGEST SHIFT IN YEARS FORECAST FOR NAVY CHIEFS

Coontz Expected to Get Highest Office at Sea.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Aboard U. S. S. Henderson, March 12.—[By mail.]—The biggest shifting of commanding officers in years, involving practically all of the high ranking officers of the navy, is to be made in the next few months, it was learned today.

Admiral Coontz, chief of operations since the signing of the armistice, is to go to sea, probably as commander-in-chief of the United States fleet, succeeding Admiral H. P. Jones, who will complete his sea duty in June or July.

The successor to Admiral Coontz as chief of operations, the highest office in the naval establishment, has not been definitely selected, but is likely to be Admiral E. W. Eberle, commander-in-chief of the battle fleet.

It is regarded a foregone conclusion that Admiral Coontz will be given the highest command at sea, that of the United States fleet, comprising practically all the navy except the units overseas.

Leigh as Rear Admiral.

Rear Admiral Thomas Washington will complete his four year term as chief of the bureau of navigation Aug. 5, next. He has been ill, and it is possible that he will go on sick leave in June or July. It is generally expected that Capt. Richard H. Leigh, the assistant chief of the bureau, will succeed Admiral Washington. If promoted, he will be given the grade of rear admiral.

Who will succeed Admiral Eberle in his present position as commander-in-chief of the battle fleet has not been determined. Among those likely to be chosen are Rear Admirals Samuel S. Robinson, R. H. Jackson and Philip Andrews. Admiral Robinson is now on the general board. Previously he was the military governor of Santo Domingo. Admiral Jackson commands a battleship division in the battle fleet. Admiral Andrews is commandant of the Norfolk navy yard.

Target of Criticisms.

Vice Admiral John D. McDonald will terminate his services as commander of the scouting fleet. While in charge of the scouting fleet he has been subjected to severe criticism. His critics have declared that the ships under his command stood at the bottom in gunnery engineering and general efficiency, and that he seriously impaired the spirit in the destroyer force.

The other vice admiral who will be given a new assignment is William R. Shoemaker, second in command of the battle fleet. He has had a good record in the Pacific and probably will be made commandant of a naval district on the west coast. His possible successors as vice admiral of the battle fleet include one of the two officers who fail to receive the assignment as commander-in-chief of the battle fleet or Rear Admirals William V. Pratt of the General board; Thomas P. Magruder, now commandant of the New Orleans naval district; or S. E. W. Kittalls, now in command of a destroyer squadron in the Atlantic.

Will Go to Shore Duty.

No less than six rear admirals on sea duty will be relieved and given shore duty. They are G. H. Burrage, commander of the destroyer squadrons in the Pacific; C. F. Hughes, commander of a battleship division in the Pacific fleet; A. H. Scales, commanding a battleship division in the Atlantic fleet; Benjamin F. Hutchinson, chief of staff to Admiral Eberle; L. R. de Steiguer, commander of the train of the Atlantic fleet; and J. V. Chase, in command of the base force of the Pacific fleet.

It is possible that Rear Admiral Henry B. Wilson will be relieved during the summer as superintendent of the naval academy. Rear Admiral Albert B. Niblack, commandant of the navy yard at Charleston, S. C., will be retired in July. Admiral Edwin A. Anderson will continue as commander-in-chief of the Asiatic fleet, as will Vice Admiral Andrew T. Long as commander of the American forces in Europe.

5-5-3 BASIS MENACED

Washington, D. C., March 24.—The 5-5-3 naval ratio, the foundation stone of all the naval agreements growing out of the Washington arms conference, will be utterly destroyed unless the United States carries out its program to modernize the American treaty fleet, in the opinion of expert naval officers.

On a computation in which all the known factors of naval power were considered some officers are inclined to rate the treaty navies of Great Britain, the United States, and Japan, respectively, on a 6-8-4 basis, with the United States placed in the position of being compelled to modernize her capital ships if she is to restore the comparative standing which she subscribed.

Takes Chance Brodie Took; Lives to Tell About It

New York, March 24.—A. A. Brunner, a Brooklyn contractor, today plunged 135 feet from Brooklyn bridge to the East river and escaped with no injury worse than an icy wetting. He told three men who fished him out with a piece of wire that "he wasn't hurt to amount to anything," and physicians at Gouverneur hospital, where he was taken for treatment for shock, corroborated his statement. The police declared that Brunner was trying to emulate Steve Brodie, who originated the idea of jumping off the bridge.

Undertakers Who Make Tax Dodgers Look Like Saints

It may well make you indignant to learn that while you, as an honest citizen, are paying your income taxes regularly, one of your more prosperous neighbors is evading his; to know that thousands of persons with incomes enabling them to own automobiles somehow escape the tax collector.

But the tax dodger appears as a worthy and honorable citizen when compared with that despicable wretch, the profiteering undertaker who preys upon those who can least afford to be robbed.

During and since the war there has been much protest against government interference in business. Even though the recent action of the National Assembly of France in putting a strong curb upon bandit undertakers may be termed paternalistic, it has been widely praised by the people. So vicious had the French undertakers become in their overcharging for burial caskets and funeral supplies that a law was enacted by which funerals are standardized into only four classes and funeral directors are not permitted to furnish any other kind. The bereaved family selects either a Class A, Class B, Class C, or Class D funeral and pays the price fixed for it by the government. As a result the people have saved millions of dollars formerly stolen from them in excess profits.

We predict that unless many Chicago undertakers take warning and desist from their game of graft, some way will be found by our own government to control them and to protect the public. Prices of $400.00 for caskets that should sell for $225.00 and $75.00 for others worth only $30.00 represent extortion that the public will not tolerate when the truth becomes generally known.

But why wait for the government to act? Strike a blow at them yourself. Remember, there is little you can do for a friend AFTER he is caught in the toils of a crooked undertaker, but you can warn him in advance.

"A friend in need is a friend indeed" and the more sincere your sympathy for a friend in his hour of grief the greater should be your desire to help him. To offer at such a time a word of advice that will save him money—whether only $40.00 or $400.00 on the cost of a burial casket—is not to be thought of as an intrusion but as a duty, the performance of which cannot fail to win gratitude and appreciation.

The Skeeles-Biddle Company makes it possible for you to render just that service to any friend in need. He has only to investigate to prove that any casket in our large stock is priced from 40 to 60 per cent less than it is sold for by other undertakers. As for our facilities for taking care of funerals, they are equaled only by those of the highest priced undertakers in the country. In addition to two beautiful free chapels we provide, when desired, without any charge, the services of a lady attendant as well as vocal and instrumental musicians for the chapel services.

No charge is made for removals to either of our two splendid establishments. We use Pierce-Arrow cars exclusively and have special facilities for shipping funerals to any destination.

JUDGE WILL SIFT BEATING CHARGES AGAINST POLICE

Bruised Youths Accused of Robbing Children.

Investigation of beatings alleged to have been administered to three prisoners, arrested by the Stockyards police for robbing an old man and striking his two children, was ordered yesterday by Municipal Judge Charles F. McKinley after the youths bared their backs to display bruises which they said had been inflicted.

JUDGE McKINLEY. [Gibson Photo.]

The three, whose charges caused Judge McKinley to order the accused policemen to appear before him tomorrow, are: Bernard Scully, 22, 53 West 43rd street, Emmett, Neary, 24, 4855 Union avenue, and John Sim, 18, 516 West 41st street.

What Youths Charge.

According to the statement made by Scully to Attorney Jacob M. Arvey, conducting Judge McKinley's investigation, he and his companions were arrested on Wednesday and lodged in cells in the Stockyards station. Immediately after, he alleges, motorcycle policemen entered their cells and without provocation proceeded to beat them. They were also beaten later, they asserted.

The three were arrested when found stealing a tire from an automobile belonging to Louis Kruger, 2122 West 63th street. In the police station they were identified by Joe Sprolacki, 4050 Normal avenue, as the three who had entered his home, attacked him, beaten his children, one 2 years, the other 5 years old, and stolen $50, a watch, and two rings from him, and had robbed the children's bank of $3.

All Have Police Records.

Scully, according to the police records, has been arrested fifteen times for larceny, burglary, robbery, and disorderly conduct, and is now under indictment for robbery. Neary has been arrested eight times, once for assault to kill. Sim has been arrested four times, once on a murder charge.

Capt. Martin Mullen, called to view the condition of the prisoners, declared he believed the bruises self inflicted or inflicted by each other while in cells.

STAGE TWO HOLDUPS

Proprietors, employés and customers of Kunin & Sons grocery, 1333 Fulton street, were robbed of $2,000 yesterday noon by three young men who an hour later, at the soft drink parlor of Charles Sorenson, 929 South Cicero avenue, obtained $1,000 that was to be used in cashing pay checks for employés of the B. & O. railroad.

Another daylight robbery took place in Bankes' Coffee store, 1373 Milwaukee avenue, at 8:30 a. m. Miss Helen Lettner, 1223 North Wood street, was forced to turn over the contents of the cash register, $50, to the wielder of a revolver. B. K. Creighton, a plumbing contractor at 1951 Milwaukee avenue, reported to the police the loss of $800 due to burglars, who took with them the money Creighton had on hand to meet yesterday's pay roll.

Capt. James L. Mooney of the Sheffield station had a different kind of report to make to the chief. His men had arrested Fred Gray, 2120 North Clark street, suspected of having committed more than twenty burglaries in the north side district. Miss Helen West, 24, found in the address given by Gray, was also arrested.

JUDGE ORDERS VICE COPS TO QUIT PICKETING HOTEL

Accuses Reformers of "Passing Buck."

Vice exists in Chicago because the investigating reform organizations "pass the buck" of prosecution to the police department rather than use the legal means of stamping it out themselves, declared Judge Denis E. Sullivan yesterday when he ordered police pickets from the premises of the Normandie hotel at 500 North Clark street.

JUDGE DENIS E. SULLIVAN. [Kochas Photo.]

An injunction restraining police from interfering with the conduct of the hotel will be issued tomorrow, the judge indicated, unless the pickets are withdrawn immediately.

Scores Reform Organizations.

"A man's home is his castle," declared Judge Sullivan, "and the police have no power to confiscate property. A policeman's club is not 'due process of law.' There is but one legal course to pursue. If open violation exists it is not only the privilege but the absolute duty of the person or persons having direct knowledge to appear before a Municipal judge and obtain warrants against the offenders.

"If it is true as reported, and as it has come before me in my judicial capacity, that public organizations have collected masses of evidence against house of ill fame through the city, it is a flagrant neglect of the plain duty of a citizen for these organizations not to proceed in this manner.

Police Steps Held Illegal.

"It is illegal for police to swear to warrants without having direct knowledge of the crime committed. It is the duty of every citizen who has direct evidence of a criminal offense to bring the violators before the bar of justice. The courts will visit upon them a just lawful punishment.

"But a court cannot become a party to unlawful confiscation of property, which, in fact, is the effect of stationing police on a premises."

Judge Sullivan declared that an investigation for the Illinois Vigilance association appeared before him recently, asserting that he had absolute evidence of commercialized vice, but did not swear out a warrant for the arrest of the immoral persons because he did not have funds to prosecute.

State's Duty to Act.

"The courts of this city, county, and state do not function for a price," said Judge Sullivan. "It costs nothing to obtain a warrant and trials are conducted at the state's expense. It is not the duty of nor is it lawfully possible for the police to usurp the functions of a judge and jury."

CZECHO-SLOVAK DEBT MISSION TO VISIT U. S. SOON

PRAGUE, March 24.—The Czecho-Slovak debt mission to the United States will probably leave for Washington about the middle of April. It hopes to determine the exact amount owed America. The total stands nominally at $103,000,000, against which Czecho-Slovakia claims about $3,000,000 credits. This year's budget provides for a first small payment.

Fixes Debt at $106,292,129.

Washington, D. C., March 24.—The total indebtedness of the Czecho-Slovak government to the United States is given in treasury records as $106,292,129, which includes principal and interest to Nov. 15, of last year.

SLAYER OF WIFE REFUSES TO GIVE UP HIS CHILDREN

Balks at Adoption on Eve of Prison Term.

Refusal of a father, sentenced to the penitentiary for the murder of his wife, to relinquish "title" to his two small children for the time he is in prison yesterday brought up a legal problem that will be placed before County Judge Edmund Jarecki for settlement tomorrow morning.

The father, John Pleskewicz, entered a plea of guilty before Judge M. L. McKinley last Thursday to the charge of killing his wife, Magdalene, at 4215 South Hermitage avenue, several months ago. The state waived the murder charge and allowed the plea to stand as to manslaughter.

Left Without Care.

Judge McKinley sentenced Pleskewicz to Joliet for from one year to life. As the defendant was being taken from the courtroom it was brought to the court's attention that some arrangements should be made for the caring of the man's two small boys, Bruno, 9 years old, and Frank, 7.

The two boys were brought into court by Policeman Joseph Stackowski and his wife, who have been caring for them since the murder. Stackowski saw the two children sitting alone in the police station after the father had been sent to the county jail and, having no children of his own, took them home with him.

"We have become attached to the children," Mrs. Stackowski said, "and would like to take them into our lives for good."

Refuses to Give Them Up.

Judge McKinley asked the prisoner what he thought of the plan of Mrs. Stackowski adopting the children until after he had served his term in Joliet. Pleskewicz stated that he appreciated what they had done for them during the past, but felt that he could not give them up for good. The court then told the man to think over the matter for a day or so and return yesterday morning.

When he was brought back, Pleskewicz announced his refusal of parting with his children. Mrs. Stackowski stated that she wanted them for good or not at all.

So now the issue goes before Judge Jarecki, who has the power to place the children into the custody of the Stackowskis for all time or until such time as the father will be able to take them back.

LONDON MEETING BRINGS HOPE OF NEAR EAST PEACE

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 24.—[By the Associated Press.]—Official news from London, says the newspaper Aksham, augers peace in the near east. The paper attaches much importance to the presence at the near east preliminary conferences in London of Lieut. Gen. Sir Charles Harington, commander in chief of the allied forces in the Contantinople area.

In a speech at Adana today Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the nationalists' leader, declared: "If I take the nation again into war it must be with a clear conscience. If the life of the nation is not endangered war would be a crime."

DUBLIN SENTRY SLAYS BOMBER OF MOVIE HOUSE

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

DUBLIN, March 24.—A land mine which was exploded at about midnight last night blew out the front of the Carlton moving picture theater in Sackville street. Immediately after a sentry before the Marlborough street school, a few hundred yards away, challenged two men who were running.

One drew his revolver and fired. The sentry returned the fire and wounded one of the men, who subsequently died in a hospital.

The owner of this house thought of comfort before he built. He insulated the side walls and roof with FLAXLINUM. More and more builders are insulating their homes with FLAXLINUM.

Don't Overlook Comfort In Planning Your Home

What Flaxlinum Is

FLAXLINUM is a felted material made of durable, chemically-purified flax fibre. When built into the walls and roof of a house it seals the interior against outside temperature changes.

For walls it is made ½-inch thick with flanged edges to permit it to fit snugly between the studding. For roofs, sheets 1 inch in thickness are recommended. In applying FLAXLINUM no special construction is necessary. It will last as long as any house built. It will not crack, break or "sift down."

One-half inch of FLAXLINUM is equivalent in heat and cold resistance to 2½ inches of wood, eight inches of brick and mortar, or 13 inches of concrete.

NO matter how beautiful your new home may be, it will prove a bitter disappointment if it is not comfortable. Comfort can easily be built into a house. But hard to get after a house is built.

There is one sure way to have your new home a real joy in all seasons of the year—cozy with a January blizzard raging, cool under the blazing July sun. Insulate the side walls and roof with FLAXLINUM.

FLAXLINUM stops the free passage of heat and cold. In winter it keeps out the cold and holds in the heat. In summer, just the reverse.

For twelve years, FLAXLINUM has been used throughout the Northwest. Hundreds of homeowners who have used it, tell us that zero temperatures never worry them, and that FLAXLINUM cuts their coal bills from 30 to 40 per cent.

FLAXLINUM is, at one time, an assurance of comfort and a big coal saver. It pays for itself in a few winters. Come in and get the facts about FLAXLINUM or send for booklet, showing sample and giving complete information.

HUGHES' NOTICE MADE TO ADVISE REDS AND BORAH

Statement Given to Show Facts.

Washington, D. C., March 24.—[Special.]—The recent emphatic statement by Secretary of State Hughes concerning the shortcomings of the Russian soviet was calculated to have a three-fold effect, it was learned in an authoritative quarter today. Addressed ostensibly to a delegation from a woman's organization which is seeking recognition of the Moscow government, it was intended as an answer to all the critics of the administration's critics. Incidentally, it was intended as an answer to Senator Borah, who, is agitating recognition of Russia and Mexico. The statement was intended also for foreign consumption, officials state. Suggestions that the United States should recognize the Lenin government, it is stated, have come mostly from radical organizations, groups of men animated by a humanitarian sympathy, and from a small group of American business men, who are influenced by rosy accounts of business opportunities in Russia.

The Effect on Russia.

The second point to be taken into consideration in connection with Mr. Hughes' statement, is its effect in Russia. Officials here have no delusions as to the degree of control exercised by the soviet authorities over the people of Russia.

Officials here are convinced the declaration will never be read by the mass of Russian people. If it could be brought before them, it is believed the effect would be tremendous. It is certain that the statement will come to the attention of the soviet leaders, and it is upon these officials that an effect is expected to be produced.

MOSCOW [illegible]TS STORY.

MOSCOW, March 24.—[By the Associated Press.]—The statement made by the American secretary of state, Charles E. Hughes, that recognition of the Russian soviet government would not become a fact until that government abandoned its present policies, is printed by the Moscow newspapers today without comment.

Unofficially it is learned that the Russian government cherishes no expectation of immediate recognition by the United States.

LEWIS W. BALDWIN TO BECOME NEW CHIEF OF MISSOURI PACIFIC

LEWIS W. BALDWIN

Lewis W. Baldwin, vice president in charge of operation of the Illinois Central railroad, is to be elected president of the Missouri Pacific railroad at a directors' meeting in St. Louis tomorrow, according to information from unquestioned sources last night. Mr. Baldwin will succeed Benjamin F. Bush, who is retiring, it is said, because of ill health.

No official verification of the report could be obtained. C. H. Markham, president of the Illinois Central, was said to be enroute from New York. Mr. Baldwin was neither at his office nor his home at 5241 Hyde Park boulevard. It was said he was in New Orleans.

Mr. Baldwin began his railway career as an engineer of the Illinois Central in 1896. Mr. Bush, who is 63, began as a rodman for the Northern Pacific in 1882. A. E. Clift, 5302 Cornell avenue, general manager of the Illinois Central, will most likely be the successor of Mr. Baldwin, it was reported.

CZECH RAILROADS LOSING DESPITE SKY HIGH FARES

State Operation Fails to Prove Successful.

BY RAYMOND FENDRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PRAGUE, March 24.—With the passenger tariff at 5 cents a mile and the freight rate proportionate, the state railways of Czecho-Slovakia are not a financial success.

The 1922 budget shows a profit of 300,000,000 Czech crowns (about $9,000,000) on railway operations, and the 1923 budget estimates a profit of 700,000,000 crowns ($21,000,000). This showing has been made possible by placing some heavy expenses under capital charges rather than current costs. Experienced foreign observers estimate that the state railways are actually being operated at a deficit of more than 1,000,000,000 crowns ($30,000,000) annually, in spite of the exorbitant tariffs.

One reason for the high cost of operation is the fact that there are 176,000 employes for the 7,000-odd miles of state railways. About 1,000 miles of railway are privately operated.

No excuse for this number of employes is found in the density of population. In an area of 54,877 square miles in the new republic there are barely 14,000,000 persons. Czecho-Slovakia is the seventh country in Europe in respect to density.

Benes Explains Situation.

"The state operation of railways in Czecho-Slovakia is a necessity because of national policy and the government's social policy," asserted former Premier Edward Benes to THE TRIBUNE.

"We are trying to organize them as a private business, however, and we demand that they be managed on business principles. They must make a profit, they must contribute to the industrial and economic life of the country, and they must gradually push rates down, in order to push business up.

"If private owners controlled the railways, they would abandon their lines in parts of the country where they could not operate profitably."

Pensions Require Millions.

Dr. Benes, who is now foreign minister, might have added that one reason the government controls the railways is because at the breakup of the Austro-Hungarian empire and the creation of the Czech republic there was no private capital to take them over. The government had no other choice.

The government's social policy is an elaborate scheme for old age pensions and sick benefits, which costs the railway ministry and other interested ministries large amounts annually.

Out of 11,700,000,000 crowns ($354,000,000), which will be collected in direct taxes in 1923, 22 per cent will be spent on social welfare work. The total estimated revenue of the government will be 18,812,000,000 crowns ($570,000,000) and the expenses 19,377,000,000 crowns ($587,000,000). There is a ministry of public welfare to supervise the spending of money on social welfare.

The state ministry of railways, which includes a large staff, has had four years in which to organize the transportation system of the country. A freight tax is now producing about 300,000,000 crowns ($9,000,000) annually, and this is not included in the railway receipts.

TREATY REJECTED

BERNE, Switzerland, March 24.—The Swiss federal council has drafted a note reiterating its refusal to ratify the Franco-Swiss treaty settling the problem of the "free zone" along the border. The French parliament approved the treaty but it was rejected by a Swiss plebiscite. The French sent a note insisting that the Swiss government ratify the treaty, regardless of the result of the plebiscite.

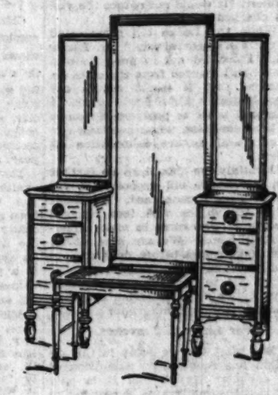
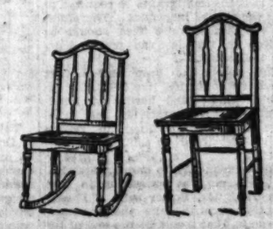
HERE'S good news for six homes. Maybe yours is one of the six. Or if you have in mind a home to follow a spring wedding, that qualifies, too.



You see the bedroom suite we describe here. We have six of them; just about the last sale merchandise left here. It's beautiful furniture; worth seeing; new goods, bought for this sale. It just hasn't found, among the many who have bought here, the particular persons who would want it. Not a thing wrong with any one of the six suites—they just haven't sold.

To make sure of selling them, we've put a price on them that will sell them. We need the space—new goods coming in. The price will do it. It makes a remarkable bargain for those six homes.



As you know, if you know Scholle sales, we avoid the "clearance" idea. Our sales are never "clearances" of old stock. But in one sense we're having a "clearance" on these six suites. They've got to go.

If you're not familiar with Scholle sales, here's a good opportunity to get acquainted with them; and with Scholle quality and values; and with our satisfaction guarantee. They're all worth knowing.

DATA PREPARED FOR CONGRESS TO END VISE EVILS

Passport Retaliations to Be Target of Legislation

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., March 24.—[Special.]—Proposed legislation to induce other countries to reduce or abolish the passport visé fees they charge American travelers abroad will be one of the first matters to receive the attention of the house committee on foreign affairs when the sixty-eighth congress meets.

In preparation for the hearings, Representative Porter [Rep., Pa.], chairman of the committee, has asked the state department to assemble all the information available on the passport visé fees of all nations for the last ten years and the revenue therefrom.

Mr. Porter says he suggested to the department several months ago the plan eventually embodied in the Lodge bill, passed by the senate at the last session, but not by the house.

What Lodge Bill Provides.

Under the terms of this bill the United States would reduce to not less than $2 the passport fees charged travelers from countries agreeing to a reciprocal reduction for American travelers. It would not reduce the visé fees charged immigrants.

"While the Lodge bill represented my views in a general way," Mr. Porter said, "I decided not to push its passage when I learned from the state department that it would reduce our revenue nearly $1,000,000 a year. I thought it wiser to postpone action to the next congress, when hearings can be held and mature deliberation afforded.

"Certainly we should go no farther than the Lodge bill proposes, so far as exemption is concerned. We ought not to abolish the visé fees charged immigrants who come to make America their home. We are now sifting these immigrants before departure to a degree never attempted before, though not to the extent that would obtain if we could establish examination of intending immigrants abroad.

For Limit to Travelers.

"But what we are doing in this direction has required an expansion of the consular service and it is only just that the immigrants be required to bear the cost of inspection. Therefore the reduction of visé fees should be limited to travelers as provided by the Lodge bill."

The point has been raised that European countries, like Italy, for example, which send hordes of immigrants but comparatively few travelers, may be unwilling to reduce the visé fees charged the multitude of American travelers unless we agree to apply the reduction to immigrants also.

"There may be something in that objection," Mr. Porter said. "If any country were to take that position, of course, that would be the end of the matter under the terms of the Lodge bill which contemplates reciprocal reduction applying to travelers and not to immigrants."

There is a possibility that Mr. Porter will advocate the reciprocal abrogation of visé requirements altogether instead of merely the reciprocal reduction of visé fees to not less than $2.

BUNDESEN PLANS $1 A YEAR STAFF AS HEALTH AIDS

Chicago is to have some $1 a year employés. Yesterday Health Commissioner Herman N. Bundesen made public a list of seventy-five names, including some of the most prominent physicians, social and civic workers in the city, who have consented to serve as consultants and advisers to the health commissioner for that amount each year.

The move really is one to give recognition to the public spirited men and women who, for years, have been giving their time to the city. Recently Dr. Bundesen appeared before the finance committee and asked for an appropriation to pay these citizens $1 a year, and in this way get their names on the pay roll and in the budget as city employés.

Among the $1 a year employes are:

Julius Rosenwald,	Dr. Alex. A. Goldsmith,
D. F. Kelly,	Dr. H. N. MacEachnie,
Miss Harriet Vittum,	Dr. Wm. Allen Pusey,
Dr. Isaac Abt,	Dr. David Jones Davis,
Dr. Frank Billings,	Dr. Edwin C. Jordan,
Dr. Willis O. Nance,	Dr. A. R. Reynolds,
Dr. F. Robert Zeit,	Dr. Chas. H. Hunniston,
Dr. Ludvig Hektoen,	Dr. Charles S. Bacon,
Dr. Louis E. Schmidt,	Dr. Martin M. Ritter,
Dr. James P. Simonds,	Dr. David B. Hills,
Dr. Charles Whalen,	Rev. Johnston Meyers,
Dr. Archibald Church,	Dr. Robert A. Black,
Dr. Julius H. Hess,	Dr. Joseph L. Miller,
Mrs. Ira Couch Wood,	Dr. Charles J. Whalen,
Rev. M. P. Boynton,

This staff of seventy-five, according to Dr. Bundesen, will be consulted on all questions of policy which come up before the health department. Their commission provides that they may resign at any time, and, being city officials, may complain to the city council if they are dissatisfied with the operation of the health department.

FLOOD DANGER ENDS; MISSOURI CUTS ICE GORGE

Sioux City, Ia., March 24.—All flood danger is past unless severe storms or rains come soon, according to a statement made tonight by R. J. Anderson, chairman of the board of supervisors of Woodbury county; A. B. Erickson of the board, and J. C. McLean, county engineer, who spent all day Saturday in the danger zone on both sides of the Missouri river investigating the situation.

Their statement declared that a drop of two feet in water stage, at the lower point of the gorge on the Iowa side, about three miles south of Sergeant Bluffs, Ia., had occurred from Friday night to Saturday night. A recession of seven inches was noted at Dakota City, Neb., they said, the fall having occurred since this morning.

An open channel 150 to 175 feet wide has been opened on the Iowa side, and the water is flowing off freely, relieving the situation. The ice is melting rapidly.

"Under weather conditions, such as are prevailing now," Mr. McLean said, "the flood waters will take care of themselves without inflicting any further damage."

Members of the delegation from the board of supervisors who viewed the gorge, in company of the two engineers, declared that they did not order Sheriff Paul T. Beardsley to wire war department officials requesting assistance of a bombing fleet of airplanes to destroy the ice jam, as was reported.

Rules Landlord Can't "Sic" Drys on Tenants

Boston, March 24.—A landlord has no legal right to authorize a federal prohibition agent to search property occupied by tenants, United States Commissioner Hayes ruled today when he discharged two defendants accused of illegal possession of alcohol. The commissioner censured the agent who made the arrests.

MINERS TO KEEP ANNIVERSARY OF 8 HOUR VICTORY

Marks Great Change in Working Conditions.

Celebrations in every mining town in Illinois will be held Monday, April 2, by the United Mine Workers of America to commemorate establishment of the eight hour day for the mine workers of the state, John H. Walker, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor, announced last night.

"The eight hour day was established for the miners of Illinois on April 1, 1898, through a joint agreement between the mine workers and coal operators of the state," said Mr. Walker. "This year the celebrations will be held on April 2, because the first of the month falls on Sunday. All mines will be closed, and the workers will devote the day to staging festivals.

Big Change Brought About.

"The present agreement between the miners and coal operators was effected as the result of the strike which took place on the first of April, 1897, and lasted nine months. Prior to the strike the miners' wages were low, hours of labor long, and working conditions in the mines were dangerous and unhealthful.

"Coal miners generally lived in company owned houses until the strike. They were of the poorest type. The miners were compelled to trade at company owned stores.

"The goods sold by the company stores were of an inferior quality—in some instances decayed and sterilized. Men were not permitted to act independently, either in religious or political matters. The miners were subjected to the will of the mine owners, and had to comply with the owners' wishes or be discharged.

Gains Exceeded Hopes.

"But now conditions have changed. The joint agreement between the miners and owners has improved conditions of the workers even beyond the expectations of the men who worked in the coal mines of Illinois prior to the strike of 1897.

"Since 1898, to and including 1921, 5,113 Illinois coal miners have been killed in mines and 23,515 have been injured."

'OWN YOUR HOME' EXHIBIT OPENS ON PAYNE BIRTHDAY

To the strains of "Home, Sweet Home," sung by a choir of 200 from the Chicago tabernacle, the "Own Your Home" exposition opened its doors at the Coliseum yesterday. The song was doubly appropriate in that yesterday was also the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of John Howard Payne, its author.

The main feature of the exposition is a five-room bungalow, completely equipped and furnished, specially erected for the show. It was put up in five days, believed to be a record.

ALL PROBLEMS IN WORLD DOVETAIL, BARNES STATES

All Must Be Settled at Once, He Asserts.

Washington, D. C., March 24.—Conclusions regarding Europe's economic problems, reached by the Rome congress of the international chamber of commerce, were fully endorsed today by President Julius H. Barnes, of the chamber of commerce of the United States, in a cablegram from Rome to headquarters of the American chamber here.

"The Rome congress," his message said, "recognized that solution of these economic problems would be translated directly, through reviving industry, into opportunity and employment and, therefore, into individual prosperity and happiness. This was the earnest note that permeated all discussions.

"The resolution adopted while laying emphasis on the reparations question, expresses the conviction of the assembled business leaders of many nationalities that the related problems of the allied debts, national budgets, international credits and exchange, must be solved in one comprehensive whole. The international chamber expresses the view that a financial conference for a complete settlement is inevitable.

"There is a definite code of requirements essential to each phase of the settlements to be made. The reparations agreement must represent the determination of the aggressor nation in the great war to devote all of its resources to the utmost of its ability to fulfilling its obligations; while any plan of settlement must also assure hereafter the security of national frontiers, eliminating recurring alarms of war.

"Interallied war debts must be maintained at a high standard among international obligations, which prohibits the general application of any principle of cancellation; but each debt should be surveyed with due regard for the ability of the debtor nation to pay. National budgets must insure governmental economy."

COUNT YASELLI DISMISSED ON BOOZE CHARGE

"Count" William D. Yaselli, former "ace" of the national prohibition investigating forces, was freed of charges of violating the state liquor laws by Judge Lawrence W. Jacobs of the Municipal court yesterday.

The charges against the "count," who says he is "being persecuted" merely because he "wielded a mean sponge in mopping up Chicago," grew out of an alleged escapade with Betty Johnson, artist's model and girl detective.

Yaselli's meeting with the Johnson girl, who had been hired to trap him, was characterized as the climax of a series of indiscretions which caused Washington officials to discharge him.

BILLS TO SAVE THE FORESTS UP AT SPRINGFIELD

State Police and 8 Hour Day to Know Fate.

BY FRANK BUTZOW.

Springfield, Ill., March 24.—[Special.]—Considerable interest has been shown by Illinois legislators in the moves to establish state forest preserves and a comprehensive system of state parks whereby Illinois may retain existing woodlands and regrow her vanished forests.

Two forestry bills have been introduced in the general assembly. One offered by Representative Springer [Rep., Wilmette] invests in the department of agriculture authority to set aside desirable woodlands as state forests and to designate spots of exceptional natural beauty and historic interest as state parks.

Bill Helps University.

The senate committee on agriculture has offered a bill requiring the University of Illinois to establish a forestry division to promote and develop forestry interests.

It is the intent of the Illinois Forestry association and the forest preserve district of Cook county not only to preserve the remaining large timber lands, but also to replant small barren woodlots and lands better adapted to growing trees than to any other use.

According to H. F. Dodge, secretary, and William L. Hall, chairman, of the forestry association's policy committee, there remains in Illinois more than 3,000,000 acres of woodlands on farms bordering streams.

Will Also Guard Fauna.

Coöperation with the division of fish and game in the preservation of the furry and finny tribes native to Illinois also is proposed in the pending legislation.

Numerous forests in southern Illinois stand little molested and it is here, the association points out, that the state can make its start in keeping nature reminded of bygone times by retaining some of her plumage.

Severe penalties are provided for destroying or mutilating trees and plants in the forest preserves and parks. An initial appropriation of $200,000 is made as a starter.

New York, March 24. — Vance Thompson, author and former intermediary between the American embassy at Rome and the Vatican, arrived on the Lapland today with the information that Archbishop Hanna of California was to be named a cardinal.

PADEREWSKI AGAIN WINS LAURELS IN CHICAGO RECITAL

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Time of season, of week, probably of day, makes no difference to Ignace Jan Paderewski and his audiences. He returned, played, and conquered again yesterday afternoon at the Auditorium, and the audience was just as large and just as enthusiastic as when he came here a few weeks ago, choosing what is for Chicago the more conventional time of Sunday afternoon for his appearance.

Beginning, according to his custom, promptly fifteen minutes late, he ran through the serious part of his program without pausing, except when the audience insisted. Then, after an encore and a short intermission, he approached his Chopin group.

As far as I personally am concerned, I prefer to remember him by his Chopin. Here is where the personalities of great composer and great interpreter have their best meeting ground, where imagination reaches out to imagination. Even Paderewski cannot, except in spots, reconcile me to the Schumann Sonata, opus 11. Measured by the clock it is not so extraordinarily long, yet whenever it is played it seems to last for hours and hours and hours. But with Chopin there is a constant flash of wizardry, the second Ballade, which most pianists dodge in favor of the first or third, the Etudes, which under his fingers leave off being studies and become little dramatic scenes, a Mazurka, which, they say, only a Pole or a Russian is ever able to play. Certainly no one else seems to care to try.

A full Chopin program by Paderewski ought to be one of the great delights of a lifetime. He is not and never has been one of the world's transcendent technicians: he ought not to be considered as such. But give him great music and he returns a great performance. I refer again to his Chopin, and, in the grand and less intimate manner, the Beethoven sonata, opus 111.

TRY, SENTENCE WIFE SLAYER TO DIE IN 2 DAYS

Thaddeus Johnson, colored, 31 years old, was sentenced to death by a jury which found him guilty of murdering his wife, Stella, before Judge Marcus Kavanagh in criminal court yesterday afternoon. The man was placed on trial late Friday afternoon and the jury deliberated only a few minutes.

The murder occurred in Johnson's former home at 4302 Langley avenue on Nov. 4. After a quarrel Johnson snatched up a bed slat and cried: "I am going to kill you all." The woman dodged and fled down a flight of stairs. Johnson pursued and, catching her around the waist, hurled her through an open window. She was killed when her body struck the sidewalk. The case was prosecuted by Assistant State's Attorney Charles Wharton.

IMPROVED RADIO RULES INDORSED AT WASHINGTON

Asks Public Be Given Wider Range.

Washington, D. C., March 24.—Recommendations for a revision of wave lengths in the ether for wireless use were completed today by the second annual radio conference. Experts and government officials joined unanimously in suggesting to Secretary Hoover that President Harding be asked to open up to public use the wave band area hitherto reserved for military and governmental service, and that broadcasting stations hereafter be given individual wave lengths.

Present powers of the commerce department, the conference decided, are sufficient to establish and enforce the new regulations and "thus bring order in the radio world."

Would Extend Lengths.

"Previously all broadcasting was concentrated on three wave lengths," the official summary explained, "360, 400 and 485 meters. Now a new field extending from 222 meters to 545 meters can be created.

"Within the field stations can be assigned individual wave lengths and divided into two classes. The higher power class 'A' stations corresponding to the present class 'B' stations can use the wave lengths between 288 meters and 545 meters, while lower powered stations (new class 'B' stations) can use the waves from 222 to 286."

The report urges that the field of amateur activity be extended by allotting a band extending from 150 meters to 222 meters. The report confines to 222 meters.

Fixes Time for Ships.

It also includes the provision that ships using 450 meter waves keep silent between 7 and 11 p. m. and as soon as possible, readjust their equipment for transmission on wave lengths above 600 meters.

The new regulations recommended dation for a new field of ship telephone service, enabling persons on shore to talk to those aboard ship.

Th enew regulations recommended are based on a plan submitted by the radio inspectors of the department of commerce and include elements from other plans submitted by the radia section of other organizations.

FORGOTTEN GUN PROVES FATAL TO YOUNG GIRL

An old and forgotten revolver left lying in a bureau drawer caused the death yesterday of 12 year old Virginia Shepard, 7648 South Sangamon street, when she discovered the weapon while she and her mother, Mrs. Myrtle Sheperd, were cleaning house.

"Leave it alone. Don't touch it," warned Mrs. Sheperd as she went into the kitchen.

A moment later she heard a shot. Running back into the bedroom, she found the child lying on the floor, shot through the h[illegible] died before a physician could arrive.

CHICAGO FIRMS ASK HIGH DUTIES ON CHEMICALS

Washington, D. C., March 24.—[Special.]—Investigations ordered recently by the tariff commission into duties on seventeen commodities were based in two instances on applications filed by Chicago companies.

Names of applicants, which were disclosed today for the first time, together with the nature of the application, include the Victor Chemical works of Chicago and the Abbott laboratories of Chicago.

The Victor Chemical works asked for an increase in the duty on oxalic acid, while the Abbott laboratories sought an increase in the rate on a derivative of diethyl barbituric acid. The present rate on oxalic acid is 4 cents a pound, which, the Victor Chemical works claims is not sufficient to equalize low costs on German manufactures. The present duty on diethyl barbituric acid and derivatives is 25 per cent.

DISCHARGED IN LARCENY CASE.

Strokes Dark Blue
in Classic Boat Ra

PUTNEY, England, March 24 (by the Associated Press.)—Twenty-old W. P. Mellen of New stroked Oxford crew up Thames in triumph this noon in the forty-fifth Cambridge over the four-quarter course, from Mortlake to Mort

The Americ stroke pulled dark blue ahead of bridge at start of the grind and held the front all the way, answering with judgment every challenge of his opponent.

Behind him sat six young Americans and another American, Keith Kane, at No. 4, who had pulled a blade for Harvard, but Oxford crossed the finish line three-fourths of a length ahead it was Mellen who was the hero of the race that had brought a half million spectators to the banks of the Thames.

Stands Strain Well.

Mellen, though the lightest oarsman in either shell—he weighs 135 pounds—stood the severe mental and physical strain staunchly. After coming to a halt at the end of twenty minutes and fifty-four seconds of probably the greatest toil he ever knew, the young Yonker rested his head on his oar for a moment in a posture of utter fatigue, but the lines of exhaustion quickly vanished from his face and he looked at the swarm of surrounding boats that came to cheer the crew with the usual blasts and shouts of the passengers.

The rival stroke, T. R. B. Sanders, however, lay flat back, deaf to the shouts from thousands of throats.

The crews started with a stroke of 38. Oxford on the Surrey side of the river, having won the toss, took the advantage of the inside bends of the river, most of the course being almost in the form of a huge letter "S."

Cut Lead at Finish.

Until half way to the end no daylight showed between the shells, but shortly after passing the two-mile mark Oxford spurted two lengths ahead. Thereafter Cambridge, while being unable to reduce the lead, lost a few hundred yards from the finish.

Mellen, however, seemingly lengthened his strokes without increasing the number so as to hold the gap between the shells until it was so close to the finish that it did not matter.

The Oxford men rowed smoothly and steadily all the way. At times the rhythm of the Cambridge oarsmen seemed prettier, but it was the power that counted most, and while on occasions Cambridge spiashed considerably Oxford never did.

Like Father, Like Son.

New York, March 24.—Chas. E. Mellen, prominent New York lawyer and father of W. P. Mellen, American youth who stroked the Oxford crew to victory today over Cambridge in the English rowing classic, received enthusiastically news of his son's victory in the triumph.

The elder Mellen was graduated from Oxford in 1897, attending Brasenose college, in which his son now has enrolled.

The younger Mellen started his rowing activities as a coxswain at the Chelsea school, Concord, Mass. He entered Oxford in October, 1921, at the age of 19 and took part in his first English race a year ago, when he stroked a winning crew in a "bumping" race.

One of the Oxford events which has helped win was captured by a crew of which his father was a member in the '80s, and the names of father and son are inscribed on the trophy.

Keith Kane, who pulled No. 4 in the Oxford eight, was graduated last year from Harvard, where he had been a star in rowing and at football. He was captain of the Crimson eleven in 1921 which won from Yale, 19 to 0.

"NEVER will I forget the blaze of hate that lit up his dark face when I mentioned the name of Alborno. It was to be a duel with knives to the death when they met."

PUTNEY, England, March 24.—[By the Associated Press.]—Twenty year old W. P. Mellen of New York stroked Oxford's crew up the Thames to triumph this afternoon in the seventy-fifth Oxford Cambridge race over the four and one-quarter mile course from Putney to Mortlake.

The American stroke pulled the dark blue eight ahead of Cambridge at the start of the grind and held them in front all the way, answering with fine judgment every challenge of his opponent.

Behind him sat six young Englishmen and another American, R. Keith Kane, at No. 4, who last year pulled a blade for Harvard, but when Oxford crossed the finish line three-fourths of a length ahead it was Mellen who was the hero of the event that had brought a half million spectators to the banks of the Thames.

The crews started with a stroke of 38. Oxford on the Surrey side of the river, having won the toss, took advantage of the inside bends of the river, most of the course being shaped in the form of a huge letter "U."

Cut Lead at Fifiish.

Until half way to the end no daylight showed between the shells, but shortly after passing the two mile mark Oxford spurted two lengths ahead. Thereafter Cambridge trailed, still unable to reduce the lead until but a few hundred yards from the finish.

Mellen, however, seemingly lengthened the strokes without increasing the number so as to hold the gap between the shells until it was so close to the finish that it did not matter.

The Oxford men rowed smoothly and easily all the way. At times the rhythm of the Cambridge oarsmen seemed prettier, but it was the blades Oxford used most, and while on occasions Cambridge splashed considerably, Oxford never did.

Like Father, Like Son.

New York, March 24.—Chase Mellen, prominent New York lawyer and father of W. P. Mellen, American oarsman who stroked the Oxford eight to victory today over Cambridge in the English rowing classic, received enthusiastic news of his son's share in the triumph.

The elder Mellen was graduated from Oxford in 1887, attending Brasenose college, in which his son now is enrolled.

The younger Mellen started his rowing activities as a coxswain at Middlesex school, Concord, Mass. He entered Oxford in October, 1921, at the age of 18 and took part in his first Varsity race a year ago, when he stroked a winning crew in a "bumping" race.

One of the Oxford events which he has helped win was captured by a crew of which his father was a member in the '70s, and the names of father and son are inscribed on the same trophy.

Ralph Kane, who pulled No. 4 on the Oxford eight, was graduated last year from Harvard, where he had been a star in rowing and at football. He was captain of the Crimson eleven of 1921 which won from Yale, 10 to 3.

IN the WAKE of the NEWS

POLISHING UP YOUR GOLF.

THE WAKE always has been skeptical concerning the benefits of indoor golf. One winter we tried in a desultory way to learn to use our wooden clubs and thought we had made some progress. After our first few attempts outdoors, we returned to driving irons, because we couldn't stay on the course with wood.

Several friends confessed similar experiences, with the opinion that indoor schools were all right for places of exercise, just like gymnasiums, but that was about their limit of usefulness.

Meeting George O'Neill, formerly professional at Lake Shore Country club, but now engaged in the advertising business, he twitted us with the query, "Going to play your usual amount of golf this season?" (which is about three or four times).

"I'd play regularly if I could use my driver and brassie," we replied. "I know a good approach or a putt counts as much as a good drive, but there's a satisfaction about getting off the tee well which makes your enjoyment. When you use irons off the tee you're only marking time. I've tried, but I simply can't learn."

"Go to ——'s indoor school; he'll fix you up," replied George. "Some people say you can't learn indoors, but I think it's even better practice for driving than outdoors, for you get more action in the same amount of time. I've always believed in the indoor schools for driving and for development with approaching irons."

As we've always respected George's opinions and he has no financial interest in indoor schools, we pass along his views for other golfers.

The Horse-Shoeing Shop.

The torrent of progress has carried away
A landmark I loved. In mem'ry I stray
Through the wide, shady street of a village
I knew,
Where pleasure was gratis and friendships were true;
Past the general store, where my father would stop,
While I hurried on to the horse-shoeing shop.

How well I remember the hoof dented floor,
The great wooden horseboe that swung by the door,
And the forge, where a fountain of radiance played,
That fell at my feet in a gleaming cascade.
The blacksmith (God rest him) would speak of the crop,
And gave me the run of the horse-shoeing shop.

The building still stands. The legend, "Free Air,"
Now beckons the tourist. The inner room, where
The fleetest stallion was easily cowed,
Is plastered with placards, "No Smoking Allowed."
A pump stands before with a gas ad atop,
And nothing remains of the horse-shoeing shop.

SECOND, THIRD ROUND MATCHES TOMORROW NIGHT

Final Bouts in All Weights on Wednesday.

U. S. IN THIS CORNER

ABOARD U. S. S. Henderson, Balboa, March 24.—[By Radio to Associated Press.]—The heavyweight boxing championship of the United States fleet was won here today by Sergt. Sneider, U. M. C., from the battleship Mississippi, who knocked out C. G. Crowley, cook from the Utah, ten seconds after the first gong sounded.

Secretary Denby, Admirals Jones and Eberle, and other high naval officers witnessed the contests. Mr. Denby presented belts to the winners, and spoke in praise of the part boxing played in health and fighting qualities.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

With many boxers eliminated and champions in the various classes beginning to assert themselves, second and third round matches in the Chicago amateur boxing championships conducted by the Tribune A. A. will be held in the Ashland Boulevard auditorium tomorrow night. The process of elimination will continue on Tuesday, so that finals in all weights can be held Wednesday night.

EDGAR MILLER.

During the first three days of the tourney it was necessary to give all entrants a chance to show their skill. Drawings were made so that all had a fair and equal chance. These drawings were so arranged that no two boxers of the same organization came together in a preliminary round. From now on, however, it will be different, as all will have to take a chance on the draw which may bring two men of the same eclub or organization in a second round or semi-final contest.

Big Crowds See Bouts.

The preliminary contests have attracted enthusiastic crowds, but from now until the last champion is determined the most ardent fan will get his fill of boxing. Competition, which starts tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock in the 112, 118 and 126 pound classes, will bring together the best in these weights with the result judges will have more difficulty to determine the winners to the satisfaction of the spectators. The boxers will be more evenly matched. They have had the experience and know something of the defensive style of boxing as well as the offensive.

Followers of amateur athletics who crave action are receiving their fill. The Tribune A. A. is not putting on the tourney for profit. Every cent above expenses will be turned over to a fund to take care of disabled veterans of the world war. Thus far the tournament plainly shows that amateur boxing as it is conducted at the auditorium is a wholesome sport and one which should not be frowned upon by those opposed to any red blooded sport.

Amateur Heavies Scarce.

In amateur boxing tourneys it has generally been the case that the heavier weights attract the smaller entry. This was shown Friday when trial bouts in the 160, 175 pound and heavyweight divisions were held. The entry made the program rather short, but officials were able to reduce the field to such an extent that finals in all classes can be held on Wednesday night.

The final of the heavyweight class will bring together two sturdy boxers in Edward Miller of the University of Notre Dame and Frank King of the Arcade gymnasium. Each won his bout in the preliminary round in easy fashion, the former getting the decision in three rounds and King winning by a knockout in the first round. Miller appears to be cveler and shifty, while King can sock with his right hand. It should be one of the most interesting bouts of the closing night.

Fast Field of 160 Pounders.

In the 160 pound class some interesting milling should result, with G. K. Anderson of the Norwegian-American A. C. and Earl Pruess of Belle Plaine A. C. slated to go into the finals with other well known experts who showed good form on Friday night. In the 175 pound division Charles Springer of the University of Notre Dame will try to win the title from Joe Cahill of the Arcade gym. James Dunn of the 124th Field Artillery and Ed Slania of the Opal A. A.

Although anything may happen in an amateur tourney, those who have watched all bouts look for a neat milling tomorrow night. Morris Angel of the Milwaukee A. C., a strong contender for honors in the flyweight class, will go on again. Danny McGowan of the University of Notre Dame, who won the 112 pound championship of the middle states division of the A. A. A., will be another boxer watched tomorrow night. McGowan drew a bye on the first night and did not have to box. There are other contestants of note in the class.

Boxers Get Good Rest.

Probable finalists in the other classes do not stand out as prominently. A better line on the more finished boxers can be drawn after tomorrow night's second and third rounds. Boys in these classes have been given plenty of rest and should come back tomorrow in condition to give even more sparkling exhibitions than they did on the opening night.

Contestants in the 112, 118 and 126 pound classes are requested to report at the auditorium tomorrow night not later than 6:45 o'clock to draw opponents for the second round. It will not be necessary to weigh in again or submit to physical examination.

Second and third rounds in the lightweight and welterweight classes will be held on Tuesday night, and the same rules apply for boxers in these groups as those in the lighter classes. Officials have handled the tourney too well to have their work marred by late appearance of any contestants, and those who are not on hand promptly will be disqualified.

Prizes, which are now on display in THE TRIBUNE windows, 11 South Dearborn street, will be presented to winners from the ring immediately after the last bout on Wednesday night.

BREYER COPS 440 IN EASTERN POOL; GIEBEL IS STAR

Princeton, N. J., March 24.—Leo Giebel of Rutgers was the outstanding star in the seventeenth annual intercollegiate swimming meet tonight, breaking one eastern intercollegiate record in addition to winning two firsts and one second place. He established a new mark for the 150 yard back stroke at 1:56 1-5, won the 220 yard swim from Marshall of Yale, and was second to Breyer of Northwestern in the 440 yard swim.

Five Run Rally in 9th Gives Sox Hectic Draw with Giants

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

San Antonio, Tex., March 24.—[Special.]—After an inglorious exhibition of pastiming, Gleason's White Sox pulled themselves together in the ninth today and scored five runs to earn a 9 to 9 tie with the champion Giants. When this rally was concluded, Umpire Brick Owens wisely declared hostilities off because of gathering darkness.

When the Sox, playing as the home team, went to bat in the last half of the final frame they were in arrears by 9 to 4. Virgil Barnes was officiating as hostile hurler. The first occurrence was a double by McClellan, after which Mostil singled. Sheely hit a sacrifice fly. The peerless Willie Kamm then doubled, Elsh singled, Graham did the same, and the tying run went across when Strunk, batting for Taylor, slapped a one baser past Bancroft.

The rounds prior to the ninth were anything but pleasing to any one with Sox sympathies. Most of Gleason's pitching was off color and the fielding was even worse, five errors helping the Giants to runs.

Stubby Mack started the comical fielding. He handled the slab work fairly well for four frames, but in the fifth went completely to the bad, making a wild throw to first in the midst of a flock of base hits. A moment later Hooper dropped a fly ball and when the inning ceased the Giants had four runs. In the next frame Young Taylor heaved a wild one to first, Sheely let loose a similar throw to third, and even $100,000 Kamm horned in with a low peg after a brilliant stop of a hard bounder. Thus two more Giants scored.

In the first inning Kamm drove in a run with a clean single over short and in the third sent another tally home with a Texas league single to center. His two bagger in the ninth fell just inside the line behind first base.

When Mack went to the bad in the fifth Faber worked as rescuer until the end of the seventh.

Cubs Lower Colors to Vernon When Jake May Pitches 1-0 Game

Los Angeles, Cal., March 24.—[Special.]—Bill Killefer's Cub regulars went into a hitting slump today and as a consequence dropped the final game to Vernon, 1 to 0. They collected only four hits off the offerings of May and Doyle, and these blows were so widely scattered that the major leaguers had nary a chance to win after the Pacific coast athletes counted one run in the first inning.

May and Doyle displayed pitching that would fare successfully in the big show. May, particularly, was brilliant. He fanned four Cubs in the first two innings of the four he pitched. He is a different May from what he was when with the St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Yankees made a mistake when they failed to buy him.

Jakie Shows Class.

Instead of being erratic he found the plate consistently with a lot of stuff, using a puzzling cross fire that the Cubs could not hit. His successor was almost as effective.

Grover Alexander started and performed four innings for the Cubs. He was scored on in the first, when Gorman led off with a ringing three bagger and scored on Rod Murphy's single to left. After that the Tigers did as little batting as the majors, for Alexander braced, and Vic Keen, who succeeded him, allowed only two hits in the last five innings.

Cub Infield Looks Good.

Although the Cubs lost Manager Killefer was pleased with the work of his infield. Friberg, Adams and Grantham starred again with snappy plays behind the pitchers. Friberg came up with several great one handed plays of wicked bounders for easy outs at first base, while little Adams was all over short.

The Tribune will pay $5 each for questions accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter, Chicago Tribune." For today's question John F. Jacobsen, 3017 Edgewood avenue, Chicago, was awarded $5.

The Question.

Does betting and baseball pools injure our national pastime?

Where Asked.

539 North Rush street.

The Answers.

William Mathley, 2313 West 22d place, postoffice clerk—In my estimation, betting and baseball pools cause a loss of interest in baseball. Bettors and people who buy pool tickets are more interested in the scores than they are in seeing the game. They don't care which side wins.

E. J. O'Neill, 539 Rush street, clerk—I think it does not, because baseball pools are played by people who are unable, for one reason or another, to go to the ball park. We all have a certain amount of sporting blood in us, and as we cannot get our boxing in Illinois, I do not see that baseball pools or betting is injuring our national sport. If it were being overdone that would be a different thing, but I don't believe that it is.

F. E. McCall, 153 East Ontario street, salesman—I don't believe they are injurious to the sport. I believe it is a source of interest through baseball pools. Out at the baseball park you rarely see any betting. They are all interested in seeing good baseball.

Henry Tipton, 152 East Ohio street, laborer—I believe all betting, all gambling is demoralizing to baseball and to every sport. What else but betting and gambling has kept horse racing and boxing from being legalized and universally approved of by the public? That's the very root of the evil—gambling. Our greatest scandals have come from betting and gambling.

M. C. Hanson, 5770 Ridge avenue, engineer—I think it helps create interest in the game. I have played the pools myself, and it was this that later led me to take an interest in sporting news and events. Once interested in any sport, it comes natural to want to get out and take part. So if betting has its bad points, it also has its good ones.

While individual stars were breaking six Northwestern university interscholastic records in the annual games at Patten gymnasium yesterday afternoon, track athletes representing Oak Park, and swimmers bearing the colors of New Trier, carried away the two championships.

The west suburban school gath ered 17¼ points for a tight victory over Evanston on the track, while the Kenilworth natators piled up 26 for an easy win over Northern high of Detroit.

Hester, sterling sprinter of Detroit Northwestern, lowered the national interscholastic record for the 50 yard dash to :05 3-10. The old record was :05 3-5. Goodwillie of University high came second, but was a good two yards behind.

Lennox of Oak Park again smashed the tank record for the 100 yard breast stroke, this time anchoring in 1:14 2-5.

Evanston Springs Surprise.

Evanston's showing on the track was unexpected and almost upset the meet. Coach A. B. Bradley's medley relay team took the final event from Oak Park and raised its total on the point column to 16. University high came third in the reckoning with 13 counters, all of which were made by Eugene Goodwillie, whose time of :52 2-5 in the 440 clipped down the Purple record two-fifths of a second.

J. Hill of Central high, Minneapolis, was the fourth man to break a record. He accounted for the 110 yard back stroke in 1:09 4-5, smashing the record of 1:11 3-5.

Detroit Swimmer the Star.

Edward Flannigan of Detroit Northwestern, was the individual star of the swimming meet with firsts in the 40 and 100 yard swims. He also swam as anchor man on the winning medley relay. His time for the 40 was :19 4-5 and in the longer race he turned a neat :59 1-5.

Newport gave the winning New Trier swimmers their only first when he placed ahead of Oker of Parker high in fancy diving. Robertson's seconds in the 40 and 100, combined with the victory in the 160 yard relay, and several fourths, totaled enough points to win the meet.

The last two records to crash were in the 880 yard run and high jump. Stocking, a husky entry from Rockford, took the second half mile race in 2:05 2-5, clipping two-fifths of a second off the record. Ellsworth of Oak Park, skinned over the pole in the high jump at 5 feet 11⅝ inches for the final record.

Meyers Big Oak Park Aid.

Oak Park's victory on the track was due partially to Meyers, who took a slow mile from Garby, lone entry of Piqua, O. The time was 4:44 4-5.

Johns of La Salle, tied the interscholastic record of 11 feet 8 inches in the pole vault, winning from Prout of Detroit Central, but was not able to better the mark in three successive attempts. Cuhel of Cedar Rapids, Ia., gathered eight of the eleven points gained by his school with a first in the 60 yard high hurdles and a second in the 60 yard low hurdles.

The Wrangler fraternity was successful in taking the record from the Sigma Nu brothers in the all-university four lap relay.

COMISKEY FILES ANSWER IN SUIT OF JOE JACKSON

The 1919 world's series scandal reechoed again yesterday when Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, filed his deposition in answer to the suit of Joe Jackson for $100,000, to be heard within ten days in Milwaukee. Jackson demands back salary and recompense for alleged damage to his reputation.

Comiskey repeated his assertions that while he had heard various rumors concerning the work of a number of his players in the series with the Cincinnati Reds, and had spent considerable money in an effort to confirm them, it was not until Pitcher Eddie Cicotte had confessed to Manager Gleason, that he was able to verify them.

During the taking of the deposition George (Buck) Weaver, former White Sox third baseman, and Harry Grabiner, White Sox secretary, were ordered from the room at request of opposing counsel. Attorney Ray Cannon of Milwaukee, organizer of the baseball players' union, is representing Jackson and also Oscar (Happy) Felsch and Charles (Swede) Risberg, who also have filed $100,000 suits against Comiskey.

AMERICANS HELP OXFORD'S TRACK TEAM TO VICTORY

Tevis Huhn, the former Princeton athlete, won the 220 yard low hurdles and finished third in the 120 yard hurdles.

F. K. Brown, former Washington athlete, won the shotput, and A. I Reese of Nebraska placed second.

"Bill" Stevenson, former Princeton star and one time national champion at a quarter mile, finished second in the 440 yard run.

D. R. Michener, former Canadian athlete, won the pole vault, with E. Mam Dunbar of Worcester, Mass., second.

PLAY CRUCIAL GAMES TODAY IN K. C. LEAGUE

With south and north section championships virtually decided, Knights of Columbus basketball league teams will clash at Eighth Regiment armory and Broadway armory this afternoon in games which will go a long way towards determining the final standing in each section.

Dowling, which practically cinched the south section flag last Sunday, is idle, but Calumet and Auburn Park, tied for second place, meet La Rabida and Englewood, respectively. Perez meets Loyola, and Neri tackles Aquinas.

On the north side of the river, Setters and O'Connor will fight it out to determine which stays in the first division. Marquette is expected to give Columbus an argument this afternoon, but De Soto looks for an easy time with Brownson. Hennepin draws Lafayette.

PADDOCK TAKES TWO EVENTS, BUT HIS TEAM LOSES

Los Angeles, Cal., March 24.—Stanford university this afternoon triumphed over Southern California in a dual outdoor meet, 75 to 56. Charlie Paddock walked away with the 100 yard dash in :10 and won the 200 on a curved track in :21 4-5, which equals the world's record. The Trojans' failure to enter men in the distances added many points to Stanford's score.

Otto Anderson of the University of Southern California was second and Clarke of Stanford third to Paddock in the 100.

Paddock seems to be in fine shape for his intended trip to big meets of the east during the outdoor season there.

Chicago Caseys Hold Spotlight in Pin Meet

Milwaukee, Wis., March 24.—[Special.]—With two weeks of the first annual Knights of Columbus bowling tournament here now in history, Chicago Caseys continue to hold the spotlight. Scores, however, have been unusually low. In the present standings University Council and De Soto representatives of Chicago, are holding fourth and fifth team places with 2,713 and 2,710, respectively.

A. Korthals and C. Reading, Chicago, are first in the doubles with 1,172. A. Korthals is fourth in the singles with 630, while N. Budinger, Chicago, is fifth with 608. Korthals is high in the all events with 1,798.

In tonight's last shift the Commodore Barry majors of Chicago rolled into third place in the five man event with 2,734.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 24.—[Special.]—Three places in the doubles and one in the singles changed hands in the American Bowling Congress tourney here today.

Toledo carried away high two-man honors of the day when H. Clayton and J. Ostrander set up a total of 1,281, good for second place. But a short distance behind came a Cleveland pair, C. Theis and L. Frans, who amassed 1,248 and sixth position. The 1,244 of J. Kovatch and J. Ackerman of Cleveland shot them into a tie for eighth place.

Milwaukee carried away the singles honors due to the 683 registered by Charley Bell in an early afternoon round. This puts him in tenth place. Close behind him stood several Chicagoans.

Most prominent of the latter scores was the 674 of Phil Wolf, who couldn't hit a thing when teaming it with Jimmy Blouin of Chicago in the doubles. In the latter event Wolf had a series of 540, while Blouin rammed out 617 for a team total of 1,159.

The great Jimmy was not himself today. Several weeks of illness had dimmed the eye and weakened the arm to such an extent that but 530 was his portion in the singles.

The crack Mineralites failed to dislodge the five men leaders tonight when they hit but 2,826.

Splits by the first four men of the Mineralites in the last frame injured the team's chance for getting in the 2,900 class. Other Chicago teams rolled comparatively low scores.

Second and sixth places in the five men event went to Toledo teams on the last squad bowling tonight, Belmont Drugs hitting 2,944 for second position and Paragon Oils 2,891 for sixth. Battistini Bros. of Chicago stood third high on the squad, scoring 2,813.

HOW TO ATTRACT BIRDS.

And now it's bird time again. The northward march of the feather army is under way. Meadowlarks are broadcasting cheerily from the fields, bluebirds greet the bird lover with their plaintive warbles, white-eyed grackles and robins are features of the spring landscape—welcome sights for the outdoor fans.

WITH the coming of the birds from the southland many a bird lover begins to think about plans for keeping some of them as regular residents about his place. The farmer or country dweller, if he has a goodly number of trees about the house or in the garden, does not have to do much to lure his feathered friends to take up housekeeping on his place. They will find natural nesting sites in these trees. But the more shrubs and trees there are, the more birds will come, and so every bird lover can help the game along by planting all kinds of shrubbery from time to time which, not only make any place attractive, but in providing nesting places for birds serve a double purpose.

After all is said and done the means of increasing the number of birds about the home are few and simple. Summed up in a few words, the stunt is to provide adequate protection and give the birds suitable nesting sites, food, and water. As for protection, the birds have to have some defense from cats squirrels, owls, and hawks. There is not much chance of doing much in the bird home business if prowling cats are on the job. A few summers ago when we were in southern Michigan we saw a cat wipe out two families of wrens. It is almost impossible to have bird neighbors and cat neighbors at the same time, even if tree guards, which are just tin "funnels" placed around the tree trunks, are used. Hawks, owls, or crows can be taken care of in just about one way. A little .22 rifle is the answer.

As for breeding places, this general fact should be kept in mind. Although a considerable of our native birds build their homes on the ground, the majority place them in shrubbery or trees. Some utilize holes, others place their nests on the limbs of trees or in the crotches. So in order to keep birds on your land, it is essential to make the place attractive by planting fruit bearing shrubs if possible. It is surprising how modern tree surgery is affecting the birds these days. You know in the old days nearly every orchard had a bunch of old trees with all kinds of cavities in them that were great stuff for nesting sites. With the advent of modern tree surgery these old trees are getting scarcer and scarcer and as a result the natural homes of many birds are fewer.

Fortunately, most of these birds will take to bird houses, and here is where the bird lover can do a great work by putting up these artificial nesting places. The styles of these can be varied in most any way you wish. They are simple to make and the erduest ones will often attract as many birds as the more ornate and fancy ones will. You can spend a lot of time making them or they may be purchased.

* * *

In another article we are going to take the bird house business more in detail, but here are a few general rules to follow in putting them out. Watch your locations and don't put out too many houses. We remember the case of one chap who invested in a number of handsome bird houses and put up enough to house all the birds in a county. And then he wondered why he didn't get any tenants. The point is that, as a rule, birds do not like to be crowded. If a place is studded with bird houses very likely only a few will be occupied.

BOSTON WINS THE HOCKEY CROWN

Boston, Mass., March 24.—Boston Athletic association tonight won the national amateur hockey championship by defeating St. Paul Hockey club, 2 goals to 1. This made the score in the series between the eastern and western sectional winners: B. A. A., 3; St. Paul, 1.

After the game President W. S. Haddock of the United States Amateur Hockey association announced the Boston club would hold the international as well as the American amateur championship for the year, owing to the failure of the Granites of Toronto, Canadian title holders, to meet the American winners.

WARD STARS IN SINAI VICTORY

Fort Wayne, Ind., March 24.—[Special.]—Sinai Social center swimmers defeated the Fort Wayne Y. M. C. A. team, holder of the Indiana state championship, by 49 to 19 here tonight. Sinai won every first place. Russell Ward broke two state records, bettering the 220 yard mark by :16 3-5 and the 100 yard swim record by :04 4-5.

Ward was high point winner with 10 points and also swam on the relay. McDermott scored 9 points and Porter and Manoritz 8 points.

CANADIAN GIRLS SPILL BROWNIES QUINTET, 18 TO 8

A GOOD SPORT—NOT!

ONE of the poorest exhibitions of sportsmanship ever shown in this city occurred last night during the basketball game between the Uptown Brownies and the London, Ont., Shamrocks at the Broadway armory. A man named Christensen, a rooter for the Canadian team, deliberately threw an orange and hit a photographer with force enough to crush the orange and raise a large welt on the side of the operator's face. Christensen was a good sport—not.

The Shamrocks of London, Ont., claimants of the eastern Canadian championship, defeated the Uptown Brownies, 18 to 7, in a girls' basketball game at the Broadway armory. Both teams displayed an abundance of pep, but showed a woeful lack of team work, and the contest from the latter viewpoint was a decided disappointment.

The invaders stepped out to a 10 to 7 advantage at the half principally through the individual basket shooting of Miss Garrett and Carrie Blackwell. Field goals by Marie McDonough and Edna Schrieber and three penalty tosses by the latter acounted for all the Brownies' points.

The Shamrocks netted four more baskets in the final half, while the Chicago girls aimlessly tossed the ball. The outstanding feature of the game was the sterling guarding of Mary Lindsay who repeatedly broke up the Brownies' offense and covered a wealth of territory. Lineup:

TILDEN TECH TRIMS IOWA CITY HIGH FIVE BY 32 TO 21 COUNT

IOWA CITY, Ia., March 24.—[Special.]—Tilden Tech's superior speed and weight was too much for Iowa City high here tonight, the Chicago high school champions downing the local quintet 32 to 21. The visiting five, led by the thrilling work of Vaskovsky, got away to an early lead and led at half time, 20 to 8.

Iowa City staged its greatest performance in the third quarter, outscoring its foes, 11 to 5. Vaskovsky and Barry, Tilden aces, bewildered the locals in the two first quarters with their floor work, especially with their short passes. "Bill" Wallen, the smallest man on the floor, starred for Iowa City. Lineup:

CATHOLIC CAGE TITLE WON BY ST. IGNATIUS

St. Ignatius basket quintet last night clinched the championship of the Catholic High School league by defeating De La Salle of Joliet, 13 to 12, in the second game of the title series at the west siders' floor. Deegan, St. Ignatius center, was largely responsible for the victory. He scored three of the winners' four baskets.

Six free throws by Daley and a basket each from Rathford and Kennedy constituted the losers' points. The defense of the visitors was not vigorous enough to penetrate the St. Ignatius defense.

A crowd of 2,500 packed the gym to witness victory number twelve for the Chicago five. Lineup:

ILLINOIS "GYM" INADEQUATE FOR 6,000 STUDENTS

BY GEORGE HUFF.

(Director of Athletics, University of Illinois)

Urbana, Ill., March 24.—(Special.)—During the recent state basketball tournament at the state university, a visiting newspaper man looked at the swimming pool in our gymnasium, which accommodates only seventy-five persons.

GEORGE HUFF.

"How many other pools do you have for your 6,000 men students?" he asked.

"This is all," was the answer. The visitor was astonished. "Why, a lot of high schools have better pools," he said.

This is just one instance of the inadequacy of our gymnasium facilities. The present building was erected in 1903, when there were 1238 men in the university. It cost $50,000. Today there are 6,200 men. Every day the gym is used by 1,415 men. Daily also 1,415 men use the rest of our athletic plant. But full justice to our physical welfare program cannot be done with the gym as it is.

Illinois believes that the body must be trained as well as the mind—that physical welfare must go hand in hand with education. Much is being done to carry out this program. I believe that fathers and mothers want us to look after the physical well being of their boys.

Specialist on Staff.

We have added to our staff a specialist in medical gymnastics and physical diagnosis. He prescribes "corrective" exercises for the benefit of students who have physical defects which can be remedied or prevented from becoming worse. The number is amazingly large. We want to fit them for their life work by remedying these conditions when it is possible. This is just one instance of our program of physical education.

Whether our 6,200 boys shall have the advantage of a new gymnasium in some manner comparable to buildings for similar purpose in states less rich than this, or to gyms in privately endowed institutions, is now up to the legislature.

The university is asking for $500,000 for a new gymnasium. This will build nothing more than a substantial structure. There will be numerous gymnasiums in other universities which cost more and are far more pretentious.

Fourteen universities—all with far smaller student bodies—plan new gymnasiums at an average cost of $358,000, which means an average cost of $300 per male student.

27 Gyms Average $227,000.

Twenty-seven gymnasiums at such institutions as Dartmouth, Indiana, West Point, and Washington (St. Louis) averaged $227,000 in cost, constructed when building costs were probably 50 per cent lower, with $229 average as a male student.

The cost of Illinois' gymnasium, costing $50,000 with $26,712.84 spent on it for various revampings in the last two decades, averages less than $13 for each one of the 6,200 men students of today.

Princeton's 2,200 men use a gym that cost $400,000 in 1904, which would mean $900,000 today.

Indiana university, with 1,500 men, expanded $300,000 in 1916—it would cost $514,000 now.

Northwestern, privately endowed, built a $301,000 gym in 1910. That would be $600,000 today. There are about 1,500 men at Evanston.

Just a Few Examples.

Those are just a few examples of what other institutions have done. Illinois' request for $500,000 to serve 6,000 men is modest in comparison.

Our students and alumni have pledged nearly $2,000,000 for a stadium and recreational field which will become the property of the state. They hope that their example will inspire the legislature to appropriate one-fourth of the sum they are giving for a building that will guard the physical welfare of the sons of the state for many years.

JOIE AND BUKER RACE AGAIN IN MEET THIS WEEK

Joie Ray, Chicago's sensational distance runner, will be put to another acid test next Friday night in the Central A. A. U. indoor track championships to be conducted by Lake Shore A. C. at Patten gym, when he faces Ray Buker, the University of Chicago divinity student, in the two mile event.

Buker, who will be running his first race wearing the tri-color of the I. A. C., enters the race with Joie's widely heralded goat in his pocket as the result of his victory over the taxicab phenom in Friday night's Bankers' meet in 9:23. But is Joie disconcerted? Far from it, as was proved by his statement when asked how fast he was going to run in the Centrals. "Fast enough to win," confidently asserted the man who is almost as famous for his chastness as for his running.

With Ray, Buker, and Ray Watson representing the I. A. C., it looks like a sweep for the Tricolor in the distance. However, the C. A. A. team has twelve men entered in the two mile and eight in the 1,000 yards. Spink, the former Illini star, will have to be reckoned with in the latter event, as will A. W. Brickman, the ex-Maroon middleter. Other C. A. A. entries in the 1,000 yards are Wharton, Burkholder, M. H. Daily, A. Gesterson, B. B. Swarts, and S. T. Barry.

In the two mile the Cherry Circle will be represented by B. De Swarte, R. Whatron, W. D. Byrne, E. J. Norbe, A. Nobis, W. T. Forman, S. B. Stump, W. J. Watson, and E. W. Fischer.

RACE BETTING AT MOBILE UPHELD IN COURT RULING

Mobile, Ala., March 24.—[Special.]—The system of betting in vogue at the fair grounds race track, where a ten day running meeting is in progress under the direction of the Business Men's Racing association, is not in violation of the law, according to a decision given today by Judge N. R. Clarke of the Inferior Criminal court in the case of twenty bookmakers charged with making bets on horse races.

The court ruled there was no evidence of any violation of the state laws, that only personal betting was indulged in, and that there was no evidence of any agency being in operation.

The decision means that the meeting started here last Tuesday will continue until March 31, and that there will be a mile track built in Mobile next year.

MARSHALL-LASKER SERIES INTERRUPTED; NEXT MATCHES HERE

NEW YORK, March 24.—[Special.]—Play in the match between Frank J. Marshall and Edward Lasker for the chess championship of the United States has been interrupted in consequence of the inability of the City club of Cleveland, where the fourth game was to have been played today, to handle its quota of the match at this time. This was due to some misunderstanding in the negotiations. It will be necessary, therefore, to postpone these games until late in April. Four games will be played in the gymnasium of the Hamilton club of Chicago, beginning on Monday, April 2. The other Chicago dates are April 4, 7, and 9, after which a game will be played at Milwaukee on April 11. The present score of the match is: Lasker, 2; Marshall, 0; drawn, 1.

TRIUMPH FOR WOLVERINES

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 24.—[Special.]—Handing Cornell its worst dual track defeat in years, and smashing four indoor track records here, Michigan swamped the easterners, 66⅓ to 28⅔ at Waterman's gym tonight. Michigan took first in nine of eleven events and made a clean sweep of the 880 yard run.

Wittman, by his fast time of :05 5-10 in the 50 yard dash, lowered the Waterman gym indoor record one-tenth of a second. Reinke continued the record breaking when he lowered by three-fifths seconds the mile record held by John Paul Jones of Cornell since 1912. His time was 4:22 1-5. This is the fourth record Reinke has broken this season.

Brooker's pole vault mark of 12 feet 3⅞ inches bettered the former mark of Landowski of 12 feet 2⅛ inches. APPERSON — Built on KNOWLEDGE — 1903 1923

¶ This car is its own reason for ownership. ¶ It is a pure blooded Apperson. ¶ Thirty years of intensive engineering and strict standards of manufacture are its birthrights. ¶ Emphatically it is not just an ordinary car. ¶ Today's Apperson is notable because——its turning radius is the shortest of any car of 130 inch wheelbase

—it steers without effort
—the driver's compartment is free from all levers—gears are shifted without removing the hands from the wheel—emergency brake control on the instrument board —the upholstery is deep and restful
—the whole action of the car, its general and particular comforts, its delightful performance; all are of a kind and quality that arouses comment even in a year when very good automobiles are in the majority.

Try This Motor Car Experiment

Ask the next five or ten independent motor car mechanics you run across, what they think of the Hupmobile.

In all our experience, we have never met a single mechanic who did not have high praise for the way the Hupmobile is built.

They admire its strength, its reliability, and its good looks.

Above all else however, they delight in the sound, sensible engineering which the Hupmobile reveals; and the fine materials and the equally fine workmanship which get the most out of that engineering.

CAPTAIN CARTER SEE STRIUMPH OF YANKEES IN GOLF

BY JOE DAVIS.

Capt. Ernest F. Carter, the Irish golfer, who has decided to locate in Chicago said yesterday, "it looks to me as if the winning of the Walker international cup by the American team is a likelihood. I also believe Walter Hagen has an excellent chance again to carry away the British open honors, as he is playing better golf now than ever.

WALTER HAGEN.

"After arriving in this country I spent about six weeks in the south, playing Pinehurst, Belleair and some of the other course. I found many golfers who are capable of very fine play. As a whole, I think, you have a world of golf material here, which should furnish championships for a long time to come. In England there are few young golfers who have any extraordinary playing ability. It probably is due to the lack of keenness over there for the game from an amateur standpoint.

Thinks Tolley Britain's Best.

"I think the best British amateur is Cyril Tolley, who stands out prominently, although he failed to win the title again last year. His victory over the masterful Bab Gardner in 1921 will never be forgotten by the British, nor will Gardner's wonderful bid for the title.

"I look forward to my residence in Chicago and the opportunity to compete in your big tournaments with great pleasure. Since coming here I have played in my first indoor school. It also was a novelty to see a professional woman golfer.

"The indoor nets used for practice and teaching the golf stroke are a fine substitute for real golf. I believe your indoor schools, with the facilities they offer, constitute one of the reasons why you are blessed with so many good golfers."

Will Enter Bond Business.

Capt. Carter will enter the bond business on La Salle street. He hails from Blackrock, County Dublin, Ireland, and is 33 years old. Entering the army in 1914, he served in France until 1918, when he was wounded, receiving seven machine gun bullets in his left leg.

After being nearly a year in a hospital and using crutches for two years, he again was able to take up golf.

He won the Irish closed championship in 1919 and 1921, being a semi-finalist in 1920. He won the south of Ireland championship in 1920, was a semi-finalist in the Irish open championship in 1921 and 1922, and won the Welsh amateur title last year.

Capt. Carter holds a record of 68 for the Royal Port Rush course of 69, and a similar mark at Royal St. Davids, Harlech. He has an edge on many star players in the matter of age, having made one at Fort William, Belfast, and one at Port Stewart. Recently he won a tournament at Hialeair, Fla., and set a new record at Miami.

WOMAN GOLF PRO

IN Mrs. J. H. Healey of the Lincoln Park Golf school, 2819 North Clark street, Chicago can boast of having one of the three women professional golfers in this country. The others are Mrs. J. Harrison, Cleveland, and Mrs. A. G. Hupfel, New York, formerly Mrs. Dunn-Webb, Los Angeles. Mrs. Healey, who was born in County Mayo, Ireland, came to this country about eleven years ago. She learned the game here under the tutelage of her husband, and before taking up teaching held the women's championship at Lincoln park. She plays a fine game, having a record of 90 for the Flossmoor course, and has shot a number of the big courses in scores ranging from 86 to 90. She has been teaching for three years.

MISS COLLETT GOLF VICTOR AT PINEHURST

Pinehurst, N. C., March 24.—Miss Glenna Collett, national woman golf champion and holder of the north and south title, defeated Mrs. M. Johnson Scammell of Pittsburgh, 8 and 6, in the first round of the north and south championship match play today.

Miss Louise Fordyce, Ohio state champion and runnerup to Miss Collett in yesterday's qualifying round, defeated Miss Gertrude Thurston of Westhampton, 5 up.

Miss Marion Hollins, Miss Collett's predecessor as national champion, and Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow of Philadelphia, holder of the north and south title, came through together in the upper bracket and will oppose each other in the second round of Monday. Miss Hollins was consistent over or around the 200 yard mark from the tees, but her brassies and midirons were wont to wander from the line.

Mrs. Barlow was opposed by Miss Anita Lihme, the Chicago girl who created some surprise here yesterday by finishing in fourth place.

EDGEWATER CLUB WON'T MOVE FOR SEVERAL YEARS

President James F. Matteson of the Edgewater club said yesterday there appears to be a misconception on the part of many regarding the removal from the present site. The impression was conveyed in one recent article that Edgewater will sell its present site as soon as possible and move to new grounds near the Glen View station of the Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad.

Mr. Matteson explains that at the annual meeting held in the fall of 1922 the board of directors was authorized to secure options on property to be used for the construction of a new course. The board was empowered to spend a certain amount of money on these options. While options have been secured, nothing has been paid, nor will anything be paid until the full membership of the club has had a chance to vote on the matter.

Club Looks to Future.

Edgewater does not expect to leave its present location for a number of years, but, realizing that removal later will be expedient, it has taken the precaution of getting options on property so as to avoid paying a much higher price later.

President Matteson figures that members who have played at Edgewater for ten years, by reason of the increase in the value of the land, played for nothing. A membership which ten years ago cost $200 is now worth $1,700 net to the owner, while its intrinsic value, figured on ground value, is probably not less than $2,250.

Glen Oak to Vote.

Glen Oak golfers, who recently voted the erection of a new clubhouse, to cost, with furnishings, $150,000, will vote shortly on a plan formulated by the board of governors and the building and finance committtees for financing the project.

The original vote authorized an expenditure of $125,000 on the clubhouse and $25,000 on the furnishings. It is proposed to raise $27,500 by assessing each member $100 and approximately $123,500 by executing a general mortgage of $130,000, the bonds to yield 7 per cent and to be sold to members at $95. There is an existing mortgage of $20,000, and this will bring the total to $150,000.

To provide payment on principal and interest, it is proposed to charge the members $50 a year, which may be made in the form of increased dues or an assessment. The membership of the club is filled and there is a waiting list.

BRITISH CHASE FATAL TO U. S. OWNED HORSE

LIVERPOOL, England, March 24.—The grand national steeplechase resulted fatally yesterday to at least one horse, the American owned Masterful. Two jockeys are known to have been hurt, while twenty-one of the twenty-eight starters fell.

Masterful, Foxhall Keene's entry, broke a fetlock in taking Beecher's Brook, the most formidable jump of the course, and was put to death. P. Roberts, who was in the saddle, sustained an injured knee. Jockey K. Gibson broke his collarbone in a fall at another jump.

Wisconsin's new football coach and former Wisconsin All-American star meet for first time since new coach's arrival in Madison. Ryan is Wisconsin's first full time coach and will receive $6,000 a year. Sundt is head coach at Ripon college.

The scores were 15—3, 16—15; 15—5, and 15—10. Boakes was in rare form and the easterner was unable to handle his service, except in the second game. Boakes will go to Boston for a return series next Saturday.

MRS. BEAMISH DEFEATED IN CANNES FINALS

CANNES, France, March 24.—[By Associated Press.]—Mrs. Satterthwaite of England today defeated Mrs. Beamish, another English woman, in the finals of the women's singles of the lawn tennis tournament here, 8-6, 6-4. Suzanne Lenglen and Baron De Morphargo defeated Mrs. R. Lambert Chambers and C. F. Aeschliman in the mixed doubles, 6-3, 6-2.

The teams of Elizabeth Ryan and Kitty McKane also were easy victors in the mixed doubles. King Manuel of Portugal, playing under the name of Count Dourem, and his partner were nicely trounced in the men's doubles by A. E. Schliman and De Graffe, 7—5 and 6—3.

The Beausite tournament will begin on Monday.

THREE K.'S SHIFT POSITIONS IN CUE STANDINGS

In a little different order from the preceding week's, the three Ks again are again at the top of the close race for the Blake trophy in the Chicago Billiard league. Augie Kleckhefer, who did not play, was passed by Kendall, while the Kenny-Reid combination climbed into a tie for second place with Kleckhefer. Victories by Grauman and Jacobs advanced them to a tie for fourth place and so close is the fight for the title they are only half a game behind Kendall.

Bert Tredick was the worst sufferer last week, two defeats dropping him to seventh place.

Kendall Meets Kenney.

Tomorrow at the Kleckhefer Recreation room, Kendall [44] will meet Kenney [50], and the clash of these leaders is expected to crowd the room to capacity. The standing:

Hoppe at Mussey's.

Champion Willie Hoppe, king of the balk liners, and Charles C. Peterson of St. Louis will start a week of exhibition matches at Mussey's Madison street room tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, playing again at 8. Peterson is getting in trim for his shortstop championship match with Albert Cutler.

Charley McCourt of Pittsburgh will be here Tuesday for two games with Pierre Maupome in the Interstate Three Cushion league. They will play at Mussey's Jackson boulevard room at 2 and 8 o'clock. These will be Maupome's last games in the Interstate league here. It looks as if John Larsen, Bob Cannefax, Otto Reiselt, and Tiff Denton have the first four places in the league race cinched, although Clarence Jackson still has a chance to get in for the championship finals, in which the four top men will play.

NOTES OF THE GOLFERS.

Mrs. F. C. Hale Jr. of the Onwentsia club has returned from a vacation in southern California, and expects soon to start practice for the season's turnaments.

Employes of the Thomas E. Wilson and company athletic goods store, will stage an indoor tournament at Bob MacDonald's school on Thursday night.

SMOKE UP!
[Cha'le, Ill.]

While workward I direct my pace
I see no store at any place
Whose windows have not on display
A most bewildering array
Of cigarets.

Pedestrians along the street
Seem with the world at peace complete
And not a one of them will fail
As I pass by him to inhale
A cigaret.

While at my desk I get the hunch
That maybe I should grab some lunch,
But at the restaurant I discern
No eats—the lunchers' main concern
Is cigarets.

The office boy when back I hike
Informs me that the boss would like
To see me, and I find what he Desires to offer me
A cigaret.

While cabbing to my favorite grill
Uptown, the driver pulls a pill;
The boy who check my garments guffs
Me some, and on the quiet puffs
A cigaret.

At dinner no one round about
Seems likely o'er to get the gout
For not a soul is dining, and None drink, but each one has in hand
A cigaret.

Throughout the day, throughout the night,
All individuals in sight,
At home, abroad, at play, at work
Are true and loyal as a Turk
To cigarets.

I never realized the aim
Of everyone who has a name
Is just to smoke, until the doc
Had up and sentenced me to knock Off cigarets.

HAGEN BEATS OUT HUTCH FOR FOREST TITLE

Asheville, N. C., March 24.—Walter Hagen captured the Asheville-Biltmore Forest open golf championship here today by coming from behind in the second day's play and defeating Jock Hutchison, who yesterday lead the field. Hagen scored a 72 this afternoon, his total for the seventy-two holes being 284.

Joe Kirkwood upset the dope by taking second place money with 291, although he played the entire seventy-two holes while suffering from strained muscles in the right shoulder. Hutchison finished third.

DORT SIX

Each year, since the first automobile, there has been some one car above all others, which had an outstanding feature that manufacturers, dealers and motorists alike conceded to be the pacemaker for the industry. This year that honor and distinction goes to Dort with its overhead valve six-cylinder motor that operates in a "bath of oil." Wherever automobiles are sold, from Lake Forest to South Chicago, from one end of the country to the other, those who know cars and car values hold one unswerving opinion about the Dort Six, and that opinion is—it has one of the most remarkable power plants ever built, with a lubrication system far and away in advance of all others.

DISCORD HOVERS OVER REDS' CAMP; HURTS CHANCES

Up to Pat Moran to Swing Them Into Line.

BY HUGH FULLERTON.
ARTICLE VIII.

Orlando, Fla., March 24.—[Special.]—Cincinnati presents for consideration another world's championship candidate. Unless the elements of discord that now threaten the success of the team prevail, the Reds are practically a certain one, two, three club, and a team which promises to battle in the finals.

PAT MORAN.

There is not much added to what Moran had when he flashed that hectic finish last fall and, in fact, the team does not look as good as the one with which he finished. It would look better if Rousch, Daubert, Rixey, and Caveny were heart and soul with the team and had reported on time. Rousch, who has become something of a joke because of his annual holdouts, is still missing; Daubert has been ill; Rixey is absent, and Caveny, a youngster who ought to know better, only recently reached the team to look them over. There is not the winning spirit nor any team spirit in this team, which needs a spur and a drive to go through to victory, nor is it in advanced condition or working together.

Reds Have Great Camp.

It is a queer thing to the ordinary man for a bunch of men, with every incentive for work, to be neglecting the prime essentials of training. This team has what I consider to be the best training camp in America, the best climate, the best hotel, the best water [although they are bringing the water they drink here in Florida from Crazy Wells, Tex.], and one of the best training fields of the country. It has a team which finished strong last season and which was, during the last month, the best team in the league. It has a manager who is one of the best in the world, a judge of human nature, of pitching, and of condition.

The fact is that if we consider every man on the team at his figure worth, and all that, the Reds would have the pennant in hand right now. But there are drawbacks.

Team Is Showing Nothing.

The team has been in the field long enough to show a lot, and it is showing nothing. It isn't in shape. The fellows who are on the job seem to be waiting for those who haven't come to start something. They have been in the field longer than either the Browns or the Athletics, for instance, and are a week behind them in getting ready.

Moran hasn't had a fair chance, Rousch does as he pleases, which inclines the others to do as they please. And the funny thing is that they take Rousch to be as good as he claims to be—which he isn't by 50 per cent.

Daubert has a legitimate excuse as he has been sick. Rixey hasn't any at all and Caveny, virtually a kid, was two weeks getting here from California and looked rotten when he came, which is a test of spirit.

Brains of Team Absent.

This to show the team spirit. Moran is a great manager and a fellow who extracts the last ounce of the best baseball he can get out of a team—but when he cannot get the team together to teach it baseball he is helpless. Pat is ready to start brain work and most of the brains that need training are absent.

This team will not be much different from what it was last fall. Moran was practically set on his team then. The first base job depended on Daubert, of course, and Jake has upset calculations. Wheeler can hold the job and so can Ponseca. The only two promising additions picked up are Fowler, who, some day, will be a great ball player, and a pitcher named Roberts, a big right hander who looks to be a real find. He has a Donohuesque movement and he is strong, smart and a willing worker.

I'm disappointed in the Reds' condition and in the spirit I find in the team. The boys aren't hustling and perhaps it is because some of the veterans who ought to have been here were missing and the youngsters could not understand it.

Fowler Sure to Come Along.

Fowler is the discovery of the spring, a fellow who is certain to come along, a slashing hitter and very promising on the infield. The Reds had him last year, sent him to Newark, and when he was switched from position to position, pulled him back and sent him to Knoxville. He is a corking prospect, but has small chance of being a regular.

Klumick is a corking prospect and will be retained probably as utility man. Hock from Atlanta has made good and will be kept. The Reds were frightfully short on pitchers during the hot stove series, but the acquisition of Rube Benton (if he is permitted to play) will help. When he joined the team he was fat and awkward and it is probable it will take him some time to come around.

Roberts a Real Find.

The two pitching prospects are Roberts and Harris—and Harris, a big right hander, has developed a small kink in his arm which is not helpful. Roberts is a real find and he is liable to help the T[illegible]s a lot during the season.

Harris was a corking pitcher on the Winston-Salem team last year, and this big Roberts, who hails from the Cotton States league, looks like Death Valley Jim Scott, and has a whirlwind overhand fast curve. For the rest, Moran is keeping his veterans.

The team is in the field early, has had the best weather of any team I have seen, ideal training, and still is slow getting into shape. Moran is worried. He cannot start training a team until the team reports—and the delay of Rousch and others upset training plans seriously.

Given so this team looks like a one, two, three proposition in the National league and has a chance at the big money.

Eddie Anderson Suspended and Fined by Sports Alliance

BY FRANK SMITH.

If boxing fans have been under the impression that the Chicago chapter of the National Sports alliance was joking when it suspended Dick Curley, manager, and five of his boxers for infractions of the alliance rules, they will be brought up with a jolt this morning when they learn that Eddie Anderson, popular bantamweight from Moline, has received an indefinite suspension and a fine of $150 for refusal to go through with his bout with Jack Elle before the Emil Shieve post of the American Legion at Lyons on Monday night.

EDDIE ANDERSON. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Anderson pleaded illness yesterday morning as an excuse, and asked that a substitute be found to fill his part of the agreement. Tom Walsh, his manager, who also is secretary of the local chapter of the alliance, demurred, declaring that the post would not have the proper time to make the substitution and that he would not call off the bout without the sanction of the alliance and informed Eddie that he must present himself before that body and state his case.

Eddie Fails to Appear.

Anderson failed to appear for physical examination to determine the extent of his illness, and Walsh turned the case over to the alliance for settlement. The fine and suspension followed.

Anderson's refusal to appear before the alliance cost him a bout with Patsy Flannigan at Minneapolis on April 6. Walsh holding that if Anderson is too ill to appear at Lyons, he is too ill to appear at Minneapolis. Walsh is strong for the enforcement of the alliance rules and declared that his boxers will have to realize that they must abide by the constitution and bylaws of the organization.

Patsy Flannigan hopped into the breach at Lyons occasioned by the defection of Anderson and is expected to give Elle even a better battle than might be expected from Eddie. Patsy and Jack use the same style of milling, both being exceptionally aggressive. Tickets for the bout are on sale at the usual places.

Coffey Signs Two Champs.

With the startling announcement of the punishment that befell Anderson there came good news for the boxing fans. Joe Coffey, matchmaker for the show to be given at the Coliseum on April 4 for the benefit of St. Mary's orphanage, issued a bulletin stating that he had signed Joe Lynch and Midget Smith, both of New York, for his show, which will feature the Genaro-Taylor ten round bout.

It was also stated that there was another whirlwind bout in the making, but that it would have to be kept under cover until both boys put their John Hancocks to the parchment. There will be at least one bout in addition to the three mentioned and possibly a fifth, making the show an affair worth going miles to see.

Coffey says that already there is a demand for tickets to the big show, and due announcement will be made when they are put on sale.

Alliance Meeting Today.

Today will be a big day for the local chapter of the Sports alliance. It will hold its second "open" meeting, which will be staged at the La Salle theater between the hours of 2 and 4 o'clock. Every sportsman of Chicago is invited to be present. It is expected that many influential business and professional men will address the meeting. Judge A. J. Hedding of Milwaukee, father of the Wisconsin boxing bill, has promised to be present to tell of the advantages to the state of legalized boxing and the moral effect of the manly art of self-defense upon the youth.

William Cunnea, Socialist candidate for mayor; George Hilton, formerly a professional boxer and senator; William A. Sexton, former corporation counsel; Col. John V. Clinnin, and Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, are expected to be on the platform.

Senator Jimmy Walker, author of the New York boxing bill, had been invited to be present but was unable to get here in time. He will be at the disposal of the alliance at a future date.

Walker Comes Later.

President Jim Mullen announced that in view of the fact that Mr. Walker could not be present that the reception committee will not meet at the Arcade gym this morning at 9:30 as planned, and that the proposed dinner at the La Salle had been stricken from the program.

BOXING BILL HEARING

SENATOR SIDNEY LYONS, chairman of the Illinois state senate subcommittee to which has been referred the various boxing bills presented at Springfield, has called a special open meeting at the Hotel La Salle tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

This meeting is open to all who favor or oppose boxing. The subcommittee is composed of fifteen senators who are expected to be present to hear arguments for and against the sport.

Influential men, interested in seeing boxing legalized in the state, are urged to be present and state their views.

CRIQUI ARRIVES FOR TITLE BOUT WITH KILBANE

New York, March 24.—Following the footsteps of Georges Carpentier, who captured the world's light heavyweight championship in this country several years ago, Eugene Criqui of France, European featherweight champion, arrived today aboard the liner Paris in quest of pugilistic laurels.

Criqui is under contract with Tom O'Rourke, matchmaker of the Polo Grounds A. C., for three matches in the United States, but his immediate goal—providing certain difficulties with the New York state athletic commission can be smoothed out—is a title match with Johnny Kilbane, world's featherweight champion, at the Polo grounds on June 2.

MRS. GARDINI TO TRAIN HUSBAND FOR LEWIS BOUT

Mrs. Renato Gardini, young wife of the Italian mat star, who is matched with Ed Strangler Lewis for the world wrestling championship at the Coliseum, Tuesday, April 3, announces that she will be sole adviser, manager and trainer in chief for her husband in his preparations for the battle.

MRS. EDITH GARDINI.

"I will see to everything necessary to make certain that Renato is perfectly right when he takes the mat against the champion," she said. "Contrary to all adverse opinion, I am convinced that a wife's place is at her man's side in an undertaking where his physical welfare is so much the paramount issue, and I mean to see the thing through to a finish, now that I have started.

"Renato will have to do exactly as I order in the matter of eating, resting and training. I will have a say in regard to regulating the time in which he is to work, so that there will be no chance of his overdoing and going stale.

"As to my man's chances of winning the title, that is practically assured, providing he is in the best of condition. I think that short arm scissors that my hubby uses is just as effective as the champion's headlock."

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 24.—Post positions were drawn today for the $30,000 Coffroth handicap, to be run at the Tijuana race track tomorrow afternoon. Places were assigned to twenty horses, including some of the best runners on the American turf. Feylance of the Ross stable, generally regarded as favorite, drew next to the outside position. The rail position went to Prince Tii Tii, a 3 year old from the Meadowbrook stable.

Record crowds coming to this city for the big race have filled every hotel and many applicants were directed tonight to apartment houses and private homes.

Murray set a killing pace for the score of court stars who took part in the championships. He defeated last year's champion, Art Schinners, Milwaukee, 21—1 and 21—3. Baltimore's star, Hobelmann, fell, 15—21, 21—4, and 21—18. Carl H. Edge, St. Paul, former champion, fell before the swift and sure Murray, 21—18, 15—21, and 21—11.

Why So Many Baldheaded Men?

EVERY DAY this question goes unanswered. Every day Baldness seems to increase. In spite of the many hair and scalp treatments on the market—in spite of tonics, dandruff cures and hair growers, falling hair appears to be more and more prevalent.

Without proper scientific treatment the hair and scalp cannot be restored to a normal, healthy condition. But by giving your hair a chance, by following a safe and common sense course of treatment and giving it an honest and legitimate trial, you may rest assured that you can and will have abundant, vigorous hair.

THE THOMAS METHOD, triumphing over Baldness, has proved that luxuriant hair can be replenished on any spot where hair formerly grew. It is the discovery of Prof. P. A. Thomas, who personally diagnoses every case of hair and scalp disorder and directs THE THOMAS HAIR-GROWING SPECIALISTS. His method is safe, quick and sure, growing hair on heads which have been bald for twenty or twenty-five years—a problem heretofore acknowledged to be an impossibility.

Stops Falling Hair

Regardless of the number of remedies you may have tried without evident success, regardless of your age or the length of time your scalp disease has existed, Prof. Thomas promises you a growth of new hair if he agrees to accept you for treatment. He has studied the nature and causes of Itching Scalp, Falling Hair, Baldness and Dandruff. He can remove the cause, and that once removed there is nothing to stop the free and steady growth of hair, it being nurtured and fed by scientific, exclusive preparations. Out of 1,300 patients accepted for treatment in the last two years, only 3 have proved to be failures.

If you are incredulous, visit Prof. Thomas yourself. Free consultation in private offices will convince you of his sincerity. Furthermore, the satisfied men and women who constantly come in and out of his new parlors and demonstration rooms will assure any skeptic of his success.

Positive Proof

Hundreds of testimonials and sworn statements are on file for the inspection of interested parties. Also indorsements from doctors and reputable physicians, many of whom have themselves been benefited and have thenceforth endorsed THE THOMAS TREATMENT as sure and efficient—a revelation in scalp rejuvenation.

What has been done for others can also be accomplished for you. You need no longer be Bald unless through choice. Call for consultation; or write in confidence regarding your trouble. New Booklet—"Triumph of Science Over Baldness"—will be sent absolutely FREE.

Guarantee

We tender a legal money-back guarantee to promote a growth of new hair on bald heads or spots where hair formerly grew, or to refund every penny paid without quibble. Bank references as to our reliability gladly given.

Treatments are administered only at our offices by expert licensed operators. Our remedies for growing hair are not for sale at stores or public places, and our system is not permitted to be used by other hair and scalp specialists in Chicago.

Pittsburgh Opens War on Trucks to Save Its Streets

Officials Urge Revision of Weight Limit in State.

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 24.—Mayor William A. Magee, Pittsburgh councilmen, and other officials of the city, and representatives from Allegheny county, have sought the aid of the state highway commissioner, Paul D. Wright, in what Councilman Robert Garland termed "the battle against waste."

The Pittsburgh people are particularly interested in securing legislation restricting the weight of trucks below the 26,000 pound limit fixed by law.

"The time will come," said Councilman Garland to Mr. Wright, "when the owners of the trucks which are now breaking up streets in Pennsylvania municipalities will themselves suffer, because it is impossible for those streets to 'stand up'; and the result is bound to be delay in the shipments and the expenditure of inordinate sums of money for repairs necessitated by bad street conditions."

Daniel Winters, president of Pittsburgh council, urged a reduction of the weight limit.

"It is cheaper to restrict a few trucks," he said, "than to bankrupt our municipalities in the effort to maintain streets. In Pittsburgh, after breaking up one thoroughfare trucks have moved to another and broken that up; and then to a third, with the same result. It is time to stop it."

The highway commissioner told the delegation it is within the police powers of Pittsburgh to compel trucks to stay within the weight limits fixed for the various truck classes. He said, too, much damage results from the impact of trucks driven at high speed; and the police may also enforce the special limit fixed for each class of truck. Registrar Benjamin G. Eynon of the automobile division explained the highway department's use of hydraulic jack scales for truck weighing on highways. The Pittsburgh officials declared their intention of investigating this proposition, with the idea of purchasing similar devices for use in the city.

"Concerning the weight of trucks," said the highway commissioner, "this department cannot presume to suggest to the legislature what limits it shall fix. The department is now planning a traffic survey of the state at large, which will enable it to determine construction types necessary. But if any change is to be made in the law governing truck operation, or any other law affecting this department, the proposition is entirely one for the legislature."

Makes 'Em Walk.

Instead of imposing a fine or jail sentence on traffic law violators, Judge E. R. Burgess of Racine, Wis., in an effort to make the punishment fit the crime, is making reckless automobile drivers walk for thirty, sixty, or ninety days. People sentenced "to the sidewalks" may ride in trolley cars or jitney buses.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

He's Out to Learn the Truth About Motordom.

The Tribune will pay $5 each for questions accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter, Chicago Tribune." For today's question Mrs. Alex. C. Moeller, 410 Dechman avenue, Peoria, Ill., was awarded $5.

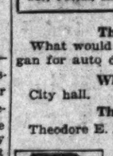
The Question.

What would be a good national slogan for auto drivers to adopt?

Where Asked.

City hall.

The Answers.



Theodore E. Lind, 716 North Central Park avenue, law clerk—"Watch Through Streets!" I live on a through street and not more than one driver out of twenty will come to a stop before entering a "through" street. I know; we counted them one night. Truck drivers are the worst offenders. Every avenue and street running into a through street should have a distinct stop signal of some sort.

James G. Barsaloux, 63d street and Blackstone avenue, real estate—"Observe the Law!"—that's the quickest way to get home to get anywhere. Too many autoists think they have the right of way, forgetting that the other fellow may not know every ordinance and every stopping place, forgetting that there are new drivers on the streets every day. Too many take it for granted that the other fellow is going to observe the law and do what he ought to do. Fifty per cent of our accidents are due to this misplaced confidence in the other fellow.

Charles A. Harrison, 734 North Leavitt street, chauffeur—"Watch Your Speed!" Accidents cost a lot of money, generally. I haven't had any myself; I watch my speed. But there are too many drivers who don't. Some of them seem to mistake our boulevards for a race track. Why, it looks as though the time is coming when they will have to put hazards in the streets, the same as they do at golf links.

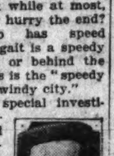
Use for "Moon."

City officials of Cincinnati, O., are utilizing the moonshine whisky seized by the police in raids as an anti-freeze aid for radiators of city automobiles. While it had been the custom to pour the contraband liquor into the sewers, in the new way the expense of alcohol is saved.

Hoosier Round-Up.

Approximately 100 citizens of Indianapolis, Ind., have organized a citizens' police force, for rounding up automobile speeders and others violating the traffic laws. The identity of the members is unknown even to the members of the regular traffic department.

William H. Tobin, 5334 Ferdinand street, police officer—"Stop! Look! and Live!"—as advocated by Robert N. Carson, good roads promoter of Iowa City. We are here only a short while at most, so why hurry the end? Chicago has speed enough. Our natural gait is a speedy one, whether on foot or behind the wheel in an auto. This is the "speedy city," instead of the "windy city."



Charles F. Blaine, special investigator, comptroller's office—"Don't Drink and Drive!" The observance of that slogan would avoid many an accident, keep many people out of hospitals, and keep the drivers out of jail. These institutions are already crowded to the limit. An autoist doesn't belong in a hospital, and he ill becomes the other place. The modern auto and the modern bottle don't go together.

Millions for Better Roads.

There will be $63,376,000 available for building better roads in the United States at the beginning of next year according to an announcement of the American Farm Bureau federation. The amounts allotted to the following states are: Illinois, $2,797,000; Indiana, $1,692,000; Iowa, $1,813,000; Wisconsin, $1,638,000, and Michigan, $1,942,000.

Advocate Gas Tax to Aid Coast in Road Building

CALIFORNIA must spend $18,272,703 during the fiscal years 1923 and 1924 to preserve its $92,000,000 investment in state highways. This estimate represents the minimum amount of money, according to the state highway commission, with which it can preserve the present state mileage. To meet the increased amount of money requested by the commission and to insure preservation of the state roads, the motor vehicle conference has approved the following methods of taxation:

Motor vehicle registration fee of $3.

A 2 cent fuel consumption tax to be made effective ninety days after the adjournment of the state legislature.

That trucks, in addition to the registration fee and fuel tax, pay the following additional fees: $10 for vehicles weighing (unladen) under 4,000 pounds; $40 for vehicles weighing over 4,000 pounds and under 6,000 pounds; $80 for vehicles weighing over 6,000 pounds and under 10,000; $150 for vehicles weighing over 10,000.

That such fees be placed in the motor vehicle fund and divided equally between the state and counties as at present provided.

A BENEFACTOR.

It may be said with moderation that he who makes two automobiles run where one runs now is at least as much of a benefactor of the race as he who makes two blades of grass grow where one grew before.

Court Decision May Push State Back Into Mud

Highway Interests Back Measure to Save Trunk Lines.

BY J. L. JENKINS.

WHILE Gov. Small's $100,000,000 bond issue battle surged high in political camps last week, the real good roads interests of Illinois combined in Springfield to combat a new menace that threatens traffic on every trunk line of the state where paving has not yet been laid.

These defense leaders declared that, through a recent Supreme court decision, a legal technicality will prevent county organizations from maintaining trunk lines and main arteries for travel. They pointed out that unless curative acts are passed at once the main traveled roads will revert to the ancient township jurisdiction and to the mud that made Illinois infamous ten years ago.

The Supreme court decided, in its test case, that counties in which road bonds have been voted cannot collect a separate tax for the maintenance of main roads within their boundaries. Thus, the Meents law, which originally took important roads from the control of township inefficiency and made it possible for the counties to develop the state's successful maintenance system, has been invalidated in practically every road district of the state.

Road experts long ago agreed that the old Yankee system of keeping up roads through township organizations is inefficient and undesirable for heavily traveled roads. The majority of states—forty-two of the forty-eight—have county maintained highways. All of them collect a special and separate tax to be used for highway maintenance and repair and for that purpose only. In Illinois progress in road improvements began through participation of county and state or federal government in the work. Townships proved themselves unable to properly maintain even the most important of the roads near cities of moderate size.

Curative acts, to prevent the wrecking of the state's well developed county maintenance systems and the extensive equipment collected, have already been proposed by the road and the bridge committee of the Firty-third general assembly. They are to be introduced by Chairman Frank McCarthy of that committee, and have the solid backing of practically every highway interest in Illinois. The amendments propose that provisions of the Meents law be safeguarded in the future and repair work continued under the present system.

Before the recent decision, the amount of tax granted to the counties for this work was 25 cents on $100 as a maximum. In Cook county the maximum levy last year was 10 cents, as compared with 5 cents this year. Most of the other counties levy their full amount in order to keep the main trunk lines safe for automobile travel, and a few have obtained additional amounts from their corporate funds.

In the west districts and some southern Illinois counties this maintenance work alone makes it possible for traffic to move over main roads where pavements have not yet appeared. These districts are particularly interested in pushing through the amendments.

It was pointed out yesterday that the large levies of the first year under the county system were made in order to purchase equipment and supplies for the work. Cook county and many others are now provided with road rollers, graders, rock crushers and other machinery and can operate at greatly reduced expense.

The Meents law grew from the steady wave of protests and complaints pouring in from every district in the state some years ago because of impassable roads and negligence of township repair forces. County organizations could participate in road improvements through the voting of bond issues to pave those roads designated as "state aid" highways, usually the most important local arteries. The townships were called on to maintain these roads until such time as they could be paved. Through lack of funds and, in some cases, with the hope of early improvement work, the townships gave little or no attention to their highway charges.

When the law, which is now in jeopardy, made the counties responsible and gave them the money to carry forward this important work, complaints ceased abruptly. Little opposition is expected by exponents of the proposed amendments.

ALL SAFE—LIKE THIS.

There's a nice art in turning a proper corner. It is a serious business, too, judging from Jackie Coogan's face in this, his latest automotive picture. The tiny star has had little time to give the studio since "Dad" presented him with this new touring sedan recently. He is out to master safety rules in their order before trusting his shiny present to the open road.

Melting Snow in Yosemite Offers Early Opening

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK.—Snow is disappearing fast on the high levels of Yosemite National park, and every indication points to an early opening of the automobile roads.

"It looks now as if the Wawona road will be open to travel around April 1," said G. S. Sovulewski, chief of the government's maintenance and construction forces, when he returned from an inspection trip by horseback. If that date holds good, then the Big Oak Flat road from the north should be traversible the latter part of May and the spectacular Tioga road early in July.

Travel will not be permitted over any road in the park until the surface is dry enough to withstand damage. Supt. Lewis has authority under the 1923 regulations to prohibit travel over any road as conditions may warrant. Experience in years past has shown that too early travel over any road really worked hardship on the great number of travelers coming after and that the government's small road fund was eaten up making repairs which otherwise would have been unnecessary. Bulletins issued by Supt. Lewis will give ample notification when motorists can find the open road for the valley incomparable.

Chief Ranger Forest S. Townsley also has reports that snow is disappearing rapidly. All the roads in Yosemite valley are open and the exit roads can be traveled for a great distance up the valley walls. Daily sightseeing trips for visitors who reach the valley by train via El Portal are being operated to Inspiration Point on the Wawona road and to Rainbow View on the Big Oak Flat road.

STATES RECIPROCATE.

Twenty-four states in the Union have "reciprocal" laws for visiting motorists to operate cars. Other states permit visits from seven days to four months.

EXPERTS GAIN.

According to the present outlook 50,000 American automobiles may be shipped into England during 1923. The production in that country this year is estimated at 75,000 cars.

Aerial Taxi.

Aeroplanes plying for hire in London are to be fitted with taximeters. At 10 cents a mile the clock will show a fare working out at a little more than $35 a head for three people from London to Paris.

Now "Engineers."

A new $400,000 clubhouse was recently opened in New York City for professional operators of private automobiles. The title of "chauffeur" being objectionable, the organization is called the Society of Professional Automobile Engineers.

HIS OPTION.

Motorists, when approaching a railroad crossing in Ramsey county, Minnesota, are asked by a sign, carefully placed to attract the attention of the operator, whether he prefers his home to the morgue.

Now All Right.

All the Canadian provinces except Nova Scotia have adopted the "drive to the right" rule of the road, and Premier E. H. Armstrong has introduced a bill in the assembly designed to make Nova Scotia's traffic movement the same as that of the remainder of the Dominion and the United States. Heavy tourist traffic from the United States is largely responsible for the proposed change. A little over a year ago British Columbia, which for years had been telling Americans, "When you're left, you're right; and when you're right you're wrong," switched from left drive to right.

Popular Tour.

Approximately 300,000 automobiles toured the historic battlefield of Gettysburg, Pa., last year. Cars from every state in the union were found touring the twenty-two miles of government highways

The Inside Reason for Oakland Success-Known Mileage

What single thing—more than any other—is influencing so many careful buyers in favor of the Oakland this year? What definite superiority accounts for the increasing number of Oaklands you meet on the streets every day?

AFTER all, the success of a motor car depends upon the success of its engine! To the Oakland engine, therefore, must go the major credit for Oakland's phenomenal success this year.

If ever a manufacturer set about deliberately to build the finest light-six engine that could be built—Oakland did! Materials were chosen with scrupulous care! Special steel alloys were employed wherever they would increase efficiency, lessen weight, or insure longer life.

The costliest bronze-backed, patented bearings were chosen; cylinders were honed to the smoothness of glass; special design, two-piece piston rings were employed—and the workmanship was checked and re-checked to infinitesimal dimensions.

Because Oakland employs only the finest metals known to motor building practice—and because of the accurate and precise standards that prevail in Oakland factories—the Oakland company is able to offer you a car that will give exceptionally long mileage,—known mileage, free from trouble or expense.

Oakland knows, for instance, that in addition to the remarkable mileages given above, an Oakland will average from 20 to 25 miles per gallon of gas and 15,000 to 25,000 miles per set of tires.

REMEMBER these things when you choose a car this spring. Compare an Oakland—in points that you can see or feel—with any other car and you will understand why so many careful buyers are convincing themselves that the Oakland Six offers more for the dollar than any other automobile built.

Auto Plants Fall Behind in Spring Race with Demand

Lake Boats Help to Deliver Cars to Middle West.

BY WHITCOMB WILLIAMS.

DETROIT, Mich., March 24.—[Special.]—Ask any producer, sales manager, or traffic manager to express an opinion on the automobile industry, both present and as far into the future as he can see, and his answer is brief. One word will express it, and that word is invariably the same:

"Swamped."

They add that the income of orders is now exceeding the outgo of the finished product by just about 25 per cent. The output might be increased another 10 or 15 per cent if conditions were better. This means the possibility of obtaining a greater number of skilled mechanics, better freight conditions, and more material of the right quality. The steel mills are doing all they can to supply automobile steel, and the axle, motor, and transmission manufacturers are crowded to their very limit. In fact so great is the demand from these sources that the month of May will be well advanced before the books are cleared of orders now on hand.

Within the last ten days no less than three large lake vessels were purchased for the exclusive shipment of automobiles. These boats will ply out of Cleveland and Detroit to Chicago, Duluth, Milwaukee and Buffalo, and will do much toward relieving traffic conditions throughout the summer.

February was the eleventh consecutive month to witness automobile production above the 200,000 mark. Considering it was a very short month, the feat is especially a remarkable one. March will surely be the twelfth month of similar production, and, if it maintains the strides made during the first half of the month, production during the first quarter of 1923 will double that of the same period last year.

Dealers and distributors who visited Michigan plants within the last few weeks placed orders that justifies the mammoth production schedules effective in all plants throughout this district. Few dealers who come to Detroit to personally place their orders return to their homes satisfied. They want more cars than the salesmanagers will allow them.

A canvass of the larger plants brings the announcement that only about 50 per cent of the freight cars needed to move the automobiles to all sections of the country are being supplied by the railroads. This means a greater number of driveaways, more cars in the caravans, and longer drives in an effort to aid the transit problem.

There are several reasons for the great demand of automobile vehicles, and the unusually heavy buying. First is the more general realization of the necessity of individual transportation. Others include the greatly improved service available this year. Dealers and manufacturers realize that the factor of service is a big determinant in sales and have acted accordingly.

The annual report which was this week make public by General Motors corporation shows large figures and many of them. The net sales for 1922 was $463,766,733; and sales of units 464,763—the highest figure in its history.

Exclusive of all charges, the surplus available for dividends was $51,496,136.

Demand for automobiles among the farmers of the country this spring is five times as great as it was a year ago. The figures compiled show that a prosperous farm market in Nebraska, the Dakotas, Missouri, Mississippi, Iowa, and Kansas is being rapidly developed. Reports show the farmers in these states are buying 100 automobiles for every twenty they bought a year ago. Good crops were marketed last year, for which fair prices were received, and the farmers throughout those states say that for the first time in several years they have a surplus of money after paying their debts.

GOSSIP OF THE AUTO TRADE

COMES now the "Gypsy," latest development of the great American pastime of motor camping. The new car, built on a Moon chassis, is designed by John H. Quinlan, Moon wholesale distributor, and is now on exhibition in Chicago showrooms. The body is apparently of standard construction, but a special device allows the dropping of the front seat to the floor to provide ample and comfortable sleeping quarters in the car itself. A complete kitchen outfit is held in the special trunk carried at the rear. This trunk, which forms a camp table and includes in its lay-out cook stove, refrigerator, ice water tank and all needed culinary utensils, will be marketed both as a "Gypsy" model adjunct and as a separate camp outfit.

The Gardner Motor company of St. Louis has announced the appointment of the Edwards and Crist company, 2235 Michigan avenue, as distributor of Gardner cars in the Chicago territory. Addition of the Gardner to its full line of Auburn cars is looked upon as a decided advantage by the veteran Chicago firm.

Louis Geyler, Chicago distributor for Dort, was notified last week that in a speed and economy test of the Dort Six, made in St. Joseph, Mo., the car traveled a measured mile in 61 seconds and averaged 26 miles to the gallon over difficult Missouri hills.

R. Ritter, former Velie dealer and later identified with the Marmon and Hupmobile branch in Englewood, has joined the sales forces of the R. C. Cook company, Velie distributor.

Four factory officials who took part in the turning out of the "two lunger" which started the Buick company on its manufacturing career, were present last week at the "unveiling" of the millionth Buick car as it left the Flint plant production line. The huge Flint organization joined in celebrating the millionth car birthday.

Earl G. Gunn, identified with automotive engineering since 1904, has been appointed chief engineer for Lafayette Motors.

HUGE PRODUCTION.

Official 1921 figures show that United States tire factories for that year produced 27,275,000 casings, while 33,378,000 tubes were manufactured. The 1922 figures are expected to far exceed this.

Read Here Some Reasons for Auto Deaths in City

A REVIEW of 230 personal injury and death cases, conducted by the Chicago Motor club, shows the direct cause of the accidents in question.

The club points out that while forty-three of these cases were caused by the pedestrian crossing the street at the wrong place, investigation does not indicate that the motorist was without blame.

This list was compiled with no intention of placing the liability, but simply showing how accidents occur.

The 230 cases which were picked at random from official files follow:

One case auto passing up street car unloading passengers.
One case bright lights shining on other car.
One case pulling away from curb without giving signal.
One case injuring conductor throwing switch.
Two cases brakes not holding.
Two cases pedestrian walking on country road after dark.
Three cases pedestrians crossing street between parked cars.
Three cases entering boulevard without making stop.
Four cases pedestrians crossing street contrary to traffic signals.
Six cases jumping from truck or wagon into path of auto.
Six cases making turn at intersection across traffic.
Seven cases pedestrians crossing street while intoxicated.
Eight cases bicycles running into autos.
Nine cases driving on wrong side of street.
Eleven cases skidding.
Twelve cases pedestrians walking into side of cars.
Sixteen cases pedestrians becoming confused while crossing street.
Eighteen cases speeding.
Eighteen cases careless driving.
Nineteen cases children running into street while playing.
Forty-three cases pedestrians crossing street at improper place.
Thirty-nine cases pedestrians coming from behind another vehicle.

Use Roadsters.

Policemen in Petersburg, Va., operate runabouts over their patrols. The officers are ordered to drive through every street and alley on their beats at least ten times in twenty-four hours. It is said that the "cops" can whisk their prisoners into the small cars and hand them to the nearest precinct station in much quicker time than they could get a patrol wagon

AMERICAN ACE FACES LOCKOUT FROM AIR LANES HE CONQUERED

LOVE and duty are hard at it again, this time centering their ancient battle lines about the person of Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, American ace turned automobile manufacturer.

Eddie is confronted with two alternatives. The attractive first opens his beloved air lanes for his personal use whenever the flying spirit moves him. The stern second keeps him glued to the ground but insures his life to his manufacturing concern in the sum of $1,000,000.

What to do?

Latest bulletins showed "Rick" still struggling with his problem.

Autos Eat Copper.

Copper equivalent to one-fourth of Arizona's output of the metal for the year was used in 1922 in the automobile manufacturing industry. The Arizona output was 418,000,000 pounds. The motor car factories in copper, brass and bronze parts and fittings, used about thirty pounds of the metal to the car, or a total weight of 108,280,000 pounds. Many substitutes for copper were found by the manufacturers during the war period, when the metal was high in price and held for war needs, but now, with ample available supply and with relatively low cost there is expectation that copper will be used to a much greater extent in motor car manufacture.

Award Show Prizes.

As a result of two months of intensive comparison of several thousands of essays submitted in the contest inaugurated in December by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce to disclose the value of the national automobile shows to the public, the manufacturers of motor cars, and the individual, the awards were made last Thursday. The winners of the three Tiffany watches are as follows: First prize, E. Phil Merrill, C. H. Wills & Co., Marysville, Mich.; second prize, W. W. Hodge, 21 Suburban road, Worcester, Mass.; C. A. Byers, 910 California building, Los Angeles, Cal.

TRACTION COMPANIES USE AUTOS.

Motor busses are operated by thirty-six electric traction companies in various sections of the United States.

New York Prepares New Home for 1924 Automobile Show

NEW YORK.—Because of the continued growth of the National Automobile show, held annually in New York City, the industry has been forced to abandon its custom of holding the event at the Grand Central palace and has been able to secure the Eighth Coast Artillery armory, 168th street and Jerome avenue, for the 1924 exhibition, which will be held Jan. 5 to 12, inclusive.

This armory is the largest exhibition building in the world not having interior pillars. It affords 150,000 square feet of unobstructed ground floor space and 24,000 square feet of balcony. This means that every car exhibitor can have space on the main floor and that there will be ample room for the public to get a ready view of all the models on display.

The building is at one of the express stations of the Lexington avenue subway and is within twenty-eight minutes of 42d street. There is ample parking space around the building, so that it is readily accessible for motorists.

The new location is favorable for the trade, as the armory has an assembly hall which will seat 800, thus enabling the factory organizations and other associations connected with the industry to hold meetings in connection with the show.

The restaurant at the building accommodates 700 and will be available for group luncheons and dinners.

Mutual Profits.

Tourist travel is a recognized industry in Colorado, where in 1922 visitors spent $42,000,000, according to a canvass made by the Denver tourist bureau. It's the only known business wherein the purchaser literally uses the scenic goods then puts it back, satisfied, on the high shelf of the Rockies.

New Gear Shift.

A small lever has been designed, placed on the steering wheel of one of the standard American passenger automobiles, which sets the gear shift at any desired speed. When the clutch is pushed in, releasing the gears, the shift is made automatically.

Corn Belt Chiefs War on Advanced Road Oil Prices

Question Value of Oiled Highway After Few Seasons.

BY E. E. PIERSON.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., March 24.—[Special.]—Declaring that an unreasonably high price is being asked for road oil this spring the McLean county board of highway commissioners, at a massmeeting here, voted to reject all bids submitted. This county will distribute approximately 1,400,000 gallons this year if the quotations drop. Otherwise, many of the townships, with limited appropriations, will reduce the quantity or decide to abandon oil distribution altogether for the year.

Most of the figures submitted are a trifle under 6 cents a gallon. Last year, most of the oil was contracted for at 5 cents.

There is the usual difference of opinion among experts. R. O. Edwards, superintendent of highways for McLean county, claims to have information from a source that he believes trustworthy, that oil will be much cheaper in April. Leading oil authorities are quoted as saying that there is a stronger tone in nearly all nationally used products and that oil is participating in the general inflation. Gasoline has advanced in price several times already this year and they think that road oil will grow stronger as the year rolls along.

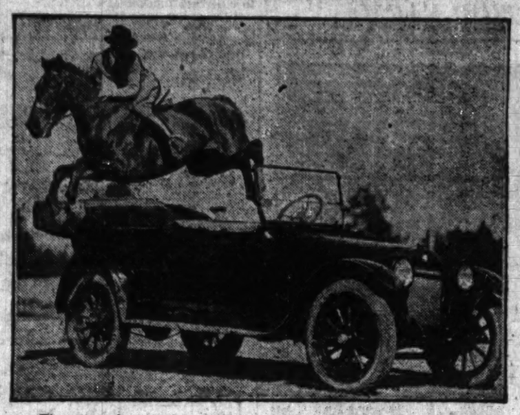
Permanency of road oiling is being questioned by many highway commissioners and other road experts. They believe that for the first few years oil is a good thing, and serves admirably as a binder, resulting in a smooth, hard surfaced road, which is ideal for motor vehicles, and is also waterproof. The average road appears to improve with successive oilings for three to five years. After a certain period the soil appears to rot or fails to assimilate the oil, and the surface of the road crumbles, holes develop, and the binding qualities of the oil are no longer possible. Macon county highway commissioners agree that the roads that have been given the greatest amount of oil treatment are now among the poorest, proving that oil has served its purpose, and that deterioration has set in.

If these experts are right, then the only answer is to spend less money for oil and more for paving. That is, in fact, what Macon county is proposing to do. Long Creek township has voted to build hard roads rather than buy oil and other townships are considering the same policy. Champaign county is leading all Illinois in progressiveness in relation to hard roads, voting a $2,500,000 bond issue to build concrete highways supplementary to those secured through the state bond issue.

GASOLINE LEAKAGE.

Leakage at the needle point will invariably cause gasoline to drop from the car when it is standing still.

TOPPING HIS RIVAL.



Tipperary, famous Canadian jumper, found one way to vindicate his species the other day when he used Dobbin's transportation rival as a means of breaking the equine long jump record in Augusta, Ga. The horse, owned by Jack Prestage of Calgary, made the leap, twenty-two feet in length and six and one-half feet high, using this seven passenger car as a hurdle.

Motors Are Cheaper.

The American Short Line Railroad association has found that many lines operate motor cars at a cost of from 10 to 25 cents a mile, including all charges, as compared with a cost of from 65 cents to $1 to the train mile in the operation of steam trains, according to a dispatch in the Wall Street Journal. The extremely low cost of 19 cents a mile covers the operation of smaller cars seating twenty to twenty-five passengers and served by one man. Larger cars, seating forty-five to fifty-five passengers and carrying baggage, are operated by two men and the average cost, including all charges, is 25 cents a mile.

A NEAR MOTOR CAR.

In England an attractive automobile is sold, built on racing lines, with long and impressive hood, which houses merely the passenger's feet, the motive power coming from a motorcycle engine at the rear.

Announcing
EDWARDS AND CRIST COMPANY

A Business Built on Service

Distributor of the GARDNER FOUR for Chicago and Adjacent Territory

The Gardner Motor Co., Inc., announces the appointment of Edwards and Crist as distributor of the Gardner Four in Chicago and throughout Northern Illinois, Eastern Iowa and Western Indiana.

This appointment, based on the desire to secure the best possible Gardner representation in the important Chicago market, is one that we make known with very real satisfaction, and is the result of a very careful and thorough investigation of the field.

In the Edwards and Crist Co. we found a group of men whose conception of their responsibility toward the motoring public and whose ideals of service matched our own conception and our own ideals. For thirteen years they have consistently applied the Golden Rule in business, with the result that, from a small beginning, they have grown into a remarkably successful, strongly financed, highly rated organization, with a further asset in the universal good will of those with whom they have dealt.

The advantages of an association with such a distributor appealed to us strongly and we found them deeply interested in the unusual value offered in the Gardner Four, product of an organization that has been serving the American public with dependable transportation since 1882 and ranking today among the eight largest exclusive builders of Fours.

We feel, therefore, that Gardner interests could not be in better hands; we know that the Gardner Four will be sold on a basis of fair dealing and honest presentation of value and that Gardner owners in Chicago will have at their disposal mechanical service of the highest type, backed up with a sincere determination to deliver full satisfaction.

Salesroom and service facilities, already excellent, will be still further improved with the determination to leave nothing undone to assure the giving of complete and satisfactory sales and mechanical service to present and prospective Gardner owners.

A showing of the latest Gardner models is now being made at the Edwards and Crist Co. display room, 2239 S. Michigan Avenue. The five bearing crankshaft—a most notable advance in four-cylinder design—is embodied in these Gardners. They are likewise the only automobiles built today that are guaranteed in writing for one year by their manufacturer.

A ride in one of these Gardners will give you a new conception of the performance possible in a Four—power, flexibility, smoothness such as no other car of this type ever showed you. Yet these cars are, as Gardners have always been, notable for economy of operation and upkeep and rare dependability. Like other Gardners, too, they are moderate in price.

Motor car dealers in this territory will likewise be interested in this announcement, since it offers the possibility of a connection with an exceptionally well qualified distributor and a firmly established line that has quadrupled last year's sales to date.

FARM AND GARDEN

Tile Troughs for Poultry Replace Pans and Ponds

By Frank Ridgway.

WORK connected with the management of a big flock of chickens in summer can be minimized by having watering and feeding equipment constructed so that cleaning and refilling can be done easily each day. Ample equipment that is cleaned without difficulty is essential if sanitation and cleanliness are to be properly looked after in hot weather when poultry houses and runs are often teeming with disease producing organisms.

On modern poultry farms chickens are no longer forced to drink from rusty pans and buckets or from muddy ponds at the back of the orchard. They are provided with fountains or troughs that are cleaned and refilled with fresh water daily.

Keeping Troughs Clean.

A Missouri poultryman, who has the job of caring for several thousand hens a day, says an eight inch glazed sewer or drain tile cut in two longitudinally and set in a concrete base is one of the simplest and most satisfactory watering troughs he has ever used. The water remains cool several hours, even in fairly warm weather. The glazed surface makes cleaning much easier, and eliminates the danger of metallic poisons that sometimes form where tin vessels are used. For this reason tile troughs are desirable, especially where milk is fed to chickens.

Managers of big plants are finding troughs made of half tile especially valuable because they can be made almost any length, depending upon the number of chickens to be watered. The sewer or drain tile eight inches in diameter and two feet in length is a convenient size.

A trough twenty feet long, made of ten two foot half tiles, is big enough to supply fresh water to a thousand chickens on the range. The cost of the concrete base and the tile, including labor and materials, is roughly estimated to be $1 a foot.

First Step Is to Excavate.

The base should be made two feet wide, the length depending upon the number of tiles used. Make the base twelve to sixteen inches longer than the trough in order to have an extension of six or eight inches at each end.

The first step is to excavate below the frost line and fill the hole level with the surface of the ground with a mixture of one part cement to seven parts of fine gravel and sand, with coarse gravel in the bottom. A 2x4 inch frame set around the outer edge of the base above the ground makes a good form.

The tile is placed on the base that comes to the level of the ground and the cement mixture—the same mixture used in finishing pavement—poured into the form around the trough. This puts the trough above ground, and the concrete level with the top edge of the tile makes a clean place for the birds to stand when they are drinking. The mixture runs in at the ends of the trough and before it sets, the cement is gradually sloped from the bottom of the tile upward. With smooth sloping ends, stale water and dirt can be easily swept out with a broom.

Summer Feeder Simple.

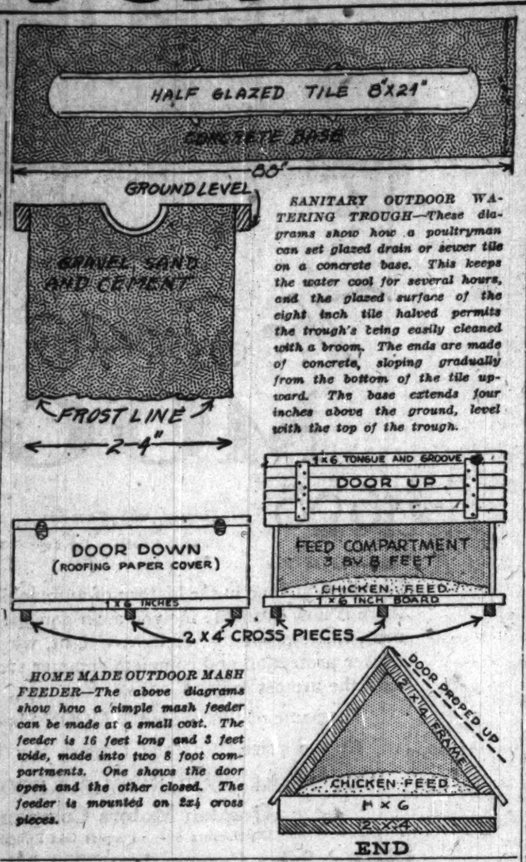
In the poultry yard near the trough should be an outdoor mash feeder, constructed so that it will hold an abundance of feed and be protected from summer rains. For this purpose the Missouri poultryman has a simply constructed summer feeder that he uses from the time the chicks are 2½ months old until they are transferred from the range to the laying house in the fall.

The essential feature of this feeder is a large traylike box. The bottom is made of tongue and groove pine and the sides of 1x6 inch boards. This tray is sixteen feet long, divided into two distinct compartments with four doors, two on each side, covered with three-ply roofing paper. Two by fours are used in building the frame to which the doors are hinged.

The floor is covered daily with a one inch layer of mash, and birds 10 weeks old are able to jump over the six inch board into the tray. This kind of summer feeder, with the doors hooked up, is easily cleaned and kept free from contamination. With the doors dropped the feed is kept dry on rainy days.

Farm Bureau Change.

Following the spring rush for planting corn, seeding oats, and building fences, a campaign for the reorganization of the farm bureaus in thirty Illinois counties will be started.



SANITARY OUTDOOR WATERING TROUGH—These diagrams show how a poultryman can set glazed drain or sewer tile on a concrete base. This keeps the water cool for several hours, and the glazed surface of the eight inch tile halved permits the trough's being easily cleaned with a broom. The ends are made of concrete, sloping gradually from the bottom of the tile upward. The base extends four inches above the ground, level with the top of the trough.

HOME MADE OUTDOOR MASH FEEDER—The above diagrams show how a simple mash feeder can be made at a small cost. The feeder is 16 feet long and 3 feet wide, made into two 8 foot compartments. One shows the door open and the other closed. The feeder is mounted on 2x4 cross pieces.

GARDEN NOTES

There is a rule scratched down in the notebook of many good gardeners that reads something like this: "Never allow cabbage to follow cauliflower or cauliflower to follow cabbage." The reason for this rule is that both crops are attacked by the same kinds of diseases and insects, and by rotating them with other vegetables losses from these pests are often avoided.

Many dangerous diseases are carried into gardens on plants. It pays to examine plants before setting them in the garden. Cabbage plants, for example, should be turned upside down and examined carefully for a disease known as yellows, which has been common in midwestern gardens during the last few years. Those with yellow leaves are probably diseased. Dwarfed, twisted leaves, with a dark brown streak in the sap tubes, are other symptoms of yellows.

Grand Rapid and Big Boston are two varieties of lettuce that have been giving good results in Chicago gardens during the last few years. They are worth trying.

Morning glories, ten week stock, and cosmos are among the annuals that may be planted in window boxes now.

Lettuce and other leafy crops are the kind to plant in shady corners. Many of the leafy crops do well on shaded ground, especially in July and August, when the sun often burns up unshaded crops.

Because manure taken from poultry houses contains a higher percentage of nitrogen than horse manure, flock owners and gardeners are finding it an excellent fertilizer to use on ground where heavy foliage crops are to be grown.

POULTRY TIPS

Small nests frequently cause trouble with sitting hens. Hens are never contented and often break the eggs or allow them to chill when they are kept in small nests.

Ten or twelve eggs under a hen should be the maximum, even when the hen is of the large, broody type.

The fresher eggs are when they are put in the incubator or under the hen, the better the chances are for a good hatch and strong chicks. Poultry experts say fourteen days should be the limit, because the risk in keeping the eggs longer than that is too great.

Service to Farmers.

A committee composed of representatives of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the American Farm Bureau federation, the American Society of Agriculture Engineers, and the National Electric Light association, met here a few days ago and outlined a plan of investigation for a more extensive use of electricity in the rural districts. Surveys will be made of four different phases of electrical power—farm power, central stations and isolated plant service to farmers, use of electricity in foreign countries, and experimental and research work on the use of electricity on the farm.

Mounting Butter Use.

Last year the consumption of butter in this country amounted to sixteen and one-tenth pounds per capita for the entire twelve months, and that is a pound increase over last year, according to G. L. McKay, secretary of the American Creamery Butter Manufacturers' association. At a recent meeting of the organization's executive committee held here, Mr. McKay said that the law requiring 80 per cent of butter fat in the manufacture of butter meets the approval of the association.

Berry Crop Losses.

The berry crop of Louisiana suffered an approximate loss of one-half million dollars as a result of a recent sharp drop in the temperature, according to a report from Tangipahoa. Reports from Amite, La., almost in the heart of the berry fields, indicate that nearly 800 carloads of berries, the last of the second crop, are believed to be destroyed.

Japan to Raise Its Own from Frogs to Cows

JAPAN'S increasing appetite for meat is bringing many of her representatives to this country every year to buy and study pure bred live stock, to analyze American farmers' advanced methods of breeding, and to get a glimpse, at least, of the gigantic packing industry centered in Chicago. Breeders of live stock in the United States are looking to Japan for buyers of many pure bred animals in the future.

There is a tendency among the Japs to use more beef, pork and mutton, and their agricultural leaders are getting ready to supply the growing demand with cattle, hogs and sheep bred and fed on their own land. For almost a decade their interest in American live stock has been especially noticeable, and every year they come to buy and learn. They are here this year buying everything from bullfrogs and poultry to beef cattle for breeding purposes.

Commission Visits Chicago.

A live stock commission from Japan visited Chicago a few days ago. The members, including M. Hada, Kan Matsushima, and M. Nagura, interviewed heads of live stock breeder organizations and visited the stockyards and packing plants. The commission was headed by Mr. Hada of Nosawa & Co., the firm through which practically all of the live stock bought by the Japanese government passes.

The Japanese breeder is finding a way to improve his native live stock by crossing the dams with American sires. Nearly a thousand head of registered stud sheep were sent from the United States to head flocks in Japan last year. For several years Japan has been spending $300,000 annually for pure bred live stock in this country and Europe, the United States furnishing most of the sheep.

Government to Help.

W. W. Burch, editor of the American Sheep Breeder, who helped to entertain the commissioners while they were here, says the Japanese government probably will increase materially its appropriation to buy breeding live stock. "This progressive nation is awake to the necessity of live stock husbandry," he states, "and especially the idea of sheeping Manchuria and Mongolia in order to grow sufficient wool for the textile industry, which is growing rapidly. Manchuria and Mongolia offer almost unlimited opportunities for wool growing. The Japanese experiment stations in Japan, Korea, and Manchuria, are testing grasses and forage crops to determine the varieties best adapted for stock raising in those countries."

Mr. Burch believes American breeders can expect Japan to be in the market for the best sheep, horses, cattle, and hogs that can be produced in this country, and it will be good business to cultivate this foreign trade.

"They are especially interested in our system of live stock banking," he says, "and stockyard banking officials told them just how it is done. The Japs are planning to organize live stock banks in their own country."

DOWN ON THE FARM

COW CAR—The city boy's kiddie car would be tame riding for these Iowa farm boys, Morris O. Bidwell Jr. and Forrest Gruhn of Grinnell. They are willing to chance being dumped into the dusty barnyard if a fly comes along and bites Bossie on the back. Mrs. M. O. Bidwell, who sent in this picture, would label this "One of the Reasons Boys Stay on the Farm."

Selecting grandparents for Ferry's pure-bred Tomato Seeds

Alike as two peas

TWO peas look just alike. Plant them. See whether their produce is alike or totally different. Sometimes you try to chew peas that seem as hard as rocks; sometimes fresh peas almost melt in your mouth. You can tell practically nothing about the worth of seeds by looking at them, whether you will like the flavor of what you harvest or whether it will be flat and tasteless.

That's why you have to use judgment in buying seeds. The wise buyer selects Ferry's Seeds because they have been bred for generations to reproduce true to the highest type. Your time and labor are no greater in gardening with Ferry's pure-bred Seeds than with scrub seeds. Buy Ferry's pure-bred Seeds and profit by the difference.

Ferry's pure-bred Seeds cost 10 cents per paper. They are cheap when measured by what they produce. For sale everywhere "at the store around the corner." The varieties in your dealer's assortment are selected because they do well in your locality: another reason why Ferry's Seeds pay.

Send for our free Seed Annual. It's full of garden facts and kitchen receipts.

UNION CARBIDE NET $11,716,114, OR $4.40 A SHARE

BY O. A. MATHER.

In keeping with last year's improvement in the steel industry, the business of the Union Carbide and Carbon corporation, which is closely allied with steel operation, recovered measureably.

"The continued improvement in business and industrial conditions in this country and in the world markets have been reflected in the volume of business and earnings of the company for 1922," President George O. Knapp says in his report. "Sales and net earnings increased gradually but continuously throughout the year. The company has paid off all its bank loans and begins 1923 with satisfactory cash balances."

Reports $11,716,114 Net Earnings.

The company issues no income account, but the report states that net earnings for the year ended Dec. 31, 1922, after all charges, interest, taxes and preferred dividends on stocks of subsidiaries, were $11,716,114, equivalent to $4.40 a share on the 2,659,733 shares of Union Carbide non-par stock outstanding. But it is stated that $6,254,430 was set aside for "depreciation, bad debts and other reserves" before computing net earnings. This charge-off is equivalent to $2.35 a share. In the nine months between March 31 and Dec. 31, 1921, the period covered by the previous report, net earnings were $8,176,896, equivalent to $4.10 a share on the stock.

The balance sheet shows an item of $39,341,977 for cylinders for the shipment of compressed gas, less a depreciation reserve of $4,268,804, making the net value $35,073,072. In the previous report these cylinders were carried at $25,778,804. The current report also shows an increase of $3,534,898 in reserve for depreciation of plant, etc., and amortization of patents.

Gulf Oil to Enter Venezuela.

The Gulf Oil company has paid the Maracaibo Oil Exploration corporation a cash bonus of $300,000 for the right to exploit 100,000 acres of Maracaibo basins of Venezuela. Under the contract Maracaibo Oil is to receive a one-third royalty on all oil produced and all expenses in connection with development work is to be borne by the Gulf Oil company, operating through its South American subsidiary.

The Standard Oil of New Jersey, it is said, is now negotiating for another block of 100,000 acres of Maracaibo Oil's concessions in Venezuela. If this deal is closed, it is understood the Standard Oil company will have to pay a cash bonus on the same basis as that paid by Gulf Oil and that the royalty and operating terms will also be the same.

FINANCIAL NOTES

Government investigation of sugar prices today gave speculators for the decline a good excuse for a concerted attack on these issues. American, Cuba Cane preferred, Cuban-American, South Porto Rican, Punta Alegre and Manati closing 1¼@6¾ points below Friday's final quotations. Some of the steel shares also showed poor buying support, Republic dropping 2¾ points to 61¾, Gulf States 1¾ to 98½, Bethlehem B nearly a point to 67¼, and United States Steel getting below 107 after its recent high of 109¾.

Independent strength was shown by Beechnut Packing, which jumped 5¼ points to 79¼ despite the statement of the president of the company that "insiders were not buying the stock at present price levels." Transcontinental Oil and Keystone Tire also were firm.

A special meeting of the Porto Rican American Tobacco company shareholders has been called for April 11 to vote on a proposal to change the present capital stock so that it will consist of 150,000 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred of $100 par and 150,000 shares of no par non-voting common stock, instead of 100,000 shares of capital stock of $100 par.

There were 391 commercial failures in the United States last week, according to figures compiled by R. G. Dun & Co., compared with 371 in the preceding week, and 544 during the corresponding week last year.

The Chicago Federal Reserve bank reports the weekly movement of credits as follows: Debits to individual deposit account reported for the week ending March 21, by 266 banks in thirty-five leading clearing house cities in the seventh federal reserve district, aggregate $1,174,991,000, an increase of 9.6 per cent compared with a week ago. Aggregate debits to individual deposit account reported by 237 banks in thirty-one clearing houses amounted to $1,158,255,000, an increase of 12.9 per cent compared with the corresponding week of last year.

Daily events continue to emphasize the rivalry between sterling and the dollar loans, and point steadily to the increasing importance of the New York money market. Unofficial plans were announced yesterday for a proposed loan of $20,000,000 to Japan to be used in developing Korea, although Japan has previously depended on London for her financing. Following almost on the heels of this announcement is a revival of the rumor in Wall street that Buenos Aires is negotiating with New York bankers for a dollar loan of nearly $65,000,000.

Glass Industry in West Started by Chicago Men

The Inland Glass company, incorporated for $750,000 for the manufacture of illuminating glassware, began operations last week in its $500,000 plant at 6101 West 65th street.

This new industry, the only one of its kind west of Pittsburgh, is financed entirely by Chicago capital. It was promoted by J. B. Weaver, former vice president of the Pullman company; J. J. Mitchell Jr. and H. Pickett Withers. Stock was issued in the form of 7,500 shares of 8 per cent preferred, par value $100, and 12,500 shares of common of no par value. Mr. Weaver is president of the company and Mr. Withers is secretary and treasurer.

On the board of directors are John T. Pirie, George E. Marcy, William H. Mitchell, Philip K. Wrigley and John J. Rodgers.

DRY GOODS AND GARMENT NEWS

[Copyright: 1923: Fairchild News Service.]

NEW YORK—It is a decidedly nervous market, leaders in the house dress market say. Buyers are waiting for the last moment to place orders; and then want immediate delivery.

NEW YORK—Despite higher prices, manufacturers of men's two pants suits look for an increased demand next fall. It is admitted, however, that the demand has eased off somewhat in some cities. The middle west continues the biggest consumer of two pants suits.

NEW YORK—Some coat and suit manufacturers admit they have underestimated the potentialities of the demand for suits. They blame retails who, they say, told them to "go easy" on suits.

RAILROAD NOTES

Car loading reports show no change in the trend of traffic affairs, according to officials of railroads operating east from Chicago and St. Louis. It is expected that March, 1923, loadings of revenue freight will establish a new record for this month. The loadings are of varied kinds and show increase in nearly all lines. Officials of southern roads report but little change, except that total traffic figures show gains as a rule over the similar period last year and two years ago. General merchandise movement is taking about all the cars available.

A company is being formed to purchase the old Duluth and Northern Minnesota railroad, better known as the "Alger line," operating out of Duluth, Minn.

Illinois Public Utilities Plan $200,000,000 Merger

Portland, Me., March 24.—Plans for the consolidation and reorganization of about ninety public utilities properties, valued at about $200,000,000, were approved at an adjourned meeting of stockholders of the Illinois Traction company here late today.

Studebaker, which serve more than forty towns in southern Illinois and about fifty-five companies in Illinois, Missouri, Kansas and Iowa, owned or controlled by Senator William B. McKinley, president of the Illinois Traction company. The Studebaker parent company is the North American Light and Power company.

The Illinois Traction company was organized in Maine in 1904. Through its subsidiaries it operates street and interurban railways, having about 665 miles of track, besides electric light and power and gas plants.

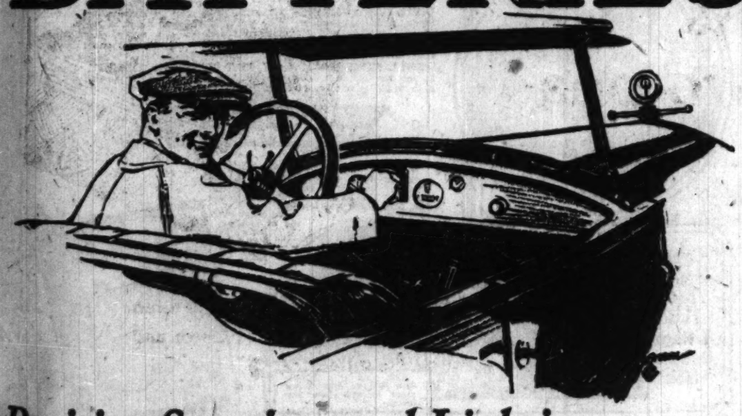
UNIVERSAL BATTERIES



Positive Starting and Lighting— with Hard Plate, Long Life Universals

Pour water on a Universal Plate. Note rapid absorption. Rub a dry Universal Plate. See how it resists powdering. The combination of porosity and hardness means full power and long life.

UNIVERSAL hard plate batteries are never sluggish—because Universal plates are porous as well as hard. Their combined hardness and porosity comes from formulas evolved in twenty years' experience.

With infinite care Universal oxide mixtures are compounded. A 6% variation from our ideal formulas may mean a 40% loss—in the life of a battery! Universal plates are hand-pasted and slowly dried.

Note the demonstrations to the left. Hardness means resistance to disintegration. Porosity means quick delivery of power. Combine the two and you have positive starting and lighting, throughout long battery life. These points make Universals different. Determine now that your next battery will be a porous, hard plate Universal.

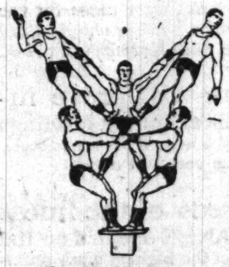
Bridge Engineering in Sefton Corrugated Boxes



Five Big Men on a Sefton Box

An empty Sefton Container one foot high and one foot square—will sustain over 1000 lbs. without crushing.

Common corrugated board can't make Sefton Boxes. The Sefton standard of strength demands 36 strong arches of perfect form and precision to every foot of board. So Sefton has designed special machinery to make Sefton Board.

Sefton machinery applies tough jute liners to perfect corrugations at the moment they are made. These miniature bridges are bonded top and bottom with all their supporting strength preserved. No other process builds such ruggedness into corrugated board.

There is economy, strength, service—in Sefton Containers. Husky boxes they are, to do rough work in a hard world. They stand ready to demonstrate. Give them a task. Ship your product to Sefton for repacking. It will return to you at our risk in the Sefton you should use. Telephone, wire or write for our representative.

SUBWAY GARAGE FOR EDGEWATER BEACH ADDITION

Work Starts on 3 Million 425 Room Annex.

Excavating has begun for the $3,000,000 unit No. 2 of the Edgewater Beach hotel group, just south of the present hostelry. It will add 425 sleeping rooms to the present hotel's 432, giving the two units a combined room capacity of 857, making it one of the largest of the outlying hotels. Marshall & Fox, who designed the original Edgewater Beach, are the architects.

An unusual feature, and one which it is claimed has never been tried before, is the underground garage, to be built beneath the garden, stretching between the two hotel units. It will care for 150 cars of guests. Entrance will be through a tunnel running under the new annex and opening into Berwyn avenue, which has been cut through from Sheridan road to the lake.

The new hotel will be somewhat different in shape from the original structure, built in 1916, but will harmonize architecturally with it, being of the same materials, stucco on tile, with red roof and tower. The latter will be lighted with a much more elaborate colored flood lighting system than is the cupola on the present hotel.

There'll be a banquet hall, a new ballroom, double the size of the present one, private dining rooms and committee rooms in the annex. There will be no restaurant; instead, the present hotel café will be enlarged to care for the additional guests. A coffee shop is planned, however, and on the Sheridan road frontage will be ten stores. It will be completed about Jan. 1.

Brokers' Notes

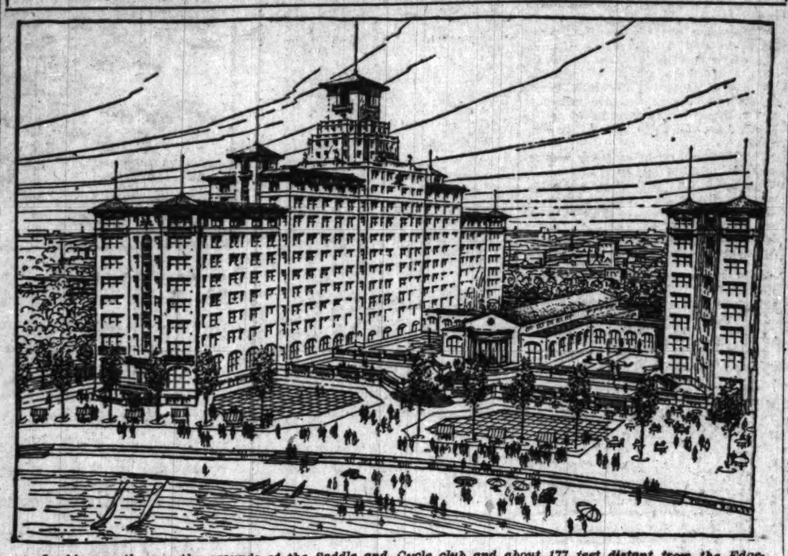
$3,000,000 Addition to Edgewater Beach Hotel



Looking south over the grounds of the Saddle and Cycle club and about 177 feet distant from the Edgewater Beach hotel will be the $3,000,000 annex, or unit No. 2 of a group of several additions contemplated. Marshall & Fox are architects. The annex will be connected with the present hotel by a "passagio" (the spelling is guaranteed by the architects, so we'll have no "Beg Your Pardon" if you please). The present outdoor dancing space will be considerably enlarged. Six inches of clay and six inches of black earth will cover the roof of the underground garage, just east of the "passagio," told about more fully in a nearby column. There'll be a broadcasting station in the tower of the annex. The building will be about 380 feet long and will average sixty feet in width. George A. Beesley will be in charge of construction for the Edgewater Beach Hotel company.

Beg Your Pardon

Joseph H. Klafter is the architect of the $200,00 0three story bachelor hotel to be erected at 4626-32 Winthrop avenue by David H. Jackson, owner of the Clarendon Beach hotel, and William F. Hanlon, real estate operator, and not his brother, as was incorrectly stated in this department last Sunday.

OWN YOUR HOME SHOW OPENS AT THE COLISEUM

Record Breaking Crowds Predicted for Week.

Chicago's big Own Your Home exposition started yesterday at the Coliseum under the auspices of the Chicago Real Estate board with a crowd which points to a record breaking attendance during the week. Harry Goldstine, president of the realty board, formally opened the big exhibition.

The opening ceremonies arranged in honor of John Howard Payne, author of "Home Sweet Home," consisted of an address by Mr. Goldstine, the singing of Home, Sweet Home" by a choir of 200 from the Chicago Tabernacle, led by Miss Marion Barton, and the singing for the first time of the official exposition song, "Never Let Your Heart Leave Home," written by Paul Rader, evangelist.

Will Close March 31.

The exposition will continue throughout the week, closing Saturday night, March 31. Monday has been designated as "Plan Your Home Day," Tuesday, as "Decorate and Furnish Your Home Day," Wednesday, as "Evanston, North and Northwest and North Suburban Day," Thursday as "Harvey, South, Southwest and South Suburban Day," and Friday as "Oak Park, Du Page County, and West Suburban Day."

More than 200 exhibitors, representing all branches of the building industry, as well as the real estate and banking interests, have educational displays at the exposition, making it the largest show of its kind ever held in the west.

The five room stucco bungalow designed by Architect R. C. Spencer and built by the Holabird Construction company from materials furnished by exhibitors is the feature attraction of the exposition. This bungalow was built, equipped, and furnished in less than five days, in order to be ready for yesterday's opening. At the conclusion of the exposition the bungalow will be offered for sale. It can be moved from the Coliseum in sections, according to Mr. Holabird, and placed on foundations wherever the purchaser may desire.

Tiny Town Attracts.

The "Tiny Town," a miniature suburban block, laid out by the landscape committee of the exposition and filled up with miniature suburban homes, is another feature that attracted much attention.

In the exhibitors' booths the following lines are represented: Real estate, savings banks, trust companies, building and loan associations, architects, contractors, building materials, paints and varnishes, plumbing equipment heating and ventilating systems, gas and electrical appliances, and home furnishings.

WRECKING JOB SINCE '93 TEAR DOWN GOLD DUST TWINS' HOME; BIGGEST

What is claimed is the largest wrecking job since the days of the World's Fair was started on Friday by the American House Wrecking company on the old plant of the N. K. Fairbank company on Wentworth, between 18th and 20th. It is estimated that there are 5,000,000 feet of lumber, 12,000,000 brick, and 3,000 tons of iron and steel and machinery in the thirty buildings which make up the plant. There are 600,000 square feet of floor space. Only the 75x125 office building will be left standing. It will take nine months to wipe out the big plant, it is estimated. The Fairbank company was paid $40,000 by the wrecking company.

United States War Risk Insurance Building, Washington, D. C. W. G. Cassell Co., Heating Contractors
Heated by 6 Kewanee Smokeless Boilers With a Capacity of 78,000 Feet of Radiation

In Actual Service Today

The United States Government is evidently very fond of the efficiency of Kewanee All-Steel Smokeless Firebox Boilers. Six hundred post offices are equipped with them, likewise many of the big Federal Buildings in Washington, D. C.

When this country entered the war, and for twenty months thereafter, almost the entire output of our factory was for the Government. In that length of time, more than 20,000 boilers, hot water heaters and tanks were made for use in the cantonments in this country and France. It was important that the American soldiers be kept well and comfortable, hence Kewanee was chosen.

Doubtless this information will prove intensely interesting to prospective builders of big buildings and apartment houses, because the Government is never a haphazard buyer, and invariably investigates for quality to the very last detail.

In addition to this, hundreds of the finest buildings in this country, are KEWANEE-Heated on the specific recommendations or requirements of the highest class architects and heating contractors.

LAKES TO ADO NORTH SHORE ACRE SUBDIVIS

Dunas & Co. Will Ravinia Tract Next

BY AL CHASE.

There's nothing much more attractive to have near your home than a small lake, and yet, for some reason or other, few subdividers ever take the time or expense to add a small body of water to their subdivisions. Dunas of Arthur Dunas & Co., however, announces that he has purchased eighty acres adjoining the Ravinia Golf club, west of the Northwestern railroad, in Ravinia, and intends installing two artificial lakes to help beautify places his subdivision on the market, which won't be until next year.

The entire tract is to be surrounded unit by a hedge or other means, as suggested by the landscape architects. It will be entered by a private drive. Winding drives will lead through the subdivision and the acres will be divided in parcels and restricted to high class residences. There is plenty of sand and gravel near by to give the roads a clean paving.

To Market 123 Acres.

Mr. Dunas, who has marketed several subdivisions north, south and west, is now preparing to place on the market a total of 123 acres, in small parcels, including the twin lake subdivision just mentioned.

He will open thirty acres at Edison Park in 174 lots, each 50 feet wide. Water, sewer, gas, etc., are now being put in. Edison Park is a community on the Northwestern road within the city limits, lies between Norwood Park and Park Ridge.

The subdivision, to be named Arthur Dunas' Villa, is bounded on the east by Harlem avenue, on the north by Odell, by Greenleaf on the south and by Ibsen on the south. Mr. Dunas has already bought 10,000 feet of hedge to plant on the fronts and sides of each lot and has planted sand elm trees for parts not already wooded, as well as considerable shrubbery. He intends to maintain the greenery for two years.

Hill Top for Each House.

All lots will be restricted to exclusively residences to cost at least $10,000. Sixty houses have been built in the five subdivisions already developed by the Dunas company in Park Ridge.

Another subdivision announced by Mr. Dunas is a thirteen acre tract purchased and plotted as the first addition to Ravinia Forest subdivision, which adjoins the main property to the west on Sheridan road and the lake, open to the public, and is now being provided with the necessary utilities.

The addition has been planned to give each lot a hill top for the residence and a ravine in the back yard. Every lot is of different size and shape. Winding drives have been laid out to reach lots off Sheridan road, while nearer the lake. The entire subdivision is restricted to expensive residences.

Rent Top Floor of Flat Building for Restaurant

Mrs. Maud L. Loeffler and Hugh A. Roorke have leased most of the space on the top floor of the five story iron building, Ashland, Ogden and Madison, and have opened a restaurant, called the Tower Diner. Adolph M. Ellensohn of the rental department of the Real Estate Management corporation, represented the parties.

A Bit O' Spain for Uptown—Albion Shore Apartment Hotel

Albion Shore Apartment Hotel—Albert Anis Architect.

Here is the $1,500,000 Albion Shore apartment hotel, designed by Architect Albert Anis along Spanish lines, to be erected at 1217-51 Albion avenue, just west of Sheridan. It will be 386 feet long and only 80 feet deep.

The Great Western Discount company has underwritten a $925,000 bond issue. More is told in a nearby column.

WORK STARTS ON NEW $1,500,000 ALBION SHORE

7 Story Hotel to Be West of Sheridan.

Uptown's rapidly developing Loyola-Sheridan district is to have an important addition in the shape of a $1,500,000 seven story hotel, unusually attractive architecturally and of unusual length, fronting north 336 feet on Albion avenue, 150 west of Sheridan road. It'll be called the Albion Shore Apartment hotel and was designed by Architect Albert Anis in southern Spanish style.

It will contain 153 apartments of one, two, three and four rooms. The kitchenettes will be mechanically ventilated and equipped with combination sink and automatic electric dishwashers as well as mechanical refrigeration from a central plant.

Will Have Library.

On the main floor will be a large lobby, a spacious dining room, a reading room and library, private banquet hall, ladies' lounging room and men's smoking room, all furnished and decorated in Spanish design.

There'll be five shops with elaborate fronts, opening on both the street and the hotel lobby. There'll be a private entrance for bathers with a shower room on the main floor.

To Be Completed Oct. 1.

The owner is the Albion Shore Building corporation, of which Architect Anis is head. The Great Western Discount company has underwritten a fifteen year, 6½ per cent serial bond issue for $925,000. Excavating has started, and Mr. Anis believes the hotel can be completed by Oct. 1.

The site was bought from H. Newman, through Isador Ferguson & Co., for approximately $65,000.

LEASES FORMER SOTEROS CAFE; NOW CRITERION

Thomas J. Karas, formerly head of the Drake dining rooms and catering departments and previous to that identified with Ritz hotels in New York and Europe, has leased from H. Teller Archibald, head of the Fannie May Candy company, the store, basement and second and third floors at 30 West Randolph, next to the Colonial, formerly occupied by the Soteros restaurant.

The term is a little more than nine years from March 15 at a total rental of $182,500. Mr. Karas, who bought the Soteros fixtures for the reported $30,000, is operating it as the Criterion restaurant. Loy P. Maher, of the Brownlee Realty company, represented all parties in negotiating the lease.

GROVE FRONTAGE BRINGS $1,000 A FOOT AT 79TH ST.

In 1911 the owners of the southeast corner of Cottage Grove and 79th and the southwest corner of Maryland and 79th decided there were more chances of making money in California than in Chicago, so they sold the above mentioned properties to Martin J. McNally for $14,000. The lots fronted 305 on Maryland and 280 on the Grove.

Yesterday Mr. McNally sold 125x125 at the southeast corner of 79th and the Grove to Charles Bobinsky for $125,000, or at the record price of $1,000 per front foot, and then offered Mr. Bobinsky a $5,000 bonus if he would erect a building within eighteen months. The latter accepted the offer, and plans a three story structure. Frank M. Dooley represented Mr. McNally both as attorney and broker. O'Connor, Burke & McDonnell represented the buyer.

Building Permits

Twenty-eight building permits were issued yesterday, among them being the following: Van Buren-at., W., 5,300-06, 3 story brick flats; Philip Ferrone, owner; N. Caparo, arch.; Consolidated Builders, contr., $428,000.

Lincoln-av., 8402-64, 1 story brick stores; Joseph Solomon, owner and contr.; Risan & Hirschfield, archs.; R. G. Baabe, mason, 23,000.

Crystal-st., 3341-43, 2 story brick flats; Philip Miller, owner, mason, and carp.; D. J. Schaffner, arch., 20,000.

24th-st., W., 2516-22, 2 story brick factory addition; Peter Schuttler company, owner; R. G. Schmid & Co., archs.; R. C. Wiebold company, mason and carp., 25,000.

LOMBARD CIVIC LEAGUE URGES VILLAGE ZONING

Glen Ellyn's activity in zoning has awakened its neighbor on the east, Lombard, to the need of such action, though its larger neighbor on the west, Wheaton, still is unzoned. Lombard, through its Civic league, had a mass meeting on Tuesday evening and listened to a talk on the advantages of zoning by Jacob L. Crane Jr., municipay development engineer. Resolutions were adopted indorsing zoning and calling on the Lombard village board to take action.

Mr. Crane has just about completed the zoning of Glen Ellyn. He has been active in the zoning of several Chicago suburbs, a number of cities in Illinois and Wisconsin, and was associated with the zoning of Boston and other eastern cities.

Lombard's Civic league intends to set out 500 trees throughout the suburb this spring.

Plans Store and Cafeteria Building on North Clark

Alex. Stein has bought the 70x149, with old improvements, at 1211-15 North Clark, from Helen M. McGivern, and will erect a three story building to contain stores, a cafeteria, bowling alleys, and lodge halls, to cost approximately $150,000, according to Moses Levitan, his attorney. No architect has been engaged.

Frank Cuneo Pays $50,000 for Sheridan Rd. Residence

Frank Cuneo has bought the fourteen room brick and stone residence at 2824 Sheridan road, lot 50x202, from Justis C. Seeburg of the J. C. Seeburg Piano company, for a reported $50,000, through Harold Bradley & Co. Lawrence Cuneo of Cuneo Bros., one of Chicago's oldest residents, will make his home there.

ARMOUR SELLS STARCK SITE FOR A $250,000 HOUSE

J. Ogden Armour has sold the 100x166 on the north side of Wellington avenue, next to the corner of Lake Shore drive, to Philip T. Starck, president of the P. A. Starck Piano company, for an indicated $69,500. Mr. Starck is having plans drawn by Architect Ernest A. Mayo for a residence to cost between $250,000 and $300,000. Work will start within two months. J. J. Harrington & Co. represented both parties.

ELECTRICITY TO SOLVE PROBLEM OF LABOR-FUEL

BY SCRUTATOR.

While political docs continue to write prescriptions for the two most annoying ills vexing prosperity—labor shortage and fuel prices, the advance of the electrical industry promises an ultimate solution for both. Given time, electricity could solve the question of labor and fuel supply without tinkering with the turnstiles of Ellis island or putting politicians in charge of coal mines.

As to labor—the increase per capita productivity in most industries is mostly a reflection of the more efficient use of power. This has been secured through an increased use of automatic devices and greater specialization of tasks. Greater flexibility of machinery has enabled manufacturers to discard many hand processes. This flexibility has resulted principally from the electrical equipment of machines and factories, which has progressed hand in hand with the substitution of electrical energy for mechanical power generated in local steam plants. The federal manufacturing census for 1919 shows that capital, wages, and value of products all grew much faster than the number of workers and the primary horse power employed in industrial plants, from 1914 to 1919. In that five years the number of workers increased by 2,000,000 and 7,000,000 horse power were added to the plants, but, allowing for the inflation of prices, credit, and wages, the actual increase of the other items was out of all proportion to the gain in workers and power. This reflects an enhanced plant efficiency, no small part of which can be traced to the changes wrought by the greater use of electrical energy as a prime mover or in secondary operations.

As to coal — the railroads normally burn about 46 per cent of all the coal supplied to railroads, industrial plants, and public utilities. They produce a little over 31 per cent of the total power used in these three industries. Manufacturing plants equipped with individual steam motive power burn about 42 per cent of the coal, and produce about 27 per cent of the power. Central electric stations burn about 12 per cent of the coal and produce 42 per cent of the power. Using one-fourth of the coal consumed by locomotives, electric generators produce about 25 per cent more power. Using a little over a fourth as much coal as stationary steam plants, the generators produce 60 per cent more power.

Every displacement of steam locomotives or stationary steam power plants will result in a saving of coal. Continued long enough, this process will force a radical reorganization of the coal industry without bureaucratic intervention. Already the increased saving of coal caused by the growth of central electric stations and power lines is accompanied by a marked tendency of such utilities to operate their own mines and become independent of conditions plaguing the general mining industry.

The electric industry can show huge fuel savings as compared to other forms of power production. It can also show constant reduction of fuel consumption per unit of power generated. Central power stations now under construction in Chicago will burn about half the coal which would have been required ten years ago to produce an equal amount of power. Small electric stations about Chicago years ago used fifteen pounds of coal per kilowatt hour. The average is less than four pounds today.

Although this has nothing to do with the electrical industry, it is pertinent to the fuel problem to note that domestic heating will probably be the next field invaded by the gas business. This will mean immense coal savings. Many gas men still laugh at this possibility, but more and more gas heating devices are being installed in new buildings. The expense would seem to be prohibitive, but people are becoming skeptical as to the ability of expense to stop the American people. They seem to buy anything desirable, no matter what it costs, perpetually mystifying the financiers as to where all the money comes from.

It was easy to demonstrate on paper some years ago that the automobile industry would soon mop up all the coin in the country. The wildest motor dream of 1915 is insignificant compared to the actual figures today.

While electricity packs the future solution of the labor and fuel shortage problem in its kit, it has no immediate millennium to offer. No man now living will see the last of the steam locomotive. On remote lines they will probably be in use a century hence. If the railroads and factories of the United States were all electrified 250,000,000 tons of coal now required for power would be saved. Labor shortage, car shortage, and coal shortage, would simply not exist. Such figures are Utopist now, but they do point out the goal toward which electricity carries America.

Fraudulent Oil Stock Promotions.

In previous articles exposing the methods of fraudulent oil stock promoters, we have mentioned the reloading scheme of the so-called "merger" companies. This has become quite a popular method of squeezing the investor, who already has realized that he has made a bad investment, and getting him to throw good money after bad. One of the largest and most daring of these "merger" schemes is that conducted by Dr. Frederick A. Cook, who although he did not discover the north pole, has discovered a means of enriching himself at the expense of the small investor. The national vigilance committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World in its campaign, in conjunction with the post office department, against fraudulent oil promotions has made a careful investigation of Dr. Cook's activities and the report of that investigation has brought to light many interesting facts and names. We quote from the committee's report:

"Doctor Frederick A. Cook, discredited polar explorer, is sole trustee of the Petroleum Producers association of Fort Worth, Tex., a gigantic oil stock reloading enterprise beguiling the public by a questionable merger scheme. S. E. J. Cox, a notorious promoter with a criminal record, has occupied office quarters with Cook's company and has launched the Amalgamated Petroleum Underwriting syndicate. The officers of the Petroleum Producers association are Dr. Frederick A. Cook, trustee; F. K. Smith, treasurer; T. O. Turner, vice president and superintendent of field operations.

"The familiar 'merger' ruse is employed by the Petroleum Producers association wherein stockholders in other companies are offered an opportunity to exchange their holdings, dollar for dollar, for stock in the Petroleum Producers association, provided, of course, they purchase Petroleum Producers stock amounting to 25 per cent of their holdings in the original company. It is simply a reloading scheme whereby the promoter disposes of shares of his own stock for cash. These so-called "mergers" do not actually merge all of the companies which they purport to absorb. The maneuver is a skillful means of obtaining the list of names of the stockholders of the company about to be absorbed so that the promoter may continue stock sales.

"The Petroleum Producers association has absorbed by the questionable merger method more than two hundred failing or practically defunct companies representing a loss of millions of dollars to the public. Recently, the doctor's agents devoted considerabe attention to accumulating lists of stockholders in companies which have tangible assets, some of which are really going concerns. A letter bearing the signature of an alleged 'special trustee for stockholders' is sent to the legitimate lists which they have obtained, on what purports to be the letterhead of the company in which these prospects already have stock. The so-called 'special trustee for stockholders' whose signature appears on the letter, is merely an agent for Dr. Cook and the Petroleum Producers association and has no official connection whatsoever with the particular legitimate concerns on whose names they trade and whose shareholders they deceive.

"The communication is designed to create the impression that the present holdings of the stockholders are somewhat doubtful. After planting the germ of distrust in the mind of prospects about the worth of their present holdings and the stability of the company in which they are interested, the promoter adroitly proposes that the certificates can be advantageously exchanged for stock in the Petroleum Producers association for but a slight additional purchase of new shares for cash. These clandestine solicitations of the lists of stockholders of legitimate companies has had a tendency in some cases to cause great injury to their established good will. On Dec. 12, in the District court of the seventeenth judicial district in Texas, one company procured an injunction restraining this alleged 'special trustee for stockholders' from continuing this vicious practice among its stockholders."

Dr. Cook commenced operations in Texas about 1919 by promoting the Texas Eagle Oil company with a capitalization of $300,000, which was later changed to the Texas Eagle Producing and Refining company with an increased capitalization of $500,000. The stock continued to find an easy sale and still later the capitalization was increased to $5,000,000 and the name changed to the Texas Eagle Oil and Refining company. The progressive increases in the capitalizations of Dr. Cook's first enterprises were indicative of a trend toward an addiction to stock selling which apparently has completely obsessed him in the promotion of the Petroleum Producers association conducting the questionable "merger" scheme on an unprecedented scale. It appears that in the latter part of 1921, the structure of the Texas Eagle Oil and Refining company collapsed. Since then the concern has been absorbed by the Revere Oil company of Fort Worth, Tex., another "merger" reloading enterprise.

The Petroleum Producers association is created under a declaration of trust with Dr. Frederick A. Cook acting as sole trustee. The usual declaration of trust under which Texas oil promoters operate, vests in the "trustee" unlimited authority. No obligations whatever govern the manner in which the money received from stock sales shall be used. It authorizes the trustees to fix their own salaries and to charge up to the company any amounts they see fit as their own expenses. It usually provides, or rather precludes the possibility of a stockholder suing for a receivership or an accounting or a division of profits or anything else. By their act in purchasing stock they agree and acknowledge that the trustee or trustees are the sole owners of the property and that they, the trustees, are free to do any and all things with the company's funds. The only obligation of any kind that it places the trustees under is to divide the trust estate between the stockholders at the end of the life of the trust, which is usually fixed at twenty years or more, and there is nothing to assure the stockholders that at the end of the life of the trust there will be anything left to divide.

Find Railway Equipment in About Normal Shape

Washington, D. C., March 24.—Railroads during January had 9 per cent of their freight cars classified as unserviceable, the interstate commerce commission reported today, against 13.6 per cent so classified in the same month a year ago, and 8.3 per cent during January, 1921. During the same period, 26.1 per cent of their freight locomotives were in bad order against 23.5 per cent in January, 1922, and 24.1 per cent during January, 1921.

The findings were submitted by the commission to the President, in accordance with a senate resolution introduced by Senator La Follette [Rep., Wis.], directing that a monthly report be made on railroad equipment conditions. The commission included in its report the consolidated repair records of carriers which indicated that the bad order equipment reached its height during the shop strike last summer, but was gradually brought down to the low point given during January, which was close to normal.

Chicagoans Win "Flyer" in Oil as Well Comes In

Three years ago a little group of Chicago business men decided to take a "flyer" in oil production. They formed a close corporation, Peter Oils, Inc., in which E. E. Peter, president of the Chicago Tube and Iron company, was the leading spirit. A tract of 120 acres in the oil fields near Sapulpa, Okla., was purchased. Then began the hunt for oil.

Several wells were drilled, but they turned out to be "dry" holes. Last week, however, another hole developed a strong "gasser" and preparations were made to "shoot" the well for oil. Yesterday Frank M. Smith, sporting editor of THE TRIBUNE and one of the stockholders, received a telegram from President Peter stating that the well had been brought in, connected to tanks and was flowing at the rate of 1,500 barrels a day of high grade crude oil.

New Concern to Buy Out Cleveland Discount Co.

Cleveland, O., March 24.—Large shareholders in the Cleveland Discount company, now in receivership, determined today to incorporate in Delaware next week the Union Discount company, with full powers of a mortgage company. The principal purpose of the new company will be, it is understood, to buy certain assets of the old company from its receiver and that in event of reorganization of the Cleveland Discount company the new organization will go out of business. The Union Discount company will have a capitalization of $1,500,000, represented by 300,000 shares. Preliminary plans are to offer this stock to Cleveland Discount company shareholders.

What Could You Do With Ten Thousand Dollars?

7% GOLD BONDS

Could you live on it for, say, five years and keep enough to start out that business of your own—or to buy that home you've wanted so long? That would be good management, but you know you could do it—if you had the $10,000.

You, who have earned $40.00 a week or better for five years, have had it. But how much have you saved? Perhaps, a very little . . . Why? The reason usually lies in the want of a fixed purpose, the lack of a definite goal. That is where the Beak Plan comes in. It helps you save and invest by providing the right incentive, and the interest paid on the amount you save adds up surprisingly.

The Beak Plan provides for the regular investment of sums from $10.00 a month and up in safe first mortgage Real Estate Gold Bonds, secured by absolute first mortgages on income producing property—the safest known investment.

The Beak Plan supplies the means by which you can save that $10,000.

Write for Booklet, "Building Financial Fortitude," which shows how anyone may acquire a competence in a few years.

April Number Now Ready

THE first public building on the soil that is now Chicago and one of the city's newest skyscrapers, which is being erected on the same site, are shown in the beautiful cover painting, reproduced in colors, on the April issue of the Fort Dearborn Magazine. This scene, which the artist, Paul Strayer, calls "The Dawn of a Tomorrow", not only illustrates the evolution in building which has paralleled the growth of the city, but also symbolizes Chicago's phenomenally rapid rise.

GRAINS SWING TO LOWER LEVEL TO FINISH WEEK

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Scattered liquidation was on in wheat from start to finish, and while there was considerable covering by shorts the finish was within a fraction of the bottom, with net losses of ¾@⅞c. Chicago grains showed more strength than wheat, corn closing unchanged to 1¼ lower and oats off ⅛@¼c, while rye was unchanged to ¼c lower.

Seaboard markets were stronger early in the week due to the revival in export demand for wheat and free covering by shorts, but when liquidation set in support was lacking and the finish was at the lowest figures. For the week wheat was off 1⅛@2¼c, corn ⅝@1⅝c, oats, ⅝@⅞c, and rye 2@2¾c.

Houses with eastern connections were advertised that the selling orders were local, presumably for a New York trader who is here. The selling was persistent, and with support coming chiefly from the shorts the market showed little rallying power.

Wants New Wheat Crop.

Crop and weather reports from the southwest are attracting more attention, but were not of a character to stimulate free buying. High winds were reported in western Kansas, but the general run of comment from Oklahoma were favorable. Export business was very fair, with some durum sold to Italy. Liverpool closed unchanged to ¼d lower.

A house with Omaha connections was a good seller of corn early, but trade was generally light. The May-July difference shows a tendency to widen and since the last May was about 2¾c under the July. The gulf and the seaboard were after corn in the west, with the gulf taking 25,000 bu from Peoria overnight at equal to 10c over May, track New Orleans.

Oats were dominated by the action of other markets. Minneapolis reported a good cash demand and prospects are for moderate reduction in the visible supply Monday. Private reports from Oklahoma indicated less damage to the new crop than recently claimed.

Export Call for Rye.

Rye showed more strength than wheat and there was 100,000 bu reported sold for the seaboard for export. A purchase of 10,000 bu was made to come here from an outside market. The two northwestern markets had 57 cars.

Free selling of lard and ribs by commission houses, with some pressure from smaller packers, made a weaker and lower market. Lard finished 15@17½c and ribs 25@27½c lower. Packing of hogs at Chicago for the season to date aggregates 632,000, against 458,000 last year. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Action of the wheat market in the face of the steady cables was disappointing to holders, many of whom liquidated freely through the big commission houses, while those who have pressed the selling side of late took profits on the break. More liquidation and an irregular decline is expected unless conditions change.

Omaha houses were heavy sellers of May and July corn and have been for several days. A great deal of long corn came out on stop orders, while filling of resting orders at 73½c for May furnished the chief support. The big offerings early went to local shorts who were taking profits. Those bullish reported export orders within ¼c of the market, but scarcity of cars prevented acceptances.

Eastern longs who have been active on the buying side of wheat recently were among the best sellers yesterday through a half dozen of the largest houses who have been the best buyers of late. Part of the pit element fought the break and unloaded at the last, but the close was with an uncertain feeling as to the future action of the market.

An improvement in the box car situation is reported on most of the western railroads. The Northwestern is 100 per cent on its orders in the grain sections and it is carrying a heavy percentage of the grain business. Other roads have made good progress toward filling orders and are also in better shape. Eastern roads are short of cars, as their business is 30 per cent over last year.

Primary arrivals of grains last week were 13,289,000 bu, the lightest in many weeks. This was 2,100,000 bu less than the previous week and 250,000 bu under last year, but 160,000 bu more than the five year average. Corn receipts dropped off 1,401,000 bu for the week and were the lightest in months, showing a loss of 667,000 bu from last year. Chicago received 3,588,000 bu grain for the week, a decrease of 728,000 bu from the previous week, and a gain of 497,000 bu over last year. Corn receipts of 1,687,000 bu were 722,000 bu smaller than the previous week, and 187,000 bu more than last year.

"When it is necessary to unload a cargo of 30,500 bu No. 2 rye to make delivery to May bulls on Chicago May contracts at a wide discount under the May price, and with May rye 38c under the wheat at this season of the year, with the lake and rail less than the all rail rate, it goes to show the very disappointing demand for export grain," says C. H. Gibson, a cash wheat handler.

No official change has been made in the estimated wheat crop of Canada, despite reports to the contrary.

Our Past Performance is Your Future Assurance

Conservative investors always demand prompt and certain payment of all maturing coupons and bonds. To these investors the record of our past performance is assurance of continued investment safety.

In a recent survey of completed buildings upon which the American Bond & Mortgage Company has sold bond issues, the actual net earnings were in almost every case even larger than the estimated amounts given in the circulars.

In accordance with its usual policy of protecting the investor, the American Bond & Mortgage Company offers only bond issues where experts have estimated the net earnings to be greatly in excess of the heaviest interest charges. And, in many cases, the net income has proved to be more than four times larger than required.

Careful analysis of earning capacity is, however, only one of the many American Bond safeguards which have protected thousands of investors over a long period of years.

Yesterday's supply of hogs at 18,300, including 2,800 "directs" and 6,333 held from Friday, compared with about 25,000 previous Saturday. Prices were largely steady to weak, with instances of 5@10c decline on medium weight butchers, average price figuring steady at $8.15, as against $8.30 a week ago. Outsiders absorbed 3,500, with the same number carried over at the close. Tpp equaled Friday's peak at $8.50, but shows 35c decline since Tuesday. The market closed weak.

Large offerings of hogs after midweek swelled the week's total to 189,000, being within 3,500 of previous week's arrivals, more than twice the number received two years ago and 45,400 above the ten year average. Estimated average weight at 228 lbs, stands 1 lb lighter than previous week and 5 lbs above the ten year average. Notwithstanding the sharp price discounts recorded on Thursday's market, the week's average price of hogs figured 5c above previous week at $8.25, being $1.75 under a year ago and $3.80 under the ten year average.

Cattle values the first half of last week advanced mostly 30@50c, but the gain was practically all lost before the close. Best steers sold Monday at $10.35, with equally as good later in the week at $9.90. Week's average price of good beef steers, $8.90, against $8.85 the previous week and $7.95 a year ago. Butcher stock sold to better advantage than fat steers, while calves closed $1.00@1.50 lower. Feeding steers held up most of the week.

Receipts for Monday are estimated at 19,000 cattle, 55,000 hogs and 20,000 sheep, against 6,367 cattle, 25,949 hogs and 13,223 sheep a week ago, and 21,225 cattle, 48,542 hogs and 20,971 sheep a year ago. Next week's receipts are estimated at 85,000 cattle, 175,000 hogs and 80,000 sheep, against 47,245 cattle, 133,540 hogs and 65,774 sheep a year ago.

Probable receipts of hogs for Monday range from 48,000 to 67,000. Edward Morris marked 48,000, F. W. Waddell 52,000, W. S. Nicholson and F. R. Burrows 55,000, E. S. Waterbury 56,000, A. G. CHICAGO CURB STOCKS

The weekly review of F. M. Zeller & Co. follows:

Transactions in local unlisted securities covered many issues, but prices, with the exception of a few specialties, showed no definite trend and few material changes. The motor and motor accessory shares were popular and as a result price advances were general in this group. Ford of Canada continued its upward movement, gaining 20 points at 464 bid, 468 asked. Paige-Detroit was also in good demand, closing at 22—up 2½ points. Timken Axle and Motor Wheel each gained a full point, sales of Timken ranging between 11¼ and 12¾, while Motor Wheel was fairly active between 10½ and 11¼. On brisk buying Goodyear Tire and Rubber in the late session advanced some 2 points to stop sales and a close of 15¼. McCord Manufacturing common was quiet, but inclined to be somewhat lower at 6½ bid, 7 asked. The preferred sold at 45 and 46, but offerings at 45 at the close failed to attract possible buyers.

On aggressive buying By-Products Coke common was bid up sharply from 68 to 74, closing 72 bid, 75 asked. Fairbanks-Morse sold from 54 to 59, closing 58½ bid, 60 asked. Hurley Machine was 1 point improved at 44½ bid, 45½ asked. Northwestern Yeast was quoted 198 bid, 201 asked, with few actual sales. Sullivan Machinery retained its previous week's gain at 60½ bid, 62½ asked. Kellogg Switchboard and Supply relinquished a point at 53 bid, 54 asked, while Butler Brothers was fractionally easier at 38 bid, 38¾ asked. Burroughs Adding Machine, ex-dividend $2, sold at 130 and 132. Albert Pick preferred sold at 98¼ and 99½ and Wahl preferred at 94½. Parke Davis closed at 83.

Few changes of importance were to be noted in the sugar shares. Columbia was traded in at 6⅜ and 7¼, while Godchaux preferred was generally wanted at 89. Holland-St. Louis again sold at 5⅞ and 6¼. Michigan was fractionally higher at 5⅞ bid, 6¼ asked. Trades of Utah-Idaho were extremely light at 3¾ bid, 3⅞ asked.

Trading in the public utility shares was of light volume and fluctuations were comparatively few. On few sales American Gas and Electric common gained approximately 12 points to 182 bid, 186 asked. American Light and Traction was a point lower at 139 bid, 131 asked. Cities Service issues were all lower, the common closing at 184 bid, 186 asked, preferred 69¼ to 69¾, bankers 18½ to 18¾. Commonwealth Power, Railway and Light relinquished 1½ points at 34½ bid, 35½ asked. The preferred stock of the Commonwealth Power corporation changed hands at 71. Standard Gas and Electric common improved 2 points to a close of 32¼, while the preferred was up 1 point at the close to 50½. Some transactions of Wisconsin-Minnesota Light and Power 7 per cent preferred were reported at 92.

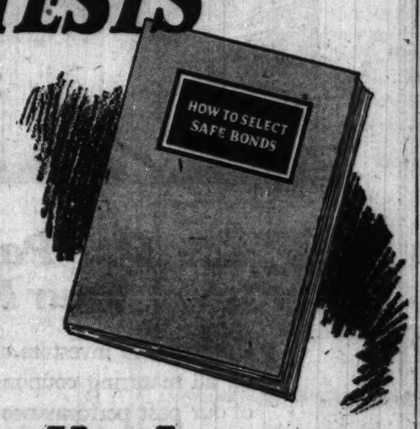
THESE 8 TESTS

of Safety Have Prevented Loss for Thousands of Investors



Apply These 8 Tests to Your Investments

COVERING a period of 38 years, George M. Forman & Company have handled the investments of thousands of investors so successfully that not one of them has ever lost a dollar of Principal or Interest. This unsurpassed record has only been possible through the scientific application of certain unfailing tests to every investment. To be perfect in features of safety, it has been found that every investment must meet 8 specific requirements. Any investment that does not meet all of these 8 requirements may be said to be lacking in safety. If an investment does satisfactorily pass every one of these 8 tests, it is safeguarded in such a way as to leave no doubt of its safety.

Every person who has money to invest, whether the amount be large or small, should know and apply these 8 tests to every investment. No investor should be satisfied with an investment that does not meet these 8 requirements, because it is possible to secure investments that do pass every one of these tests.

George M. Forman & Company have published a book called "How to Select Safe Bonds," that will show you exactly how to make these tests. By knowing these tests you will be able not only to select investments that are 100% safe, but you will also be enabled to select securities of attractive yield without making a sacrifice in the element of safety. We have a limited edition of this book. It will be sent only to those who request it on the appended blank. Fill in, tear out and mail this blank immediately.

The New York Times.

[Copyright: 1923: By New York Times.]

New York, March 24.—[Special.]—In the two lately conspicuous fields of speculation for the rise, the stock market and the cotton market, prices gave way somewhat emphatically today. On the stock exchange there was hardly an exception to the net decline and, though most of the day's changes were again only fractional, there was a fairly long list of 1 point and 2 point losses, mostly in the industrial shares.

As for the cotton market, the spot price went below 30 cents a pounds for the first time in four weeks, today's quotation representing a decline of 1¾ cents, or more than 5 per cent, from the high price of March 17. A further moderate decline in European exchange rates served to complete the story of a reactionary week-end.

Markets Undergo Readjustment.

There was not much reason for surprise in any of these movements, which for the most part embodied the readjustment of speculative markets, which had overdone the process of "discounting" a visible situation. Yet Wall street can learn from the record that, while a break on the stock exchange may, as in the spring of 1920, mean a distinct turn for the worse in the business situation, it also may mean merely that speculative markets have been too hasty in their assumptions for the future.

As for the notion that the declining markets must mean drastic intervention by the federal reserve, the imagined restrictive action would under any circumstances be far less probable with the speculators for the rise themselves quitting the field than with the speculative rise continuing merrily.

French Exchange Rate Lower.

The day's decline in French exchange, although not important, brought the rate to a figure at which practically half of the recovery from the low point of a fortnight ago was canceled. After so rapid a recovery as has taken place this month, reaction was natural in so highly speculative a market as foreign exchange, unless the visible signs were pointing to early confirmation of the Berlin rumors of two weeks ago.

It is now pretty evident that those rumors were put afloat to test the attitude of the various allied countries. The result of the test cannot have enheartened the German government very greatly, and the present pause quite possibly means that the Berlin authorities are finding it difficult to make up their

Here at our 40 acre plant, quickly and easily reached from all parts of Chicago and bordering suburbs, you can see the only house assembling factory in or about Chicago. An ever-growing army of satisfied Harris Home Owners stand ready to endorse the Harris Way. Here is what they say:

"Built like the Rock of Gibraltar." "Put up according to your plans it will last forever." "Saved $1,000 on my Harris home."

Harris Homes Beautiful are constructed on concrete foundation with seven foot basement, cement floors. The approved construction is in strict accordance with accepted standards. Highest quality materials throughout. Oak flooring 13-16x2¼ in. face, 9 ft. ceilings, lath and plastered walls—your choice of brick veneer, siding or stucco or a combination of the three. Guaranteed slate surfaced or wood shingles. Three coats painting materials—galvanized eaves trough and spouting, modern plumbing, up to date electric fixtures, etc.

We urge you to attend the OWN YOUR HOME Exposition at the Coliseum this week and see the Harris Homes in "Tiny Town"—exact reproduction in miniature of these beautiful buildings—see them as they will appear on your lot. The most elaborate exhibit ever attempted, together with the most complete home building service ever presented. Our building experts will be there to interpret your home ideal in terms of practical construction. They will tell you what the completed cost of your building will be, everything finished—ready to sow the grass seed and flowers.

The prices of these Harris Homes Beautiful have been arrived at from actual figures on homes constructed in and about Chicago. They are complete—ready for occupancy. The finished costs will vary somewhat, for two houses erected in different localities never figure the same, and the finished price may be $100 higher or lower, depending upon the individual tastes of the builder. But there will be no guesswork now. We have brought the matter of home building down to a simple economical proposition in order that you can proceed safely and keep the completed cost within your means.

THE POTTERS

ILLUSTRATIONS—BY J. H. STRICKBEL

PROLOGUE.

Pa and Ma Potter are en route to New York, where Pa has an important radio meeting to attend, for Pa is going to invest with Rankin in the Cosmic Radio corporation if everything works out all right . . . it will, if Rankin can work it . . . meanwhile New York will get its first look at Ma, and vice versa . . . the old town better do its stuff well if it wants to impress Ma . . . Pa will like the rooms with which the New Yorker finds opportunities in all hotels to get out of work . . . in New York they declare holidays when they can't even pronounce them . . . one of the biggest problems now is to determine which end of the week is the week-end.

SCENE ONE.

A Pullman section, with Pa and Ma in spasmodic dialogue . . . they've been married too long to be excessively polite on railroad journeys . . . across the aisle, a not especially fond mother is trying to keep her young male offspring from wrecking the car, with indifferent success . . . outside, scenery can sometimes be seen in spite of the billboards . . .

WAITER (attired radiantly in white suit and watermelon cigar):
FUST CALL FO' DINNAH . . . FUST CALL FO' DINNAH . . .

PA (groaning):
My gawd, we just had lunch. You ain't hungry, are you?

MA (decidedly):
Well, I could eat. You kept reading the prices to me at lunch until I was afraid to order anything over ten cents.

PA (coldly):
There's nothing you can get for ten cents. They don't do nothing but eat on this train. By the time they finish hollering last call for breakfast it's first call for luncheon. Wish I'd stayed at home. Haven't any appetite on a train.

MA (spiritedly):
You never have any appetite when you can see what the food costs. If you had to pay the food bills at home, you'd——

Pa begins to sing.

PA: If I had to pay 'em? Well, whothal pays 'em if I don't?

MA: You don't have to swear about it. (Suddenly.) Oh, look at the cute little house?

PA (listlessly):
Where?

MA (casually):
Oh, we passed it. No, you can't see it now.

PA (glumly):
Oh!

MA (sotto voce, to Pa):
Isn't that a cunning little boy?

PA (not quite so sotto):
Dam nuisance. Why do people take kids on trains with 'em?

MA (acidly):
What do you want them to do—have the children trot along behind on the ties?

PA (morosely):
Some of 'em might. (Pause, during which wheels can be heard wheezing madly in Pa's head.) What you goin' to do with yourself in New York while I'm busy?

MA (in surprise):
While YOU'RE busy? Why, you're not going to be busy day and night, are you? You're going to take me around and show me the sights.

PA (helplessly):
Oh, migod! I told you I was coming down here on business, but no, you gotta come along—tag along after me. And now I gotta neglect my business to show you a good time. Yes, I will!

MA (evading frontal attack with feminine cunning . . . after all, what's the use arguing with the poor victim? . . . once in New York, and he'll have to take her around):
Now, now, don't worry. I'm not going to interfere with your old business. I'm going to help you.

PA (grimly):
Yeh, help me. You could've stayed at home and help me by saving all this extra dough.

MA (aroused):
You don't begrudge me a good time once in a blue moon, do you? Do you realize this is the first time I've ever been to New York?

PA (mumbling):
The last one, too.

MA (sharply):
What's that?

WAITER (rapturously):
SECCUND CALL FO' DINNAH . . . SECCUND CALL FO' DINNAH . . .

MA (plaintively):
I'm getting hungry.

PA (resignedly):
Aw-w! . . . c'mon, let's go and get it over with.

SCENE TWO.

The Potters, having finished their small but costly dinner, are back in their section trying to preserve the present armistice until bedtime. . . Ma has frowned on Pa's repeated hints that he needs a smoke . . . in desperation, since Pa won't talk to her and remaining silent for any length of time is an unbearable thought, Ma has struck up acquaintance with the lady across the way.

MA (smiling the professional mother-to-mother smile):
Darling little youngster you have there. How old is he?

MOTHER (cooingly):
Just four and one-half. He'll be five in July.

MA (astounded by this amazing coincidence):
Five in July? Why, he's the same age as my little boy. What do you think of that, Pa? Born the same month as Junior?

PA (with an obviously fake smile):

"Isn't that right, Mr. Potter?"

Marvelous! (To himself.) What of it?

MOTHER (to child, one of those dark-browed, rebellious little devils):
Say hello to the lady and gentleman, Harold.
(Harold stares at the lady and gentleman with evident disapproval.)

MA (wheedlingly):
Come, Harold, shake hands and say, "How do you do?"

HAROLD (abruptly):
Rats!

MOTHER:
Why, Harold! That's no way to talk to the nice lady. (To Ma.) Isn't that strange? He's usually so friendly. (To child.) Say hello to the nice people and shake hands with them.

MA (to Pa):
Take that scowl off your face! The child's afraid of you. (To mother.) He'll make up with me, all right. He's just a little strange. (To Harold.) How old are you, my little man?

HAROLD (with the wide-eyed candor of youth):
Why?
(That's a fair question.)

MA (stumped):
Er . . er . . why, you know, I have a little boy just your age?

HAROLD (dispassionately):
Can he fight?

MA (jocosely):
Oh, no. Good little boys don't fight. It's naughty to fight.

HAROLD (after a moment of silent thought):
I can lick 'im.

PA (rushing to the defense):
He'd eat you alive.

HAROLD (brightly):
Wouldn't neither. I kill jints. Big ones. Biggessa house. I shoot 'em. Bang! bang! Jint is dead! (Gets excited.) Bang! bang! bang! 'Nuther jint dead!

MOTHER (glowing):
Now, never mind about the "jints" this evening. Say that little piece you know for the gentleman. You know—the one about "The north wind does blow, and we shall have snow" . . .

HAROLD (continuing to fight "jints" in his mind):
No!

MA (wheedlingly):
Come on, Harold. Do you know that pretty piece?
(Harold gives her a far away look of mingled amusement and contempt . . . the north winds are nothing in his young life . . . let 'em blow, says he.)

MOTHER (to Harold):
Now, Harold, don't be stubborn. Show the nice people how smart you can be. (To Ma.) Usually he doesn't have to be coaxed this way. Come on, Harold: I'll start you: "The north wind does blow, and we shall have snow . . . (Pause.) No? Well, then, sing "Little redbird in the tree, in the tree, in the tree."
(Harold preserves his neutrality. The little redbird can stay in the tree all he darn pleases.)

PA (answering nudge from Ma):
Come on, son, sing us the little song about the redbird . . . (No response.) . . . Want me to start you off? . . . (Harold doesn't care.) . . . Listen. (Pa begins to sing.)
"Little redbird in the tree,
In the tree, in the tree——"

HAROLD (looks at Pa in bewilderment and then suddenly bursts into loud cry):
Boo-hoo-hoo!

MOTHER (taking him into her arms):
Why, Harold! What's the matter with mother's little man?

HAROLD (sobbing):
He . . he makes such a noise he . . he scares me.

MOTHER (smiling enigmatical smile at baffled Pa):
Why, the gentleman was only singing for you, Harold.

HAROLD (who knows what he wants . . . "of such is the Kingdom" . . .):

"There's nothing you can get for ten cents."

I don't want him to sing for me. He makes too much noise.

PA (to Ma, trying to make it sound offhand and careless):
I think I'll go back in the smoker . . . maybe Rankin's there, and we can talk . . . (To mother.) That's a bright little boy you have there. (Swallows hard.) Hope we'll see him again before we get off . . . see you later, Ma . . . by . . .

SCENE THREE.

In a smoking compartment, where mighty brains foregather all day and far into the night and dispose with practiced ease of the weightiest affairs of the nation . . . Mr. Rankin, Pa's host on this trip, is among those present.

FIRST MIGHTY BRAIN:
. . . he says it ain't this fellow Tut-whatever-his-name-is at all. That's what this fellow says.

SECOND MIGHTY BRAIN:
Naw! There's always some guy that's ready to knock even a dummy. If it ain't this Tut guy, then who is it in that tomb, huh?

FIRST MIGHTY BRAIN:
Search me. One of these dummies would look just like the other to me.

RANKIN:
You mean mummies, don't you?

COMEDIAN:
Maybe he means rummies. Ho ho!

FIRST MIGHTY BRAIN:
What gets me is why they buried all their stuff with 'em.

SECOND MIGHTY BRAIN:
That's easy—so they could dodge the inheritance tax. And it kept the relatives friendly—nothing to fight over.

COMEDIAN:
I see they're finding out everything about him except how to pronounce him. Well, I get the "Amen" part of it.

—How They Look in Civies—

THESE ARE ACTUAL SKETCHES MADE BY OUR ARTIST OF ACTRESSES IN CHICAGO LAST WEEK

PEARL REGAY
of "Scandals of 1922"

MISS REGAY is a native of sunny Spain, and her diminutive companion, Jackie Coogan, hails from Brazil. Miss Regay is loyal in her tastes and clings to Spanish ideals—Jackie clings to Miss Regay.

Her navy blue cloth dress, which she has hidden in her efforts to keep Jackie warm, was embroidered in Spain, in tomato red and bright green. It has side panels and kimono sleeves. The black wool velour coat with black fox collar and cuffs, and the vivid cerise taffeta hat, and black and red imported shoes have gone with Miss Regay on a evening's trip through the antique shops.

Miss Regay says she doesn't give much thought to her clothes. In the evening she usually wears white or silver. Her hair, drawn close back over her head, is jet black. She is fond of wearing a rose or bright flower at the base of her neck. Instead of evening cloaks, she wears great silken shawls.

Her earrings are significant of her love for the antique. They are wrought golden pendants, inclosing dull rose of "Up the Ladder"

LEONA HOGARTH

"I LIKE orange the best," said Miss Hogarth when questioned as to her favorite color. "I like it all the time—morning, noon, and night. Never get tired of it." She held up a graceful chiffon velvet evening frock, all of a piece, and in what she called a cross between a peach and a burnt orange.

Next to the flaming hue that holds first place in her heart, Miss Hogarth likes brown, and finds it more useful for everyday wear. The three piece suit in which she was sketched is of tete de negre broadcloth. The jacket is short and flaring, banded in pin tucks. The dress, the skirt of which is broadcloth and the blouse of brown brocaded crepe de chine, is straight lined, with a suggestion of drapery where the skirt wraps on the left side. By the way, Miss Hogarth says that chic as wrap skirts may be, they are awfully disconcerting in this windiest of cities.

MARCIA BYRON
of "Light Wines and Beer"

THIS little peasant frock of Miss Byron's, so demurely smocked and cross-stitched, is as gayly colored as a May morning. The skirt is deep purple flannel, embroidered in different shades of brilliant light greens. The waist part is a vivid poster green duvetyn, smocked and embroidered, to return the courtesy of the skirt, in shades of purple. About her shoulders Miss Byron has tied a red and green bandanna.

Cinnamon stockings and matching oxfords complete the costume in which she goes from her hotel to the theater.

For the street Miss Byron says she prefers tailored tweed suits, with low heeled shoes, simple hats, and Bramley blouses.

CLAIBORNE FOSTER
of "Two Fellows and a Girl"

MISS FOSTER, who plays the flapper part in George Cohan's play, insists that offstage she loves long skirts, because it's so easy to be dignified in them. She says that she is really much more interested in her writing than she is in clothes, but that she does consider it important to be well dressed.

The dress which she wears above is by Premet, and is one of a number which she brought back from a trip abroad last summer. It is of soft beaver brown velvet; its only trimming a narrow girdle of amethyst and topaz beads. The sleeves are short, the bertha deep and fitted, slit at the shoulder line. The skirt, shirred generously over the hips, is longer on the sides than in the front and back. Her slippers are brown satin and brocade, unornamented. The cloche hat is of brown straw, trimmed with a self tone satin ribbon, bowed over her right ear.

LAUREL NEMETH
of "Blossom Time"

THIS demure little suit of black wool velour with its straight lines and deep opossum collar, accompanied by black patent leather colonial shoes and a black felt, poke-shaped hat, transform Miss Nemeth into a modernized version of the Puritan Priscilla. Severe and scant, the dress is relieved only by a narrow patent leather belt and heavy cording, with a slightly noticeable fullness above the hips. A band of the fur rims each sleeve. A black grosgrain ribbon with abbreviated streamers in the back is the only frivolity allowed to the little bonnet. The shoes are patent leather, low heeled and round toed, with cut steel buckles, entirely out of proportion and entirely charming. Miss Nemeth's bag is gray, embellished in steel beads.

Miss Nemeth cares only for plain, moderate toned clothes. "I am not a good one to talk about fashions, because I pay so little attention to them—and I am not at all the fashionable type. I think women are wearing more sensible clothes than ever before. They choose the style, material, and lines which best suit them, and don't jeopardise their positions a bit."

When asked what type she thought she was, Miss Nemeth answered: "No special one, perhaps, but there is a very definite one I do not want to be, and that is—what do you call it?—a 'dizzy blonde.'"

Your Mental State When You Phone.

No, they're not indulging in idle chatter instead of getting your number. No chance for that. This is what a small section of a central office looks like on a busy day, and every day is a busy day with them. Get this picture in your mind when you pick up your receiver, and be just a little patient.

This is the second of two articles on "Your Mental State When You Phone." The first was printed last Sunday.

POEMS YOU OUGHT TO KNOW.

COURTESY'S TOUR.

Written by Ruth Young.
[Telephone Operator.]

Courtesy is the engineer that runs the train of life.
It paves the way to happiness and clears away all strife.
The journey is a pleasant one, of that I have no doubt,
So why not take a trip with him and follow up his route?

ANGER IS WASTED ENERGY.

NEW YORK. — [Special Correspondence.]—What an interesting compilation in pounds, tons, and tons of tons of energy waste might be gathered from telephone subscribers to say nothing of the "peeves," angry bellowings, and sharp words, none of which are conducive to the smooth running of one's own private system nor the telephone system, either. Sheer waste, all of it.

Not that we all are turbulent, refractory elements in one of the busiest industries in the world. There are any number of reasonable, well balanced physically and mentally) folk in the world, and courteous people, and I might add happier people, with perfect control of manner and action, as to give little offense to others.

But there is a vast number of others of us who look upon the telephone instrument as a legitimate means of exploding tempers, of exposing ragged nerves of which we should be ashamed, of allowing an undisciplined mind to run off with us for the moment. Pretty nearly all customers, some of us, and central too, for were we to meet face to face the one upon whom we vent our spleen at this safe range of wire, we would not dream of parading on our side of us, now, would we? The safety is established in a hid ...dentity and the intervening space ...tween our victim and us.

None Claims Perfection.

This may all sound as though I had ...dently gone a-lobbying in the cause of the telephone girl, presenting her as ...proachless, blameless, 100 per cent ...dent young woman. But she would ...e the first to resent this attitude were ...true. She frankly admits the service ...not perfect, but that she is honestly ...ing her part to help make it more ...e. She is put through a course of ...ining. She knows the method of ...lking that is transmitted most suc...sfully, and if she were to make ...proaches it would be upon the pub...'s ignorance in this regard, from ...ich the majority of irritations and ...ays are caused.

There are a number of things tele...one subscribers should learn on ...t to do and what not to do to make ...mselves understood. Being trained ...courtesy, the telephone girl would ...e too polite, no doubt, to suggest ...at a little course in that would not ...e some of us any harm. I include ...yself in righteous shame and con...ss that I have been guilty of such ...traright thoughtlessness and rude...ss over the telephone as would dis...ce me from any polite society were I ...e show myself in a similar irritable ...d. But there I would not dare.

Trained to Be Blamed.

Being a nation living upon our ...rves, and living around in wait for ...e good chance to explode them, I ...ould enter my plea not to explode ...me to the telephone girl's ear. She ...s used to accept our outbursts philo...ophically if not charitably. And to ...ll on our self-inflicted wounds ...th a polite "I beg your pardon," a ...ase you," and the ever courteous ...ank you." To one call we make, she ...ceives a couple of hundred in a day. ...r positions were reversed at the ...d of one imperfect day we would in ...ll likelihood be carried out limp and ...ntless and a-marveling at her dis...ssing mind and nerves in comparison ...th ours.

...ile the remark may be, but no one ...ows more than our very selves how ...true it is that 90 per cent of our trou...bles in life are born in the mind and ...allowed the freedom of our mental uni...verse without restraint or discipline.

With most of us the telephone is as ...consistent a daily habit as our ideals. ...Being so, why not let us approach it ...as a means of acquiring certain men...tal discipline we stand urgently in ...need of? None of us is so perfectly ...poised and balanced that a little more ...mental exercise will do us any harm.

"Central" of Nervous System.

The brain is not only the most im...portant organ in the body, but its es...sential organ, for the sake of which ...all other organs and tissue exist, and ...it is the master of the whole. It not ...only receives help from every other ...organ but it also largely controls the ...working of each. By its mental action ...alone it can hurry the heart's beat or ...slow its pace; it can make the skin ...shrivel or flush. It can quicken or stop ...digestion. It can stop or change the ...character of all secretions. It can ...arrest or improve the general nutri...tion. Every organ and every vital ...process is represented in the structure ...of the brain by special centers and ...groups of cells that have a direct rela...tion with such organs and processes, ...and through which they are controlled. ...The brain is the "central" of the ...whole nervous system.

Realizing all this, you may under...stand what mental discipline means ...to health. Disturbing emotions have ...a powerful influence over the muscular ...and organic functions. Anger floods ...the brain with blood and interferes ...with healthy digestive processes. The ...depressing emotions which follow an ...outburst affect the whole nervous sys...tem. It is profoundly true that a ...healthful, hopeful mental attitude ac...tually puts the body on the defensive ...against assaults of disease.

Try This Way.

So, now, when you go to call a number today or tomorrow, don't look upon the telephone as an instrument of torture. Iron out the wrinkles in your brain responsible for this manner of approach. Relax it free of little private irritations and ridiculous hurry, and personal grievance against friend, husband or wife, or sister, brother, or beau, or employer, or co-worker, and just by way of "warming up" for the new mental exercise, when you ask for your number, say "please" in a nice, courteous tone.

If you get a wrong number, before you go on the war path, ask yourself if you enunciated it distinctly, if you are talking straight into the receiver with the lips not more than an inch from it, for every added inch away, it is claimed, is equivalent to lengthening the line of communication by 120 miles. It is not loud speaking that counts, you know, but the taking and maintaining of the correct position.

When the person at the other end begins to clamor for more vigorous utterance the recipient of the exhortation, instead of beginning to yell, should adjust his relation to the instrument—stop looking around the room or out of the window—and especially should he or she speak more distinctly or slowly. And be careful about the pronunciation of exchange names and be distinct and slow in the enumeration of numbers.

Why the Hurry?

Practice concentration on the call, or if you insist upon carrying on a conversation with those in the room blame yourself and not the telephone operator for delay.

And why the hurry? I suppose there is no place in the world where people want what they want when they want it as before a telephone receiver. And certainly no place where you get what you want in quicker time. At a bargain counter, a box office, a barber shop, a manicure parlor, a restaurant, any store, office, or shop you rarely if ever get immediate attention. You wait and only occasionally does one sputter and fume, and then gain nothing but a lost appetite, perhaps. The average one of us composes herself and exhibits a certain degree of patience, feigned or genuine it matters not, so long as we do compose ourselves.

And that is the frame of mind to get yourself into when about to telephone. The rest will come easy, the number you want, and the things you plan to do when through with your conversation.

Hang a card on to the instrument, if need be, upon which is plainly inscribed: "Take it easy," and see for yourself what a month of this mental discipline will do for you in a general way.

Famous Movie Star Condemns Curling Iron

"Little Mary" Pickford, whose pretty curly locks have been so much admired, writes that she has never used the curling iron. She fails to see the wisdom of burning the life out of the hair.

That the heated iron is ruinous to the hair is being more and more appreciated. Many are discarding this instrument of torture in favor of plain liquid Silmerine. This is not only harmless but really beneficial. Instead of giving one's tresses a burnt-out, lifeless appearance, it gives them a bright lustre, and the curliness looks altogether natural. It is a simple thing to procure a few ounces of liquid Silmerine from the druggist and apply a little with a brush before doing up the hair. The beautiful wavy effect which results is agreeably surprising.

A FRIEND IN NEED

I went to be the medium through which the friend in need and the friend in deed may be brought together. It may be you have some discarded article which has not outgrown its usefulness that will make some less fortunate one happy, and you would gladly give it if you knew how to go about it. Write to me and I shall be happy to be of service to you. Please write on one side of the paper.

APPEAL TO BOYS AND GIRLS.

IT seems nice, doesn't it, to think that spring is here, after all the cold weather, and to think we can get out of doors to play as much as we like? But wouldn't it be fine, not only to play ourselves, but to help a lot of other children play, too—children who can't get out unless we help them?

Spring time means warm days and sunshine, but it brings thawing ice and wet ground, too. There are lots of poor children who haven't good shoes and who get their feet cold and wet every time they go out. That's why spring time, which makes all of us happy, is a time of great danger for them. This spring will be just as bad, unless we get together shoes and rubbers and stockings, to help make spring time safer and happier for these children.

Shoes and stockings wear out quickly, so not many of us have outgrown pairs, I know. But many of us have worn shoes which could be made all right with a new half sole—and the expense is little, when you think that every pair of shoes made whole and given to some poor child is a real life saver. Most of us have extra stockings which have grown too small, and stockings help if we can't give shoes. Everything that will help to keep feet dry and warm is needed, and will be appreciated.

This appeal is to you boys and girls. Won't all of you see what you can do to help? Just remember that shoes, rubbers, and warm stockings are needed, and I'm sure you'll find some way to do your share and make this spring time a happier one for poor children.

Husband Deserted Her.

"I am coming to you for help. My husband deserted me and my small son a month ago, while I was ill with pneumonia and absolutely without funds and proper clothing. My boy, 5, is in dire need of undergarments and shoes, size 8½ or 9. I have known all the joys and comforts of a home, but because of financial reverses, a constant round of doctor bills, and loss of his position, my husband just walked off, so it is up to me to find work at once, and my clothing is wholly unfit to wear. My size is 38 or 40, shoes size 7. I would appreciate anything you could do for me, and I trust I may hear from your soon.

"Mrs. E. R. W."

This plucky little woman makes a request that is bound to touch every reader, certainly some one who has been through misery and come out triumphant will help her, who is fighting a good fight. Let us do so without delay.

Offers Kitchen Range.

"I have a combination coal and gas range, in good condition, that I will gladly give to any one you suggest. I will also deliver it to any address on the south side, as I have a small truck.

E. J. L."

We thank you, E. J. L., for a generous donation.

Pursued by Misfortune.

"So many are helped through your column that I am venturing to ask for some clothes for a man and his wife who have had a great deal of misfortune the last two years. They have been ill, and are behind in the payment of rent and other bills. The man has been promised a position in an office, but has no neat clothing. He wears size 36 trousers, 33 waist, and size 8-D shoes. Anything larger would do, because his wife is handy and can alter them. She has been in a hospital and unable to work. She wears size 34-36. I am afraid I may be asking too much, but it will be a great help and much appreciated. I should be glad to call for anything offered.

Mrs. A. T."

The man and his wife for whom Mrs. A. T. makes this request deserve to have things made brighter after all the sorrows and hardships they have suffered.

Offers Shorthand Manual.

"I have a shorthand manual and dictionary which might be of use to somebody.

J. P."

I have the address to give to the person interested.

Deserve Kind Turn.

"My daughter, 15, died from tuberculosis recently. My husband has been sick since November. Doctors have given him up. My youngest boy, 3, has his leg in a cast, and one boy, 11, goes to school. Having to stay home and take care of sick ones, my only means of support is what washing I can get to do at home, and this is beginning to wear me out. My rent is $17 a month, and it is becoming almost impossible for me to make ends meet. Any assistance in the line of clothes, bedding, or whatever else your readers could give would be fully appreciated.

Mrs. C. J."

After such relentless bad fortune, doesn't this family deserve a kind turn from life for once? Bedding and clothing are needed. Who will provide it?

Desire for Home.

Do you suppose some of your readers could give us a little assistance? We are two sisters who are endeavoring to furnish a small apartment so that we may bring mother to live with us. By careful planning we have been able to secure the necessary furniture but are unable to buy the accessories that would make our apartment homelike. If any one has any discarded linens, curtains, drapes, small rugs, etc., we would be grateful for them, and will be glad to pay postage. Thank you most sincerely for any help you may give us.

R. H."

Certainly this desire for an attractive little home to be made ready for mother deserves encouragement—and I hope a helping hand will be extended to R. H. and her sister.

Needs Gas Range.

"I wonder if there is one among your number who would have a gas range to give us. We have a gas plate and the oven is worn out. Therefore I am unable to do any baking to speak of, which would save us at many times if we had the proper oven to bake in.

"O. L. C."

Can any one respond to this request? O. L. C.'s address is at your service.

FIERY, ITCHY SKIN QUICKLY SOOTHED WITH SULPHUR

Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream, will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema, that is covered with ugly rash or pimples, or is rough or dry. Nothing subdues fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist.

The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops, and after two or three applications the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clear and smooth. Sulphur is so precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur always heals eczema right up.

A small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be had at any good drug store.

THE POTTERS

FIRST MIGHTY BRAIN:
Where did you learn that?

COMEDIAN:
Church, of course.

FIRST MIGHTY BRAIN:
That musta been before you took up golf.

SECOND MIGHTY BRAIN:
Say, I seen in the paper the other day where they're going to broadcast sermons to the golfers on Sunday morning.

SERIOUS GENTLEMAN (hal) to himself):
. . . "and there was a sower who cast his seed on the rocks" . . .

RANKIN (perking up at the hint of radio):
Wouldn't old Tut-whatever-his-name-is be flabbergasted if he could come back and hear some radio?

VOICES:
I'll say! . . . yes, SIR! . . . hot diggety dog!

FIRST MIGHTY BRAIN:
What gets me is the way they keep on discovering new stunts all the time. Gosh, before one scientist gets finished saying something can't be done, three amateurs have done it three different ways.

RANKIN (with a look at Pa):
There you are! Just as I was telling my friend here.

SECOND MIGHTY BRAIN:
It's a wonder some of these smart money guys haven't got a corner on it already. They will yet, you mark my words.

RANKIN (to Pa, sotto voce):
There, what did I tell you?

PA (eagerly):
Thass right.

SECOND MIGHTY BRAIN (oracularly; not that he has an audience):
Just as soon as there gets to be some real dough in it these smart, still-running gazabos will gobble it up, and, first thing you know, they'll have a corner on all the radio rights in the world.

VOICES:
How they gonna do that? . . . can't be done . . . the government won't allow it . . . the air belongs to all of us . . .

SERIOUS GENTLEMAN (drawlingly):
Government won't allow it? Who made the oil? Who's got it? Who made the coal? Who's got it? Do you pay what you'd like for it, or what you have to pay? Who made the air? The same party—meaning no irreverence. Who'll be selling us the right to use it one of these days? One guess. Government won't allow it! That's funny. That's one of the things governments are for—to protect the property rights of those who have the right property.

RANKIN (after a strained silence:)
Gentlemen, you talk of a radio monopoly as if it were something in the dim future. It isn't. It's here, right now.

VOICES:
What? What?

RANKIN (significantly):
My friend Mr. Potter here [Mr. Potter expands] and I are on our way now to attend the organization of the corporation that purposes to do this very thing . . . control the radio commerce of the world. We, I don't mind confessing confidentially, are getting in on the ground floor.

VOICES:
Honest? Can it be done? How?

RANKIN:
A new discovery . . . a tremendous new discovery, and, of course, a secret one yet . . . when it is given out it will startle the world . . . but then it will be too late for the world to do anything except be startled . . . we will have it in the hollow of our hand . . . isn't that right, Mr. Potter?

POTTER (proudly):
Yes, SIR!

VOICE (the call of the wild):
Are they gonna sell stock?

RANKIN:
Only to insiders . . . to insiders who have courage to face the fight that will be waged by the whole world when it discovers what has happened. Right, Mr. Potter?

POTTER (indomitably):
Absolutely, Mr. Rankin.

PORTER (sticking head through curtains):
Lady back in cab says for Mr. Pottah to come right back at once—yes, sah, at once.

POTTER (rising hurriedly):
Tell her I'm coming right away . . .

RANKIN (continuing to address attentive group):
. . . Yes, sir, indomitable courage, that's what it will require . . . and coolness . . . and vision . . . yes, sir . . . plenty of vision . . .

(And That's That—Until Next Sunday.)

How Did He Propose?

Do you remember—of course you do—how your husband proposed to you? Where and how did it happen? Was he scared to death and weren't you on the verge of nervous prostration, too? For, of course, you knew he was going to do it—or didn't you? Perhaps he isn't your husband, but one of the fellows you had to "turn down." How about that? Tell us about it! This goes double, for we want to hear from the men, too. A dollar for every letter printed. Address Proposal Editor, The Tribune, Chicago.

He Was Willin'.

One of the queerest proposals I ever knew about I witnessed in a town in the upper peninsula of Michigan. A middle aged widow, cook for a boarding house, had been courted assiduously for years by an old bachelor, known familiarly around town as "Old John." Apparently, being of the bashful type, he could not muster up courage to ask the one and all important question.

It was during the war and the local Red Cross was attempting to raise money by a basket social in the town hall, the girls and women to furnish the baskets, the boys and men to buy them at auction and eat with their former owners the lunch they contained. Of course, the identity of the owners of the baskets was supposed to be kept secret until after the auction but many a Jill slipped a hint to her Jack, nevertheless.

Some of the young fellows at the boarding house who had been watching Old John's attempts at courtship with considerable amusement, succeeded in capturing the widow's basket in the boarding house pantry long enough to remove its contents and substitute a white, frosted cake and a wedding ring.

At the social it was plainly evident that Old John had received definite information as to the exterior decorations of the widow's basket, for he failed to enter the bidding at all until a pink and blue crepe paper creation was put up for sale. The young men from the boarding house, of course, knew the reason for his sudden interest and forced up the bidding until he at last paid an outrageous sum for the basket. Then they all gathered around to watch him open it.

"Everything ready but the bridegroom," jested one.

"Well, if Mis' Updyke is agreeable, I'm ready, too," drawled Old John shamefacedly. "How about it, Jessie?"

Apparently Jessie was agreeable, for they were married within the month and for all I know to the contrary, have been living happily ever after.

F. A. B.

Now They're Mad.

My friend Joe had taken Millie out to dinner, and when they had finished, Joe looked intently at the girl and said: "Millie, may I make a proposal?"

"Of course you may, Joe, and I'll promise in advance to say 'yes'," said Millie joyfully.

"I'm glad to hear it," said the brute; "I haven't enough money with me, and I propose that you pay the bill this time."

And now Joe wonders why Millie doesn't speak as they pass by.

Keep Looking Young

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about the natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

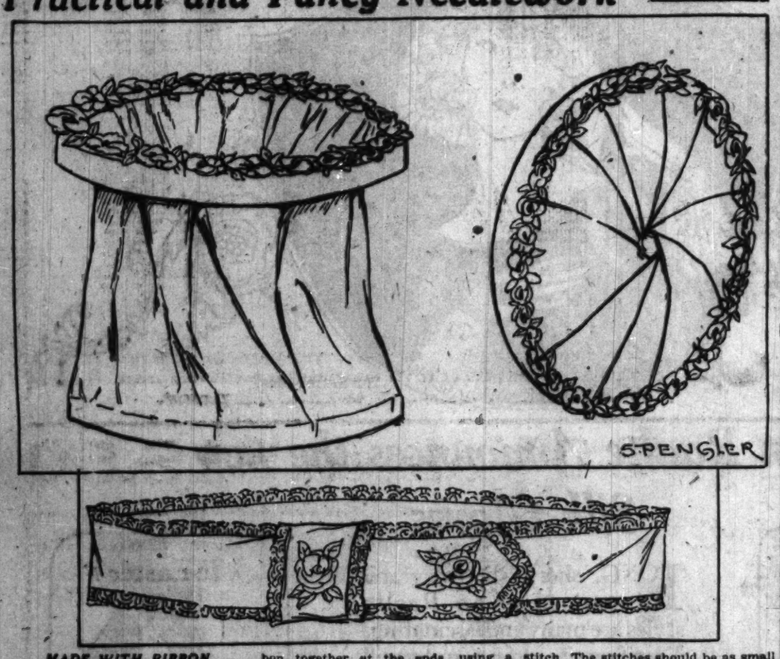
Practical and Fancy Needlework

BY CLOTILDE



MADE WITH RIBBON.

RIBBONS are put to many fascinating uses nowadays and come in a bewildering variety of colorings and designs. Among the simpler articles that may be made are a powder case and a lingerie or linen band. Both these articles are useful and pretty and will not take long to make.

For the powder case buy a pair of the smallest sized embroidery hoops and plain or gayly patterned satin ribbon. Probably one-third of a yard of four and one-half inch ribbon will answer. The smaller and bottom ring is fitted with a ribbon covered piece of pasteboard. Cut the pasteboard so that the ring will slip over it, and cover it on both sides, overhanding the silk together around the edge. Then measure around the upper ring and seam the ribbon together at the ends, using a French seam, and cover the larger ring with one end of it. Then cover the smaller ring with the other end of the ribbon and overhand the bottom of the case to the bottom ring. To close the case, turn the upper edge one way and the bottom the opposite.

Around the top a line of tiny buds in some contrasting color would make a charming finish.

The easiest way to cover the rings will be to turn in an edge of the ribbon, have the turning laid in your lap so the turned in part is towards you, lay the ring over the ribbon and bring the turned-in edge and the ribbon together so that the ring is smoothly covered, and holding it carefully with the left hand, overhand the turned in edge and ribbon that meets it together; or, if it is easier, take a small hemming stitch. The stitches should be as small and even as possible so that they will not show disagreeably on the right side.

The lingerie or linen band is one of those little accessories that all women who like nice things kept nicely, will want to have.

One and one-eighth yards of two inch ribbon is generally used for this sort of band. The band is turned in and finished straight across one end with a narrow hem, and the opposite end is turned in to form a point. A slide is made of the ribbon which will serve to hold the ends in place, and on the under side of this a tiny sachet is fastened.

Slide and band are edged with a quarter inch wide Valenciennes lace edge, and small rosebuds or other flowers are sewed in place, one at the pointed end and the other on the slide.

10¢ CASCARETS

For Constipated Bowels, Sick Headache, Upset Stomach, Colds, Biliousness, Bad Breath

Your bowels may seem regular—move every day—yet your thirty feet of bowels may be lined with poisonous waste which is being sucked into your blood, keeping you half sick, nervous, despondent and upset. Whether you have headache, colds, sour stomach, indigestion, or heart palpitation, it is usually from bowel poison.

Hurry! One or two Cascarets tonight will clean your bowels right. By morning all the constipation poison and sour bile will move out—thoroughly! Cascarets will not sicken you—they physic fully, but never gripe or inconvenience.

Children love Cascarets, too. 10c boxes, also 25 and 50c sizes. Any drug store.

TOAST AND MEAT.

WHILE bread furnishes a balance for almost any sort of a meal, toast furnishes a superbalance for any meat dish. It is fine as a supplement to lamb chops—an economical supplement as necessary to juicy and not dry and toughly cooked lamb chops—as to quail or any small bird which has to have it if served with any pretense to correctness.

Many years ago a certain boarding house at a state capital owed its fine reputation as much to its clever use of always superior toast on its table as to any one thing, and that in the days before the convenient electric toaster of hotel kitchen size which, with a bread cutter, turns toast making into a regular factory process—convenient, sanitary, energy saving. Just a little touch more and this toast might be given personality.

There is an amusing item about toast in a recent story on "My Diplomatic Education"—dinners and eating play a great part in diplomacy. The young man who was getting the education took great pains to set himself up in housekeeping, and of his Japanese cook and general servant he says: "So far as cooking went he was a real chef. Every dish he brought to the table was a work of art; plain old potatoes under his magic touch became bouquets of calla lilies; desserts represented famous chateaux; meat courses were invariably disguised in such a way that a cautious vegetarian would never have known what he was eating; and his coffee became the envy of all my colleagues. But toast was his really perfect achievement. It was the most exactly cut and browned squares of bread that you can imagine; it looked as if each piece had been baked in a mold for the purpose; and the toasting was as regular as if it had been applied with paint and brush."

Uses Toast Artfully.

And then the young diplomat discovered the secret of the regularity of that toast. The Japanese cook "toasted it at night, then in the morning scraped it down to its perfect contours and heated it again." There are some objections to this process, but all the moisture being dried out by the first toasting it will perfectly retain its shape, and when it is to be served with meat it would be more acceptable than for a meal of toast and coffee or toast and tea.

In many a home where toast and coffee, or toast and tea, is a constant resource, the use of toast with meats like lamb and pork chops and with roast meat is neglected. Our small tearooms could learn a lesson of economy and charm if they would more often supplement meat with toast. A little triangle of toast garnish is quite as pleasing as an olive or a crisp stem of celery in the perfection of a simple meal. And perhaps we might give as a test of its rightness that it does not need any butter, but if it has touched the fat edges of a chop or taken up a little juice that otherwise might be wasted on the plate, it is the more agreeable to eat and more justified as a meat supplement.

Little skewers of broiled bits of lamb and bacon are quite elegant, and may be more economical than almost any meat of equal air and satisfaction, since lamb stew meat may be used for the little collops or gobbets. Rightly cooked these have fat and juicy edges, and when served on a hot chop platter, perhaps in a sort of wheel alternating with pieces of toast cut to fit in between and catch both fat and juices—put some cress around the edge of the plate if you can—we have both charm and economy well represented.

Toast Serves as Mount.

In the correct serving of meat and vegetables each item has its sauce, or some finish equal to a sauce, while neutral pieces of toast served in almost any combination of these may share any sauce, while making the more expensive and exactingly prepared bit go much farther and seem more finishing as well as the meal also more complete.

Toast served as a garnish and a mount is used in a limited way on home tables, but to nothing the extent it is used by the chef. The home cook might learn many a lesson from the latter. Sometimes she does observe something that may seem rare and different and then she applies to such an I for the wherefore and the how.

Tiny pastes of meat or fish or cheese are spread on thin and perfect bits of toast, perhaps coated with a paper thin layer of aspic jelly and served as an appetizer—a canape. A seasoned butter is sometimes piped around the edges of these in a fancy thread but remember the base its just toast. These are seen particularly often at "gentleman's dinners."

For mounting larger things, like a small bird or even a chop, the technical name of the piece of toast used is "socle," or sometimes it is called a croustade. And if we follow the French rule that every garnish and accessory on a dish of meat shall be edible, nothing will so perfectly answer for the socle as the piece of toast. A small bird or even a guinea hen carved on it gives of its juices and fats to make that socle something to be relished as much as the meat itself.

Almost anything, even a croquette, served with a gravy or sauce, may be served on a socle or "sofa" of toast. In countries like Italy where meat is harder to get, no drop of meat juice is lost in service, and even greens are served with toast or with some of the pastes of which macaroni is the chief.

Lends Distinction to Royal Table.

Instead of being dry toasted, bread is toasted in fat—fried brown—when cut in the shape of little cases which have no end of use for inexpensive little elegances. Expertly managed they are truly elegant and are used with the most expensive meats.

In the higher courts of cookery these are generally but not always called croustades. The most famous of the cooks of Queen Victoria's household made extraordinary things of bread for the service of more or less simple foods, presented for the queen's table. We should consider what he devised but rarely desirable, for they do show what can be done with a loaf of bread. He made urns with flutings and beadings that as pictured look more like cement garden furniture than like something to eat, and perhaps they were never eaten any more than were the candy vases, pitchers and epergnes in which bonbons, creams and ices were served, but some of them were nicely seasoned for the ardent fork of a real eater.

What this cook's croustades were in size we may guess from the following directions: "For a croustade of ordinary dimensions, a four pound loaf of close bread should be procured two days before it is wanted for use, as it must be stale for this purpose. In order to prevent waste, the loaf should be baked in an oval, square, or round tin case, according to the intended form of the croustade."

Stale Bread for Croustades.

This may remind us that toast is usually made of stale bread for all these fancy uses and only of rather fresh bread when it is to be used with tea or coffee or in some sweet dish, but before we drop this subject of croustades let us note, to sustain our argument, what a simpler cook than Francatelli has to say about them. To make them it says: "Cut stale bread in diamonds, squares, or circles. Remove centers, leaving cases. Fry in deep fat or brush over with melted butter, and brown in oven. Fill with creamed vegetables, fish or meat."

If we turn to game cookery in the book of any accomplished chef we shall find such expressions as serve on hot dish with "hot toasts," or decorate with "bread croutons." Bread croutons are small or large pieces of bread toasted in the oven. To make them one chef says: "Cut six rather thin slices of an American loaf of bread; neatly pare, then cut them into heart shaped croutons. Lay them on a tin plate, drip a little clarified butter over them, place in the hot oven for four minutes, let get a good golden color."

Used in Place of Garnishes.

Two of the garnishes which are used with small game and may as well be used with lamb chops, that may to advantage be replaced by toast, are broiled bacon and fritters. In this case the bacon is rather superfluous as food, though acceptable as flavor. Some heated or fried fruit and toast may be made more ornamental than the fritter, be less troublesome to prepare, and be altogether more wholesome.

ALMOST TOO GOOD TO BE TRUE

DEAREST MARY O' MINE: The whole world is rose colored to me today, and my feet are treading on air, for the dearest little girl in all the world whispered to me last night that she loves me. I had never dared, in my wildest fancy, to dream of such a thing, and had just been unexpressably happy in loving her, but to think that my love is returned and that there is no dream to awaken from, fills my soul with a profound awe and gladness that I never knew existed.

Mary, little girl, I never lived till I loved, and, God helping me, I'll make every promise come true and spend the rest of my life making you happy. It seems too wonderful to be true that of all the ardent lovers who sought to win you, you have chosen me! It shall never cease to thrill and humble me. I have accomplished the impossible.

When you put your dear arms around me and laid that little curly head on my shoulder my heart stood still—happiness too great for mortal man. And to think that I shall be able to see that same dear face every day and call her all my own, thrills my soul.

Good night, little sweetheart o' mine, you shall never cease to be to me—the one woman in all the world.

Eternally yours,
RICHARD.

ALKALI IN SHAMPOOS BAD FOR WASHING HAIR

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get Mulsified at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a cup or glass with a little warm water is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub the Mulsified cocoanut oil in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.

Sage Tea Darkens Hair to any Shade

WHEN you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is mussy and troublesome. At little cost, you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, and look years younger.

HOW TO ORDER YOUR CLOTILDE PATTERNS.

How to Use the Patterns

THIS smart looking slip-on dress, pattern No. 1669, will be a well liked addition to the wardrobe of many women and misses.

The pattern consists of a plain, long waisted waist, with sleeves that may be made in one of two lengths, and a one piece, straight gathered skirt which is attached to the waist, giving the effect of a one piece dress. There are trimming pieces on the lower part of the waist at each side of the front which may, of course, be used or not, as one prefers. If the waist and skirt are made of different materials, the trimming pieces will be an attractive addition, made of the skirt material. A narrow belt is suggested as a good finish for this style.

If one wishes to have a dress that may be worn on the street, suitable for shopping or for informal afternoon affairs, it would be pretty made of one of the light weight serges or other soft woolens, using, for instance, navy blue for the waist and a matching plaid of the same material for the rest of the dress. The trimming pieces would be of the plaid, as would the collar and wrist bands for the full length sleeves. The binding of the slash at the neck and the narrow belt would also be of the plaid.

On the upper left side of the front of the waist a monogram may be embroidered, using the plaid colors, and adding one other brighter color if desired. A casing is placed on the under side of the dress where waist and skirt join, and through this an elastic is run so that one can easily adjust the fullness to suit.

Crêpe or satin would be good looking for another sort of a dress, made by this same design—using for the upper part one of the printed crêpes. Every one knows skirts are considerably longer than they were early in the winter. The exact length should be based on that most becoming to the years, figure, etc., even though one follows the prevailing fashion in a way. I mean to say, if a skirt six inches from the floor is more becoming than one eight, choose the more becoming length. No one looks well following some mardate of fashion that makes her unbecomingly dressed. Try to bring out good points and disguise others as much as possible.

Pattern No. 1300 is for one of those always good looking middy dresses. They are especially useful for school—whether made for cold weather wear of some homespun, wool jersey or serge, or for warmer weather of linen, mercerized cotton poplin, pongee, challis, or gingham or chambray.

The skirt is a one piece, straight pattern that may be gathered or straight by a thread of the material, then put the hem in after joining the seam, mark every plait perforation distinctly on the material, and lay according to the directions given on the pattern. This plaited skirt is attached to an underwaist that opens in the back. The neck of this underwaist may be cut round or square.

There is a separate slip-on blouse with long or short sleeves, and if the directions that come with the pattern are carefully followed, there should be no trouble in cutting or making.

Pattern No. 1634 is for a house dress that closes in the front. There is a "V" shaped neck, finished with a pretty collar, and one piece sleeves gathered to wrist bands, or the sleeves may be made shorter and finished with turned back cuffs. Then there is an attached one piece skirt with large patch pockets, and an applied front to the waist that covers the joining of the skirt and waist. This front at the waist line may have sash ends attached at the sides, or a rather wide belt may be used, extending from the front and buttoning on one or both sides. The skirt measures at the bottom, for size 36, about 1¾ yards.

Any of the usual wash materials will look well made by this design, making the entire dress of one or combining two materials or colors.

plaited. Naturally the plaits are prettier and they are not difficult. If possible, cut the bottom of the skirt

MAKES SKIN CLEAR, FIRM

Stuart's Calcium Wafers Are Wonders to Aid the Skin in Clearing Itself of Skin Imperfections

Complexion creams, soaps, vitamines and such things come and go outs. Stuart's Calcium Wafers keep right on as the rational way to clear the skin of pimples, redness, roughness and such imperfections. Their first action is to aid the system to get rid of the mass of waste products that seep into the blood and are apt to be absorbed into the tissues.

Then the Calcium itself is one of the essential elements that the system naturally absorbs and utilizes, particularly in keeping the skin in health. Thus there are decided benefits to be had from these wonder-wafers, for no matter how pimply the skin, a box or two, cannot fail to show marked changes. There begins to show the delicate rose-tint of the skin, it is smoother, of finer texture and with any ordinary attention to bodily hygiene the complexion soon shows wonderful improvement.

Get a 60 cent box of Stuart's Calcium Wafers of any druggist, and then you may count on a complexion worth having.

Doris Blake's Answers to Love Problems

Have you a perplexing love affair on which you need the counsel of a friend? Write to Doris Blake, care The Tribune, Chicago. If you wish a personal reply please send a stamped, addressed envelope.

This department appears every day in the Daily Tribune.

Just Who Can Define Love?

"Dear Miss Blake: Kindly tell me if this is the definition of love? 'Love is a mental and spiritual attraction existing between a man and a woman that merges those impiacable qualities we call souls, for want of a better name into one.'

EDNA."

Since Adam fell for the apple every known human soul has been trying to define love, and I don't know but what your definition is as intelligible as any other.

Loves Them Both.

"Dear Miss Blake—I was introduced to a young man by a girl friend of mine. The young man and I became good friends. He took me to his home and introduced me to his folks, who welcomed me with open arms and said that since we had been going together a change had come over my friend; that he never worked before and now he was looking for something. He worked about two weeks and then stopped.

"Later we had an argument and he went away for a month without letting anyone, even his mother, know where he was. When he came home he called me up and asked if we could still be the same good friends and as I loved him, I said yes. He made an engagement with me and about an hour before he was supposed to call he telephoned and said he was sick and could not come, and so made an engagement for another evening. When the evening arrived his sister called me up and said he was sick and could not come, but that he would call me up the following night. He did, and we made an engagement for another evening, which has not arrived yet.

"Now, while he was away I met a very nice chap. He has a good position and chance for advancement. He asked me to keep steady company with him, and so I told him about the other fellow. He said he did not want to come between us and would come for his answer in a month. I love them both. The second young man I know will be good to me and give me a good home and everything I want, while I do not see how the first young man can even give me a ring. I have never confessed to the second young man that I love him, but he says he thinks he can make me learn to love him in time, while to the first young man I have confessed my love.

"What will I do? Who will I choose?

QUEENY."

A young man disinclined to work, Queeny, is a poor investment any way you look at him, as a son, husband, citizen, or anything. Just something to be discarded as totally ineligible.

Forget the Deserter.

"Dear Miss Blake—I am a girl 18 years old. I fell in love with a fellow three years my senior. Now this boy, unknown to me, was keeping company with a young girl while coming around to me and taking me out, telling me he loved me and that there was no other girl. Later on he brought a friend around with him. We went out together and had a nice time.

"The fellow I was going with went back to his other girl and told his friend to tell me all. Now this fellow has asked me to allow him to help me forget the other fellow. He says he loves me and I think a lot of him, too. If I forget this other fellow I am sure I can love this man as much as he says he loves me. Now, Miss Blake, please advise me what to do.

"BROKEN HEARTED."

That is the panacea for blasted hopes, Broken Hearted, an age old remedy, tried and found quite satisfactory.

This Boy Lacks Ambition.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am deeply in love with a young man four years my senior. I am 17. We are neighbors and have known each other for many years. This boy has no future whatsoever, but he is clean cut. He is not ambitious, either. But still I love him. The parents on both sides do not approve of the match, therefore we have to meet secretly. Is this right? What can I do to induce him to build up his future? We were meant for each other, and therefore all this worries me.

WORRIED."

He apparently needs some nice girl to put the spark of ambition into him. Can't you do it? You can if you are clever about it. But naturally you must not expect him to be a great success at 21. But you can encourage him to study and to work so that his future will be big and fine. I don't like the idea of secret meetings at all. And if you could make him see that your parents would approve were he to show more interest in his future success, they probably would welcome him with open arms.

Four Contradictions of the PARIS OPENINGS

IN THIS NUMBER OF

VOGUE

Early Paris Openings and Brides Number

Dated April 1

"THE chief point in the mode this spring," says Vogue's Paris staff, "is that of contradiction.

"FROCKS are pulled up in the front—that's the Egyptian silhouette. They are pulled up in the back—that's the 1880. They are straight as a string and combined with a three-quarter coat—that's the Indo-Chinese. They are all ruffles and bare shoulders—that's Second Empire. There are ruffles frilling in every direction. There are aprons tied before and tied behind. There are bows everywhere. There are plain fabrics and printed fabrics.

"IN short, no matter what good points a woman has to display, or not-so-good points to conceal, she can look her loveliest in one or another of the modes sanctioned by Paris this spring."

BUT don't get the impression that it is simple to dress because everything is smart. The only time when it's simple to dress is when everybody wears blue serge and one silhouette.

YOU must know the history of not one silhouette, but at least four, this spring. You must study your type four times as carefully. You must avoid combining one mode with another—fancy the devastating effect of ruffles on the Egyptian silhouette, for example. You must know exactly what lines to choose in hats, gloves, shoes to accompany the silhouette you select. You must, in short, not merely consult, but carefully study the mode as shown in Paris and reported by Vogue in the Early Paris Openings and Brides Number.

THE bride-elect will find special interest in the new trend abroad towards greater originality and distinction in wedding ceremonies. Several innovations in recent smart French weddings are described in this issue. The ultra modern bride, the traditional bride, and the bride who must consider costs all have pages devoted to them. The bride's linen closet is analyzed down to the last doily; there is some charming furniture; and a clever group of hats for those who are traveling, either with or without a husband in their luggage.

Even if you do not find it convenient to subscribe for Vogue by the year, which you may do very easily by using the coupon below, you should buy the important spring fashion numbers before you make your spring purchases of gowns, wraps, suits, hats and accessories. A single ill-advised purchase may waste many times the price of a whole year's subscription to Vogue. The April first number is ready now. Buy it at the news stand before you begin to shop.

The Last Word in Paris Fashions

Black satin with draped apron overskirt.

Yellow kasha trimmed in brown stripes.

Riviera costume of white wool with slashed sleeves.

Evening cape of gold lame edged with skunk.

TREATING THE STRAIGHT SILHOUETTE.

By Mary Brush Williams.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

PARIS.—(Special Correspondence.)—Still we have variations on the style I started talking about some two months ago. You start with your straight silhouette—that much of the lesson remains unaltered—and you "treat" it with an apron of some kind or other. In this case it is caught up, not unlike the overskirt of olden time, except that when the French use a fashion it never looks exactly as it did when we of Indiana assembled its parts. Anyway, this offering is but one more picture in fashion's reel of spring skirts, and I think it is one of the prettiest.

The dress is of black satin and has a plain and neat look. Contrary to the custom of most of the present day dresses, it has a round neck. The line of it doesn't suggest the boat shaped form of a day that is dead so much as it does the crocheted yoke line of the nightgowns that we used to take to afternoon parties as our fancy work. Green and white beads form the design of this yoke, and green and white ribbons edge the overskirt and the inside of the cuffs. They also constitute the belt and fall like an elongated watch fob down the right side from the waist line. Loops corresponding to it on a smaller scale fall from the cuffs. Notice in passing how tight the sleeves are.

The hat is of black straw and the high crown is banded in narrow black ribbons which overlap one another and fall in long ends in an imitation tassel down the right side. Jean Patou is responsible for the dress and Lewis for the hat.

This is a good spring coat, I think, and comes near to fulfilling all requirements of the woman who leads the simple life, only falling short in qualifying for post-6 o'clock duty—and even then I notice that American girls over here employ the coats in which they have traveled by day to cover up their evening finery. You will, of course, use your own judgment in how far to press the service of this one, but so far as it goes it is good, I think in both color and line. I always did like those seashell collars.

This wrap is in yellowish kasha with a garnishment of brown stripes and two big brown buttons, one on active service at the waist line and the other at the throat. There is some fullness on the sides—ask me not to explain how to cut this mantle—and these gathers are held in by little strips of the material that serve as belts. I particularly like the rough and ready look of this garment (I talk like the salesman for it, don't I?), and yet it has a refinement withal.

But to revert for a moment to my remark in parenthesis: I thought of the unfitness of it even as I was writing. No French salesgirl would ever talk that way about an article for sale. You would think the point was to retain the merchandise and not let any of the goods get away.

Under this coat is concealed a yellow crepe dress printed in brown, cut after the chemise pattern, tied with the usual shoestring belt that accompanies this model and run from top to toe with longitudinal groups of small tucks. It has short sleeves.

The hat is of gray straw. We made the sketch from a girl we saw walking down the Champs Elysees and later taking tea at Claridge's.

If winter comes, then spring will soon be here. It is much more than arrived in Monte Carlo—is even now moving up on the Champs Elysees, and this dress, which began its career along the shores of the blue Mediterranean, is appearing in color in our town. This is the summer resort version, and is in white cashmere, with a black and green design ornamenting it in the form of a stripe down the length of the skirt, that same pattern being repeated along the standing collar as well as down the jumper-like opening at the throat and on the flaring slashed sleeves.

There is a green straw hat by Georgette showing once again her new way of using quills—in the form of a pom pon, or maybe of a cactus as you have seen them growing in the desert. This one grows at an angle out of the crown of the hat.

The slash in the sleeves is a part of the same general architectural manifestation that displays itself up the side of the coat. Isn't it reassuring to see a parasol? It encourages us to think that spring really will be here one day.

The last showing represents an effective evening cape by Jean Patou. It is of gold lame, with a corded collar that is typical of a movement in collars—both as regards cut and this item of the cording. The cut of the cape is circular and it is edged with black skunk. The under part is of gold colored chiffon. The cords on the collar are of gold.

A fashion note of the day concerns the great use of black satin. For a time it was almost dead—as near as it ever can be in Paris, for the women of the fashion center love it and will never abandon it with anything like finality. Now it is being used both on its shiny side and then, by way of a dramatic contrast, on its dull side by the simple device of turning the pieces so that the material shows its two faces in the same costume.

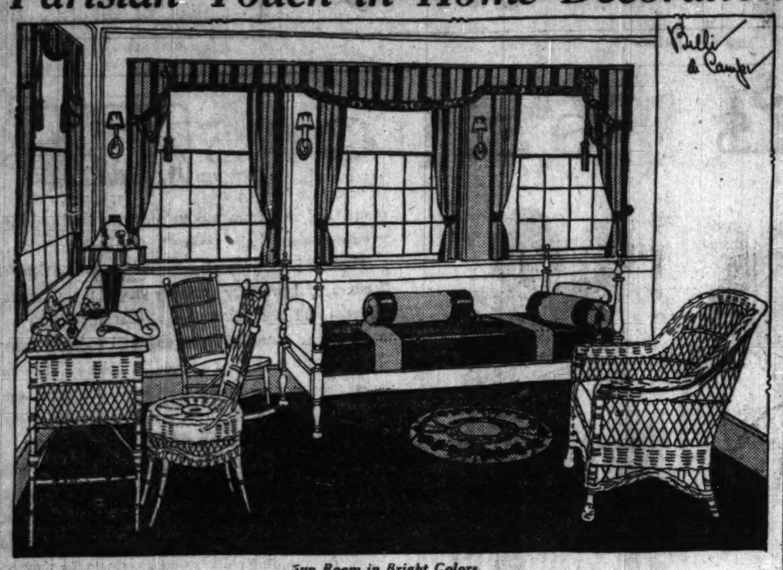
Parisian Touch in Home Decoration



Sun Room in Bright Colors.

By Anita de Campi.

MODERN art, as depicted by leading Parisian decorators, offers many new treatments and novelties of unusual interest. A collection of nicely detailed sketches of French interiors, which has just been imported, graphically indicates that gracefully curved lines are taking the place of the crude cuts expressive of the cubist and futurist idea.

At either extremity of a shallow curved recess, in which the head of the bed is set, in a French bedroom, there is a three foot wide wooden panel. Slightly above the center of each of these a circular mirror, about two feet in diameter, is inserted. The panels are enameled flame color, and a narrow design in black is stenciled, forming a frame for each mirror, and a border around the edges of the panels. Black and silver wall paper is used. The double bed, with its curved head and foot boards, is enameled black, trimmed with flame, and the cover is made of silver and black silk brocade. Lemon yellow silk shields the side lights.

Gathered and hanging from molding to floor in soft lustrous folds is a changeable blue and gold silk which covers the walls in another bedroom. The ceiling and space above the molding are canvases and painted old ivory. In place of a dresser there is a long, narrow, walnut table, with three drawers, placed against the wall. Above this a large oval mirror is hung, the mechanism of the hanging being concealed in the folds of the silk wall covering. At each side of the mirror there is an electric light, with an oval parchment shield. The floor is covered with Wedgwood blue carpeting. Beside the bow-end bed, and before the dressing table, there is a decorative, patterned rug. Both of these are round, with a diameter of about four feet. Circular rugs seem to find great favor, and many of the square or oblong rugs have large circles introduced in their designs.

Mulberry velour is used for upholstery in a moderate sized salon. The walls are done in a light two toned gray paper, and woodwork is painted gunmetal gray. Some of the extra cushions for the davenport and chairs are of small, alternating black and white squares, and others are of black, piped with jade green. There is a round magazine table. The chairs have curved, rounded backs, terminating in arms. The floor is carpeted in dull green. Decorative black and white enameled placques are hung at intervals about the wall.

In a country house the entrance hall is especially interesting. A drapery of heavy white linen, embroidered, Persian style, with small motifs of black leopards, and with a flowered border, hangs in the open doorway which leads to the living room. At either side of this doorway there is a large, carved, black oak chair. The walls are panelled in oak, to a height of about five feet, and the upper space is of Caen stone. Beneath the wooden stairway there is an open fireplace, built into the stone wall. The firedogs and accessories are of iron, and wrought iron lighting fixtures with parchment shades add a finishing touch. Having a fireplace in the hall is exceptionally pleasant, as it is sure to give an impression of good cheer and welcome immediately on entering the house.

Comfortable and attractively furnished is a small living room. The walls are covered with hand blocked paper, in two tones of green and black, on a sand colored ground. This is divided into panels, by means of narrow strips of wood molding. All of the woodwork is painted ash green. At one side of the room, stretching almost from wall to wall, is a low, boxed lounge, covered with black mohair piped in pompeiian red. There are cushions of many colors, which are remindful of gay handfuls of joyous confetti, piled on this lounge. Two low arm chairs and a console table complete the furnishings. On the table there is a Chinese bowl and a pair of lamps, and above a mirror is hung. The floor, which is carpeted all over with dull green chenille, is enlivened by a small, colorful, oval shaped rug, which is placed in the center of the space.

Striped sunfast, in a combination of indigo blue, tomato red, and old gold is used for window drapes in the sun room illustrated. The daybed cover is indigo, trimmed with bands of tomato red, and the bolster cushions are old gold and black. The wicker furniture is enameled indigo, trimmed with red. Black chenille, supplemented by a festive looking round rug, dresses the floor. The walls are barley colored, and the blue pottery desk lamp has an old gold shade.

French blue and silver are the dominant colors in a luxurious bed room. Changeable blue and silver taffeta is used for window drapes. Woodwork and furniture are enameled silver gray, and the floor is carpeted in deep taupe. The low bed, which is placed on a six inch high platform, has a cover of silver tissue, veiled with shirred, blue chiffon. Dull silver lamps and side lights have shades of orchid silk over rose color, trimmed with silver lace and French flowers. At the doorway which leads to the dressing room, hangs a portiere of sumptuous, heavy, silver cloth, with rays of gold, on which the lights play in glorious reflections.

Another French bedroom has its furniture enameled a light ecru. The walls are a pale lemon yellow, and the woodwork matches the furniture. Quilted turquoise satin covers the bed, and deep taupe carpeting is used on the floor. A strikingly beautiful couvre-pied of mauve taffeta, trimmed with black and white butterflies, is thrown over the turquoise upholstered chaise longue.

"The dining room must be cheerful," says one French decorator, and he accomplishes his idea by having the spaces between the double French doors and windows, paneled in old printed cloth, showing an interesting pattern of birds and flowers. A pair of carved marble consoles flanks the French door which leads onto an attractive balcony. An old wooden chest occupies a place of prominence in the center of one side of the room. There is a long refectory table, with an arm chair at either end, and with five chairs at each side for the happy guests. The draperies are of gold and black damask, matching the upholstery of the chair seats, and deep golden brown carpeting is used to cover the floor.

Recently completed is an impressive dining room in which scenic paintings are frescoed on to the walls, in bright colors, producing in the room the gayety of a summer day. Massive and simple of line are the long malachite marble table, and the carved stone fireplace and over mantel. The seats of the chairs are upholstered in deep green velour, and the stone floor is left uncarpeted.

Quite formal in character is another dining room, with paneled walls. At one side of the room, almost completely covering the wall space, is an exquisite tapestry. This surmounts a long, low dresser, on which there are several rare pieces of antique silver. In the center of the room is placed the square dining table, with its high backed chairs, upholstered in tapestry. The pleasingly patterned parquetry floor is not hidden by rugs.

Answers to Inquiries.

O. J. R.: Have a two toned mulberry rug in the reception room, and a blue and gray linoleum in the office. Use ecru voile for glass curtains in both rooms. Have striped casement silk drapes, in mulberry, old blue, and old gold, with hairlines of black. The walls should be calcimined ecru. Have the cushions upholstered in rep, matching one of the colors in the drapes.

H. T. W.: You could have blue velvet, brocaded in gray, for draw curtains and portieres. Have the lamp shades match the rose color in the rug, and have the walls done in two tone French gray paper. It is not necessary to have the woodwork enameled. Carry out the colonial idea suggested by the china closet, in the dining room. Have the woodwork enameled French gray and have the same wall paper as that the living room. Have brown mahogany furniture—dining table, console, and chairs.

L. A.: Your walls are a good neutral color as they are, so it would not be necessary to change them unless you wish to do so. The floors should be a little darker than the woodwork. Have French blue and old gold window drapes of casement silk in the living room. Have the walls in the dining room the same as the living room. Fiber rugs are attractive and comparatively inexpensive. Yes, rough plastered walls may be painted.

G. W.: Have a deep, dull blue rug in your living room, and lamp shades of Chinese pink taffeta, veiled with French gray georgette. Use striped taffeta, in mulberry, sage green, and gray for drapes. If the swinging door does not match the rest of the woodwork, you could have it refinished so that it would. Paint the furniture in your bedroom orchid, and use rose colored bed and dresser covers. The furniture could be edged with rose. Have chintz over drapes, in the other bedroom, with figures in lemon, rust, and turquoise, on a sand colored ground. Have a deep taupe rug, and let the bed and dresser covers be of turquoise rep. Lamp shades could be of lemon colored silk.

W. R.: Four poster bed, Windsor chair, and mahogany suggest that you favor the colonial types of furnishing. The most suitable sort of woodwork to have in a colonial bedroom is old ivory. Get a good sized dresser, with drawers, instead of a dressing table or vanity dresser, and place it against the wall, rather than at an angle. Have narrow striped jade pink and white wall paper. The floor could be painted deep taupe, and you could have a rose taupe rug. Let the glass curtains be of ecru marquisette, or voile, and have over drapes of flowered chintz, with rose color predominating. Have rep bed spreads, matching the rose color in the chintz, boxed to fit the beds, and edged with narrow, ecru and rose upholsterer's fringe. Rose colored lamp shades spread a soft glow which is pleasing.

L. K.: Have an ample French heading for your draperies, and let them hang straight. Edge them with two inch black and white upholsterer's fringe.

All Was Over.

I play on the grammar school football eleven. As every football player knows, the Thanksgiving day game is considered the most important one of the season.

It was toward the close of that day's game. The other side had scored six points, while we had only four. We had just five minutes to finish the game.

I got the ball and started to run. I was surprised that no one presented any interference. I reached the goal safely, but as I turned around I saw that all the onlookers and players were laughing. Then suddenly it dawned on me that I had run the wrong way. W. D.

Memories That Burn.

It happened while I was an usher at a theater. I have never recovered.

Of course we ushers carry large flashes and I always put mine in my hip pocket when going home. As I was waiting on the corner for the car one night several girl acquaintances came along and we stood there talking.

Suddenly a policeman who seemed to spring up from nowhere caught me by the arm and swung me around and said, "What youse got there, young feller?" and he drew forth the flashlight.

Now every time I meet one of the girls she invariably inquires, "What ya got there, young feller?"

I simply can't live it down. S. T. S.

Cure for Peeping.

Several weeks ago I was writing a "Queerest Boss" item for THE TRIBUNE. I had finished, with the exception of signing my name when I happened to look up and saw "my boss" reading over my shoulder. He looked "daggers" at me, then he exclaimed, "I am glad I out found my shortcomings—will try to remedy my 'queerness' in the future."

Large and Stern.

I had had little experience with the numerous bells and phones found in entrances of apartment buildings. One day as I was going out of the building I noticed a letter for my husband in the mail box. I read it and then pressed a button.

Some one answered and I, thinking it was my husband, said, "There's a letter here for you. I've read it, so come on down and get it."

I heard a door open and some one coming downstairs. I started up to meet him. A large, stern looking man I had never seen before appeared. I had rung the wrong bell. E. B.

Bit Over-Decorated.

When married only a short time, I attempted a rather elaborate luncheon with the help of my new inexperienced house maid. I did everything possible before the guests arrived and then gave Jennie last minute instructions and went into the living room. My most embarrassing moment occurred when entering the dining room, which smelled like the laundry, I found that husband's fleece lined underwear had been brought up from the basement and placed along the radiators to dry. MEN'S FASHIONS

POSSIBLE REACTION TO OPENING OF KING TUT'S TOMB.

By A. T. Gallico.

This department will be glad to answer any questions regarding men's fashions and the correct thing to wear on different occasions. Address communications to A. T. Gallico, The Tribune, Chicago. Inclose stamped, addressed envelope for personal reply.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—The furore and excitement resulting from the unearthing of another Pharaoh makes it reasonable to suppose that the realm of fashion will feel it to some extent. But just how much the opening of old King Tut's tomb is going to affect men's clothing remains to be seen. Already the designers of women's garments have put some of the Egyptian into their creations. There will possibly even be an introduction of actual Egyptian lines in women's wear.

But in the field of men's fashions there can be no direct adoption of Egyptian garments, only an adaptation of designs and patterns. There may be very little of this. Men's clothes cannot be turned out over night. In women's shops it is already possible to purchase a dress decorated with motifs from the Nile valley. But with men's wear it takes a certain number of weeks or months for ideas from manufacturers to be put through mills and market.

And when that is done, men who are slow to take up something new have got to be convinced that they want the new product. By that time old King Tut-Ankh-Amen will be still more ancient history, and explorers will have possibly dug up some lost Peruvian Inca and Indian art may be brought into play.

If Egypt does enter into men's fashions it will be perhaps but a fleeting visit. The whole thing can be now but a matter of idle prophecy and guesswork. There are no actual garments at date of writing on the market which are the result of King Tut. The illustration today does not show anything which you can rush down to your haberdasher's and buy. They are only a suggestion of what may be—some of the possibilities which Egyptian art offers.

There is no end to the possibilities that may be applied to decoration for clothing. The most prolific source of design is at picture language of the old Egyptians — their hieroglyphs. Among these are all sorts of funny looking birds and fishes and curlicues which make fascinating borders or all over designs, and are more easily adapted to patterns than, for instance, old king sitting alongside his wife. In the statue of an Egyptian king found at Karnak or the statue of a certain some cases sculpture may be interestingly used. A little statuette of a swan or the statue of a jackal, an animal that represented the god of embalmment, could easily be transmuted to scarfs and cravats.

There are certain designs which are inevitable, if the spirit of old Egypt is to be put across in modern clothing. These are the lotus flower, the papyrus bud, the scarab, and the winged globe, the latter being the spread wings used in the illustration. All of these make most decorative patterns.

The scarab was originally one of the hieroglyphs, meaning the verb "become," and perhaps "create." It was sacred to the sun god, and has been found mummified and in stone form wrapped in the bandages of buried mummies. Scarabs were also much used as seals, and as beads and ornaments. Hence the scarab cuff links suggested in the drawing are to the point as well as interesting.

The dressing gown, which might be of black silk with the figure in gold, also contains the scarab motif—the little pattern being an actual heiroglyphic. What it means doesn't matter. The average citizen is not going to worry about what his dressing gown or necktie is saying in old Egyptian. There are but few individuals versed in the pictorial language. Those who are might have an amusing time reading the background of this drawing. It perhaps says all sorts of things polite and otherwise.

The serpent design in one of the cravats illustrated is a hieroglyph, as is the group of three lotus flowers. The latter figure is more common than the plain lotus flower, although the single flower makes an attractive pattern, also, especially as an all over design for a necktie. Other characteristic leaves that may be transferred to cravats and mufflers are vine leaves, olive branches, and wild celery.

The greatest possibility for Egyptian designs in men's garments is in dressing gowns, sweaters, neckwear, mufflers, handkerchiefs, the tops of golf stockings, and, to some extent, in jewelry.

Beauty Answers

What's your beauty ill? Too fat? Too thin? Dry or hairy skin, oily skin, freckles, pimples, or blackheads? Flat chested or fat bosom? Write to me, have a tonic, a diet, or a set of exercises for you. What ails you and you want to be done to rid the defect can most generally be done. If you wish a personal reply, send a stamped, addressed envelope. Address Antoinette Donnelly, The Tribune, Chicago.

This department appears every day in the Daily Tribune.

T. M.: IF YOU WILL NOTE IN photographs of primitive races whose feet have not been formed by shoes or faulty posture you will be impressed by the parallel relation of the feet in walking and the straight inner edge of the feet. The correct shoes should have a straight inner edge and adequate space for toes. The heel of a good walking shoe should be from an inch to an inch and one-half in height. I have some excellent exercises for weak arches; also have a pamphlet on care of the feet, included in which is a fine corn "cure." Better hustle stamped addressed envelope before the tulips lift their festive heads so that your fancy may turn to heart palpitations instead of toe. If you have any foot troubles leave it to the glorious spring to bring 'em out.

Y. G.: YOUR SKIN BEING SO very tender, it would better to not squeeze out the blackheads then. But get an comparatively soft grade of complexion brush and use it every morning and every night like this: At night, use a good cleansing cream first and rub it well into the skin, allowing it to practically disappear. The cream softens the contents of the pores. Wipe off the surplus dirt with a nice clean rag, then take a good soap and the brush and warm water and scrub for a couple of minutes. Rinse the face in clear, warm water, and then give it a cold douche. And, this is the big touch in preserving a complexion—rub finally with ice, and that tones the skin and helps close the pores. Ice is a wonderful astringent, really.

This Laxative Works Fine on Old People

Thousands have kept themselves healthy with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

ADVANCING age with its subdued ambitions and strivings could be made very happy if only good health accompanied it, and the basis of good health, as everyone knows upon reaching the age of 60, is the regular daily movement of the bowels. If it can be effected through the food you eat, the water you drink and the exercise you take, so much the better. But if nature will not operate it must be assisted or sickness will follow. Neglected constipation causes the blood pressure to go up 28 per cent, and that is the forerunner of hardening of the arteries. It makes rheumatism and gout worse, too.

The ideal constipation remedy for people of advancing years is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant-tasting aromatics. It is gentle and mild, and does not cramp or gripe. It is a mistake to think you need a violent salt or powder or pill, calomel, coal-tar drugs and such things. They purge and weaken you, and their reaction tends to make you more constipated than before.

Now try the milder method. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin does not lose its good effect with repeated use, and increased doses are unnecessary. Mrs. E. M. Burgess of Enfield, N. C., who is 72, keeps herself in good health with it, and Mr. Charles Chornuss of Stapleton, Staten Island, N. Y., wasted fifteen years and considerable money on other remedies before finding steady relief with Syrup Pepsin.

Use Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin yourself the next time you suffer from constipation, biliousness, headache, sleeplessness, indigestion, piles or night cramps. Many thousands of elderly people use nothing else, and it costs them less than a cent a dose. Druggists have sold it successfully for 30 years, and it is the most widely bought family laxative in the world.

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking us whether we can send a trial to worthy families that anyone in the family can use when constipated? I say yes, to Syrup Pepsin. Write your address on a postal card, inclosing for me acknowledgment. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 515 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois. Do it now!

Miss Julia Hoyt Tells Secrets of Popularity

By Doris Blake.

NEW YORK. — [Special Correspondence.]—"Be natural and if you do not attract John Snooks you may attract John Turner. But if you are not natural you will not attract anybody."

Such is the formula for popularity given to me by the extremely beautiful and popular society woman and stage celebrity, Miss Julia Hoyt.

Not content with generalities on this vitally important topic, I asked Miss Hoyt point blank the secret of her own popularity, for with her manifold social and stage duties she is passionately fond of dancing and never lacks a partner.

Miss Hoyt, who has much native intelligence and unusual educational advantages, has naturally keen powers of observation, from which she draws very definite opinions, rebelled at the personal aspect applied to her own popularity, but waxed fluent in a general handling of the subject. However, when one is unprepared for interview, the generalities are quite likely to be a reflection of one's own experience.

"The big thing," I think, "is to be natural and genuine. The women who occur to me first hand as of abiding popularity, the ones who most readily win men and hold them, are the genuine and natural women under all circumstances.

Miss Julia Hoyt.

Men Admire Brains.

"It may be a radical departure," continued the superlative beauty, "but my experience is that men like women who are intelligent. I don't think intelligence an absolutely essential quality, but when a man meets a girl who is pretty or attractive he is delighted if he discovers, in addition to her physical charms, she has intelligence. I've heard them saying of such a girl: 'She had brains, too,' as though they had pounced upon the something new under the sun.

"I think men like a woman who is well turned out."

Miss Hoyt, I might inject right here, is the epitome of a "well turned out" woman. Perfectly groomed from head to foot and wearing at the moment a stunning black satin gown, with wide sleeves edged and collared in white, a large black hat with an intriguing lace veil dropping off the brim just far enough to cover her stunning deep brown eyes.

"I think they dislike the conspicuous in dress. They do not like a woman conspicuous in any way; that is, making herself conspicuous in the wrong way. They take pride in a woman dressed to draw attention in an admiring sort of way, but anything that suggests cheapness or loudness is the thing they dislike. Or a woman making herself noisy or commonplace, conspicuous in that sense, as what I mean.

Tricks Don't Count.

"Tricks? I don't think the women with the fax of tricks, or men either, get far. There are both men and women who have the same tricks they try on people. But the trouble with that is that they are soon found out and then gain dislike for them. I have had men try them on me. But their popularity is not lasting. Tricks do not hold the interest.

"The only worthy one is to find out the man's interest and if you have an interest in the same thing it is bound to cement the friendship.

"To be a good listener is better than to be a good talker and the good talker is much less difficult to find than the good listener. But to be a good talker is a virtue. However, women who are good talkers as a rule want the audience rather than to be it.

"I think, of course, men like admiration. But I don't think they like the obvious compliment, or the obvious attempt at aiming to please with word and look.

"The great thing is when you meet some one to give the impression that you are particularly interested in meeting that person and then trying to find out the common thing in which you both may be interested.

"The reason people are bored, I think, is because they start in with a mental attitude that they are going to be bored, and not only succeed in being bored, but in making bores of themselves as well.

Cham's the Thing.

"Charm, of course, is the thing that gets all men. But how to analyze it? It is a gift, just like beauty, like anything else. Women may acquire a something approximate to charm. But being charming is different from having charm. A good substitute, however, if the gift has not been naturally bestowed, and one within the reach of most every woman. But there are men and women both with personalities to which charm could never attach itself."

Harking back to intelligence or the need of it in attracting men, Miss Hoyt said:

"I have known women with a certain surface brightness which is necessary if real intelligence is lacking. Men like to be amused, and there must be a certain amount of intelligence for that. They do not like the wit whose tongue has a sharp edge and is used freely enough to hurt feelings.

"I certainly disagree with the flapper. Her crime is that she is cheap, obviously cheap.

"Men have changed, or rather have been forced to change to keep pace with the modern woman's attitude toward them, but they still reserve the right to be the pursuers.

"Affectation in woman I do not think carries any appeal, unless women are clever enough to hide it. Unless a man is a foolish little boy he does not fall for an affected girl or woman.

Make 'Em Comfortable.

"Men like to be made comfortable. To be made to feel at ease upon a meeting. To be made to feel at ease in the home when being entertained. And while they like to be amused, the woman who tries to be funny, and is not by natural bent, makes a mistake. All of which gets us back to the 'be natural and be genuine and if you do not attrack John Snooks you may attract John Turner'."

"How about the men who are popular with you?" I asked.

"Well, I think consideration is a strong point with women. Women have two or three sides to which as many different types of male appeal. There is the type women love to dance with. Yet, they may not be the kind of man she would care to spend an evening at home with. And the kind perhaps whom you would like to talk books and things with might not be the kind you would choose for a dinner partner.

"But I do not think we would better go into that angle, do you? I am afraid I might be teased about it pretty hard."

The Queerest Boss I Ever Had

There are good bosses and bad bosses, and then again there are bosses who are just queer. Will you ever be able to forget the queerest boss you ever had? The perplexities, and the frowns, and the laughs he caused you? Was it his attire that yielded the comedy? Some odd personal habit? Some eccentricity that reduced you to despair? Write out your story, using one side of the paper only and telling it as briefly as possible and send it to the Queerest Boss Editor, The Tribune, Chicago. One dollar will be paid for each letter published.

Knew Her Cue.

My first boss was a judge, and I was his stenographer. He was a fine old man from the south. Ordinarily he treated every one with fine courtesy, but once in a while, when something unusual disturbed him, he would rush to my desk, and, without further ceremony, jerk out: "Dear Sir." That was my cue to grab my notebook and pencil, knowing he had something of importance on his mind.

He would begin to dictate rapidly, pacing back and forth the length of the big room, out into the halls, and into the adjoining offices, if the doors were open, I trailing along, taking down what he said. The judge was much taller than the average man, and I was not quite 5 feet in height, so with the great distance between us and not knowing where he was headed I had to be a good listener. After we all became used to this odd performance it didn't seem funny, but it must have been amusing to strangers. H. L. S.

Wants 'Em Plain.

I have worked for five years for a kindly, fiery old man, who boasts he has the plainest and most efficient corps of women employés in the city. He gives us generous salaries, but most of us would rather be less efficient and less plain. He will not hire women under 27, says they are too flighty and too apt to get married. Silk stockings, short skirts, bobbed hair, and rouge are all tabooed. He says he will have no one but perfect ladies in his employ, and they must therefore be treated as ladies.

He insists that the men on his force keep their feet off their desks, refrain from smoking when giving dictation, and put on their coats when they ring for a stenographer. He himself always rises and sets a chair for me when I go into his office, and is most gallant until he gets into the heart of dictation to some one who has riled his temper. Then he forgets all about his rules and tramps back and forth, yelling dictation and chewing and puffing a long black cigar. As he gets more excited he comes to my desk and leans both fists on it, yelling into my ear and blowing puffs of smoke right into my face.

Often when I return with the typewritten letters he will say, "O, Miss Blank, I believe I smoked a little when dictating. Absentmindedness, entirely. I apologize."

Then, when he reads the fiery letter he has dictated he hands it back to me, saying, "Smooth it off, smooth it off, will you—even if that fellow can't be a gentleman, make me sound like one."

R. B. M.

Proud of His Floor.

My queerest boss was a long, thing bachelor doing a successful real estate business. There were ten of us in his employ. He was kind and considerate and paid well for our services and was known in the church and in his club as a generous man.

He had few interests outside his office, which was one of the most beautiful I have seen for a small place. The furniture was reed and the hangings ware beautiful. Lovely pictures were on the walls and there were a couple of small bronze statues flanking the entrance. But the bare, shining, cherry wood floor was his especial delight. There were no rugs to spoil its smiling surface. But every one of us, from the office boy to the head himself wore bedroom slippers while at work. That was one of his requirements and he never departed from it, no matter what the occasion. He always bought the slippers—rose for the girls and blue for the boys. As soon as the soles were dirty, he presented a new pair.

F. C.

Crazy About Bananas.

Mine was crazy about bananas. In the middle of dictation he would send me out for them. I had to walk six or seven blocks to a store and he was too stingy to give me carfare. Of course I didn't mind that so much, but when I had to sit and peel them for him and eat some, it was the limit.

D. A. R.

Pity the Poor Caddy.

I am a caddy at a small country club and I always try to get out of the way of one of my bosses. He is the son of a rich man and he is fairly good at the game. But his idea of himself outshines everybody else's. He suspects every one, and so I have to keep the foursome's scores, and count every one's strokes, so he will be sure no one is cheating. When he makes a poor drive he usually takes the ball and loudly proclaims the fact he will shoot the ball as far as he can into the neighboring cornfield. Then he will start the game over and over again until he makes a decent score. He is always boasting of his scores and has a liking to have every club made in his caddy bag. He may not be queer but he seems like it to me.

D. G.

Drawing on Imagination.

Mine was one whose dignity would not permit him to talk of personal matters, but seemed anxious to acquaint me of events at home. He took this means by dictating lengthy letters addressed to a son at college. He went into great detail regarding their car, new maid, how well sister was doing at school, and related everything that had happened in past years.

One day his daughter chanced to come to the office in his absence and I remarked that her father seemed extremely fond of her brother who was away. She told me her only brother was at home and it was her father's wish to send him to college, but he was slow in getting through school.

She must have informed her father of our conversation for I was dismissed from his employ the next day.

E. L. F.

In a Perilous Position.

My queerest boss was one who had not retained his "girlish figure," as he weighed nearly 300 pounds. He and I did the bookkeeping together, and in doing so all of a sudden I would see him sway forth and back in his chair, as if he were about to faint. I was afraid to say anything, and just sat and watched, the trouble being that he was drowsy. After this happened a few times and I knew nothing was wrong, but that he was just falling asleep, I would walk out of his office, close the door, and continue with my work. When he awoke he called me and we proceeded with our bookkeeping as if nothing had happened.

BRIGHT SAYINGS of the CHILDREN

The Tribune will pay $1 for each child's saying printed. The story told must occur in the family and must be original. If not possible to submit drawing, a description will suffice. Address letters relative to Sunday Tribune, Chicago.

This department appears every day in the Daily Tribune.

The primary class was having a reading lesson which was a story about a party.

"Johnnie," asked the teacher, "can you tell us what a party means?"

"Yes, ma'am. A party is where you play until time to eat and then go home." F. L. P.

Little Neddie had been scolded by his grandma for being a naughty boy. Looking up to his grandma's face, he said in a hurt voice. "Grandma, I wish you had a little more patience." L. M.

"We often ask Robert to stay at our house for supper when he has been playing with Billy.

One night I said: "Better stay for supper with us tonight, Robert."

"No," he answered quickly, "I better hadn't 'cause we got company and we will have an extra supper and you are just going to have one of your own wives' suppers." J. R.

Jane went with her aunt to the grocery. A man gave her a nickel. She smiled, but remained silent. Aunt exclaimed, "Why, Jane! What must you say?" Quickly the little miss replied, "Please, mister, give me annudder one for my baby bruver." L. M. S.

Isabel stayed after school one night and the teacher asked her why.

"O, I just stayed to house clean my desk," she answered. J. R.

"Why, Billy," I said, "Whatever made you run through that mud? Won't you ever be any different?"

"I don't know," he answered. "Boys aren't very 'fraid of mud like you womens." J. R.

Mother—Now, Bobby, just why don't you want to go to church?

Bobby—Well, mother, there's too much listening to do. Mrs. E. A. C.

I observed a man and his young son on a train, the father busily engaged reading, the boy looking out the window. A train passed with an observation car attached.

The little fellow turned to his father and said: "Daddy, there goes a through train, daddy. I know it's a through train, 'cause I saw the porch."

F. H. M.

At an entertainment the intermission was unusually long. During this time a small boy told me about his new dog. After a while I asked him what kind of a dog it was.

"Mother, what make is my dog?" he said. H. P.

Albert tried to evade his bath. Mother said, "Run along, Helen never acts like that." He replied, "Well, to my way of thinking, boys don't need as much watering as girls." E. U. G.

What Most Stomachs Need

The Alkaline Effect of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Prevents or Relieves Acidity and Sour Risings

To make our food palatable, savory and appetizing, the cook mixes in some onions or garlic, we eat fried sausage,

Why Wait Three Days for the Stomach to Recover Itself? Never Again So Long As You Can Get Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

baked beans, cheese with pie, add ketchup and vinegar to some dishes and then complain of a sour, acid, gassy, belching stomach due to indigestion. Experience has shown that the recourse is not to banish all these good things to eat and fire the cook but to simply supply the acid stomach with an alkaline effect and then the stomach takes care of these so-called dyspepsia bringers. Get a 60 cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets today at any drug store, eat what you like even though you may fear indigestion. Chew one or two tablets and then rejoice that you found the very thing your stomach needed.

"PIGTAILS"—By Mildred Burleigh.

MY NICEST COMPLIMENT

What was the nicest compliment you ever received? Was it a tribute to scholarship, social skills, learning, beauty? Was it forthright and blunt, wittily done, or something subtle? Write it out and mail it to the Compliment Editor, The Tribune, Chicago. One dollar will be paid for each letter printed.

Bobby Likes the Teachers.

I visited my brother's family. We were playing a game. I asked the children, "What is Chicago noted for?" Little Robert spoke up quickly, "For its pretty school teachers." I am a Chicago school teacher. Miss N. B.

He'd Be Her Son.

I am a first grade teacher. A timid little boy who had just lost his mother came to me bashfully and said, "I love you. I wish you'd be my mother." Miss R. P.

A Rival of Katherine?

I was waiting for a car when I noticed a group of children whispering and pointing towards me. Finally one little girl came up and asked, "Please, ma'am, are you Katherine MacDonald?" J. C.

She Looks Like Gloria.

I feel my "most high tonedest" when some one remarks—and it happens occasionally—"You certainly look a lot like Gloria Swanson." E. H. E. S.

Her Poetry Appreciated.

I have been writing verse for a short while, and recently at a social affair I was asked to read some of it. After I had finished, a young girl came up and said, "I don't know much about poetry, but when you read your verse I felt just like when I was a small child and mother read fairy tales to me. I saw things and heard things that I couldn't describe." F. G.

She Doesn't Paint.

My aunt and I were walking in the park. Two men passed us, and my aunt said: "Did you hear that gentleman's remark?" I hadn't. It was, "How refreshing to see a young girl who is old enough to paint—and yet doesn't!" H. K.

She's Good at Two Arts.

I have received loads of compliments on the stage as a concert singer, but I think my nicest compliment came after I was married about two months. As the guests departed my husband said, "That dinner was great—you're some cook." G. M.

The Sweetest Girl in Town.

My nicest compliment came from the proprietor of a grocery store. One day as I entered his store he said to his clerk, "Here comes the sweetest girl in town." M. C.

They Hate to Leave Her.

I am a teacher, and at the beginning of the year I insisted on good discipline and thorough work. I had to be quite firm, and felt that my popularity would suffer in consequence, so I was much surprised when midyear exams were due to have one of my best pupils come to me and say: "Please don't pass me, Miss G——, I don't want to leave you and your room." D. I. G.

Beautiful Eyes.

I called on a friend I had not seen in twenty-five years. I asked her if she remembered me and she said: "Do you think I could ever forget the most beautiful eyes I have ever seen?" A. K.

MOVE SICK CHILD'S BOWELS WITH "CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP"

MOTHER! Even Bilious, Upset, Tongue-Coated Children Love this Pleasant, Harmless Laxative

A teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup" now will thoroughly clean the little bowels and in a few hours you have a well, playful child again. Even if cross, feverish, constipated, or full of cold, children love its "fruity" taste, and mothers can rest easy because it never fails to work all the souring food and nasty bile right out of the stomach and bowels without griping or upsetting the child.

Tell your druggist you want only the genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother, you must say "California." Refuse any imitation.

GOOD MORNING!

Again, when not expecting it, I ran into a good picture that I know you won't want to miss when it comes to your neighborhood theater. "Second Fiddle." (No star—ALL STAR cast.) Fine!

Give us these no-star-all-star casts, where everybody is well cast, and where everybody does the best he or she knows how to do with the material at hand! Then you have work and class and style and atmosphere, and, in fact, everything that goes to make up a worth while motion picture.

GLENN HUNTER.
[Raymar Studios Photo.]

Glenn Hunter is the lad chosen in this piece to play second fiddle. A charming, clean cut, sensitive sort of lad, with a stalwart "something" behind all his acting that makes you realize he's going to be in electric lights by himself some day—(even if we don't especially believe in their being in electric lights by themselves).

Here you have him playing accompaniment to an elder brother, who just returned from college (his first year at college, which the younger brother, through his industry, has partially paid for) sails home for a vacation and plans to do a little Napoleonic stuff—conquer the daisies and all that.

With a Moral Gently Pointed.

A choice murder occurs. The murderer escapes. The "second fiddle," though discredited for a long time, is discovered finally to be the hero of the hour.

"I was just running for help!" pants the elder brother.

"Why didn't you keep on running?" is the unsympathetic rejoinder of one who had for a long time thought him a gentleman and a hero.

Lots of things about this picture to like. Good acting. ALL good acting. Then the gently pointed moral that the boys with the Z in clothes and the gently cultured laughs and the large stories of "what I have done" are not always the ones to cling to in emergency. Then the simplicity of the story's telling—all good. The subtitles are not so bright and the continuity could be better. BUT—all in all—"Second Fiddle" is a mighty pleasing little photoplay. I DO hope you'll enjoy it.

Don't fail to remark the work of everybody in the cast and compare it with some of the work of people whose names are constantly being flashed in our eyes.

See you tomorrow!

"THE SHEIK! THE SHEIK!"

The place was in uproar,
No peace could one find,
In a turbulent state was
Each fair maiden's mind.
Each feminine head was Becurled with such care
You knew that the owner
Was dolled up for fair.
A wild Sheba gleam
Gleamed in eyes brown and blue.
Each cheek was aflame with
A flush (and rouge too)
They rushed to the window,
They rushed to the door,
From there they Rushed back to the Window some more.
(Paying plenty of trips to the mirror between times).
The reason for this Supernatural hue
Was because Valentine
The Sheik was seen dine.
He'd said he would call
At the office at 2—
The day it was Friday
The hour—time enoo.

Each cheek aflame with flush and rouge.

(A little Scotch for a chaser is always good.)
"O what will he wear?" "Do
You think he will smile?"
"Do you think we can Manage to keep him a while?"
"Will his wife be with him?"
Now how did WE know!
All that we could answer was "Well, I guess so!"
The moments rolled on
And the hours grew long,
The day it grew dark,
Hushed grew each maid's song.
A pallor fell over those cheeks
Once so red.
The Shebas all wondered
If Rodolf was dead.
Ha ha! What is that?
'Tis the old telephone.
"It's Rodolf!" the one who Answered did groan. "He Wishes to speak with Miss
Tinny! Please, please,
Miss Tinny, do beg him to come
Tyou (short f) must get on your knees.
We said "Yes, hello!"
And he said "Hello," too.
He said he had known that to Call he was due.
"But you see," he did wail, "I
Have been so his—es
You never will know how Bizee it has be! I
Hope you will not think
That I am too lax,
But I've been figuring out
My—you know? Encome tax."
"You have broken our hearts,
You have shattered our pride,
You have set all our longings
Flagrantly aside.
But if what you say, sir,
Is true, then good luck!
Peace upon earth to you—May the Fates give you PLUCK
The day to turn in those—you know?—things
Was lo—today or tomorrow?
Ah, no sir, ah NO!
But yesterday! GOOD-bye,
Good luck and good-bye!"
He said good-bye sweetly.

University of Illinois Has Music School of Manifold Merits

By Edward Moore.

TRY as you will, steep yourself in thoughts of oncoming spring and good will to man, your first reaction to the music school of the University of Illinois at Urbana is likely to be one of envy and uncharitableness. The reason is that the Tina Weedon Smith memorial building contains a music hall such as is not to be found in all Chicago.

That fact in itself is enough to give pause to one who goes questing after what is happening in music outside of Chicago. For Chicago of late years has been beginning to feel its melodic and harmonic oats, and to refer to itself as a musical center. Then one discovers that it is necessary to travel down toward the center of the state to find out what a music hall ought to be like. I, for one, felt distinctly less cocky after I looked at it.

GUIOMAR NOVAES.
[Bain News Service Photo.]

It seats about 1,100 on main floor and single balcony, an ideal size for the average recital; it is handsomely, though not ornately, finished in American walnut; the seats are constructed with the idea that a music event is a place for comfort, not penance; under each seat is a device looking like a cast iron pancake griddle that brings in fresh air and does not bring in a draft.

The stage is large enough to accommodate a chorus of medium numbers or a small chorus, and, of course, is ample for a recital artist or any kind of chamber music. A number of symphony concerts are given at the university each season, but they are held in the larger and older auditorium. The new hall is intended for more intimate music, and, as suggested above, this is just what is needed in Chicago.

Built with Memorial Fund.

This is the use to which it is being put by the university. An instructor in the music school told me, with what seemed ill concealed pleasure, that its acoustics, perfectly good for music, had not proved to be ideal for speaking purposes, and that, therefore, the school anticipated little overflow from other departments in need of a lecture hall, which suggested a new train of thought. It is not quite complete. There is a place for a large organ on the stage, but

Theater Guild Conducts Another Tour to the Land of Fantasy

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—The Theater guild has gone in again, and boldly, for the expressionistic drama, "The Adding Machine," produced Monday night, is a befogged and befuddling fantasy concerned with a common soul's adventures in strange places, including Elysian fields.

The expressionistic drama, if the term confuses you, differs from the ordinary or successful drama in that it always has to be explained. And as each explanation differs from all others, it naturally develops the expressionistic gifts of the person contributing the explanation. As one will say: "My Gawd, I think this is terrible!" and another: "It is, but isn't it expressionistic?" Hence the term.

MARGARET WYCHERLY.
[Mishkin Photo.]

"The Adding Machine," written by Elmer E. Rice (born Reizenstein), the promising young man who seven or eight years ago wrote the first of the turntable dramas, "On Trial," picks up one Zero, a grouching bookkeeper of forty odd, on the eve of his twenty-fifth anniversary with the same firm. For a quarter century he has added columns of figures until he has become no better than a machine. God and the world, his wife, and his employer all seem bent on keeping him down.

Then, just as he is expecting to be recognized, he is fired. His boss, seeking efficiency, puts in automatic adding machines and puts out the human deadwood he has accumulated. For a moment the room literally swims (with the help of lantern slides) about the head of poor Zero. He sees gray and black and finally great splotches of red. And then he picks up a bill file and runs it through the boss' heart.

Graveyard Tenants Comparing Notes.

We follow him home, where his shrill wife is giving a party to Mr. and Mrs. One, Two, Three, etc., who sit, the men on one side, the women on the other side of the room, and echo each other mechanically. Here the police find Zero and drag him away.

At his trial, in a distorted courtroom, he tries inarticulately to plead

Miss Taylor Upsets One of Our Best Traditions

By Sheppard Butler.

NEW YORK, where they get alarmed periodically if not oftener over the sinister influence of a suspected "cabal of critics," has come upon a disturbing experience. An announcement in the public prints last week carried the tidings that "despite the unanimous and enthusiastic praise bestowed by the press upon Laurette Taylor for her remarkable performance as Sarah Kantor in Fannie Hurst's play, 'Humoresque,' her engagement at the Vanderbilt theater will end next Saturday night owing to lack of public support."

LAURETTE TAYLOR.

A perplexing situation, indeed. For years the hapless reviewers have been roundly denounced for this or that failure. For years the producers and managers have pondered with furrowed brows as to what can be done about recalcitrant literati who write unkind things concerning worthy plays. For years they have been making the discovery, twice a season or so, that the scribes get together in secret conclave and deliberate, like the Chelsa, as to whom they shall annihilate. It was a pretty picture of calculated villainy.

Now comes Miss Taylor, dismayingly candid, and spoils it all. The critics, she says, liked her, but the public paid no attention. These writing gentlemen who are supposed to hold the fate of the theater in the hollow of their hands conferred no benefits by being kind. The "notices," believed so puissant, made no difference at all.

Well, there you are. It looks as though another tradition concerning the power of the press were crumbling. You, of course, know that playgoing is a matter of individual taste and that there is no law compelling you to accept the verdicts of newspaper reviewers. But the managers profess to think differently. They exude confidence when the press gives forth praise of their wares. They writhe in agony when there is disapproval in the public prints—writhe and fume and inquire what the world is coming to; hold conferences and, like as not, bar a critic or two from their theaters.

It is all very complimentary to those who earn their bread by the travail of their typewriters, but it is all very foolish.

The Moving Finger Writes, but What of It?

You should have seen the proprietor of one Chicago playhouse on a recent night when a production in which he had invested was given its first local performance. White-faced and in the throes of deep emotion, he buttonholed me as I came out.

"It's a good show, ain't it?" he erupted. "Now lissen, Shep—this means everything to me. Give it a hit, will yuh?" By which I suppose he meant give it favorable comment.

I did give it favorable comment, not because he violated all the ethics by asking me, but because I thought it an uncommonly entertaining play. And it lasted just two weeks.

So it goes.

As a matter of fact, the talk of a "cabal of critics," banded together to make theatrical fortunes or wreck them, is sheer nonsense.

In the first place, there is no time to get together. Having seen a play, one must make a dash for one's desk and plunge into the business of catching an edition. If a performance is late, the last act must be left unseen. I have never discussed a play with another newspaper man before writing what I thought of it, nor have I ever heard any one else doing so.

In the second place, everybody knows that many of the most successful plays have been those least liked by the critics. Conversely—and this is more often the case—many a play that has been fulsomely praised has gone down to abject failure. Miss Taylor is not the first to find that the public doesn't always agree with the papers. She is merely the first to speak out in meeting about it.

In the third place, reporters of things theatrical, being human beings, have varying tastes. No two playgoers like precisely the same thing, and a critic is simply an habitual playgoer. The best critic, I should say (though this may be an heretical opinion), is the one who falls in most closely with the mood of the average theater patron. But when theater patrons disagree so violently, where shall one find the average?

"Pasteur," and the Case of the Cynical Lady.

If you read all the Chicago papers, you would be sorely perplexed as to what to think of the half dozen new plays that have come to town in recent weeks. We didn't agree at all. If you read the New York papers, seeking information, say, about Mr. Miller's production of Sacha Guitry's "Pasteur," you would encounter this quaint parallel:

Mr. Woollcott, in the Herald:

An interesting play. It is simple, direct, and telling. The episode of the lonely and frightening night when Pasteur decides to use his vaccine for the first time on a child, and the episode later when this same boy comes bounding in to call on the man who had saved his life—these fragments are human and dramatic to an unusual degree. Henry Miller gives a finely imagined and resourceful performance of the central rôle. He is excellent as Pasteur.

Mr. Brown, in the World:

"Pasteur" seems to us an amazingly bad play. It just happens to be dull. With many casual phases in the life of a great man, the dramatist has dealt conventionally and without insight. The relations of the great Pasteur and a small child as pictured by Guitry are most unfortunate. We writhed at what was supposed to be tender and heart-warming behavior. The part of Pasteur falls to Henry Miller. It seems to us that he plays it without distinction.

Something happened to the "cabal of critics" there. Something always happens. There is, and can be, no such animal. Nor can there be anything pontifical about what the reviewers say. It is not because this or that one's judgments are unreliable, but because, in the theater, there are no absolute standards. About all you can do is to read, if you like, and, if you like, disagree. You might try the method disclosed by a lady who sat behind me the other night, chatting of some one whose name I didn't catch.

"I always read him backwards," she said brightly. "If he likes a play, I stay away. If he knocks it, I go."

I don't know whether she was talking about me or not.

Theater Notes; Gossip of Plays and Players.

A crowded time is promised for next week in the theaters, with six new plays to be observed, which would seem to be a record. Two dramas will be given by the visitors from Moscow at the Great Northern; Galsworthy's "Loyalties" will be seen at Powers'; Molnar's "Fashions for Men" (to be renamed Peter and Paula") will come to the Playhouse; Mme. Petrova will bring "Hurricane" to the Selwyn, and the Garrick will have Miss Julia Sanderson and "Tangerine." With William Fayersham at the Palace and the usual changes elsewhere in the varieties, the seeker after novelty in entertainment should not find himself greatly at a loss for something to do.

Stringent regulations for the guidance and behavior of audiences are issued by the Moscow Art theater, which begins its engagement at the Great Northern a week from Tuesday. Thus: "The curtain will rise at 8 o'clock sharp at the evening performances and at 2 o'clock sharp at the matinées. Positively no one will be admitted thereafter until the act intermission. This has been a custom of the company in its home theater in Moscow for the last twenty-five years, has been adhered to strictly in New York, and, it is hoped, will be respected by its Chicago patrons. The audience, likewise, will be asked to honor another tradition of the Moscow Art theater, which, for the preservation of the illusion of the play, permits no applause or curtain calls until the end of the performance. At that time the company, if called upon, will feel honored to respond."

Shubert vaudeville departed from the Garrick last night, leaving a trail of smoldering and conflicting rumors. In financial circles, where the fluctuations of vaudeville stocks are a matter of moment, it was reported insistently that the Shubert venture in the varieties is over, and that the Orpheum circuit, with competition out of the way, is planning a realignment of its forces and a general cut in performers' salaries. This, so far as the first rumor is concerned, is emphatically denied by the Shuberts. In a statement issued last week it was said that the early termination of the vaudeville season was "according to plan" and that activities will be resumed in September with "an even more extensive and brilliant program." It is known, however, that the enterprise generally has been disastrous so far as profits are concerned and that it has not had unanimous approval even among the heads of the Shubert organization.

"The Passing Show of 1922," one of the New York Winter Garden's characteristic entertainments, is appointed for arrival at the Apollo on April 12. Eugene and Willie Howard and many others are included in its roster of entertainers. "Blossom Time," if still prosperous when "The Passing Show" reaches town, will move from the Apollo to the Great Northern.

Miss Patricia Collinge, in recent years a resident of Chicago, will go to London soon to play the Montague girl in the English staging of "Merton of the Movies." Merton Gill will be done by Tom Douglas, a young vaudevillian who got the part chiefly, it is said, because he looks like Glenn Hunter, the actor of the rôle in New York.

Frederick Perry, remembered here for his fine performance in "Too Bu-

Three," and Miss Cornelia Otis Skinner, daughter of Otis Skinner, who acted with her father in "Blood and Sand," have been added to the cast of the Tarkington-Wilson comedy, "Bristol Glass," to be staged week after next at the Blackstone.

Mr. Ziegfeld, it is opined by some who think they know, may send his "Follies" to Chicago for a summer engagement. He has changed his mind about making the show a biennial affair, and will produce a new edition in the fall.

Miss Laurette Taylor, whose misfortune with "Humoresque" is touched upon elsewhere in this department, will join Francis Wilson and James T. Powers in a contemplated revival of "She Stoops to Conquer." . . . "Pasteur," also hereinbefore mentioned, ended its New York career last night.

Allan Pollock is taking "A Bill of Divorcement" and "Why, Certainly" to San Francisco for an eight weeks' engagement with a local stock company.

Chicago will be the third city to see "Loyalties," the comedy drama by John Galsworthy, which comes to Powers' next week. The play ran a year in London and twenty-seven weeks—a considerable time, as American runs go—in New York.

Jacob Ben-Ami, of whose flaming prowess as a player Chicago has seen too little, will be a member of the New York Theater guild's regular company next season—an important addition to the roster of that fine and rapidly developing organization. His first appearance will be as Lui in "Les Rates," by Lenormand.

The German theater of Chicago has been reorganized, and a consolidation with the German theater of Milwaukee is now under way. The united companies will begin a season next Sunday at the Victoria, on the north side.

Mindlin and Goldreyer, the youthful producers who brought "The Last Warning" to Chicago, seek one-act plays for staging in vaudeville. They implore the public, sapiently, "to write for the big time circuit and not for art."

Miss Mabel Terry-Lewis, a niece of Ellen Terry, will have the role of Mark Sabre's wife in the forthcoming stage version of "If Winter Comes."

A benefit performance of Galsworthy's "The Silver Box" will be given at the Selwyn this afternoon by the Players' club of the Jewish People's Institute.

In Vain the Girls Curled the Curls To Greet the Sheik

Over him our heart yearns!
(We hope he won't die when He hears the "returns.")

ASK ME! ASK ME!

TED P.: O, you should know what power of the gentleman of the peri- whirl two eyes. Something utterly devastating. Something—Ah—but let us not speak of painful subjects. You're still thinking the world over fond and hard, aren't you, TED P.? Come again!

PATIENCE: Sorry you don't like me to say "Good Morning" or "See you tomorrow," but you see I feel that way about it. If I met you in the morning I'd SAY "Good morning!" and DEARLINE: Warner Baxter. Ethel Clayton is a widow. No, none to give, sell, nor bequeath. Y'wekkum.

KICK KORNER FOR MOVIE FANS

Its Object—Objection.

For perhaps the thousandth time (third really!), won't you please write on one side of the paper only? That is, if you want more than one-half of that kick printed. If you don't think much of it as a whole—that's that. We thank you (FOR WRITING ON ONE SIDE OF THE PAPER ONLY).

Dear Miss Tinée: My kick is the fact that all these conceited prigs (darn this pen) who write to you find fault. If they just tried to make one better they'd not kick so hard. It gets my goat, for I go by your discussion of each picture and, finding it good, pick up a paper and some mush headed gink does not like it.

Tell 'em to write a scenario.

GROUCHY.

[Editor's Note:—Well, you go on and be a booster. And don't be "grouchy."]

Dear Miss Tinée: When you informed your readers that there were now being shown two other comedies equally as funny as "The Pilgrim," you stated an indisputable fact; and in placing the Chaplin feature on a par with the others you were more than kind to the master comedian.

Granting that Mr. Chaplin can be, if he chooses, the funniest man in films, the sad fact remains that he has become obsessed with the idea that he has a mission to entertain us in a serious way.

Right now the seductive flattery of a self-styled intelligensia means more to Charles Spencer than the vociferous approval of Merton Gill, and Merton's brothers, sisters, cousins, and aunts; and this in spite of the fact that no highbrow ever has been known to possess a sense of humor. In fact, the average dogmatic intellectual has about as much comic appreciation as a superannuated billygoat.

For ten years comedy's greatest assets have been Chaplin's funny feet and Mabel Normand's fine brown eyes; but unless Charles takes a reef in his baggy trousers and pulls himself together, the intriguing personality of Harold Lloyd will soon relegate the funny feet to an obscure background. When I pay out my good money to see a comedy, I expect to laugh, to forget sorrow, to see only those clouds with silver linings; I do not care to gaze upon the writhings of a tortured soul, etc. If I want to sob, I can persuade my nearest exhibitor to show "Humoresque", or "Over the Hill." The Chaplin of the serious features which he has announced may prove to be of great interest to those who look at pictures through a microscope, but he never can take the place of the funny little fellow who caused a weary world to laugh and forget its troubles.

Sincerely, JAY DEE CEE.

Dear Miss Tinée—I am "wid ye" as regards "The Christian," but there was one large, buzzing fly in the ointment.

I have racked my brain trying to recall ever having seen any such modern, high powered cars as the one driven in the mob scene by "My Lord" the villain on the streets in the days when Hall Caine wrote "The Christian." I remember the little puttering affairs that seared the traffic on Boul Mich, but a limousine, never.

Is there no "Balm in Gilead" for we uns who resent these faux pas on the part of some of the self-styled directors. Seems to me that it would be a good investment if some of the "Over Lords" of Hollywood would hire a well posted censor to edit their films, and not spoil an otherwise wonderful picture.

As it is, I am getting prepared for anything, and would not be surprised to see Cleopatra going to meet Antony in a modern motor boat or the funeral of King Tut rambling across the desert sands headed by a modern auto hearse. Sic transit Gloria. [Quayle].

Sincerely,
H. H. REDFIELD.

Dear Miss Tinée: I positively do not agree with E. K., who admits she is 16. That alone asserts her ignorance in stating that Mary Pickford, "Our Mary," overacted "Tess." Critics have proclaimed Mary's genius in this revival. What pictures does E. K. care for? A child her age naturally does not appreciate such pictures as "Tess" and "Knighthood." I adore Mary, and have found only one fault with "Tess." Why did Mary make the mistake of giving the cast at the beginning of the picture instead of introducing the characters as they made their entrance? I had to stay twice to learn Lloyd Hughes' name. Isn't he great? If only producers would not make that mistake.

And another pet peeve, about Jacqueline Logan. O, why are they wishing her on us—for your sake, Mae? You evidently like her, but to me she is as Agnes Ayres is to you. Savvy?

Here's to the "New Moviedom," Mae, and less "E. K.'s." SEVENTEEN.

[Editor's Note: "Sixteen" vs. "Seventeen"! We are now accepting bets as to the outcome of the battle.]

(Movie news from Hollywood will be found on page 13.)

FER OR AGIN?

Dear Miss Tinée: Fer or agin? O, absolutely fer! The movies are one of the greatest pleasures we have. I agree with "Evanston" of Feb. 25. "Something the public wants"—the public has proved it.

I believe in a way some of us sentimentalize over and idolize the stars too much. When a scandal comes to light we are disillusioned and angry. Our stars are just people, not gods. We should think more of the parts they portray and, not so much about their personal life. They give to us in these portrayals fine, clean, young manhood and splendid, vital, young womanhood—the characters of grand old men, nearing life's end, and young, fresh children, just beginning. Every photoplay gives us not only the exalted star, but a full life story, filled with many characters. It improves us to see these things. There are poor pictures and immoral pictures, but there is some bad, too, in life. The poorer movies are in the minority, like the rest of the things wrong; for the most part they are wonderful.

One of the greatest pleasures I have is watching the lesser persons in a film. Do you know how often a person merely follows the star and her leading man or woman? Think how many people go to make up a picture. It is fun to notice each one minutely and not as a background.

And the books and plays that are made into movies—the version is not always the same, and in some ways we may be disappointed, but the story and its characters are there, and how much fun it is to see them again.

The movies have come to stay; and any one with opinions to the contrary might as well say the stage, books, magazines and newspapers are also on the decline. The movies will stay and you, Queen Mae, will have a long and prosperous reign. BEVERLY HILLS.

NEWS OF CHICAGO SOCIETY

Society Awakes from Siesta and Begins to Play

By Mme. X.

As a Chicago pioneer once said to the writer, "Spring is upon us with its usual ferocity." In spite, however, of polar blizzards and belated snowstorms, there is at the moment stirring in the ground and up through the trunks of torpid trees the ever returning impulse of renewed life.

In the same way there is a stirring in the somewhat torpid social body, which has been in a lethargy since the close of the gayest winter season on record, a renewed energy. The mayoralty campaign is not a social event, but it is being handled with more social side lines than usually happens in municipal political affairs. This is a refreshing innovation and is probably in a measure due to the fact that each of the principal candidates has a wife who takes an active interest and part in her husband's campaign.

Also, Mrs. Fletcher Dobyns, at the head of a committee of Republican women, and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, at the head of the Democratic women, are throwing themselves ardently into the struggle, each one for her special candidate, which gives a cheerful and gay aspect to the affair unusual to our ordinarily rather drab and squalid local political fights.

Each of these well known social leaders is making a daily round of speeches, and in between times exercising her powers as a hostess to further the interests of her candidate. This is employing methods long in vogue among English women who are politically active, and is as delightful as it is legitimate. As a voter I can say that it is much more interesting to work for a man if you know and like his wife than it is to further the interests of a man who is only a public fact, an individuality seen on the platform or in conference, detached from his domestic environment.

On the Fence.

Being feeble-minded and of an undecided opinion, the X family often occupies a seat on the fence in political campaigns. It seems to us that the voter when he casts his ballot is more often influenced by a desire to defeat an unworthy candidate than to elect a good one. It has fallen to our lot to be invited to meet, in one case, the Democratic candidate and his wife, and in the other to meet the wife of the Republican contestant.

The result is that in spite of the protests on both sides, we must say that probably never in the history of local politics has the voting citizen had the opportunity to vote for two pleasanter, more likable, more satisfactory men than Judge William Dever or Arthur C. Lueder, or to meet more attractive women than Mmes. Dever and Lueder.

Both women are giving all their time and strength to help their husbands in their strenuous fight for support on April 3, and are attending meetings and having talks with possible supporters from early morn to dewy eve. Either one will be a delightful mayoress, and it is only a pity that both can't win that job at the same time.

We see ourselves sitting on our fence until the eleventh hour, and when the time comes when we must fall off into either camp it will need only a little nudge or a gentle breeze to tip us over. But if before that time either candidate should happen to say that he would devote some of his strength to the abatement of the smoke horror, which lies like a pall over our daily life, then here and now we pledge him allegiance, and will rush into the arena and gather in voters for him until the polls are clogged with them.

Junior Leaguers Busy.

Besides the political commotion there are many signs of returning vitality to the gay world. The Junior leaguers, that bright band of youth and energy, are busy organizing their annual spring entertainment.

This year it is to be the Junior League Follies, to be given at the Auditorium on Saturday evening, April 14. There will be a company of at least fifty young girls with many stunts and special features. There will be songs and dances and a fashion show which will be a grand display of the latest creations from Paris and New York as worn by some of the most pulchritudinous of the young married and unmarried women in Chicago society.

Among these amateur models will be the Mesdames Leander McCormick, Austin Niblack, John Andrews King, Russell Forgan, William Mitchell, Edward Swift, John R. Winterbotham Jr., William Mitchell Blair, Thomas Cowles, Edward Platt, John Hamline, and Charles Edward Brown Jr., and the Misses Margaret Hambleton, Mary Wrenn, Emily Bissell, Janet Pauling, and Lucretia Green.

The troupe is being trained by Max Sheck, who has achieved much success in similar entertainments in Buffalo and Kansas City. Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr. is chairman of the entertainment committee, and Mrs. Leander McCormick is in charge of the publicity. She is also the head of the box selling committee. The performers are going through a strenuous course of intensive training and are rehearsing morning, noon, and night. The evening rehearsals take place at the Congress hotel. It promises to be a gay and worth while evening.

Benefit Princeton Infirmary.

Not less active are those taking part in the dramatic show which is being organized for Friday evening, April 6, at the Shubert Central theater, when Arthur Meeker Jr.'s play, "Evie's Husband," (an exciting title!) and "The Day After," a playlet from the French, will be given for the benefit of the Princeton Infirmary fund. Mrs. Arthur Meeker, 3030 Lake Shore drive, is in charge of the sale of tickets.

It will be an amusing show, as both pieces are lively and satirical and full of "pep." All the fashionable world will be there. More of them are at home than shows on the calendar, while many are returning for Easter or soon after.

But, ye gods and little fishes, how many of our most prominent folk, our social leaders and inspiring forces, are going abroad this summer! Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer are taking their children to Europe, sailing June 23, from Boston. On the same ship and at the same time Mr. and Mrs. William Odell are going. On the same day and also from Boston Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank are embarking with their three children for England. They plan to spend the summer there and on the continent. Mr. Fairbank will return with the two boys, Kellogg Jr. and "Benny," in September, while Mrs. Fairbank and Miss Janet Fairbank will remain another month or two in Paris. Miss Fairbank, who graduates from Radcliff this June, will make her debut next winter in Chicago society.

Seeking Foreign Parts.

Mr. and Mrs. William Nitze of the University of Chicago are to spend the next three months in Italy, and left Chicago some time ago. Their daughter, Mrs. Walter Paepcke, will be with them, her husband joining her later. Mr. and Mrs. James W. Morrison and their five children are likewise making a hegira to the lands across the ocean. They will spend some time in England before going to France and Switzerland. In August they will visit Mrs. Morrisson's sister, Mrs. John Urie and her husband, who have a beautiful Italian chauteau on lovely Lake Lugano in the near neighborhood of the home of the famous Italian poet, Gabriele d'Annunzio. The Morrissons last week moved out of the residence in Rush street, where they have lived for fifteen years, and are at the moment settling themselves down in the house at 1431 North State street which they bought relently and to which they will return in the autumn.

Miss Edith Blair, who has been visiting her father, Edward T. Blair, is returning to Paris shortly, taking with her the furniture for the apartment she occupies there. This makes more or less permanent her leaving Chicago. We don't like to see any one leaving Chicago, but especially do we regret when the young and attractive depart. The city needs such.

If we promise to get rid of our smoke nuisance and to save the Lake Shore drive, and to cultivate music and art and poetry, do you think we can induce those to stay with us who love blue skies, pure air, wide stretches of lake, and who delight in the arts? A city composed only of toilers and moilers is so uninteresting, even to the toilers and moilers!

Still other well known Chicagoans have gone or are sticking their photographs on their passports preparatory to departing for foreign parts. Mr. and Mrs. John Bass left here in a hurry last week, he on one ship and she on another a few days later, bringing his luggage, for he decided suddenly to go over to investigate for himself the situation in the Ruhr. Mr. Bass is as yet doubtless know, the dean of American war correspondents, and has been in on every big or little fuss for the last twenty-five years. His wife is as adventurous as he and follows him wherever he goes. They have both been in many tight places where it took pluck and quick wits to extricate themselves safely. They only expect to be gone a month or so, though it all depends on what turns up in that little stretch of debatable ground. Did you know that the whole Ruhr district is only as long as Cook county and twenty miles wide?

On the list of those who have already sailed for Europe must be put the name of Mrs. Harold F. McCormick, who left New York yesterday to fulfill an engagement to sing with the Opera Comique in Paris in May. Harold McCormick accompanied her as far as New York, and will soon come back to Chicago to await her return in June when they both expect to spend some time here. Mrs. McCormick takes her musical career seriously and prefers not to have her husband with her when on music she is bent.

Samuel Insull in England.

Others already on the wing are Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Hamill, who sailed ten days ago for a few months' tour of Italy, France, and England. Our well known opera impresario, Samuel Insull, is in England at present for a three weeks' sojourn. He will return by the middle of April. He and Mrs. Insull are expecting to spend the main part of the summer on their country place near Libertyville. Their son, best known to his many friends as "Junior," is going abroad on business for the summer. Although he is as fond of gay doings and good times as any of his coptemporaries, he is a chip of the old block and will in time make a good business man.

Among the well known Chicagoans who have been for some time in Europe is Alister McCormick, that famous hero of romance and blighted affection. He is not filling that rôle just now, as he is having a good time on the Riviera, where he has won laurels as a tennis player. He has been visiting Lady Wavertree, a social leader in that gay and smart society, who has a charming villa at Cannes. There Alister has been playing tennis with such famous tournament winners as Mlle. L'Englen (is that the way you spell the French woman's name?) and hobnobbing with the Grand Duke and Duchess Kyrill (of the Russian imperial family), the Duchess of Vallambrosa, and Lady Alexandra Curson, daughter of the late Lady Curson, formerly the beautiful Mary Leiter of Chicago.

Lady Wavertree's villa is situated high up on the hills above the town and looks out over snow mountains, lovely gardens, and the ever blue Mediterranean. Almost any heart wounds would heal in such a scene.

Will Visit Spain.

Still others who are turning their faces to the rising sun are Mr. and Mrs. John Alden Carpenter and their daughter, Miss Genevieve Carpenter. They are planning to sail in May to Lisbon, one of the most beautiful ports on this blessed earth of ours. They will make a little tour of Spain and visit the Roy McWilliamses at the charming place the latter have on the cliffs overlooking the Bay of Biscay, near Biarritz. The McWilliamses, who are extremely hospitable, say that they see more of their Chicago friends at Bidart, their place, than they ever could here. Every one who goes to that part of France drops in on them.

The Carpenters will return in the autumn, when it is possible that they will move out of their present home in Rush street. We trust they won't join the northward flowing tide of housesekers.

It is to be hoped that Rush street and its neighborhood, once so gay and fashionable, may in time take on the aristocratic air of Washington park, in New York. In which case it will have a renewed life and vogue. This hurry northward to already occupied zones is a menace to the domestic and social life of the city. It is being hastened and urged on by the destruction that threatens the beloved and beautiful Lake Shore drive. Should the powers that be allow that delectable territory to be turned over to business, they will destroy Chicago's fairest heritage for future generations. Those who come after us will have a right to demand an accounting of the present generation.

They will say: "What did you do with the fairest, most charming residence avenue in the world? What did you do with the people's playground? Where is our exit from congested, grimy districts to the wide spaces and lovely views and cleansing, soothing waters which once fronted this part of the city?"

And must we answer: "It was taken by force by business interests who, to get it, jumped over an unoccupied area of over half a mile between the river and Oak street?"

Defeating Their Purpose.

We are no Cassandra, but we believe with many experts that those who are planing to put up a rampart of skyscrapers along that lovely avenue, buildings that shall be devoted to business, are going to kill the amiable goose that lays the auriferous egg. This invasion of this territory will destroy the adjacent district for residence. The latter will deteriorate into a region of second hand shops and boarding houses, which will give but poor support to the expensive range of high buildings. The dwellers of this, at present, the most popular and exclusive residence part of Chicago, will scatter to the four winds, it will be a blow at the foundations of society in the narrow use of the word which makes it cover those whose names fill the social column in our daily papers.

The one bulwark to these plans for transforming the character of the Lake Shore drive is Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick. She is going to stay right where she is. She likes the constant contact wth the clamor of a big city. She says she sleeps much better there on the corner of the drive and Bellevena place than she does in the fragrant silence of her beautiful Italian villa in Lake Forest. She is planning extensive changes in and additions to her city home, which will include a formal garden. To accomplish this, according to the designs accepted, the two houses on Oak street immediately to the west of her land will be pulled down. These were originally built by the late Otto Mata. There he and his wife, who was in her time a much beloved and widely known woman, lived for forty years, with their four children. She was prominent in the Fortnightly club and always was a part of the many philanthropies and societies of her era which made for the culture and betterment of the city.

Working for Ravinia.

There will be a meeting of the Chicago-Lake Forest Ravinia guarantee committee on Thursday at the Arts club. This committee is working for a wider support for Ravinia opera. Mrs. A. A. Carpenter is president of the committee, which numbers fifty of the prominent music lovers of Chicago and Lake Forest.

What promises to be a charming program is to be given on Tuesday afternoon at half past 3 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Frederick Countiss, 1524 Lake Shore drive. It will be presented by Miss Myrna Sharlow (now Mrs. Hitchcock), whom we all remember when she was a member of the Chicago Opera company. Assisting her will be Taylor Holmes, who will give a reading; Florence Trumbull, the pianist, and Ando del Messier, the young Italian violinist.

Those who have not heard Miss Sharlow since she left Chicago will be interested in the development of her voice both in tumbre and volume. She has been studying in Naples with the director of the opera there, and now sings with a warm, rich quality in her voice suggestive of the sunny purple hillsides about Naples as seen from the enchanted isle of Capri, where she and her husband, Capt. Hitchcock, have been spending most of their time for the last two years.

The object of the entertainment is that excellent institution, the Olivet Institute School of Music, to which the proceeds from the sale of tickets will be devoted. This school is situated in the heart of an Italian district on the west side, and is designed to be a place where children with talent can receive excellent instruction for a nominal price. Mrs. Cyrus McCormick (known to most of us as Madam McCormick) is much interested in this school. Among those on the board of trustees are Charles M. Thomson, chairman; Alfred Adams, secretary; Rufus S. Dawes, treasurer; Frederick D. Countiss, Alfred E. Hamill, Nathan William MacChesney, Harold F. McCormick, John M. Olmstead, Herbert F. Perkins, Feirce C. Ward, J. Herbert Ware, and Oliver R. Williamson. A list of fifty-three patronesses accompanies the invitations to buy tickets, and the affair promises to be a success both artistically and from a social point of view.

Flower Show Announced.

For the first time in years Chicago is to have a flower show. It will be given by the Chicago Flower Show association at the Broadway armory, Broadway and Ardmore avenue, from April 16 to April 22. The Women's National Farm and Garden association is providing a course of lectures, which will be delivered daily in the Butterfly room on the second floor. To this education will be given the proceeds of the first afternoon and evening.

The W. N. F. G. A. has been in existence for eight years, and has over 3,500 members. Its objects—or some of them—are to create a clearing house of information in farming and gardening, to develop opportunities for the trained woman in farming and gardening, dairying, poultry raising, orcharding, market gardening, and bee culture, and to advise on all matters, agricultural and horticultural. It is a democratic organization. Every woman who has an interest in any kind of farm or out of door work is eligible for membership. Local branches may be formed anywhere with ten or more members.

With the coöperation of Peter Mor...ence, superintendent of schools, Ed...ard Worst, Miss Lucy Silke, and the ...ls and boys of the public schools, ...housands of bird houses have been ...ented to Ransom E. Kennicott, ...ief forester of the forest preserve, ...ich are now hanging in the preserve. ...ks on "Birds in Illinois" and "Why ...ds Need Houses" have been given ...re many schools, to pupils as well ...s to manual training teachers and art ...structors. Bird pictures of the species ...f birds that really need houses have ...en sent out that those interested in ...is study might have accurate knowl...dge of their feathered friends.

While nature study is taught in some ...chools, it is lacking entirely in some ...f them; hence the conservation com...ittee is interested in providing chil...ren with knowledge of and interest ...n common birds, trees, and wild flow...rs. They believe nature study of ut...most importance not only in causing ...atural beauty to be protected, but in ...stilling the love of such beauty in ...he minds of the young, along with the ...erve "g's."

The bill for the protection of certain ...inds of wild flowers, which is being ...ponsored by the Wild Flower Preser...ation Society of America, has been ...given much publicity by the commit...ee. Talks have been made upon the ...ubject at local and district club meet...ngs and copies of the bill have been ...ent to every club president in the ...tate. It forbids the selling of certain ...inds of wild flowers which are fast ...isappearing because of ruthless and ...areless picking, and has been intro...uced into the house by Mrs. Lottie ...Holman O'Neill, and it is hoped that it ...will become a law in time to stop the ...selling of this season's spring flowers.

The committee also has given much ...help to the new Illinois Forestry asso...ciation, of which Dr. H. C. Cowles is ...president. Illinois is greatly behind ...other states in the matter of reforesta...tion, but as intensive program, in ...course of construction by the state for...ester, Robert Miller, combined with ...zeal and work of the women of the ...club, will mean state parks and for...ests within a short time.

Members of the committee are Mrs. ...Alice C. Harding, Miss Kathleen Al...ord, Mrs. Edward Eagle, Mrs. R. ...Doyle, Mrs. O. A. Carlson, Mrs. Nicho...as Schaack, Mrs. A. Prosser, Mrs. ...Frederick Blockl, and Miss Welderman.

LUCK.

A noted educator has said that there is no such thing as chance—that a "chance" occurrence is in reality the result of a logical sequence of factors unnoticed by the casual observer.

In all walks of business life, we constantly hear the expression, "Wasn't he lucky?"

Depend upon it, the "luck" was due to foresight, careful preparation, or the greater knowledge of the person who benefited by it.

There is quite as much art in the selection of materials for Easter garments as in the drawing of the designs. In the attractive coats, capes and wraps which comprise the special groups for tomorrow you will see how splendidly design and fabric are harmonized.

Lovely, lustrous Ormandales, rich Fashona, gleaming Roi de Laine, soft closely woven fine twilled cords. Capes are simple—beautifully so—and scalloped bottoms predominate. Some fashioned of cloth and silk in combination. Elegant coats—cozy, wrappy affairs—some plain—some embroidered. Mostly all are straight silhouette effects. Black, navy, reindeer, cocoa, tan and kitfox.

A selection which displays so many attributes of style and value that you'll agree is very reasonably priced at

Practical Service and Good Style Combined in

Easter Suits

There's decided smartness to the suits this season—and even though some may seem a bit severe, you will note a certain clever distinction about them that dispels all suggestion of plainness. Suits are more popular now than for some spring seasons past because they are designed to serve the twin purposes of utility and style better than ever before. Come, see the suits we display for tomorrow. Every woman and miss will be delighted with them.

Developed of Poiret twill in youthful jacquette and box models. Braiding and silk embroidery are effectively used in varied ways as trimmings. The tailored suits have narrow belts, link fastenings and slash panels trimmed with silk embroidered motifs.

Dependable silk linings and unexcelled tailoring. In line with our usual policy we have marked these splendid suits in a way which is decidedly moderate. They will be hard to duplicate at the special Monday price of..... $35

Theater Guild Again Tours the Land of Fantasy

guilty, and to justify himself by the fact that his mind had grown heavy with figures. He is convicted and hung, we assume, for we come upon him next scene in a graveyard, where he rises from his coffin in his funeral clothes, stretches his cramped legs, and enters wonderingly into conversation with another grave tenant, in for having killed his dear, good mother the thousandth time she served a leg of lamb on Sunday and passed him the carving knife. He is hopefully on his way to hell, this chap, where he expects to burn away his remorse.

Next scene Zero is wandering the Elysian fields, where, to increase his comfort, he takes off his shoes and patters about in his socks. Here he finds his old buddy, the mother murderer, still unhappy. But best of all he finds Daisy, another bookkeeper, who had sat across the desk from him and loved him for years, though she never had had the courage to show it. Daisy killed herself when they hung Zero, hence their happy meeting. But it is not for long. They take no more account of marriage than they do of free love in heaven, it appears, and Zero is convinced, therefore, that it is no place for a respectable man. So he leaves Daisy flat.

Happy for a Time.

Finally Zero reaches heaven's main office, and here he is happy adding figures again on a gigantic adding machine. But again disappointment treads upon his heels. Comes a round bellied, heavy jowled celestial lieutenant from in back of a cloud to order the Zero soul's return to earth for further seasoning. For thousands and thousands of years it has been getting into heaven, and never qualifying. It is a stubborn soul, at best, profiting little from its experience.

The performance is good, Dudley Digges giving an excellent performance as Zero, Margaret Wycherley assisting notably as Daisy, and Helen Westley contributing a characteristic bit as the shrewdish Mrs. Zero. The setting is fantastic but interesting.

Gossip About the Russians.

The most alarming gossip I have heard recently, and the most reasonable, comes from the camp of the Russian players from Moscow. They have, I hear, not only been bitten by the American money bug, but are suffering intensely. Nor has their worshipful faith in art furnished them so far with effective antitoxins.

They are a cooperative group. As players their remuneration is based upon their length of service. Thus, all members of the company, whatever their jobs, are said to receive the same sum for the same length of service.

Constantin Stanislavsky receives, report says, $110 a week—not because he is the principal actor and directing genius of the aggregation, but because he has been a member of the Moscow Art theater [as one of its founders] for twenty five years. And all other twenty-five year members are paid a like sum, whether they serve as stage heads or as artists.

Now $110 is a considerable sum in rubles and a good salary for a stage hand. But can Constantin Stanislavsky do justice to himself, his art, his position, his associates, and his American hosts with so little? The answer being that he cannot, he chafes, it is said, under the pressure of poverty.

Surprises All Around.

Then—and this is also gossip, though it comes from one of these high sources common to diplomatic circles—it appears that the local Theater guild, having just launched a campaign to build a half million dollar theater somewhat on the Moscow plan, decided also to offer M. Stanislavsky $50,000 a year to remain in America and run it.

The offer startled the distinguished Muscovite, but not half so much as his reply startled the guild—for between the tentative projection of the offer and Mr. Stanislavsky's answer to it he talked with certain American advisers, and came back with the suggestion that he might see his way clear to stay here for $60,000 a year.

Now, while these things have been going on the other leading players—Katchaloff, the aristocrat, for one, and Moskvin, who is Katchaloff's rival in popularity—have been restless. They are strong for art—but they do not mind in the least capitalizing art if opportunity offers. And they do not purpose, so they say, to permit anybody to put anything over on them, or whatever may be the equivalent for putting things over in Russian. Hence they grow suspicious of each other. Hating the soviet government that has ruined their peace at home, they are beginning to be pestered with dozens of little soviets of their own. They gather in groups, secretly, to discuss this and that—and the chance of getting in on it, whatever it is.

They'll Never Be the Same.

The Balieff "Chauve-Souris" troupe, just finishing its enormously successful run on the Century roof, is also reported to be shot to pieces with the rival ambitions and plans of its members. Some want to go into vaudeville. Some want to tour independently and take the profits. None is willing to work for what Mr. Balieff agreed to pay — in rubles, as it were.

It is sad, but it appears to be true, that America has again exerted a demoralizing influence upon a noble band of artists. Nothing will ever be quite the same with them again. They may return to the place of their artistic birth, but they will never be able to go back to the days of their artistic youth.

Should we worry? O, shouldn't we? It is my prophecy that they will disintegrate and scatter, most of them, as a result of this American tour. A year, two years, from now every city—it may be every Little theater group—will have a Russian director. Yes, come to think of it, I think we should worry—a little.

Atwill and Comedy.

There is a division of opinion about Lionel Atwill as an actor. David Belasco and thousands of ladies, I'm told, insist he is a romantic comedian. The gods and I declare he is not.

Give him character to toy with, put him in a costume part calling for considerable sentiment, eloquent reading and intelligent characterization, and he will play you a performance that will be well worth your seeing. Vide "Deburau" and his Ibsen rôles.

But set him up in comedy or playing the handsome lover or the "straight" romantic part, and his appeal is noticeably diminished. Particularly when he is carrying the burden of stardom.

"The Comedian," which is Mr. Atwill's newest play, was written by Sacha Guitry, the John Barrymore of Paris, for his [Sacha's] wife, Yvonne Printemps, and called "Jacqueline," after the heroine.

In America it has been rewritten by Mr. Belasco for Mr. Atwill and renamed. It has to do with an aging actor, passing the treacherous middle years, who seeks to reëstablish his own confidence in himself by flirting with the niece of a friend. The girl is infatuated with him as a "young" actor. Her uncle believes a night of him as he is will cure her. The comedian accepts the challenge, deliberately charms the girl, and elopes with her next day.

Beginning to Be Bored.

He also marries her in America. In France he did not. Three weeks of honeymoon and the comedian finds himself more or less indifferent to his chattering child-wife. But when she becomes an actress—or tries to become one to save a play for him, his love is fanned again. At rehearsals he adores her. And then the opening night she fails utterly.

The comedian still loves her and is hopeful she will go on being his wife. But he never wants to see her act again. And, as she insists on playing all his leading rôles they part. To his art and to his public the comedian must be faithful. "I have a rendezvous with 1,200 people tomorrow night," he says, at the play's tag. It sounds a little boastful—but actors are like that.

The first night in New York Elsie Mackay (Mrs. Atwill) all but took the play away from her husband-star. Partly because here is the more sympathetic and more interesting character of the two, but also because she played with considerable charm and is blessed with physical beauty.

The scene that will save "The Comedian" in New York is that of the rehearsal, which the artful D. B. has staged with skill and with his usual care of detail and incident. In the comedy interruptions he uses all the best of the actor's tricks, including the barking of a pestiferous dog, and earns many laughs.

Gets No Reward.

You must, watching them suffer, sympathize with the young and eager producers of plays. Here is Brock Pemberton, for example. All he wants to do is to present intelligent dramas for the entertainment of the public and collect therefrom a reasonable reward.

This season he began with "Six Characters in Search of an Author" and found, though it attracted small receipts to a small theater for a period of several weeks, that it was not what the multitude was willing to pay for.

Then he came forward with a dramatization of Julian Street's "Rita Coventry," a story about an intriguing prima donna who lured men with the devil that lurked in her saucy eyes and sang in her lyric voice. For the role he selected a perfectly good prima donna, but one with little lure and no sauce, as you might say. And again the multitude shunned the play.

What the Public Wants.

Now, boldly bidding for popular approval, young Pemberton puts forward a French comedy farce called "The Love Habit," so conventionally artificial and regular that the living room in which it is played has to be fitted awkwardly with a telephone booth in order to give the farceure some place to hide.

It also is the usual one about the ardent pursuer with his eye on the handsome wife; the wife herself, protesting but flattered, and the husband whose outside affair is with a dancer. For three acts these four chase each other in and out of doors until finally the wife discovers the dancer and agrees to meet the lover by way of being even with the husband.

Cheap stuff, but well played by James Rennie, Florence Eldredge, Ernest Cossart, and Fania Marinoff. And a fair attempt on the part of a flustered but honest producer to find out what the public does want.

IN "PETER WESTON"

MISS JUDITH ANDERSON and FRANK KEENAN.
[H. A. Atwell Photo.]

Forthright, old-fashioned acting holds the boards at the Harris these nights. Here is a pair of players who can tear an emotion to tatters, and do so nine times a week in the last act of "Peter Weston," a scene from which is pictured. Their rôles are those of father and daughter; their experiences, as may be observed, are stressful and stirring.

PRODUCER

MRS. HENRY B. HARRIS.

She is known in the world of the theater as the only feminine play producer who is entirely independent, financially, artistically, and in all other respects, and the only woman who actively manages as well as owns a New York playhouse of the first class (the Hudson). Mrs. Harris has been visiting Chicago to observe the first performances of her newest property, "The Crooked Square," at the Princess.

Just How Much Do You REALLY Know About the Corsets You Wear?
—Third Floor—Dearborn Street—

If the majority of women would only study their corsets as they deserve to be studied they would be smarter in appearance, more trig and trim, have the fashionable lines, and at the same time in almost every instance be far more comfortable than they are today. The strides scientific, hygienic corseting has made, and the skill with which a really competent corsetiere can utilize modern hygienic corset fitting methods when aided by Warner corsets is indeed surprising

We carry Warner corsets in so wide a variety of styles that our corsetieres can fit you to develop your figure—bringing you the lines of the fashionable silhouette every woman wants as well as adding to your personal comfort. No charge is made for this fitting service, famous throughout the city, and indorsed by many of the foremost physicians and modistes.

Warner corset style No. W 33, as illustrated, for the plump woman who likes a topless front but is fleshy at the waist line in the back; made so as not to cut or feel uncomfortable. The whole corset is built for ease and comfort. Sizes to 32, at $5

Warner's topless corsets have always been popular with the slight woman, but now women of every type of figure call for these low, comfortable models; some are well boned over abdomen with graduated front clasp. They will not ride up on the figure. Give excellent hip control and shape the waist beautifully. Sizes to 36, at $5 and $4

"The Wrap-Around" Has Come to Stay

The Wrap-Around for the debutante and slender woman has come to stay—each day we sell a greater number—and so you, too, should find out just what the Wrap-Around actually is and what it can do for your figure.

We Feature the Warner Wrap-Around

Because the fashionable woman never suggests by her appearance that she is corseted; her lines are youthful, flowing, softly graceful, at $2 and up to 12.50

The Warner Corselette

We are having a tremendous demand for these cleverly designed garments, which take the place of corset and brassiere and which hold the figure firmly and support the stockings. For the growing girl we especially recommend several special styles, as just the garment which is needed. They support the bust, keep the figure erect and trim, but in no way interfere with freedom of movement. The style illustrated is excellent for the youthful figure, but corselettes are made in great variety; a style for every figure. We shall be glad to show you the style you should wear.

Bevan and Flint:

"Do you mean to say you don't know me?"

"Well, you don't look like anything I've ever seen before."

"Were you ever tempted?"

"Yes, but not by an apple."

"Isn't it remarkable that a silk case like this should come from such a little worm?"

"Why, did your husband give it to you?"

"Don't you want to buy my lunch?"

"How much do you want for it?"

"Didn't you know I was an actress?"

"Well, if you are what are you doing in vaudeville?"

"O, just for a little pin money."

"It sounds like a needle to me."

"Are you generous?"

"Am I? Say, when I take a girl out to dinner, money slips through my fingers just like cement."

Letters

DELTA OR DALETH = D

Origin of "D."

HOW D WAS MADE.

THE original D was a Semitic letter, and was called Daleth. It was triangular in shape, and is thought to have represented a tent door. When Daleth was carried to the Greeks it became Delta, and, in Latin, D.

D shows the influence of the pen in shaping letters. The first stroke is down, and, therefore, powerful and straight. But the second two were weak, and in turning the angles were slurred over, making a curve. The result was the capital which we now write as "D," instead of "Delta."

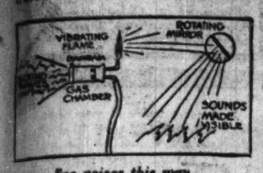
RADIO

SOUNDS AND VOICES.

WHY do not voices over a wire or in radio sound like real people, while musical notes over the same instrument are frequently reproduced with the utmost fidelity? To understand why this problem is hard to solve we must know a little about the nature of sound waves. Sound consists of condensations and rarefactions in the air, or waves vibrating in the direction in which they travel. They would look like ripples about a falling stone in a pool of water if we could see them, except that instead of being circular on a level surface they are spheres in the substance of the air itself.

Picture of sound waves.



See voices this way.

Musical notes are simple vibrations, but noises are complicated, like water waves that are churned in every direction. Here is a device that will enable you to see the waves in your own voice:

Tie a thin sheet of dentist's rubber over the mouth of a cylindrical lamp chimney. In the other end fit a cork provided with two holes. Run a gas hose into one, and from the other run a tube to a special burner.

To make this burner you will require a glass drinking tube. Melt the tube slightly in a gas flame, and when it is fairly plastic, like soft wax, draw it out to a fine capillary tube. The finer the bore of this tube is the more sensitive your flame will be from the jet. Now mount a mirror on a spindle so that it can be turned at a fair speed. Connect the gas and light the flame at the jet.

Talk against the rubber diaphragm. Do you see the flame dance up and down? Look at its reflection in the revolving mirror. When you speak the band of flame seen there breaks up into a pattern of jagged saw teeth.

Now sound a musical note against the diaphragm from the purest toned instrument you have. Notice how much simpler the note is than your voice.

In telephony, as in all other mechanical arts, simple patterns are much less liable to defects than complex ones. The diaphragm in a receiver can vibrate easier to a simple sound than to a complicated one.

In voice transmission sound waves must be converted into electrical waves, sent in that form to their destination, and then decoded into sound waves again.

How a telephone slurs fine sounds.

Sounds are converted into electromagnetic waves by a transmitter. A telephone transmitter consists of a box of carbon grains, each granule about as big as a crystal of sugar, against which the diaphragm vibrates. As the carbon is alternately compressed and released a continuous current is broken up into waves.

In radio the carbon cup is not alto- from such a transmitter are amplified there are cracking noises due to minute arcs between the grains. Two sheets of metal foil, acting like opposite condenser plates, produce purely induced currents in the transmitting circuit and have proven themselves to be the better form.

A radio receiver is much more sensitive than a telephone receiver and can accommodate itself better to complex tones. But in both the telephone and radio there is a tendency on the part of the instruments to slur over the subtle overtones that really make the voice, and hit only the high spots. Music has fewer overtones and is easier to reproduce than voice over a radio. A telephone receiver diaphragm is so stiff, however, that it slurs even musical notes.

A good telephone or radio voice is one that speaks with as few complex tones as possible. Have you ever heard that kind?

Furniture Clearance

Odd Pieces Greatly Reduced in Price

WE have left on our floors a number of odd pieces, single suites and suites from which one or two pieces have been sold.

We propose to clear these this week and in order to make sure of their being sold by Saturday night we have reduced them most radically.

The week opens with a large and varied assortment which will of course be depleted rapidly from Monday morning on, for the prices we have made are far too low to permit duplication of sold pieces.

Those with complete homes to furnish can pick up in this clearance many beautiful things at sacrifice prices and can complete their furniture buying with great economy in our regular stock where substantial Semi-Annual Sale reductions remain in force throughout the week.

The prices listed below are representative of the clearance bargains. Quantities on many of the pieces mentioned are limited.

MOVIE NEWS from HOLLYWOOD

FILMLAND CELEBRATES ST. PATRICK'S DAY

By Mildred Spain.

LOS ANGELES.—[Special Correspondence.]—The social pulse of Hollywood was quickened to fever heat this week with the 17th of March, the birthday of two screen saints. Sid Grauman—you may not know him as well as the other celebrity—one St. Patrick, the Celtic variety.

Sid Grauman, who has builded many cinema temples in Los Angeles and Hollywood in which certain Glorias and Bettys may display silken emotions, gave a charming dinner party for his friends. St. Patrick's feast day was observed at a dinner dance given by Pat Powers at the Beverley Hills hotel. More than 300 motion picture people were present. String orchestra, a jazz band, and the hotel orchestra were used for dances and plaintive Irish melodies.

Trilogies of tables were used to form shamrocks. Waitresses were attired as colleens, and everywhere were huge banks of green flowers. Jane and Kathryne Lee, the "baby grands of vaudeville," sang and even essayed a jig for the guests.

MAE MURRAY.

Mae Murray wore a gown fashioned of white beaded crêpe trimmed in wide bands of sable. An Egyptian headdress of pearls and rhinestones completed her costume. Gloria Swanson's gown was of white taffeta. A long train was ruffled for trimming. A diamond pendant and diamond bracelets were her ornaments.

Never has Constance Talmadge looked as lovely as in pale green silver cloth made with the natural waist line. Mabel Normand was in apple green velvet, the skirt full and quite short. Mae Busch was charming in pink velvet trimmed in pastel colored beads. The Moyen age was the inspiration for its lovely simplicity. With this Miss Busch chose to wear only a long string of pearls.

The ball gown of Mabel Condon was fashioned of white taffeta, black bands of fur and steel beads.

Ouida Bergere Entertains.

Just before the departure of Ouida Bergere for New York she and her husband, George Fitzmaurice, entertained at an elaborate dance and buffet dinner in their Hollywood home. The who's who of the picture world were there, more than two hundred of them. Included in this number were Pola Negri, "first lady" of Hollywood since her announced intention to marry the custard king; Betty Compson, Gloria Swanson, Mack Sennett, Eleanor Boardman, Paul Bern, Marshall Neilan, Blanche Sweet, Sam Goldwyn, Walter Morosco, Hugo and Mabel Ballin, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lubitsch, Claire Windsor, and Mae Busch.

The return of Lois Weber from Europe, where she has been vacationing was celebrated by a dinner at the Ambassador hotel. The guests were Princess Hassan, Capt Broadhead, Miss Jeanie McPherson, and Miss Winifred Kingston. Miss Weber was in green lace gown with silver trimmings, and a white osprey plume was used for a hair ornament. The Princess Hassan's dinner dress was of pink and cream brocade studded with rhinestones. Black velvet and rhinestones were worn by Miss McPherson.

LOIS WEBER.

William Russell was the host at a dinner party and dancing contest—most popular these days—at the "plantation," one of filmdom's favorite rendezvous. Clara Horton, Lee Moran, Jacqueline Logan, Mr. Bird, Ricardo Cortez, and others were guests. Clara Horton and her escort won the loving cup from Jacqueline Logan and Mr. Bird, who were runner-ups. Mr. Bird, let it be said, has created a mild furore in film circles. He has no front name, absolutely Mr. Bird, is under contract to Rex Ingram and Douglas Fairbanks, and is seen everywhere escorting the beauteous Jacqueline Logan and her Pekinese.

Betty Does the Steaks.

Betty Compson has inaugurated the outdoor party. Last Sunday evening at her beach-bungalow in Playa Del Rey. Miss Compson entertained her friends at barbecue. The steaks were turned by Betty's own hands over the cooking chimney that she has annexed to her bungalow.

Saturday night at the Leighton Mr. and Mrs. Douglas McLean gave a dinner party for Mr. McLean's parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. C. McLean, in honor of their golden wedding anniversary. The table was decorated with an enormous plaque of acacias and jonquils and California poppies. Dr. McLean is a Methodist divine.

Dazzle the Eye.

Now that spring is here, comma, and the lure of clothes grows with the season, dash—the stars are about to burst out in eye dazzling effulgence. New gowns and sports costumes have been imported from Paris and New York. Most of the film ladies prefer Fifth avenue to the Rue de la Paix.

A forerunner of the season's mode is reflected in the sports costume of Mae Busch. Nut brown, orange and red give it life. The tie and the sash are aof cinnamon color, and a darker shade fur bands the skirts. The chic hat is trimmed with red and orange knit flowers.

And if any one is interested, but this may be news for slinkers only, Bool Montana has a new brown derby!

Baby Peggy Comedies.

Jackie Coogan must look to his laurels. Baby Peggy Montgomery, his rival as a screen prodigy, stands on the threshold of the feature film class. The precocious 4-year-old, whose rise in popularity has been one of the phenomena of the last year, is about ready to make her bow as a Universal-Jewel star. Her first story, written by Rupert Julian, is ready and work will begin in April with a fanfare.

That the Peggy feature comedies will be pretentious, is evident from the fact that only four are to be made each year. The plans for the child star also include the return to film activity of a woman director, Elsie Jane Wilson.

Imported Star Moves Director to Accents Wild

By Monroe Lathrop

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—[Special Correspondence.]—The latest studio gossip is that George Fitzmaurice turned on his heel in the midst of a scene being filmed with Pola Negri at the Lasky studio, and, lifting his hands toward the sky in Gallic exasperation, exclaimed, "Mong Dool This is the fleenish!" Mr. Fitzmaurice began work with the imported star with enthusiasm, and after directing "Bella Donna" deferred another engagement as a favor to direct "The Cheat." Mediators succeeded in mollifying him and he is going through with his work.

Studio chatter also relates that Conway Tearle, Pola's leading man in "Bella Donna," gave the star his opinion of her demeanor, which in the argot of the profession is phrased as "up stage." The cordial little feud between Miss Negri and Gloria Swanson is in what might be termed a state of armistice. Gloria has gone to New York to make a picture.

Committed to Celibacy.

Katherine MacDonald, the beauteous, committed to lifelong celibacy—unthinkable! But that is what the star avows, and with some acidity. There was plain petulance in her answer to a question if she had matrimonial intentions: "No, nor instincts, either. I shall never marry." She bit off the words.

The query came about through the disappearance from Katherine's hand of a large solitaire diamond and the news that her reputed affiianced, Jack Morrell of Chicago, no longer laid claim to that distinction.

Pressed for reply as to whether there had been an engagement, Miss MacDonald replied, "Once we talked of it, but since we never announced it—well, I was never engaged!" With more hauteur she said, "I can't discuss that," when asked if there had been a quarrel.

Cupid Scores Again.

Cupid keeps right at work among the movie folks, a cheerful little guy in the face of much discouragement. He has just landed two more, and you can look for the marriage of Marguerite Courtot and Raymond McKee in April.

It has been rather a long job for tiny Dan, for it will be the culmination of a childhood romance. Marguerite was a pig tailed girl in the same town where Raymond was a boisterous urchin, and their attachment began on the playgrounds. But fate threw them apart for years until Cupid brought them together again in the picture, "Down to the Sea in Ships," off the New England coast. Then Marguerite was stricken with appendicitis and was taken to a hospital. A relapse followed apparent recovery or the nuptials would have been performed ere this.

Fox Plans Expansion.

William Fox answers the prediction by some sages of the wane of the movies with a two million dollar outlay for a new studio in Hollywood. Large as Fox's activities are in volume, it is apparent that he is going in for production on a scale with the biggest factors in the business.

He is said to have made an alliance with three Broadway play producers in New York which will call for greatly enlarged facilities. Three young beauties of the Manhattan stage, Jean Arthur, Ruth Dwyer, and Peggy Shaw (the latter another Follies girl) are to be sent west for grooming. An important aspect of the Fox expansion is his decision to make no more program pictures. Everything is to be filmed as a big special.

Will Fight No More.

The king is dead; long live the king! Meaning the king of the film scrappers, William Farnum; in his place will reign William Farnum, gentleman. William Fox's ace star has completed his contract and renounced the hard boiled rôles for all time.

"Bill" (probably William hereafter) sprang into film fame eight years ago by a historic screen fight in "The Spoilers." That settled it; he was doomed to be a scrapper. He has licked countless villains of all sorts as well as policemen, politicians, sailors who stood before his brawn in the world of make believe. But too much is enough and now he purposes to become debonair and effete. He can afford it, having drawn down $7,000 a week for years.

A CUTUP

MISS WINNIE LIGHTNER.
[White Photo.]

Miss Lightner is the ebullient young person whose antics "stopped the show" when George White's "Scandals" came to the Illinois. She is not long out of vaudeville, but appears to have risen, overnight, to substantial fame as a comedienne.

ART AND ARTISTS

There Is Beauty and Variety in Water Color Show

By Eleanor Jewett

As different as daylight from darkness is a water color show from an exhibition of oil paintings. In the first place, the exhibit of water colors is a rarity; that of oils a usual event. In the second place, an exhibit of water colors is voluminous; one of oils is limited in number. In the third place, water colors are not impressive; they have nothing urgent about them; one needs time and patience to grasp which few of the many are really distinctive—far otherwise is it with oil paintings. A survey of the galleries, and the canvases jump to attention, lining up in your mind in the order of excellence which you spontaneously adjudge them.

Different though the two types of painting are, yet would we be at a loss were the water colors withdrawn entirely from us. They have a delicacy which the larger paintings cannot have. They have a message which can be delivered only in their medium. As a division of art, foster brother to the etching, so it may be considered, the water color brings pleasure by quality rather than quantity, and secures its own place in the affections by the limitations of its design.

The third international water color exhibition, which opened last Tuesday in the east wing of the Art institute, upholds all the sentiments in favor of the medium that one could possibly imagine. There is variety and beauty in the show. There are scenes of quiet places and scenes of virile pageantry. People and beasts, birds and flowers, churches, market places, houses, cottages, streams and marshes, winter, summer, spring and fall, and a hundred subjects that lie between all these are adequately rendered for our delight in the approximately 500 pictures shown.

So extensive, in fact, is the exhibit that a single visit is far from satisfactory. The mind becomes blurred with the repetition of picture after picture, each similar in that from each bursts a glow of color, and similar, too, in that each differs from the next in size and shape but by little. It is this matter of size that troubles one most in forming his appreciation of the show. Being comparatively small, these pictures are hung rather close together and the one almost overlaps the other. It is immensely difficult to hang a number of small frames satisfactorily on one wall and give an atmosphere of balance and quality to the whole. The rubbing of shoulders with pictures invariably lessens their individual value.

Possibly the best balanced walls are those in the center large gallery, where, at each end, the motif is a peculiar bulky shaped panel, flanked by the water colors of Joseph Pennell. Though it is the Pennell water colors that first catch the eye, yet in a moment the justness of the arrangement has won you a partisan to this particular portion of the exhibit. Far more artistic, for example, are these two walls than the entire little room where is shown alone the work of Childe Hassam. In fact, Childe Hassam does not appear at his best in his one man show. The water colors, marked in large gilt letters with the painter's name, resemble engravings to an awkward extent. They possess little, if any, of the verve and swing of color that, because of his oil paintings, one instantly supplies in thought when Hassam's name is mentioned.

"La Chinoise," by Gertrude V. Whitney, is one of the most fanciful and gracious of the sculptured groups by her now on view in gallery 50 of the Art institute. It is delicate and unusual, and tends to soften the tone of rugged strength which is maintained in the most of the other figures from her chisel that are to be seen in this exhibition.

The other room given over to the paintings by a single artist is that where Frank W. Benson's water colors are hung. This room is a delight. Perhaps the most charming of the pictures is his "Pond Lilies," a lovely, fragrant piece of painting, but numerous others run it a close second in our appreciation. Among those are "The Trout Brook," "Black Ducks in Marsh," "Early Spring," "In Harbor," "Metcalf, Painting," and "The Cedar Bank."

The Scandinavian group of water colors is perhaps the most distinctive of the groups coming from abroad. The English group is fascinating, however, and the French must not be denied their place. The German water colors have been delayed by red tape in our customs, and are expected later. But, when all is said and done, the international character of this exhibition is none too strong. America is far in the lead in number of pictures shown and of artists represented.

Among our painters whose names are familiar to us are Pauline Palmer, Clifford Adams, George Elmer Browne, Anita W. Burnham, John F. Carlson, William Clusmann, Alfred Juergens, Mabel Key, Carl R. Krafft, Anna Lynch, Frederick V. Poole, William Ritschel, Charles H. Woodbury, and Chauncey F. Ryder.

The other exhibitions which also opened at the institute last Tuesday are more easily estimated. For example, there are the oil paintings of the Philadelphia artist, Arthur B. Carles. The first room in the east wing has been given up to him and to the exhibit of sculpture by Lucy Perkins Ripley of New York and Alfeo Faggi, an Italian, who has made his home here for some years.

The paintings are, to put it mildly, a bit startling at first glance. They seem to be entirely devoted to the elaboration of the theme of nudity as exemplified in the lazy convolutions of plump, white skinned females reposing upon and amid plump, spineless cushions. An air of overfed laxity pervades each boudoir scene. There is little of grace, mystery, beauty, or reason about them. Nothing is deeper than the surface. If one enjoys such painting, it is his for the asking. Go and see. Nor will the still lifes, the flower pieces, afford much more in the way of thrill. They, too, have not the spark of life that would make their rendering a matter of value. Less displeasing than the repeated song of the flesh they may be, but unless one likes his pictures tepid, one will not find cause for more than a single visit to this group.

The sculpture is different. It sets off, in fact, the canvases by its difference. More or less the figures are symbolic. They are mystic and spiritual rather than physical. They need to be studied to be fully understood. A second and third visit is their just due.

The Arts clubroom at present has an exhibition of original drawings by the famous French artist Pablo Picasso.

The Chicago Camera club is holding its annual exhibition in the east wing gallery adjoining the Arts clubroom at the institute. This will be discussed at greater length in a future column.

Though the print department was delayed in its expected opening of its new quarters, the old Antiquarian rooms on the first floor of the institute, the scheduled exhibition of lithographs by Henri Fantin-Latour and Odilon Redon, and the Albert Roullier Memorial collection of French prints were opened to the public last Wednesday. They will remain on view until the 1st of May.

Charles W. Dahlgreen announces an exhibition of his paintings and etchings, beginning yesterday and concluding next Monday, at his studio.

Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Fullerton hall, Charles Bittinger will lecture on "Color."

Here's a "Four" with the Smoothness of More Than Four Cylinders

Leadership in this price-field of fours now belongs clearly to the new Nash model.

Along with even greater economy it offers those fine shades of performance you have heretofore thought belonged only to cars of more than four cylinders.

Its great wealth of ready power flows forth with amazing quietness and smoothness.

Nash engineers have contrived remarkable betterments in both the motor and carburetor.

It rides, and drives, and handles like a costly car and yet it sells for $935 at the factory.

And so stalwartly is this new Nash Four built in even the minor points of construction that you seldom need to give it mechanical attention.

Come see this new model, now on display at our showrooms.

Let us arrange a ride for you that will prove the superior quality of the car.

U. of Ill. Has Music School of Manifold Merits

the organ is not expected until next year. This would seem to be typical of the university. Every department that I could hear about had something that was to be done later. It indicates that the university is in a stage of vigorous growth.

Built with Memorial Fund.

Throughout the building, on both sides of and above the hall, are class rooms, studios, practice rooms, and the memorial room. For this structure was not built by money of the state of Illinois. Mrs. Tina Weedon Smith was an influence in the music of Champaign and Urbana, and the building was paid for out of a fund set aside by her husband after her death.

It would seem to be quite as busy a spot as the other departments of the university. Director Frederick Stiven informed me that the school has 102 students who are taking the full course and, therefore, are candidates for the degree of bachelor of music. This, however, represents only a fraction of the activities, since there are several hundred more from other departments who are taking special courses in music. Credits are allowed with considerable liberality for other degrees, even in departments where at first glance music would seem to have little part in the scheme.

But music evidently is being considered as part of life in general by the University of Illinois. It is important even outside of the music school. There is the glee club, for instance. It was runner-up in the intercollegiate contest held at Orchestra hall a few weeks ago. They are saying around the campus now that it will be better than runner-up next year, or they will know the reason why.

There also is the band—three bands, to be exact. The concert band of eighty-five pieces, the pick of them all, was laying off while I was there, taking a rest after a tour the week before. But the First and Second regimental bands were in operation, rehearsing indoors. A Sousa march was announced. "Don't take the roof off," cautioned the conductor, Albert Austin Harding.

They didn't—quite. But they played the piece with a spirit and snap that I am sure would have brought a word of praise from the great bandmaster who wrote it.

Then followed statistics; 85 players not present that day; total number of players, 225; 150 instruments owned by the university, including a set of saxophones; 10,000 band compositions in the library, not only marches and songs, but classics, overtures, symphonic movements, and operatic selections—and quite a few operas that you do not hear at the Auditorium at that.

They give "courses" of concerts at the university of the symphony orchestras of St. Louis, Cleveland, Detroit, and other cities; also of the best known recital artists. Guy Maier and Lee Pattison played there the night I came away. The price to season ticket holders is something like 83 cents a concert.

In the effort to fight off a visitation of flu germs I may perhaps not have been able to indicate the force of some of the impressions made upon me. But it is really rather an amazing place. And not the least disconcerting part of it is that Chicago has no music hall like it.

More Symphony Orchestras.

There may be too many symphony orchestras in the land, but New York does not believe it. Two more have emerged from the process of formation within the last few days. One, the State Symphony orchestra of New York, is to be directed by Josef Stransky, who resigned from the Philharmonic not long ago.

The other, announced as a touring organization, has been put together in the interest of the well known American musician. It numbers fifty American born players and announces that on each program there will be at least one number by an American born composer. Howard Barlow is the conductor. He is 30 years old and is known in the east as a choral and festival conductor.

Opera in Chinese.

Another opera company recently landed in Seattle, a Chinese organization, calling itself the Ying Mee Lun Hop Opera company. It numbers twenty-four men and seven women, and they claim that the prima donna, Kwun Ying Lun, is one of the best known women on the Chinese stage. The first performance, "Mook Kwee Ying Ha San," or "The Mountain Queen," is described by the Post-Intelligencer of that city in terms that suggest "The Yellow Jacket" as that delightful bit used to be played here at the Playhouse.

After telling how the performance began at 7 in the evening and continued until midnight, or about the length of "Die Götterdämmerung" uncut, the account continues: "From the moment the asbestos curtain rose unceremoniously to disclose the five-piece orchestra seated on the stage, cymbals set for the first crash, the opera moved determinedly onward. Only a momentary shift of curtains indicated change of scene. A table and two chairs indicated mountain fastnesses of the unconquerable queen whose career, one of China's favorite tales of heroism, corresponds to that of Joan of Arc.

"A whip is enough to the nimble Chinese imagination to supply missing steeds. Whole armies are conjured up by pantomime. The uproar of cymbals heralds each entrance. Omnipresent is the property man, nonchalantly placing chairs, everlastingly changing Chinese tidies, erecting mountains, chewing a toothpick through it all, and swapping stories with the second fiddle when not otherwise engaged."

Coming Events of Interest.

Mr. Stock sends word of an Easter program for this week's Symphony orchestra concerts. It will consist of the "March of the Knights" from "Parsifal," Beethoven's First Symphony, Debussy's "La Mer," Richard Strauss' "Death and Transfiguration," and a novelty, "The Dying Swan," by Pernelli.

A new violin concerto by Edwin Grasse will be played by Eugene Dubois at the Chicago Theater Symphony orchestra concert this noon. It has been heard only once before in America, which was when its composer, who is blind, played it with the Johns Hopkins college orchestra last year.

Florence Easton, who has been writing "of the Metropolitan Opera" after her name ever since she withdrew from the Chicago Opera at the end of the '16-'17 season, is coming back to sing for us on Tuesday night, April 3, in Orchestra hall. A sincere, tasteful, brainy soprano she is, and has ever been, with her native English attitude toward music, her Italian method in song, and her sane stage technique acquired in the German opera houses.

The recurrence of her name in the Chicago music calendar inevitably brings to mind a thrill she imparted to a capacity audience along about 10:30 o'clock of a Sunday late in 1918, when she was called in to sing the "Siegfried" Brünnhilde by the lamented Campanini in an emergency created by a shifted schedule in his scheme of giving the Ring and other Wagner operas on Sundays, with an afternoon start, an intermission for dinner, and a postprandial finish. The scene of Brünnhilde's awakening was sung that night by Miss Easton with such loveliness of tone and acted with such feminine persuasiveness that the episode has not yet been forgotten by the 3,000 odd persons who heard and observed.

Mr. Campanini was prompt to put her into the roster for the following season, in which she sang Butterfly, Nedda, and other rôles; but that was a season marked so strongly by the sensational success of Galli-Curci, new to the American public, that the best achievements of all the other members and guests of the Auditorium's fine ensemble were neglected by the general public.

Down in New York City they think well of Florence Easton, who ranges the Italian, French, German, and English répertoire, with Carmen as one of her rôles. She has been a Ravinian in the hot months, with a wide repertoire to her credit on the north shore also.

FRITZ KREISLER.
[Dupont Photo.]

The greatest of the solo violinists will make his final appearance of the season at the Auditorium today in what he terms a "romantic program."

Chicago Singer Declares America Will Be World's Music Capital

NICE.—[Special Correspondence.]—America is destined to be the music capital of the world.

Great opera stars, produced and trained in the United States, will sing deathless works of a school of American composers before the most intelligent audiences, and Europe will take second place in the operatic field.

This is the firm belief of Miss Perie Barty, Chicago soprano and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Foster, wealthy Chicagoans, who was sailing for home after an absence of ten years in which she has scored operatic triumphs in England, Italy, Spain and Germany.

"Americans do not need to come to Europe to study music," she declared before leaving. "They can get a thorough musical education in the United States from the best teachers in the world. Study in Europe may give the finishing touches, but is not essential.

Don't Take Americans Seriously.

"American parents who send their daughters to Europe to study music are wasting time and money foolishly. Italians and other Europeans do not take American students seriously, feeling that the vistors come for a good time rather than hard work. This is nearly always the case.

"Give America a chance and she will dominate the opera world. Main street, U. S. A., is the potential source of famous singers. Great operas will be written by American composers. The American people, blended from all races of the old world, although not educated musically like Europeans, will be the most appreciative audience of all when given an opportunity."

Miss Barty's success in Europe proves the possibilities of American musical training. Her first teacher was Frank Webster in Kimball hall of Chicago. Later she studied at the Ziegfeld College of Music and the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago.

Debut at Palermo.

About ten years ago Miss Barty went to London, where her singing won universal admiration. Caruso and Tetrazzini persuaded her to go to Italy to study Italian opera. In 1918 she made her debut at Palermo, where she sang with Beniamino Gigli of the Metropolitan Opera company.

She then went to Spain where she sang at Barcelona with Titto Ruffo, Italian baritone, and at the Royal opera of Madrid. Miss Barty and Signor Ruffo were honored by a command concert for the king and queen of Spain and the American star was presented with a diamond brooch bearing royal initials by the queen.

Miss Barty recently sang in "Boheme" and "Traviata" in the German opera house of Berlin, where she set a record by drawing a 1,500,000 mark house.

My Perennial Beauty

And my debt to France

By Edna Wallace Hopper

All who see me on the stage and elsewhere know that I look 19. My youthful bloom is the envy of countless debutantes. Yet for 32 years I have been a musical comedy star, and am now of a grandmother's age.

I owe this to France. Her experts perfected the beauty helps I use. And I served with France during all the great war to help repay that debt.

Now I go further. I am offering these formulas to all womankind. I am sharing with all the helps I found, and what they brought to me.

White super-clay

My chief help is a facial clay. Not the crude and muddy clays so many use today, but a white, refined clay, clean and dainty, wonderously effective. It is the final result of 20 years of scientific study.

French beauty experts, many years ago, taught me what clays can do. Then few women used them, and those women became the marvels of their time for beautiful complexions.

But science has gone far since then. It has found that rare clay, mineral-laden, which brings maximum results. It has learned how to refine it—to remove the useless mud. It has added factors which give to clay a multiplied effect.

No ordinary clay gives one any conception of what this new-type clay can do.

Now I am having this super-clay prepared by able experts, so all who wish may get it anywhere. And I call it my White Youth Clay.

Clay is essential

Clay is essential to beauty at its best. Also to continued youth. Even women who use crude clays stand out in any crowd. No girl or woman in these days can afford to omit clay.

Clay draws out what clogs the skin—the causes of sallowness, blackheads and blemishes. It brings the blood to the skin to nourish and renew it. The result is a rosy complexion. It firms the skin, and combats the cause of wrinkles.

Not all these results come at once, but most of them are prompt. Many women, in 30 minutes, seem to drop ten years. And my own smooth, soft, rosy skin shows what constant use will do.

If you have used other clays, my White Youth Clay will be a revelation. The new freshness it brings will amaze you. Its daintiness will delight you. You will see why its use has kept me ever beautiful and young.

Edna Wallace Hopper's White Youth Clay is now supplied by all druggists, all toilet counters. Price, 35c and $1 a tube. Also my Youth Cream, which should follow the clay. Also my Facial Youth—my liquid cleanser. Also my Hair Youth, which brought my brilliant hair. My Beautiful Book comes with each.

I urge every girl and woman to try this Youth Clay in justice to herself.

BUCK & RAYNER — BUCK & RAYNER — BUCK & RAYNER

WHAT MAKES A BEAUTIFUL WOMAN?

Byttaeris.

By Selby Maxwell.

ANALYZING HIS CHARACTER.

WHY does the baby doll type of woman usually lose out in the end? It is a notorious fact that the women who begin life as darlings usually end as slaves. There must be some reason for it. Byttaeris can tell. She began life as a slave, and soon became a darling. What she recounts is full of interest.

"A woman is a man's slave or his darling in so far as she picks her man," she says. "The woman who cannot discern a man's true qualities through what he appears to be is more than apt to end life as a slave. Men always try to appear at their best with women, particularly if they are in love. The woman who accepts a man's value of himself is a fool.

"If she falls for him he will treat her like a doll for a while. But she never will know what he will do, or how quickly he will discard her when she gets old and ugly, because she has not sized up his true character. The women who lose out are those who lack discretion in picking their mates.

"A girl who intends to be a darling later on analyzes the character of her man truly and accurately. She doesn't let her valuation of him be judged by sentiment. She does her best to know what he will do in the future, and how he will react to various emotions.

"She knows, for example, that a man with a short upper lip will some day be flattered into doing foolish things; that a man with a broad, flat occiput will sooner or later develop a brutal streak; that a man with a long sharp nose will be nervous and irritable whenever he is subjected to severe mental strain.

"Most women are naturally good at psychology. Those who are expert at it may start as slaves, but soon become darlings. Those who cannot read a man's character have no real hold on him, and eventually become slaves.

"It is unfortunately true that blondes are not as good readers of character as brunettes. For this reason, a blonde makes the poorest vamp of all. A designing woman must first of all be something of a mind reader. But to compensate for it, a blonde has so much more staying power that although they seem to be dolls at first, yet they keep so tight a hold on their men that they usually end by being darlings."

Insects

SPIDERS ARE DIFFERENT.

SPIDERS and their near relatives, the scorpions, are much more closely related to lobsters than they are to true insects. Spiders and insects are both small, both have a number of legs, and both appear superficially alike. The differences between them, however, are of a major sort.

First, as you will see if you examine one, a spider has no head. All real insects have heads. Herein lies a most fundamental difference. A spider's face joins directly to the throax, like that of a crawfish. Every insect has eyes, both compound and simple. The compound eyes are usually large, occupying half or more of the entire head. Between them, in what would be the middle of the forehead, are three simple eyes. Spiders have eight (in some species only six) simple eyes. Each one is fixed and can see in one direction only. Some look forward, some sideways, and some upward, so that spiders during the history of the earth the cl- are not blind by any means.

ELECTRICITY

RULE FOR SOLDERING.

A GROUND connection should be soldered tight. It is not difficult to solder electrical joints if certain simple rules are followed. First, the joint should be clean. Sandpaper the metal, then dip it in hydrochloric acid to remove all traces of rust and oxide. Heat the soldering iron until it almost glows. File it bright, and then while hot dip it into sal ammonia. Now press the solder to the hot iron and bring a molten drop to the joint, preferably from below. The solder should seize on the clean metal eagerly and stick tight in a shining drop that quickly hardens when the iron is removed. If solder does not stick it means just one thing, that the joint has still some electrical dirt sticking to it.

Done Changed Her Name.

A colored mammy came into the office of the estate for which she worked to receive her monthly wages. As she could not write, she always made her mark on the receipt—the usual cross. But on this occasion she made a circle.

"What's the matter, Linda?" the man in charge asked. "Why don't you make a cross as usual?"

"Why," Linda explained earnestly, "Ah done got married yesterday an' changed mah name." R. R.

And Why Not?

Father [entering greenhouse after loud smash]—Say, what ever have you been doing with that plant?

Willie—Well, dad, you told me it was an India rubber plant, and I was trying to make it bounce. U. R.

Never Again.

Mr. Jones was at a dinner party. He was extremely shy and nervous, and never could summon up courage to speak, because he felt his inability to say anything neat.

All the evening he had been trying to think of something nice to say to his hostess. At last he saw his chance.

"What a small appetite you have, Mr. Jones!" she remarked, with a smile.

"To sit next to you," he remarked gallantly, "would cause any man to lose his appetite."

And now he wonders why he was never asked to the house again. M. E. H.

He Fixed It.

The young policeman had captured his first prisoner. Visions of promotion flashed before his eyes, and when the prisoner begged permission to go into a shop to buy a sandwich the policeman in his innocence consented. After waiting outside for some time he grew anxious and entered the shop to find that his captive had left by the back door. His chagrin made him exceptionally alert, and a few days later he was fortunate enough to capture the man again.

This time the prisoner asked to be allowed to purchase some cigarets, but the policeman was obdurate.

"No," he said, firmly, "you tricked me last time."

Still the prisoner pleaded for a smoke before reaching the station, and at last the policeman gave way.

"Well, I don't mind your smoke, but I'm not slow enough to be taken twice. You just wait outside, my lad. I'll go in the shop this time." H. W.

His First Visit.

It was his first visit to the city. As he stood on the sidewalk shaking with laughter, he was asked "What's the fun, sir?"

"Fun! Can't you see it? Just look how that thing (pointing to a watering cart) leaks. Why; the idiot won't have a drop left when he gets home."

L. R.

So We've Heard.

Dancing Instructor—Now that we have finished this dance, we will do the Russian Bolsha.

Pupil—And how does that go?

Dancing Instructor—Just one revolution after another. R. A.

MAN

RISE OF MODERN EUROPE.

ABOUT 15,000 years ago the Cromagnon age in Europe came to an abrupt end. There developed a sudden mildness to the climate, accompanied by cool rains. Heavy forests sprang up on what had been the open grass lands of wild reindeer, wild horses, and wild bison. Glaciers pulled back up their Alpine slopes; the ice fields that were over what is now Norway and Sweden melted away. The Pleistocene age was over and the modern era was at hand. Cromagnon people all but vanished from western Europe; Cromagnon art was no more. Whether these wild chestnut haired hunters followed the ice into what is now Russia, or whether they became extinct, no one knows. Certain it is their former lands were deserted when the next race of man appeared.

The beginning of the present era is marked by migration of men of the Semitic race. Semites in Stone age culture slowly filtered westward into Europe. The Cromagnons had almost never depicted human figures in their works of art. Perhaps they had religious scruples against it. The newcomers not only drew people, but painted spirited scenes from their daily lives. Southern Europe at length became a Semitic land. For 5,000 years their sway there was as complete as it is in Arabia and North Africa today.

After a while other races came trekking in. There were peaceful Alpines, moving from valley to valley, and keeping to themselves in the uplands and wooded places. They were being pushed from the east by rising tiers of civilization there. From the north came the Celts, the most warlike of any people yet seen upon the earth. The Celts, like the Cromagnons, belonged to the Aryan race, while Semites and Alpines did not. Before 8,000 B. C. they had established themselves from England to the Balkans and from Italy to Russia. Dim marks of Celts are seen everywhere in central Europe to this day. Celts brought the first crude beginnings of government to Europe.

ASTRONOMY

The Egyptian zodiac of Denderah.

EGYPTIAN SKY MAP.

MANY of the constellations are very old. When man first raised his eyes to heaven he saw the stars, and to his gaze their streams and groups took outlines and were pictures of the objects in his daily life. Every race and every people created new constellations for themselves, or if they were not of inventive minds they learned them from their neighbors. Even more, almost every astronomer has a few private constellations of his own not found on any chart. Constellations come and go. The present is not different from the past in their creation; some new ones are outlined by zealous minds, and later on, perhaps, are cast aside as useless or impertinent.

But through the changing centuries a few remain fixed, so fastened in the consciousness of man that they resist the destroying power of time. Their outlines often are forgotten for a while, but the place and name remain, and always, somewhere, they are reshaped again. These figures are the signs along the zodiac.

If you do not know them learn them now: Pisces, Aries, Taurus, Gemini, Cancer, Leo, Virgo, Libra, Scorpio, Sagittarius, Capricorn, and Aquarius.

In the Egyptian temple of Denderah there was a great stone sky map, showing all the figures then in vogue. Some were of the seasons and some were local constellations. In the north there was the dog that gives the name of "Cynosure" to the pole star. The dragon sparkled there, as well, and Sirius was the Goddess Hathor, riding in a boat upon the rising Nile. There stood Orion in his strange Egyptian garb, and all the constellations of the zodiac were there exactly as today. The Egyptians were literal in their pictures, and when they drew the figure of a constellation as they did we may be sure that that was how it was to them.

Many of the constellations upon our present sky maps have degenerated into meaningless jumbles of criss-crossed lines. Each artist copied from some copyist and so in time the true shape was lost.

The zodiac was thousands of years old, even in Egypt, and sculptors then, as now, felt free to draw the figures as they thought they ought to be. We, as well, should look upon the constellations as they best would represent the shapes they name.

Leo is a crouching lion, facing toward the west; Virgo is a maiden, Libra a pair of scales, Scorpio is a running scorpion, his claws held out before, with Antares for his heart. Sagittarius is a centaur with a bow, Capricorn a shape half goat and half fish, while Aquarius is a water pourer, with a fish beneath his feet. Pisces makes two fish tied tail to tail, Aries is a ram, Taurus is a plunging bull, Gemini are bright twin figures standing in the west, and Cancer is a crab.

Cygnus, a swan in appearance, is flying down the Milky Way; Hydra and Draco are, in truth, great snakes, while Ursa Major gives the outline of a bear. Perseus is a warrior, his shield upon his arm and his sword upraised, and in his outstretched hand he holds the gorgon's head.

In ancient times star lore was handed down from one nation to another. Where it started no one knows, for astronomy was the first groping of man for truth. Symbols for the sun and moon, the earth and planets, the same ones in use today, have been found among the relics of the old stone age, where even implements of polished flint were lacking.

·EVOLUTION·

Foetal. Adult.

Mammalian blood streams.

HERE IS OUR WEAKNESS.

A CHILD before birth has a circulatory system inferior to that of an alligator. This reptile, you remember, has a heart incompletely divided into four chambers. Foetal blood circulation is built after the pattern of a batrachian. These amphibians have devices for aerating their blood, but none for keeping it separate after it is aerated. Both auricles pour into one ventricle, so that pure and impure blood are passed out together to the body. Birds and mammals have solved the problem and now have completely aerated blood in their arteries and blood entirely dirty in their veins.

Starting along the portal vein, where the blood is most impure, the blood passes from the kidneys to the heart. Here it is pumped to the lungs and is purified by the air. It returns once more to the heart and is pumped a second time, this time into the arteries that lead all over the body.

Reptiles and fish have never been daring intellectual lights, because their brains are always as poisoned as ours would be if we were half suffocated in an atmosphere similar to that of the Black Hole of Calcutta.

An inborn mammal breathes through its placenta, which comes into close contact with pure blood from the mother. The placenta of pure blood runs to the liver and from thence into veins of impure blood and up to the heart. The head and upper trunk get the best blood, as in the case with a frog, but not until the first cry, when the lungs begin to function, is there anything like pure blood over the whole body.

A child gets most of its physical foundations in before birth, but it will not complete its mental growth for twenty-five years. Brain development is seriously handicapped by the poisons inherent to the mammalian system.

This fact will probably be the greatest bar of all to the advance of the human race. Should any creature not too hopelessly far into a cul-de-sac of evolution develop a foetus that has pure blood, that animal will surely sweep man from the earth.

GEOLOGY

Black areas show rocks that may bear coal. Shaded shows where only coals occurs. White shows where neither coal nor lignite is found.

Leaves of a coal tree.

WHERE would you look to find coal? Obviously in carboniferous rocks. There are plenty of these formations in the United States, but few in Canada. During all the time before the carboniferous age plants were too few or else not woody enough to resist decay when deposited under water. The only other deposits we get from the early part of the age of plants are a few beds of graphite. These hard black structure is unchanged.

The second stage of coal is lignite. Here the woody structure is still discernible, but the hardening process has gone further. The third stage is bituminous coal. This mineral is black instead of brown, and woody fossils in it are somewhat rare.

If soft coal is subjected to subterranean heats it is turned into anthracite or hard coal. If more heat still is put on it the product is graphite.

In parts of this country there are only rocks laid down recently. In these there can of course be no black coal, for there has not been time enough for any to develop. All the fuel beds in these rocks will be of the lignite variety. There are other places where there are neither coal nor lignite rocks. In some cases the mineral strata have been eroded away; in others they probably never formed. It would be more than useless, therefore, to look for fuel here.

Coal is pretty evenly distributed over the world. Neither the equatorial nor the polar regions are unduly favored. This means that for most of the time and the frigid zones have been slight.

At first sight this appears strange, because we are accustomed to the passing of seasons and changes of temperature with latitude. We find it difficult to picture in our minds another state of affairs. Nevertheless, it seems that our time is the unusual one, with its extremes of climate. Fully three-quarters of the time that the earth has stood, mild weather has prevailed from the equator to the poles.

strata are thought to be due to deposits of seaweed.

Wood is today being deposited in swamps over most of the earth. The necessary elements required to make coal are an abundance of wood to be submerged, a marsh full of water for the wood to lie in, and a supply of mud to cover the wood occasionally to seal it up from decay. Wherever these conditions are fulfilled wood is preserved. The first form it takes is peat. Peat differs from wood in that it is slightly oxidized, but otherwise its

NEWS OF THE RELIGIOUS WORLD

All Communions Hold Special Holy Week Services

By the Rev. W. B. Norton.

HOLY WEEK services in Chicago have been planned by the various churches to reach every community in the residential sections, while in the loop four theaters will be open at noon. Beginning next Saturday the Jews will observe the feast of the Passover, and plans have been made by them to extend the service to army and navy men as well as to all communities where there are Jews throughout the world. It is said that Passover bread will be distributed in Tientsin, China; Manila, Philippine islands; and in Honolulu, Hawaii, in hospitals and on board ships.

The following will be the program in the loop theaters: Chicago Church federation, S. D. Gordon, speaker, Olympic theater, 12:15-1; Episcopal, Bishop Charles P. Anderson, speaker, Garrick theater, 12:10-12:30; Lutherans, Missouri synod, Woods theater, 12:10-12:35. The speakers will be: Tomorrow, the Rev. O. A. Geisemann, Oak Park; Tuesday, the Rev. A. D. Wangerin; Wednesday, the Rev. Karl G. Schierf; Thursday and Friday, the Rev. Prof. W. A. Maier, St. Louis. Lutherans, under the auspices of the United Lutheran Ministers' association, La Salle theater, 12:10-12:45. The Rev. Simon Peter Long will speak each day on the general theme "I Was There." Dr. Long recently visited the Holy Land, and his addresses will couple Bible lessons with personal observations.

The New Era movement of the Presbyterian Church of the United States of America has sent out a request to all broadcasting radio stations to send out a verse of scriptures every noon and on Good Friday to have scripture selections sent out covering the three hour period from noon to 3 p. m. Local churches of all communions are holding special services early mornings and evenings.

Holy week services will be held at the Methodist Book Concern auditorium, 740 Rush street, under the auspices of the Embassy club. The speakers will be the Rev. W. R. Weddespoon, the Rev. C. K. Carpenter, the Rev. Logan Hall, the Rev. E. F. Tittle, and the Rev. C. C. Travis.

The Rev. Paul G. Macy, pastor of the Hyde Park Congregational church, Dorchester avenue and 56th street, will give a series of moving pictures every evening for ten Sunda yevenings, accompanied by addresses of which the moving picture will be an illustration. This evening the picture will be, "The Servant in the House." "Some folks imagine that the church is still too highbrow to care for the interests of the common man in the community," said Mr. Macy. "Of course, it isn't so and never was so, but we want to make the community feel that it isn't so, hence the pictures."

Today will be recognized as Boy Scout Sunday in many churches. The Boy Scout movement, while not originating as a church organization, has been found to minister to the qualities in boy life so many of the churches believe in that it is being taken up by a multitude of churches and incorporated into the life of the church. It is an organization also extensively used in foreign mission work in China, India, and other oriental fields.

"The Passion," a sacred Lenten cantata by Harvey Gaul, will be sung Good Friday evening at 8 by the choir of the St. James' Episcopal church, Cass and Huron streets, assisted by five soloists, under the direction of John W. Norton.

The Woman's Church Federation protectorate, affiliated with the woman's department of the Chicago Church federation and the Travelers' Aid society, will hold its sixth annual luncheon at the Wedgwood room, Marshall Field's, next Wednesday noon. Mrs. Minnie M. Chapman, superintendent, reports that 1,803 persons were assisted last year, 217 immigrants, 40 mentally deranged, 27 maternity cases, and 19 runaways. Thirteen marriage ceremonies were performed at headquarters, 25 North Dearborn street. Rooms were found for 589 and employment for 357. One thousand calls were made by the friendly visitors committee.

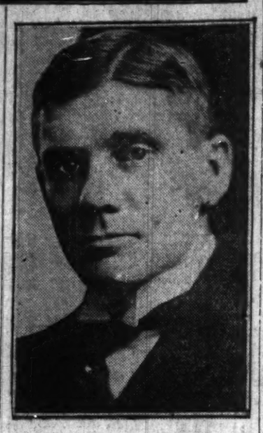
At the cathedral of the Holy Name, North State and Superior streets, Archbishop G. W. Mundelein will officiate in blessing the palms at the Palm Sunday service today. He will preside at the Tenebrae service on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday evenings. On Thursday at 10 a. m. he will celebrate pontifical mass at 10 o'clock, and on Good Friday at the three hour service, 12 m. to 3 p. m. In all Catholic churches there will be special services in addition to the regular masses.

A sacred concert will be given next Wednesday evening at St. Francis of Assisi Catholic church, Roosevelt road and Newberry avenue, by the combined choirs of the St. Francis of Assisi and Our Lady of Sorrows' churches. The speaker will be the Rev. C. J. Quille, superintendent of the working boys' home and founder of the St. Rita clubs for girls.

A hymn written by the Rev. Paul Rader entitled, "Never Let Your Heart Leave Home" was sung yesterday by his choir of 150 voices, accompanied by the thirty piece band of the Rader tabernacle, at the opening of the "Own Your Own Home" show at the Coliseum. The music of the band and choir from the tabernacle at Clark and Halsted streets will be heard every day at the Coliseum by radio during the continuance of the show.

The Rev. James H. Snowden, D. D., editor of the Presbyterian magazine, will speak tomorrow at the Central Y. M. C. A., 19 South La Salle street, at 10:30, at the monthly union ministers' meeting under the auspices of the Chicago Church federation. Dr. Snowden's subject will be, "Is the World Growing Better?"

Fred B. Smith of the Johns Manville company, formerly for fourteen years international secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will speak at 8 o'clock this evening at the Sunday Evening club at Orchestra hall on "The World Outlook." The Rev. Ernest Fremont Tittle, First Methodist Episcopal church, Evanston, will speak at 7 o'clock.



THE REV. FREDERICK F. SHANNON, D.D.

Dr. Shannon is the pastor of Central church, independent, which meets on Sunday mornings at Orchestra hall, 220 South Michigan avenue. He will preach there this morning, and will then go to Boston, where he will be the holy week speaker under the auspices of the Greater Boston Federation of Churches and Religious Organizations. He will speak daily in Keith's theater on the general theme, "Spiritual and Religious Basis of Citizenship." Dr. Shannon performed a similar service in St. Louis, Mo., a week ago, speaking at noon in the Garrick theater and in the evening to a group of west side churches.

Dr. Shannon has received 1,000 letters from persons who have listened in on the Central church's broadcasting radio service, and is considering a plan whereby he can make his radio audience into some sort of radio church. His special appeal is, however, he says, to transients or hotel residents in the downtown district who are not allied with other churches. Dr. Shannon succeeded Dr. Frank Gunsaulus as pastor of Central church in 1919. Those serving the church previously were Dr. David Swing and Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis.

FOR SALE—
50C SPACE FOR 25C.

Suppose I can show you how you can secure fine clean, light, airy quarters in a new fireproof sprinkled bldg. in good factory district where the help problem is easy and transp. is good; space that will rent anywhere at 50c to 75c per sq. ft.; but by making a reasonable investment which will earn 6% you can have the space at less than
25c. Are you interested?
If you can use 30,000 ft. or more I can work out the problem for you.
There is no joker in this, simply a plain business proposition of buying your own home at a surprisingly low cost—something less than the actual cost of the building construction alone.
Owing to the failure of the owner this wonderful offer is open to you. Possession of half of the building, 30,000 ft., can be had now, the remainder in a year if you require it. If you are in the market for high grade factory space do not fail to learn about this. Reply direct or through your broker. Address H X 599, Tribune.

READ HOW THE NEW COLE SELLING PLAN CREATES BETTER USED CAR VALUES.

Equalizes prices between buyer and seller, giving you the car you want at the price you would like to pay.

Without this plan you are paying the waste in automobile merchandising—a penalty that amounts to from 10 to 25 per cent of the actual value of the car.

How often have you heard some of your friends boasting about the good "trade in" price they received for their old car?

Suppose you were in the market for that particular type of car?

Would you be willing to pay for his "good trade," or would you expect the dealer to lose the difference between the actual value of the car and that which he allowed your friend for it?

You, of course, know that the dealer must make a profit in order to remain in business.

Just what particular guide are you going to use in arriving at what that used car you are going to look at is actually worth?

Wouldn't it be better to buy your car on the new COLE SELLING PLAN?

As you know, we do not accept used cars in trade for our new ones. We do, however, accept used cars on consignment to be sold at their market value, for which the owner agrees to pay us a brokerage of ten per cent.

In other words, we have cars left with us for sale on which the owner has agreed with us that he will accept the market value for same, and you, we believe, are willing to pay the market value. Therefore we serve the best interests of both owner and buyer.

The Cole Merchandising Plan is a proven success because it is fundamentally sound. If it were not we would be the first ones to admit it by discontinuing the plan.

We have in stock at the present time the following cars:

BUICKS, CADILLACS, COLES, JORDANS, CHANDLERS, HUDSONS, NASHES, and many others.

Of course we may not at this time have the particular car in stock that you want, but if you will leave your specifications—phone or write them in—we will be glad to advise you when such a car is available.

Terms can be arranged as usual.

7 Bargains AT THE Peerless FACTORY BRANCH.

CADILLAC 8, TYPE 57, SUBURBAN SEDAN. This car we have just received from our Refinishing Department and we do not believe that you could class it as the ordinary used car. Mechanically it is truly in wonderful condition. The paint, upholstery, tires, etc., will more than exceed your expectations. Lots of extra equipment and an extremely good serviceable car at a price that is considerably below its present day market value. Priced specially for this sale at $1,350.

PACKARD TOURING SERIES 3-35. This very late Packard Twin Six Touring Phaeton we do not believe you can distinguish from new. It is a car that cost the original purchaser over $7,000 but a short time ago. It has a custom made body, German silver headlamps, side lamps, radiator shell, etc. It is painted a very special color. The tires, which are all Cords, are practically new. Mechanically it will bear a most rigid examination. Surely do we have an opportunity of offering so fine a car at such a greatly reduced price. This is an exceptional opportunity for some lucky purchaser to get a fast, snappy, high grade motor car at a ridiculously low figure. Specially priced for this sale, $2,175.

CADILLAC 8 TYPE 59 SUBURBAN SEDAN. Here is a 1921 Cadillac Suburban that we have just taken in trade on one of our new Peerless enclosed cars. Mechanically it is in better condition than any car of this model that we have ever had. There is much extra equipment, such as seat covers, bumper, extra set of cord tires, etc. If you are contemplating the purchase of a high grade 7 passenger enclosed car this one, at the price, truly an exceptional bargain. See it today. Price, $2,350.

CADILLAC 8, TYPE 53, TOURING CAR. This is a standard 7 passenger Cadillac touring car that has just been traded in to us on one of our new Peerless touring models. In all of the cars of this type that we have recently taken in trade we honestly believe this to be the best one from every viewpoint—mechanically, finish and paint. It has much extra equipment, including a set of glass enclosures that are worth almost as much as we are asking for the entire car. See it today. It is priced specially for this sale at $500.

PEERLESS SEDAN, 1922. This car has actually been run about 4,000 miles. It has just been traded in as part payment on a new car to be delivered later. The paint, which is standard Peerless Blue, has not a mar or blemish on it. The tires do not look like they have been used. Mechanically it will carry our standard warranty. Cars like this are scarce and the last one that we had only remained in our stock for one day. Here is your opportunity to get a car that is less than a year old at a very substantial saving as compared with the price of a new one today. It will undoubtedly be sold to the first person who looks at it at our price of $2,500.

APPERSON SEDAN, 1922. We have just received this car from our Mechanical and Refinishing Department, and, from appearance and performance, you would think that it had just been taken from the new car sales floor. It is refinished a beautiful Imperial Gray. Mechanically it runs smoothly and quietly. Has an excellent set of cord tires, 5 extra, and much other extra equipment. To duplicate it today it would cost you considerably over $4,000. Visualize, if you can, a 1922 7 passenger enclosed car that is duplicate you would have to spend almost three times the amount of money. You will have to act quickly if you would avail yourself of this bargain, because, at our price, it will sell very, very quickly. Price, $1,500.

PEERLESS TOURING MODEL 56. To the person who has limited himself to spend a small amount of money for a conveyance, this car will carry a strong appeal. We have put a price on it that will sell it very quickly. It is very well equipped, looks good, tires are good—in fact, we do not believe you can buy a more satisiactory car at anywhere near the price. It is not "junk" or one that will be a constant drain on your purse for repairs. For today's sale, $300.

What has Spring to do with WANT ADS?

EVEN the oldest and the hardest of us feel our hearts strangely stirred at this season of the rebirth of the green Nature-World.

We have surrounded ourselves with a marvelous growth of towering stone and steel, and with every device to annihilate time and distance. We can foresee economic needs and we marshal forces to meet them. We can calculate, weigh and classify almost everything except this strange Call of Spring.

This Urge of Spring is a primitive thing. It dates back to our ancestors, who always lived close to the soil. This longing to be close to growing things, this land-love was as much the possession of Achilles as he stepped from the shores of Hellas into the Argive fleet as it is the possession of the highly civilized man who, in his comfortable club, can forget, for all practical purposes, that soil, dirt, the earth is necessary to his life. But he cannot forget that strange Spring-urge which he has inherited from the bronze-clad ancestors of his race.

What's the answer? It is this: you city-dwellers have forgotten the country—but it is calling you at this time of year. It is urging you back to its welcoming embrace. It is calling for your week end auto trips along pleasant miles of concrete through fertile farmlands or through the rolling Dune country. Fix up the car and go! If you haven't a car, buy one. A new one if you can afford it—a used one if you can't. A good used car is not beyond the means of any man who really wants a car.

People who want to buy and people who want to sell used cars get in touch with each other through Want Ads in the Automobile Columns of The Tribune, Chicago's greatest clearing house for those who want and those who have.

Turn to The Tribune's Want Ad Section now and start looking for the car you will drive this Spring!

A SONG WITHOUT WORDS

Make your own Movies

Just press a button

and the wonderful SEPT motion picture camera makes movies as easy to take as snap-shots

NOW comes a revolutionary idea in motion pictures—this introduces Sept, the new-day movie camera. Now you can take motion pictures as easily as an expert. No experience is necessary. No bulky camera or equipment, no extensive preparations.

Just point Sept at the scene you wish to record. Press a button. It's just like taking old-fashioned snap-shots. No tripod. No cranking. A child can operate Sept.

The result defies detection from a regular film, such as you see at any motion picture theater. In fact, it is the same size and quality. By having a simple projection machine in your home or office, you can have movies at any and all times and repeat them as often as you choose. And just like the news-reels you see.

For years a camera like Sept has been the goal of inventors all over the world. And now comes Sept, the greatest achievement since the invention of the first crude motion picture camera.

SEPT Features

1. Simplicity: any one can use it.
2. Automatic: no cranking.
3. Light weight: no tripod.
4. Small size: 3 by 4 by 5 inches.
5. Takes movies, snap-shots, time-exposures.
6. Re-loads in daylight, instantly.
7. Uses Standard Motion Picture Film.

Now everyone can take movies

While newly introduced to the public, Sept has been on the market in Europe and the United States for several years. Thousands are in use already in this country. In addition to individuals, Sept has been adopted by the newspaper world, by explorers, scientists, industries, motion picture studios, army observers.

Sept is a compact little camera—just a handful. It is instantly ready for rare scenes. A simple adjustment decides whether you wish to take movies, snap-shots or still-pictures. Yes, it is three cameras in one.

Sept perpetuates the frolics of children and provides a wonderful story of family life. It preserves the tense moments of sports and games, of hunting and fishing, the interesting incidents of foreign and home travel, family reunions, picnics, famous people, in fact everything you can conceive.

Movies any time

And best of all, in your own home, you can turn on your own movies at any time and re-live the scenes you have taken. Never in the history of action-photography has there been such an achievement as this. Sept is bound to sweep the country—no home or office will be complete without it.

See this marvelous Sept. It is one of the most remarkable instruments you have ever examined. It looks like a small, ordinary camera, but ask to be shown how it operates. It is as different from a bulky motion picture camera as a watch is different from a cathedral clock.

Demonstrations of Sept are given gladly and without the slightest obligation on your part. Visit any camera shop or place where cameras are carried and ask to see Sept. Learn how, by touching a button, you can take movies. Or if you prefer, write for complete information to

A NINE MINUTE EGG, and he looks harder than that. Seems as if his chow wasn't agreeing with Benito Mussolini, Fascisti premier of Italy. Still this "tuff-guy" postcard photo is a prime favorite with his countrymen. They like 'em hard boiled, it appears.

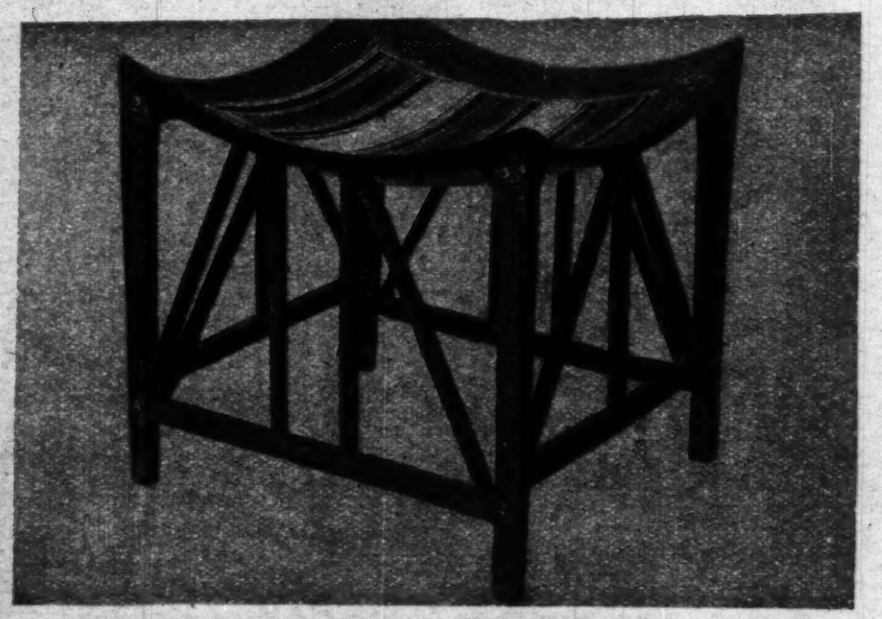
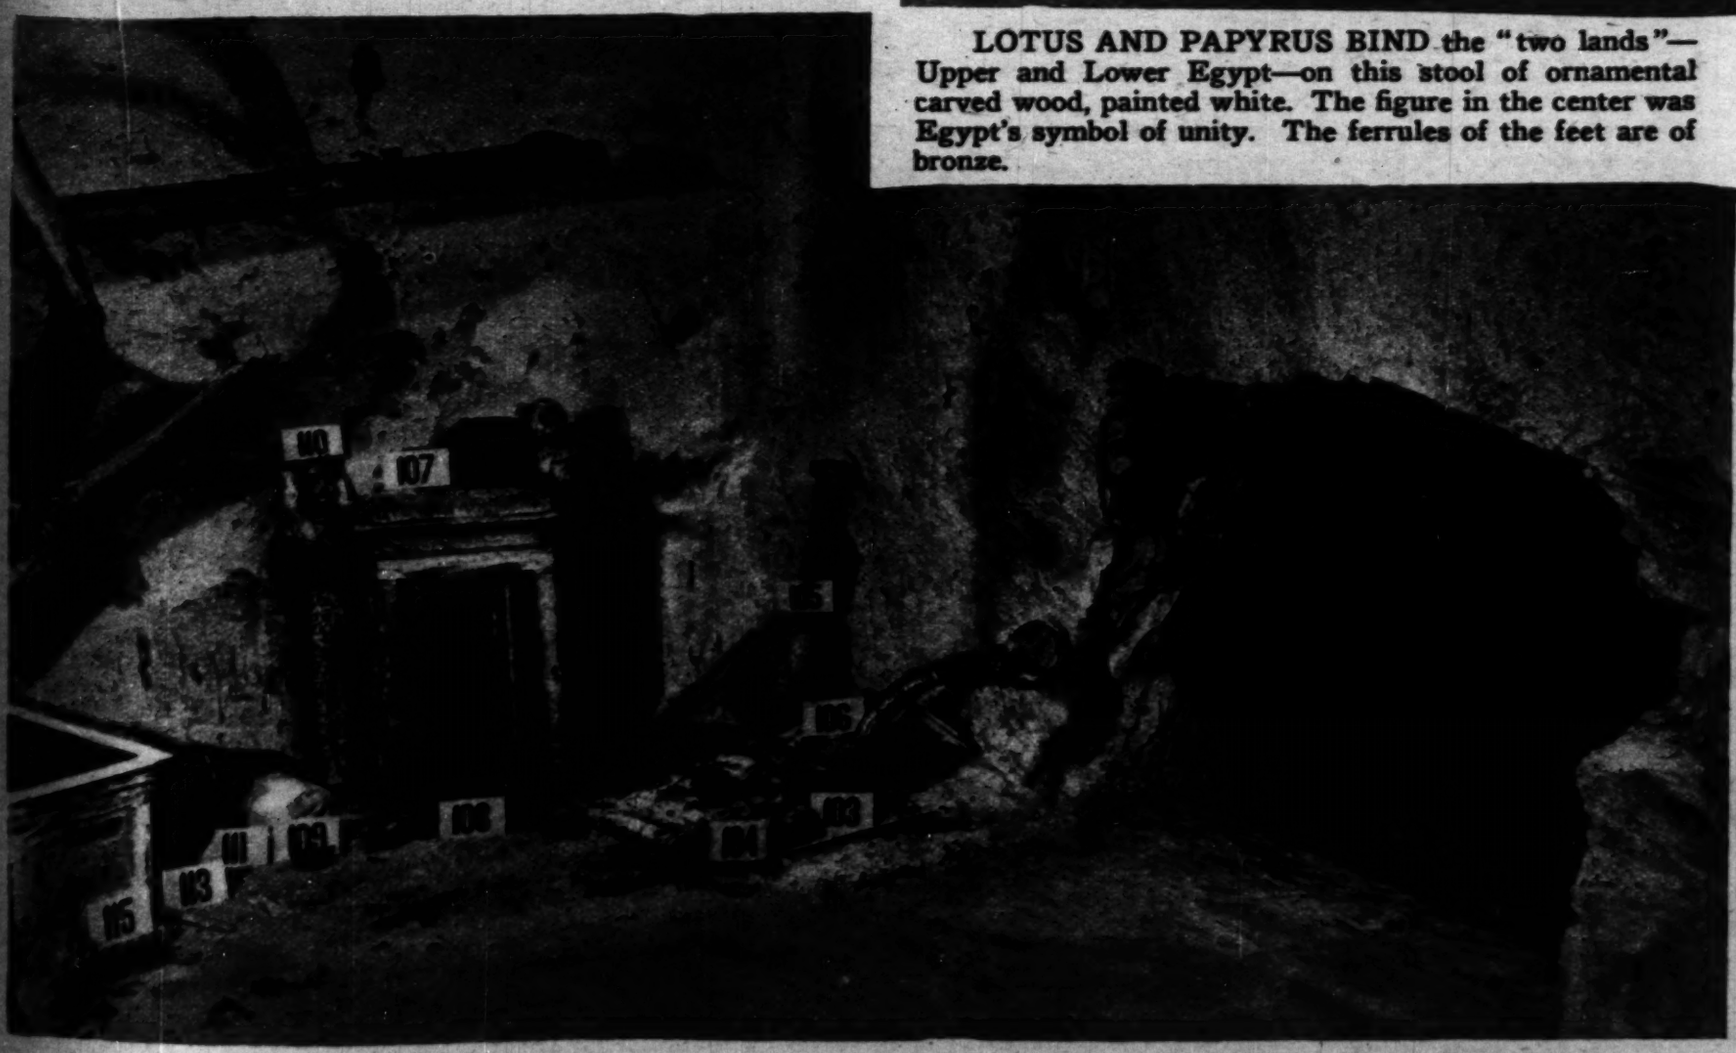
TEETH AND TONGUE OF SOLID IVORY grace this Typhonic head which formed part of the royal couch. The head is of carved wood, gilded and painted. Typhon in mythology is the son of Typhoeus, the father of dangerous winds, and himself the father of monsters. Other mythologists identify Typhon and Typhoeus as one and the same party.



EBONY AND IVORY decorate this stool of red wood. Its simple construction, with a maximum of beauty and a maximum of strength, speaks wonders for the skill of the ancient Egyptian artisan.

LOTUS AND PAPYRUS BIND the "two lands"—Upper and Lower Egypt—on this stool of ornamental carved wood, painted white. The figure in the center was Egypt's symbol of unity. The ferrules of the feet are of bronze.



A MINIATURE OF OLD TUT is No. 110, a figure in carved and painted wood. Upon the forehead, in bronze, are the protective emblems of Upper and Lower Egypt. Down the figure is scrawled a long religious text. No. 108 is a wooden naos, a sort of temple covered with heavy sheet gold.

Only your glands can protect the unreplaceable enamel

When the mouth glands slow down, the teeth decay
How your glands can be kept normal and active

UNTIL recently it has never been possible to watch the glands of the mouth at work.

Now a new instrument—the sialometer, which can be worn even while eating and talking—has revealed some startling facts.

This instrument shows that in a normal mouth nearly half a gallon of germ-free, alkaline saliva is secreted each twenty-four hours. It teaches us that many of the substances we put in our mouths increase the steady flow of saliva, while many others check it.

Medical authorities tell us that it is the steady stream of fluids from these glands that protects the precious, unreplaceable enamel of our teeth against the deadly acids of decay.

In modern races these glands are slowing down

The instrument shows that chewing hard, tough substances, such as primitive races lived on, makes the glands very active. Soft, cooked foods, quickly swallowed, hardly stimulate the glands at all. Since today modern races live on soft foods, the glands get little exercise—they are gradually slowing down.

One of the most serious consequences of this is the almost universal prevalence of tooth decay. The acids formed in the mouth by the fermentation of small food particles (which are present even after a thorough brushing of the teeth) are not sufficiently diluted and neutralized by the saliva. These acids consequently act with almost full strength on the enamel of our teeth.

Like mist on the window in cold weather, acids form on your teeth as fast as you brush them away. Nature intended the glands to wash off these dangerous acids.

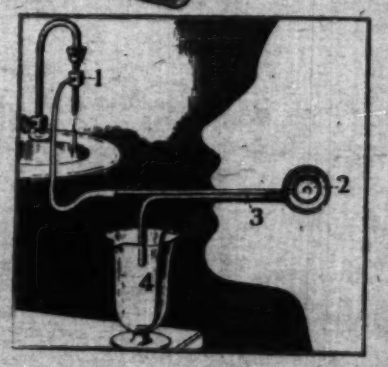
To protect our teeth against the deadly acids which are constantly forming in every mouth, our six tiny salivary glands should automatically flush the teeth and gums every moment in the day and night.

Although these glands are small—weighing together less than three ounces—they can win their fight against the acids if they can be made to function normally.

Pebeco keeps the glands of the mouth active

Pebeco Tooth Paste was prepared to meet this very need. In addition to cleaning and polishing the teeth as other dentifrices do—Pebeco encourages the glands to return to their natural condition, and send forth a healthy amount of this cleansing fluid. It does for us what long-continued chewing of hard food did for our primitive ancestors. By its mere presence in the mouth it causes the salivary glands to flow more freely and to continue to do so for a long time. A prominent dentist says, "A flow of saliva must be stimulated to clean the mouth of starchy residue and circulation must be stimulated in gum tissue by some agent in the dentifrice to take the place of the stimulative action of coarse food. Pebeco does this safely and well. Twenty years' use has proved that Pebeco will save the teeth and hold the ground that dentistry has gained in the fight against caries and gingival disease."

Before the warlike Maoris came under the influence of white civilization they had amazingly perfect teeth. Only 3% showed any signs of dental caries. Their raw, rough foods which required long hard chewing explain this condition.



The* Sialometer—*a new instrument for studying the glands of the mouth

A small air pump[1] sucks the body of the instrument[2] tightly against the inside of the cheek, directly over the opening of the gland. The saliva passes from this chamber through a silver tube[3] to a measuring flask[4]. The instrument can be worn while talking and eating. (See Journal of Experimental Psychology, Vol. I, p. 462.)

Pebeco is neither acid nor alkaline. It is neutral as dental authorities agree a tooth paste should be. (Strong acids exhaust the glands—soapy alkaline substances check their action.) Pebeco contains no harsh abrasive to injure the enamel or gums. After a good brushing with Pebeco, your mouth feels refreshed, your teeth thoroughly cleansed—and this feeling lasts until your next meal.

Use Pebeco regularly—two or three times a day. It will keep the glands of your mouth active and your teeth clean and sound. 50c at all druggists. Manufactured only by Lehn & Fink, Inc.

*How many people in America brush their teeth?

According to the best available statistics not more than 15% of the people in the United States have ever used a tooth brush.

There are 110 million people in the United States. This means that there are approximately 93,500,000 people in this country who have never used a tooth brush. Fully 95% of these 93,500,000 people are afflicted with dental caries (tooth decay) and have on an average at least four to six cavities.

The above figures refer to all people who use a tooth brush in any way. If we ask the dental hygienist how many people know how to brush their teeth correctly and actually brush them at least four times per day, the answer is "probably not one per cent."

Seek out a dental hygienist and have your teeth cleaned and polished as only a modern specialist can polish them, and ask her to show you how to brush your teeth correctly. Both science and art are involved in the proper care of the teeth at home.

But it will repay all the trouble it costs. According to one of the most distinguished dental authorities in America, at least 80% of dental trouble can be corrected if home care of the teeth is begun early enough and carried through persistently enough.

Brush your teeth in the modern way after every meal and the last thing at night before you go to bed. Use a tooth paste which will thoroughly clean and polish the teeth without injuring the gums and which will mildly stimulate the action of the salivary glands. Tooth decay always occurs from the outside. A thoroughly clean tooth kept bathed by the glands of the mouth rarely or never decays.

Rare beauty of color in this shingle —blended from tiny gems of slate

DID you ever stand close to a fine oil painting and see nothing but confused spots of pure color? Yet when you looked at it from across the room, these spots blended into the beautiful shades of a picture.

On this same principle nature has created a hitherto unknown roofing color in slate, and an entirely new slate-surfaced shingle is the result.

If you closely examine this new weathered brown shingle, you will see thousands of tiny slates, each one overlaying the other to form an almost enameled surface. Stand across the room and you will see one inimitable tone, as beautiful as russet meadows in November.

Weathered brown, architects say, brings to the modern home a beauty of rare distinction. Especially effective is this new color when blended with other Richardson shingles of jade green, tile red, or black pearl.

A super-shingle

THIS new weathered brown is used only on the Richardson Super-Giant Shingle—a unique roofing product which you should know all about, no matter what color you select.

For this shingle offers a new degree of serviceability in a roof, just as the weathered brown offers new beauty. First, because it is 37% larger than the ordinary shingle, fewer are needed to cover a given roofing area. Thus the cost of laying is 35% less.

Second, it is 50% thicker than the ordinary shingle and therefore lasts much longer. Incidentally this greater thickness casts a deeper shadow line that gives life and interest to the roof.

Third, because it is 100% stiffer than the ordinary shingle, it remains rigid under all kinds of weather and makes the whole roof twice as firm.

The Super-Giant Shingle—50% thicker, 100% more rigid, and 35% more economical in cost of laying.

Its inner secrets

BUT, of course, the true measure of roofing service goes beyond the color or size of the shingle to the materials in it. As you know, slate-surfaced shingles are built on a base or core of felt impregnated with asphalt and surfaced under pressure with slate granules.

Exceptional quality in these three materials makes the Richardson Super-Giant the finest slate-surfaced shingle produced.

Take, for instance, the felt upon which depends the very life of your roof. Richardson felt, so architects or roofing dealers will tell you, has for fifty years been recognized as the best. The asphalt is refined exclusively by the Richardson process from the highest grade raw materials. And the flakes of slate surfacing, found only in the Richardson quarries, seal the shingle permanently against weather and fire hazards.

Prove the facts yourself

A SUPER-SHINGLE indeed, when you weigh its points one by one! First—absolutely exclusive color effects. Second—unusual dimensions which give you added roofing protection at ⅓ less in cost of laying. And finally—exceptionally high-test standards in its three materials: felt, asphalt, and slate surfacing.

Go to your nearest dealer in lumber, hardware or building material, or to your contractor, and ask to see the Richardson Super-Giant Shingle in weathered brown. Feel it, weigh it, measure it, note the rare color. Then compare it with ordinary shingles—the difference will convince you.

Meanwhile, send for our beautiful new color chart showing the exclusive color combinations of Richardson slate surfacing, and containing valuable roofing facts. Perhaps, too, our booklet "Roofing on the Farm" can help. Just use the coupon below.

BOMBO by H. deVere Stacpoole

Blue Ribbon Fiction

Do Men Still Battle to the Death When One Steals Another's Wife? Yes, Bombo Did—a Duel with Knives—Such a Priceless Treasure She Was!

ONE day last winter I took the tram from St. Jean to Nice. I had not been in Nice for a great many years, yet as I stood under the blue and blazing sky waiting for the yellow tram I could picture the place exactly as I had seen it last when I was a child, away back in the early eighties. The Avenue de la Gare with its trees and gardens, the sleepy and pleasant Place Massena, the woods of Cimiez; I could hear the drone of mirlitons and smell the perfume of violets dead forty years and more. Then I got into the tram and we started for Nice.

Falling into a doze, I was awakened by the stopping of the car. We were in the middle of a great noisy, dusty square, a magnified Piccadilly Circus.

"Place Massena," cried the conductor. Crossing the place at the risk of my life, I found the Avenue de la Gare, now the Avenue de la Victoire. Gone were the gardens, gone were the trees and the sun baked walls where lizards once had their homes. An infinite Regent street stretched before me, swarming with people and filled with the hooting of taxicabs. I turned toward Cimiez and was headed back by a monster hotel; then I found myself on the Promenade des Anglais, sitting on a seat and talking to an old French gentleman.

"Yes," he said, "this place has changed; romance and beauty have departed with the old simple days, departed not only from Nice but from the world, monsieur." He paused and looked out to sea for a moment, and in that moment I recognised the man I was talking to. It was Miriel the Academician, the northern brother of Mistral.

"From the world, monsieur, a sweeping statement, you will say; but look around you. I am not thinking so much of the decadence of the upper classes—civilizations always tend to rot at the top—I am thinking of the lost simplicity of the workers. The vulgar splendors of this outrageous town are less loathsome to me than the silk stockings of the girls in the carnation gardens. Then there is another thing. If you wish to know the condition of a people, ask not how they live but how they love. When a civilization becomes passé the first thing that tarnishes is love, the healthy, honest, simple minded love that drove Pan crazy for Echo and which is the basis of all romance, the love that makes a man kill another for the sake of a woman. Now, tell me honestly, can you recall in late years a single case in your country or in mine of vengeance following betrayal?"

"You mean of a man killing another for stealing his wife?"

"Precisely."

"No, I can't."

"Nor I—or only one, and you would not have heard of that, it was not a cause célèbre, the protagonists were quite common folk—all the same it is an amazing story, if you would care to hear it, an experience that has made me so dull to certain aspects of fashionable modern life that I have come again to the Riviera this winter—to enjoy the sun.

"Last year," said Miriel, "I came to Nice just as you have come today after an absence of forty years. I put up at the Hotel Negresco and, like you, I was horrified by the change that had come upon the place. It was as though I had left a beautiful young girl and come back to find a bloated woman smelling of brandy and covered with diamonds. I was about to leave and return to Paris when I came across a handbill setting forth the attractions of Corsica. A boat for Ajaccio leaves the harbor of Nice every Saturday, and, determining to try my luck, I took it, leaving my heavy luggage at the Negresco to await my return.

"Have you ever been to Corsica? Ah, well, you should go. Corsica is not an island; it is a bouquet. Everywhere grows the macchie, a brushwood mixed of oleander and myrtle and wild thyme, heath, and arbutus; everywhere you come across visions of blue seas and vast hills, snow peaks and forests of ilex and oak, birch and chestnut and pines.

"We entered the Bay of Ajaccio in the early morning. It is a deep gulf cut into the land, most beautiful—paradisical, seen in that light, with the white villas standing amidst the palms and oleanders and the Barbicaja gardens of fairyland. Then come the harbor and the town.

"THERE are several fine hotels in Ajaccio, but I was not seeking a fine hotel, just somewhere quiet where I could rest and be at peace and forget Paris and the world we live in. I landed with only a bag which I could easily carry, and coming along a street—the Rue Fesch was the name of it—I saw a café that took my heart. The Hotel de France was its name and the name was written in large letters above the door. Tables were spread before the door, and whilst I sat at one of them having my petit déjeuner I interviewed the landlord and secured a room at seven francs a day. If you ever go to Ajaccio stay at the Hotel de France, then you will get to know what real old French country cooking is like; also you will see life, the life that exists on all sides of us but of which we of the upper classes know nothing. Life that even literature has scarcely touched.

"The bar with its sanded floor, neatly spread tables, and rows of gay colored bottles was always filled with customers, Chauvin, the landlord, a little man with apple red cheeks and wearing carpet slippers, moving amongst them and supplying their wants. There you found mates from the small steamers and trading schooners in the harbor, commercial travelers, always French, vineyard and olive garden owners in from Cauro or Nonza, and sometimes an artist.

"For a day or two I gave myself up to Napoleon. Napoleon is the first person of importance that one meets in Ajaccio. He stands near the landing place done in marble and dressed in a toga, immovable, and yet his footsteps are everywhere, and his presence. You have the Rue Napoleon and the Cours Napoleon, the Place Letizia, named after his mother, the Place Bonaparte with its equestrian statue to the emperor done by Viollet-le-Duc, to say nothing of the houses where he was born, where he was breeched, where he first sneezed—I was getting pretty tired of Napoleon before I had completed the tour of the sacred places, and might have left at the end of the first week but for two things, the lovely walks and drives like those to be had along the Solario road and by the shores of the bay, and the interest I found in my fellow guests at the Hotel de France.

"There was one man especially interesting to me, an Italian of the true southern type, black haired and with the pallor of the Neapolitan. Bombo was his name, or nickname; a man of the people, always dressed in black and wearing gold rings in his ears; he came for déjeuner and dinner, and would sit till late in the evening at one of the tables in front smoking and drinking coffee or liqueur de myrte, a drink made from the berries of the myrtle and only to be had at Ajaccio. He was always surrounded by friends, men of his own class, who, I noticed, generally paid for his drinks. He was evidently a character or local celebrity of some kind, and one day, making friends with an artist named Mathieu who lodged at the hotel, I asked about him.

"'O, that fellow,' said Mathieu; 'he's an Italian named Bombo, and he's waiting in Ajaccio to kill a man.'

"'To kill a man!' said I.

"'Yes,' replied Mathieu, 'and that's why all those fellows make such a fuss of him. He's not a Corsican, but he has lived all his life at Cauro, that village up in the hills; he owns an inn there and some olive gardens and he married an Italian woman a year or two ago; then a fellow by name of Alborno came along, stopped at the inn, fell in love with Madame Bombo, and bolted with her—took her off to Nice and started a little restaurant. Bombo would have followed and killed him only the French police would have had little difficulty in taking him at Nice—it's different here. Here if he's chased he has only to make for the hills and he has all the population on his side, for they are a pretty savage lot and used to killing.'

"'Ma foi!' cried I, filled with enthusiasm. 'He has me on his side, too. This ruffian took his wife and deserves to die. I would do the same thing myself.'

"'You would kill a man!' cried Mathieu, evidently astonished by such a bloodthirsty speech from a graybeard like myself.

"'Yes, monsieur,' I replied. 'If a man took my wife I would kill him or he would kill me. You are astonished, but your astonishment does not do you honor, but it is not your fault. You belong to the modern world, monsieur, where love goes about with a bank book, where a lawyer prepares the nuptial couch, where marital dishonor is unknown because it is so well known. Here you are in a different world, untouched by the decadence that is killing Europe; a world where passion cannot be bought off and where a man exists standing upon his manhood and his right to destroy the ravisher of that which he loves. I honor this man Bombo.'

"'Well, monsieur,' said Mathieu, 'I would not shatter your ideals, but it seems to me this Bombo, ex-innkeeper and expectant assassin, may be a man honorable in every respect, but he is certainly a cool customer and not neglectful of his inner man. He eats like a hog and chooses his food like an epicure. This morning I observed him devouring two pâtes de Merle and an omelette—to say nothing of other things; nor is he easily satisfied, for I have heard him grumbling often about the cooking. Anyway, it does not seem to me that he is dying of a broken heart.'

"'If he were,' I said, 'he would not interest me. I am in search of the virile, not the sentimental.'

"Mathieu smiled and we parted, he going off on one of his sketching expeditions and leaving me at the table to smoke my cigaret and admire Bombo.

"Now, monsieur, I will let you into a little secret. I am a story writer by trade, and when I said to Mathieu I was in search of the virile I spoke the truth; even as I sat there I felt that I had been led to Corsica by the hand of good fortune, for the story of Bombo had fallen like a seed into the ground of my mind and was already beginning to sprout—the story of a man of the people whose passion for a woman raised him above all thoughts of personal safety and all small considerations.

"THAT same afternoon I made his acquaintance and found it not at all a difficult business; later on I was surprised to find it was easy enough to make him speak of his troubles—in fact, he introduced the subject himself, and never will I forget the blaze of hate that lit up his dark face as he mentioned the name of Alborno. Nor did he hide his purpose. It was to be a duel with knives when they met, which would be soon.

"'But,' said I to him, 'will he come, will he risk himself in Corsica, knowing what he has done?'

"'O,' replied Bombo, 'he'll come right enough. He has to, owing to some law business which would lose him five thousand francs if it went wrong, and he doesn't think to meet me, the pig; he fancies I am living contentedly at Cauro, little knowing—little knowing——'

"Then he fell into a brooding fit and I left him, only to renew the acquaintanceship next day, and our friendship grew so fast that by the end of the week we were like old companions—but all the time I was studying him and making his character my own.

"Here was a man easy going, fond of good living, with little ends and little views, a typical small innkeeper without a grain of poetry in his composition; a man who would sit and talk to me by the hour of his trade, of the cost of olives and sardines, of how travelers should be made to pay by the nose, since God sent them on the road for the support of innkeepers and no other reason; a man who would pull the Hotel de France to pieces, critically, and show exactly how the proprietor was losing money by not charging enough for so and so; a man who would grumble all day because the eggs à la Biochisano were fried in second quality oil. Yet this man by his powers of hate under the influence of love—or passion, if you like the term better—was worthy of entering the theater of drama, maybe under my escort the halls of literature.

"So I thought, for I had studied his character up and down and knew his makeup intimately, or so I thought. A character soft, easy going, little in many ways, yet tragic when the burning, passionate southern love smoldering in the core of the creature burst to flame."

Miriel paused for a moment, then he went on. "The editor of a great Paris daily wrote me some months ago asking did I draw my characters from real people, or in other words did I put real people in my stories, and remembering Bombo, I replied, 'No.' As a matter of fact, monsieur, I have always been putting the people I meet into stories, fancying that I understood them, quite unconscious of the fact that I did not understand them at all and that I was dealing entirely with creatures of my own fancy. Bombo drove that fact into my head, but I am anticipating.

"One day the great thing happened. Déjeuner at the Hotel de France was just over and the place was crowded, the air filled with the blue smoke of cigars and cigarets and the sunshine falling on the tables.

the half filled wine glasses and the dishes of oranges and bananas,

"Suddenly turmoil arose, men sprang up gesticulating, glasses were upset, and Chauvin, the landlord, appeared, running about, clearing away glasses and breakables, whilst in the middle of everything stood Bombo, whiter than the tablecloths and with eyes blazing and his lips curled in a laugh—the laugh of ferocity.

"THEN the news reached me. Alborno had landed from a fruit steamer and was coming to the Hotel de France. He always put up there, and the ragged ruffian who had brought the news had brought his bag. He had run hot foot from the harbor side whilst the other followed on, stopping to speak to people he knew as a man will who has been absent from a town for a long while.

"I will admit it. I was in an after déjeuner mood. I had drunk a half flask of Chianti and some of Ajaccio's liquer de Myrte; on the impulse of the moment I embraced then, raising the glass to his lips, drank.

"Suddenly, like a pistol shot, from Bombo came the cry:

"'Alborno, where is your knife?'

"The wife stealer wheeled, saw his adversary, put down his glass, and stripped off his coat.

"Bombo had also taken off his coat. It was strange; for a moment I thought they were to be engaged in a bout of fisticuffs, but it was not so. Next moment they were facing each other; each man had wrapped his coat round his left arm to act as a shield, and in the right hand of each there was a knife.

"They were in the center of the floor and we were grouped around the walls. Everything had arranged itself as if to order and at the touch of a button.

"Then suddenly the thing was over. Alborno was lying on the floor; he seemed to have tripped, but a knife was sticking in his side.

"Bombo, puffed and blowing and wiping the sweat from his forehead with his shirt sleeve, was being hurried into his tattered coat. I watched him led off away down the street by his friends whilst the rest of the crowd tended Alborno.

"THEN I left the place and strolled down to the harbor side. I was satisfied. I had seen men in action. I had seen a bit of real life and I had not been deceived in Bombo. He had given me a character for the story

Then suddenly the thing was over.

Bombo, who had become my hero. I was carried away. Meanwhile Chauvin and his waiters had stripped all the tables as sailors strip a ship before battle, and Bombo, who was the coolest of us all, asked us to take our seats.

"We sat down, I beside my hero. Never till that moment did I know how much animal lived with me, how much of the primitive man remained undestroyed by forty years of Paris and the platitudes that corrode thought. I was an old Roman seated in the Circus Maximus, a cave man waiting for the bear. And yet I was a modern waiting to see justice done. Waiting to see avenged twenty acquaintances of mine whose happiness had been stolen by unfaithful wives and faithless friends.

"I said to Bombo, 'Remember, whatever happens I am with you, purse and soul, command me,' and he said to me, 'Patience, monsieur, when I slay the pig I make for Cauro, the people there know me and if you care to help, why, come there tonight, unless the pig kills me. Say to any man there "Bombita"; it is a password and will lead you to me. You are rich and your money may help.'

"Then he asked for a light for his cigaret, and we all sat, silent, smoking, waiting for the criminal and the great fight, for this was no assassination, but a battle to the death between two men equally brave, for I could hear in the murmured talk around me tales of how Alborno had fought often before this in affairs with the customs and police. Some doves kept by Chauvin were strutting in the street outside, their voices coming through the silence and a huge red butterfly, the first of the southern summer, swept in, circled, and passed out.

"Then, of a sudden, in stepped a tall, dark man, dressed in blue serge. Swift and keen and handsome, suspecting nothing, he hailed Chauvin, who was standing behind his bar, wishing him good-day, and walking up to him between the tables unconscious of the eyes that followed him. He asked for the eternal liquer de Myrte, talked for a moment, asking for a room, and "Bombo had fixed the other with his eye. Never had I seen a more savage expression than that on his face, the upper lip raised, exposing the teeth, gleaming and white as the teeth of a tiger cat.

"They fought. It was terrific. The commonplace surroundings, the flashing knives, the ferocity, and in some curious way the fact that both were common men in their shirt sleeves gave the whole business a true Grand Guignol touch. The protecting coats round their left arms began to be slashed, and as I watched extraordinary importance became attached to petty details.

"Alborno had a metal compass charm on his silver watch chain. I noticed how it swung about. The topmost button was missing from Bombo's waistcoat.

that was forming in my mind, and, not only that, he had given me inspiration and stimulus.

"I came back to the Hotel de France and found that Alborno had been carried away to the hospital. He was not dead, it appears, but gravely wounded, and the police, so Chauvin told me, were after Bombo.

"It was now 5 o'clock in the evening, and as I took a seat at one of the café tables —they had been put back—my promise occurred to me, my promise to go to Cauro and help this brigand with money if not advice. I had with me about fifteen hundred francs in notes. I had not paid my hotel bill, but I knew that would be inconsiderable, and, getting Chauvin aside, I told him of my project, which was to start after dinner that night for Cauro, find the hunted man, and hand him five hundred francs.

"'But, monsieur,' cried Chauvin, 'why not send it to him by one of his friends? He has hundreds in Ajaccio and it will be much easier for you than going such a distance at such an hour of the day.'

"'No,' I said. 'I will trust the money to no one. I will take it myself. Order me a carriage to be here in the street at half past seven o'clock; no, I will not take an automobile, I detest them. God gave us horses, but modern men are not satisfied with the gifts of God; that is enough, and stay—bring me a glass of liquer de Myrte.'

"'Yes, monsieur,' said Chauvin. Then he paused, staring into the street.

"'Vite, monsieur,' he cried; 'look, there is Madame Bombo. She landed with her lover and came here a few minutes after the knifing.'

"'Which?' I asked.

"'That woman walking with the gendarme. She is no doubt coming from the hospital.'

"'That woman,' cried I. 'Why, she is hideous! appalling! repulsive! And unless my eyes deceive me lame of one leg. Do you dare to tell me that those two men fought in that savage manner for the love of a woman like that?'

"'O, mon Dieu, monsieur!' cried Chauvin; 'what are you talking about? It is not that, it is not a question of looks. This woman was making the fortune of Bombo, just as she could have made the fortune of Alborno, for in Corsica, in France, in the kingdom of Italy, there is not a more divine cook!'

"A boat was leaving Ajaccio for France that evening," finished Miriel, rising to his feet. "Instead of going to Cauro I took it. You ask me did the police catch Bombo? I do not know, monsieur, but I sincerely hope they did."

He removed his hat, made me an old fashioned bow, and departed.

Old fashioned beauty and the new way to get it

When grandmother was a bonny belle, there was no soft-coal smoke to blight her lovely complexion; no modern city grime and soot to choke up her pores and cause pimples and blackheads.

Her's was the Beauty of Nature; of pure air and sunshine, needing no aid from the beauty shop or drug store. A skin like a cameo—rarely equaled in the prettiest girls of today!

But Science and Mother Earth have found a way to combat these modern menaces to complexion loveliness.

In far-off Wales has been found a creamy gray clay of great skin-healing and cleansing potency.

Spread on the face, in a mask-like layer, this magic English earth draws out every impurity hidden in the pores, banishes pimples and blemishes, smoothes away wrinkles and crow's-feet and restores new youth, freshness and color to faces seamed and roughened by the ravages of today's dust-laden atmosphere.

Now this magnetic English earth has been brought to America and is being compounded by American dermatologists into a delightful clay emollient and cleanser called Terra-derma-lax (Earth Skin Laxative).

A single forty-minute treatment of this magnetic, radio-active clay sets sluggish blood corpuscles a-tingle; revitalizes dead skin tissue and drops years from the time-weathered face like leaves from a calendar.

A semi-weekly Terra-derma-lax clay bath is all the skin-beauty insurance any woman needs—save the daily use of a good cleansing cream. Terra-derma Creme—an English Cold Cream is especially recommended—also available at any toilette goods counter at $1 a jar. Or both—a jar of Terra-derma-lax and a jar of Terra-derma Creme—for $1.85.

These English Beauty products are sold under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. Get a jar of each from your druggist today—or if he cannot supply you, send 25c for a trial tube of both cream and clay.

Dermatological Laboratories, Dept. 84, 329-341 Plymouth Ct., Chicago.

Pretty Fast for a Slow Poke

By Barr Moses — TABLOID SHORT STORIES

A Thoughtless Boast, a Holdup, Then a Speedy Battle And a Speedier Romance.

WHEN a man not used to that sort of thing is suddenly confronted by a masked man at a dark corner and ordered at the point of a revolver to stick up his hands he has to think fast if he's to do anything except what he's told.

But for once in his life Slow Poke Saunders thought fast. In the same instant that he realized he was being held up he thought about the five hundred dollars he had in his pocketbook—how distressed he would be to lose it—what a fool he was to have it there—and about what Old Jone Gahlon had said he would do in similar circumstances.

And as he thought, Slow Poke threw up his hands wildly, and at the same time his right foot.

His toe struck the wrist of the hand which held the gun, and sent the weapon spinning to one side, where it dropped in the snow.

The holdup person instinctively grabbed Slow Poke's foot with his free hand; and Slow Poke, feeling himself pulled off his balance, kicked vigorously, striking his assailant lightly in the vicinity of the solar plexus.

The holdup person fell over backwards, and at the same time Slow Poke went over sideways, but not until he had staggered a step or two on the one foot he still had on the ground.

Ordinarily Slow Poke neither thought nor acted rapidly. That was how he came by his nickname. His impulses in any direction usually had to have the O. K. of his higher brain centers before they found expression. It was only in special emergencies like this that his sensory centers were hooked directly to his motor nerves.

He was still thinking fast when he fell. Among other things he was conscious of was the impression he had received of the bandit in the brief interval they had faced each other—that the outlaw must be a tyro, some young fellow in his 'teens, neither an adept at such crime, nor a person physically dangerous in a hand to hand struggle. At the same time, Slow Poke reflected that the highwayman might be dangerous if he recovered his revolver, or if he had another one. So when he found himself in the snow somewhere near where the revolver had dropped, he began feeling about for it frantically.

Then all at once he stopped, breathless, listening.

For the holdup person was sitting up again, bending over his injured wrist, and—incredible—was sobbing.

It was a moment before Slow Poke realized that the sobs were those of a woman—a girl. And still another moment went by before he felt convinced that his ears were not deceiving him.

But then he forgot about the lost revolver and the possibility of another weapon. He did not even waste time to get up on his feet. He waddled to her on his knees.

"My goodness!" he cried, putting one hand upon her shoulder. "Did I hurt you?"

The holdup person continued to sob.

What does a man, especially a young man, naturally do when kneeling in the snow by the side of a sobbing young woman—a young woman sobbing in tones, so to speak, of beauty, culture and tender years?

Slow Poke did it. He tenderly encircled her with his arms, drew her to him, kissed her tear stained face. If there had been any doubts in his mind as to the proper interpretation of the tones of her sobbing, this contact removed it. It was too dark to see more than the dimmest outlines of the face from which the muffling handkerchief had dropped away, but Slow Poke hadn't the least doubt in the world as to her beauty, her youth, her adorable disposition, her culture, her high character—even if she had just tried to hold him up.

"I didn't dream you were a girl," he cried. "What a brute I was! Did I hurt you very much? What shall I do? What can I do?"

"N-not ve-very much," murmured the girl, sobbing less heavily but making no effort to remove her head from his breast.

"I'm ever and ever so sorry," declared Slow Poke vigorously.

"You needn't be." She stopped crying.

The holdup person fell over backwards.

"It was all my fault. I was to blame for everything; would have been to blame if I'd been killed."

There was something suddenly familiar in the tones of her voice.

"Why, you're not Miss Dennison that I met at Cousin Lucy's this afternoon?" Slow Poke demanded.

"Yes, I am," Miss Dennison admitted. "You don't understand, of course. You told us you would be carrying five hundred dollars when you came past tonight. You said you wouldn't be afraid. You said you'd do what that old Frenchman showed you how to do if you were held up. We—we were laughing about you afterwards—they—they called you 'Slow Poke Saunders'—I—I am afraid I am wicked. I—I said I'd hold you up and take your money away from you as a joke. They—they dared me."

She stopped abruptly. She wasn't sobbing now, but her head was still on his shoulder. Apparently she had forgotten where it was.

Again Slow Poke thought quickly. He remembered her as she had looked at his cousin's that evening; how he had been attracted to her; how he had seemed to find a sympathetic note in her nature; how, in short, they had got along amazingly well. And he remembered her first name. It was Mary.

He suddenly kissed her again.

"Mary," he said. "There's only one way I can atone for what I've done. Will you marry me?"

She giggled. "For a slow poke," she said, "you are amazingly fast—but—yes-es, maybe I will—after a time."

INDIAN BLOOD?

By Robert E. Pinkerton

Her anger carried her past all restraint.

SEVENTH INSTALLMENT.

Nee-tah-wee-gan and Corrigal.

BUT when Fort Bruce wakened Donald was gone. No one had seen him go. He had not bidden any one good-by. He had not left a message. It was not until mid-afternoon that it was learned he had departed at dawn in a canoe with two Indians. But even the Indians' women could not tell in which direction they had gone.

As soon as Merton had satisfied himself that Donald had left Fort Bruce, and he had spent the morning hunting for a clew, he went at once to the office of the district manager.

"Corrigal," he began abruptly, "I may be breaking a confidence, but I've got to tell you something. In the first place, Norton has disappeared, has gone without a word to any one."

"I sent him to Winnipeg."

"But you didn't tell him to leave without saying good-by."

"No, but I'm not surprised that he did. I had to remove him from Fort James for inefficiency, and worse. He couldn't stay and face the music. I knew the Indian would come out. It always does."

"You know nothing about it!" Merton retorted angrily. "He left because you drove him out, because you were unjust and unfair."

Corrigal looked at the Fort Bruce manager more in amazement than resentment.

"Listen to me, Merton," he said. "I understand how you feel. You gave the boy his chance, but you might have known it was useless, that something like this would happen."

"I knew him well enough to know he would be as fair as he has been. Nee-tah-wee-gan may be his mother, but Donald is white clear through. He showed yesterday that he is whiter than your pet, Millington, and if you had given him any sort of a chance he would have shown you just how big a crook Millington is."

Corrigal was aroused at last.

"I won't listen to any more of that, Layard!" he exclaimed. "I'm here to run this district to the best of my ability and judgment and in my judgment Norton was going backward as a post manager. Any man who is part Indian will do that if he goes up too fast. I didn't trust him and I have noticed, too, that where this thing touches you personally you take the same stand I do. You wouldn't let him marry your daughter."

"He's never asked to marry her!" Merton retorted with sudden passion, "and as far as his heritage is concerned I would rather trust the Indian blood than the white. His father is the one who has all this to answer for."

Corrigal glanced up quickly and in his startled expression Merton believed he read what he had hinted to Evelyn. As for Corrigal, he believed instantly that Donald had gone to Merton with the accusations he had made the day before.

"So the dirty cur has been telling you that!" he shouted. "It's a lie! He knows it's a lie! If I hear of you repeating this——"

Merton, sickened by what he believed to be this revelation of the truth, turned away in disgust.

"You don't have to be afraid I'll do it," he said. "I think too much of Donald to saddle him with that. And as for his telling me, he has never mentioned his father in all the years I have known him. If he has been aware of this I have not. He has kept his mouth shut, and I will, too. But not because I'm afraid of you, Corrigal. Do you understand that? I'll keep the secret for Donald's sake, not yours. I'm not afraid of you. You've driven out the best post manager in your district, and the commissioner wouldn't like it if he knew why."

"You mean you're going to blackmail me?" Corrigal demanded furiously.

"Blackmail! Listen here."

Merton leaned across the desk and in quick, short sentences outlined what had been happening at Fort James during the

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR:

FOR thirteen years Wen-dah-ban is kept hidden in the forests by Nee-tah-wee-gan, wife of Pe-tah-bo. The boy is the son of a white man and believes himself all white, but never will the Indian woman name his father. Merton Layard, Hudson's Bay company manager, takes the boy into his home and Mrs. Layard names him Donald Norton, after her father. Donald becomes the playmate of the Layard's daughter, Janet. After some years Donald wins command of a small post. He drives an opposing company from his district and is promoted to Whitefish Lake post. Philip Collinge, manager of the rival company there, likes Donald and helps educate him. Donald visits England and then is promoted to Fort James, his company's largest post. After seven years he again meets Mrs. Layard and Janet. He falls in love with Janet. He has a rival in Dale Millington, a capable young Englishman who has become manager at Whitefish Lake.

Millington raids Donald's post and the latter's fur receipts fall short. The general manager, Mactivish, dies, and his place is taken by John Corrigal, who has no faith in half breeds. Millington influences Mrs. Layard to make Donald understand he cannot hope to win Janet. Corrigal visits Whitefish Lake post. Nee-tah-wee-gan sees him and says to Millington, "He will throw him out and put a white man in his place. He will do that to Wen-dah-ban, his own son!" At Fort James Corrigal is snowed in for three days with Donald, and learns to respect the young man's learning. Millington again raids Donald's post. But Donald sets a trap, and Millington's man buys a marked fur.

At headquarters Corrigal takes Donald's post from him and orders him to Winnipeg. He gives the youth no chance to explain why his fur receipts are short. Remembering remarks he has heard, the enraged Donald accuses Corrigal of being his father. Donald and Millington fight and Donald batters the Englishman into helplessness, but refuses to knock him out. Mrs. Layard suddenly suspects Corrigal is Donald's father, and says he must leave her home if that is true. She tells her husband he must act in the morning.

INDIAN BLOOD?

last two winters, how Millington had raided Donald's territory, how Donald had gathered the proof and was ready to present a perfect case.

"Why didn't he tell me this?" Corrigal demanded.

"You ought to understand that now better than I do," Merton answered. "I only know that Donald is too fair to do it at any time except in Millington's presence, and that his brigade and witnesses haven't arrived. And I'll tell you another thing. I'm going to get those witnesses in here this afternoon. I see the boats out on the lake now. And you send for Millington and conduct the investigation yourself."

HE turned abruptly and walked out. A half hour later he was returning from the Indian encampment down the shore as Corrigal left the office and started toward the dwelling house. Merton was about to speak to the district manager when he saw an old Indian woman squatting at the corner of the building. She had lifted her shawl and was looking up at Corrigal.

"Bo' jou', Red Fox," Merton heard her say in Ojibwa, and he recognised Nee-tah-wee-gan's voice.

Corrigal stopped and glanced at her. He had not heard that name since leaving Fort James thirty years before. It had been given to him by the hunters there because of a reddish tweed coat and cap he wore.

"Red Fox does not remember me," she continued with a sneer. "There was a time here at Fort Bruce when he did not pass without speaking."

"Who are you?" Corrigal demanded.

"Is your memory so short you have forgotten the time you asked me to be your woman?"

"What nonsense is this?" Corrigal exclaimed.

He turned and saw Merton.

"Tell this woman to keep out of the enclosure," he ordered. "She has no business here."

As he spoke the apprentice clerks came out of the office to go to "Bachelors' Hall" for the noon meal. With them were Sandy Hay, Nicol MacKar, and Harry Milner, who had been working on their requisitions.

"It is thirty years since you have seen me," Nee-tah-wee-gan cried angrily, "and you will not give me a word. But you haven't forgotten me. You haven't forgotten the time you walked down the shore with me in the moonlight, that summer soon after you came from Fort James. You haven't forgotten what you said to me."

She had risen to her feet and was confronting Corrigal. When she stopped speaking she threw back her head and laughed, a bitter, hoarse cackle that chilled the men who heard it.

"You haven't forgotten when you said, 'Nee-tah-wee-gan, how would you like to come to Fort James with me and be my woman'? You may say you forget, but men only try to forget. You have never forgotten and I have never forgotten, nor do I forget how the white woman came the next day and you could not see me as we passed. O, you may say you forget, but you don't. And I have never forgotten and I will never let you forget."

Corrigal, his face white with anger, turned again to Merton.

"Get this woman out of here!" he cried furiously. "You know we never allow Indians inside the enclosure."

He turned and strode away toward the dwelling house, but Nee-tah-wee-gan, aroused to a blind, purposeless fury, ran after him, shrieking Ojibwa invectives. Her voice carried to every part of the great enclosure and beyond and halfbreed and Indian employés came running from every direction.

"Here, you men!" Corrigal commanded. "Take this woman outside."

Several men grasped Nee-tah-wee-gan by the arms and started to drag her away. She fought, biting and scratching, and in that moment of indignity and humiliation her anger carried her past all restraint. She suddenly ceased struggling, and the men relaxed their hold. Instantly she burst free and confronted Corrigal.

"Throw me out!" she shrieked. "You can! You have the power! You have the power to do anything. Only yesterday you threw out a man. You think it amounted to nothing, but you will never forget what you did yesterday. The man you threw out was your own son, Wen-dah-ban, the one they call Donald Norton."

The half-breeds, always fearful of the "big trader," rushed forward and grasped her arms.

"Take her out of here!" Corrigal cried, and as they dragged her back he turned and went on toward the dwelling house.

But though the men might remove her they could not stop that shrill voice or repress the venomous spirit of the Indian woman.

"Your own son!" she shrieked. "Yours! Wen-dah-ban! And you threw him out! Threw out your own son!"

She burst into laughter as she fought and scratched. The great enclosure echoed with her shrieks. Every one in Fort Bruce rushed into the open and every one heard.

"Your son! Wen-dah-ban! Donald Norton! He's yours! And you threw him out! Your own son! Yours! Yours! Yours!"

CORRIGAL walked on to the dwelling house without looking back. Evelyn and Janet, attracted by the clamor, had come out on to the veranda and heard what Nee-tah-wee-gan said. As he came up the steps Evelyn sprang forward.

"Is that true?" she demanded. "If it is you can't enter my home."

Corrigal stopped and looked into her angry eyes.

"No," he said quietly, "it is not true."

Evelyn's eyes were the first to waver. She felt somehow that the man spoke the truth. She was furious with herself for feeling so, and yet she knew she had received a distinct impression of sincerity. Corrigal waited a moment and then went on into the house.

"Please tell Merton to come to my room," he said.

"Send that woman away from Fort Bruce," the district manager began at once when Layard arrived. "And hereafter keep the Indians outside the enclosure."

"That's all right," Merton answered hotly. "I'll do it. But that doesn't end it with me. I want you to know that I believe what Nee-tah-wee-gan said."

"Believe her?" Corrigal exclaimed in genuine astonishment. "The woman's mad!"

"But how about the thing I surprised you with this morning? I didn't intend to make such a charge, though I'll admit I did have a faint suspicion before, a suspicion for which I had no basis other than a vague memory of something I heard years ago.

"But you thought I had made such a charge and you answered it at once. You were on the defensive. And from what you said I understand that Donald knows the same thing."

"You mean you don't believe me?" Corrigal asked.

Merton did not answer. He stood there watching the district manager's face, knowing full well his silence was more effective than anything he could say.

Yet there was no retreat in Corrigal's attitude. He stared steadily and fearlessly at the other and then he said:

"Will you please bring your wife and daughter here? I want to say something to all of you."

Merton hesitated. Firmly as he believed what Nee-tah-wee-gan had shouted in her fury, he was impressed by the sudden change in Corrigal's manner. He was no longer angry, but calm and in deadly earnest.

"Don't be afraid," Corrigal continued quietly. "There is nothing that Janet can't hear. And it is only to your family that I will speak."

MERTON went in search of his wife and daughter, and when all three had entered the room Corrigal arranged chairs and began at once to speak.

"You know what happened out there a few minutes ago," he said. "An old Indian woman, Nee-tah-wee-gan by name, was waiting for me outside the office. In the presence of a number of clerks and post managers she made the charge that I am the father of her son, Donald Norton.

"Yesterday Norton made the same charge in my office. I am satisfied that he never suspected such a thing before, and though his statement was like a thunderbolt to me I believe he was as greatly stunned by what he believed to be the revelation.

"That is all the evidence against me, a man's sudden suspicion and a woman's accusation, but against such evidence I can do nothing. By mid-winter all the north country will hear it, and all the north country will believe. I could harness the wind more easily than suppress or even slightly discredit such a thing, and I will make no attempt to do so."

He paused a moment and looked at each of the three in turn.

"Only to you will I tell my story," he continued slowly. "For a year I have lived in your home and I feel that I owe it to you. As for myself, I do not care, but I do value your good opinion and I wish to remain here.

"I know I am considered hard and ruthless, that it is believed I live only for the Hudson's Bay. It is true, the last of it. The Hudson's Bay has been everything to me for thirty years, wife, family, religion, my whole life, and because I have made it so, because I had to—to forget."

Emotion had crept into his voice, and it wavered slightly at the end. All furland knew what had driven Corrigal out of the Fort Bruce district so long ago, but this was the first time any of the three had heard him speak of it. When he began again he was calm, but it was easy to see that he achieved calmness at great cost.

"I am the father of one child only," he said, "and he is dead. Merton remembers me when I was a young post manager. During my apprenticeship and in the first years that followed I was absorbed in the Hudson's Bay and the life of a fur trader. It was all sheer romance to me then, a great adventure, and I lived only for the one thing, with the one thought.

"And then when I was twenty-three I suddenly discovered that I had grown up. The romance began to fade, just enough to permit me to think things out. I was at Fort James then, and for the first time a trading post seemed lonely. I came to Fort Bruce in the summer and here I saw a half-breed girl, Ojibwa and French. She was pretty, her voice was soft, she lived at the mission, and she was above the average. Her name was Nee-tah-wee-gan, which means in Ojibwa, 'growing ripe.'

"You have spent your lives in the north and all of you know what the loneliness of the long, long winters does to the white men who come here. Since furland began it has been the story, inevitable and inescapable. I'll grant it is a terrible thing and spawns countless tragedies, but it is nevertheless a fact. And I, young and unthinking, gnawed by the loneliness of long winters, was ready to be a victim.

"I say I didn't know, that I didn't think. I didn't. I talked to Nee-tah-wee-gan, laughed with her, and one night in the moonlight when I saw her go down the shore alone I followed her. When I found her I put my arms around her and kissed her, and suddenly I knew that I could not go back to another long winter without her. I asked if she would like to go to Fort James with me. She was in a transport of joy, and she had hardly more than said 'yes' before she ran back to the mission to tell her friends.

"You know how it is with the Indian women. It is the easy life in the dwelling house, the servants, and the prestige, that they want. And Nee-tah-wee-gan believed she had won them. But I am not defending myself. I would have taken her except that——"

He paused for a moment and each of his three intent listeners saw the effort with which he got hold of himself.

"The next day a canoe arrived from York Factory. In it was a white woman, a girl who had come to Fort Bruce as governess for the post manager's children. Two weeks after she arrived we were married in the mission and went away to Fort James together.

"I can't tell you the rest," and his voice broke. "When she died, she and our infant son, something in me died."

"If it is, you can't enter my house."

He had been looking at the floor, and for a moment he continued to do so. When at last he glanced up Evelyn's and Janet's eyes were wet.

"YOU believe me?" he asked, and for the first time in thirty years there was a pleading note in John Corrigal's voice.

But no one spoke. Merton's face was hard. Corrigal looked from one to another.

"Good God!" he cried. "I wish it were true! Don't you see? If I had a son! If I had any one! For more than half my life I've lived alone. People say I'm hard, but it's only been a mask. I had to hide my loneliness. I had to forget."

In the last year Evelyn had penetrated farther behind that mask than even Corrigal suspected. She felt that he was telling the truth and his own suffering moved her.

"I believe you," she said simply, and held out her hand.

Corrigal grasped it eagerly and then looked at Merton. The post manager did not hesitate. He, too, had been moved by this revelation of a hard man's soul, but when Corrigal glanced at Janet she drew back stiffly.

"Then you are going to call Donald back, keep him on at Fort James?" she asked.

"Call him back!" Corrigal repeated.

"Of course. You didn't give him a chance. You weren't fair. At least you can make that up to him."

The district manager was silent. There came at once a picture of that infuriated young man who had leaned across the desk and defied him, who had promised to make him pay.

"I am going to prove to you this afternoon before Millington that he was in the right," Merton interrupted his thoughts.

"But don't you see what will happen if I do this?" Corrigal protested. "I am responsible for the company's success in this district. I must look first to the company's interest. That has been my only consideration and it still is. If I recall Norton it will be construed that what Nee-tah-wee-gan charged is the truth and that I am favoring him because of it. Only dissatisfaction will result."

"I know what you mean," Merton interrupted. "You are afraid Donald will have an advantage over you. You don't trust him. But Donald isn't the sort that would take advantage of any one. I've known him since he was a boy. It isn't in him.

"And as for trusting him," Janet cried furiously, "mixed race or not, I would believe him before I would believe you. Mother and father can accept your story if they wish. I will not. You have always forced your way, never heeding what happened to others, and you are doing it now. You won't admit the truth. You are hiding behind what you call your duty to the company. You are ruining your own son to save your pride. I only hope—"

"Good God!" Corrigal whispered. "Is it that way with her?"

"You won't change your mind?" Merton asked quickly.

"Don't you see that you are ruining a man's life?" Evelyn pleaded.

Corrigal looked at her for a moment in silence. It was evident that he was wavering and she pressed her advantage.

"Donald has been like a son to me."

"You are putting this whole thing on a basis of sentiment," Corrigal protested, "but when it affected you in another way you acted differently. You wouldn't accept him as a son-in-law."

Evelyn drew back with an expression of disgust.

INDIAN BLOOD?

"Sentiment!" she cried. "It's sentiment that makes the Hudson's Bay live. There never can be any success without sentiment. And you! You in your blindness and hardness! You, who didn't have the strength to lift yourself above tragedy and sorrow, who had to hide behind something else! You will learn some day that I am right.

"And as for Donald, I would be glad to have him for a son-in-law. I have only one objection to him. I don't care if Nee-tah-wee-gan is his mother, but you may be his father."

She turned abruptly and left the room. Merton followed.

THAT afternoon Corrigal had quarters fixed up in the rear of the district office and moved into them. He took his meals in "Bachelors' Hall" with the apprentice clerks and post managers.

It was the one thing needed to confirm the belief of all fur land that Nee-tah-wee-gan had shouted the truth that day. Every one knew the relationship between the Layards and Donald Norton, and they took Corrigal's removal from the dwelling house as proof that the Layards believed the old Indian woman and refused to permit the district manager to remain in their home.

But neither from the Layards nor from Corrigal did any one ever obtain a shred of direct information. Corrigal never denied Nee-tah-wee-gan's story or made any reference to it. The Layards conducted their lives exactly as before so far as any one could see and Janet, whom all watched for some sort of sorrow, maintained a front impervious to the most curious inspection.

Millington alone served to keep Donald's dramatic departure from Fort Bruce alive for the people of fur land. Nee-tah-wee-gan and her little tent had disappeared the next morning, and no one heard of her that summer. But the young Englishman with his bruised and swollen face was forced to remain for two weeks.

That first afternoon Corrigal listened to the evidence which Merton presented in the form of direct statements by Fort James hunters.

"Never mind getting out that marked fox skin," Corrigal said when the Indians had finished. "I've heard enough. What have you to say, Millington?"

"Nothing," was the surly answer.

"Neither have I," Corrigal snapped. "If there were anyone I could put in your place I'd do it, but with Norton gone, too, I can't make another change this late in the season. Go on to Fort James for this winter."

Merton was on his feet in an instant.

"You let a yellow crook have another chance when he admits he's a crook, and you kick out a real man and the best fur trader you have because you think that some day he might possibly fail you!" he cried scornfully.

"That question is dead," Corrigal answered coldly, as he turned to some work on his desk.

"It is not dead!" Merton retorted. "Your saying so doesn't end it, and the fact that you keep Millington on doesn't mean you haven't any real men left in the district. The Hudson's Bay has been a success because it has been human, because there has been a loyalty developed as much by a clan spirit among its servants as by allegiance to the company. You are killing both."

"The swashbuckler days are in the past, Layard, and the sooner some of you older men realize that modern business methods must prevail in fur land the better it will be for both you and the company," Corrigal answered.

Merton did not reply. He knew only too well that no business can disregard the human element and that when a company scatters a mere handful of men across four thousand miles of wilderness, isolates them in dreary, lonely posts, gives them great power, but demands greater things of their manhood and exacts a loyalty unequaled in the history of any other commercial enterprise, it must give much in return if it is to endure.

He went to "Bachelors' Hall" to unburden himself, and there he found a practical demonstration of his theory. Nicol MacKar, Sandy Hay, and Harry Milner did not spare themselves in voicing opinions of their superior officer when they learned Millington was to go to Fort James to succeed Donald.

"He was with Corrigal in Saskatchewan and he's got something on the old devil," Sandy declared. "It's a fine spirit in which to send a man to a long winter alone. How do we know when we'll get a deal like Norton did?"

"Quiet," some one whispered. "Here's Millington."

"I don't care," the angry Scotchman retorted. "Say, how about it?" as Millington entered. "What have you got on Corrigal that he keeps you on after the way you were shown up this afternoon?"

Millington stopped and peered at him, his eyes glittering through the slits in his swollen face. Corrigal had not let him down easy. No sooner had Layard left the office than the district manager turned loose his wrath. Demoralization of the company's trade by one of its own servants was high crime in his eyes, and there was the added pressure of the events of the day, none of which he had been able to relieve.

Millington, friendless now, bitter in his defeat, humiliated at every turn, was venemous.

"Guess you know the truth of that story about Norton being his son," Sandy sneered. "That's where you get your hold on him, eh?"

The Scotchman's contempt no longer stung Millington, but he was still in a blind fury because of Corrigal's denunciation.

"Of course I knew it," he retorted. "I knew it long before Norton did. And more than that, I have proof. Do you suppose I've let Nee-tah-wee-gan hang around Whitefish Lake these last two years for nothing? I knew Corrigal was his father."

"Knew it!" Merton cried as he sprang forward. "You're lying. Nee-tah-wee-gan never talked until today. She wouldn't."

Millington's crafty mind saw his advantage.

"Of course, she never talked to you or to anyone else," he retorted. "You didn't know how to make her. But she talked to me."

Instantly Millington regretted what he had said. As one man the post managers crowded nearer. Sandy Hay, sputtering in his wrath, thrust his face close to the Englishman's battered countenance.

"Get out of here, —— you!" he shouted. "You're worse than Norton or any of the rest of us ever said about you. Go and heal up that face so I can give it another treatment. To take a poor old Indian woman who's been mad with hate for thirty years and make her babble so you might hear a bit of dirty gossip you could use to——"

He turned as if to restrain himself from giving Millington a second thrashing, and the object of his wrath hurried away to his room.

"And with that dirty taste in our mouths we've got to go back to a year of slaving," Nicol MacKar said.

"It makes me want to loaf on the job," Sandy added. "To hell with the Hudson's Bay if it comes to this."

No one resented the sacrilege. Such statements are common wherever two or more servants of the great company are gathered. Men relieve themselves of grievances, generally fancied, in wrathful denunciations not unlike the outbursts of ten year old boys against the imagined tyrannies of a teacher. Yet those same men would turn with the defensive fury of religious zealots at the first word of criticism by an outsider.

UNTIL the post managers departed for their distant stations Fort Bruce continued to seethe with discontent and denunciation. Millington was ostracized. Corrigal continued his lonely, driving life. The Layards remained silent.

Ten days after Donald's departure the two Indians who had taken him away returned. They could tell nothing except that they had paddled the deposed post manager as far as a fishing station on Lake Winnipeg and there had seen him aboard a tug bound south.

Late in the fall a packet from Winnipeg conveyed the information that Donald had appeared at the offices of the company and had drawn his salary and savings. Though pressed for an explanation as to why he was leaving the service he had refused to say anything.

Winter came, with its first packet from civilization, and still there was no news of Donald. He had disappeared from the north country.

This department appears every day in the Daily Tribune.

NEW YORK.—(Special Correspondence.)—If you cannot be pleased this spring you must be hard to suit. You may be easier to cape-dress. Fashion is liberal of styles for the outdoor minded. Perhaps even more open handed than for the indoor inclined. To the latter she says: "Be either straight slip, period, or simple drape." But when she asks the outdoor girl if she wants a short box coat and plaited skirt, and the girl says "No," she begs her: "Try my bolero effects. They are younger. Or perhaps a little Eton, eh? Well, then, take a fitted hip. Front single button closing, top or bottom, or shall we say the side-tie, with sash ends?"

Even then she is not done. She speaks of all-over embroidered costume suits. "Wouldn't dearie like one of them, or a braided concoction, rich as a nut chocolate sundae?"

The designer now sheds tiers on skirts as easily as Mrs. Gummidge and as constantly. She caught the habit from Paris. Even before the big Paris openings declared them eligible for the spring race of fashions, they were seen in New York where the smart clans gather. Now the important shops bloom with them.

The straight four tiered skirt I show on the first figure to the left. To know how obliquely the designer can act in this matter of tiered skirts, take a look at figure No. 8.

No. 1 is a coat, an' it please you. One of those coats so like the dress of the times that one has to point out specifically its use and destination. Of sage green duvetyn, the plain, slightly bloused top is relieved with elaborate embroidery. Cabochon clasps of green and black, instead of the somewhat overdone tie sash, hold the side closing.

With its neckpiece of platinum fox and its matching draped toque of green straw, this costume represents the spring with good taste, even elegance.

To return for a moment to No. 8. I chose it to illustrate somewhat the diagonality of many a spring tier. We have here beige tricotine of such a rich tone that it is almost a new yellow. The neutral tones in general are establishing new definitions, so positive are they becoming. Notice how cleverly the suit is handled, its brown stitching applied so as to accent the uplift line of the tiered, wrap-over skirt.

In No. 4 we have a three piece crêpe costume. Beige again, as you see. Boxy coat, highly embossed with soutache, and extremely smart of collar and lapel. The front of the skirt is accordion plaited, the back is plain. Banding of soutache marks the dividing point. The blouse, or dress top, is left plain, to put the back of the skirt at ease.

I have selected a young girl's suit of gray gabardine—the second from the right—to point a paragraph on the vogue of the bolero. It appears almost altogether on suits for misses. As yet ma-ing the boleros. r. This suit Peter Pan col- lar and double cuffs, bound with black braid. The coral red crêpe de chine blouse, touched up with black braid, ties in a huge bow at the side. A telling effect comes of facing the sash ends with gray crêpe and toning them up with braiding.

How the older woman goes coated this spring is revealed in figure No. 7. Here rich heavy mauve silk is completely covered with a braid design in black. The coat blouses slightly at the back. It has the side closing dear to this season, but employs a narrow soutache blocked belt of mauve to keep the hip line in place, rather than the accustomed tie and sash ends. The high neckpiece is of squirrel.

We are afforded by No. 7 a long look at the newest sort of hat, one showing the high back ribbon loop trimming, and the turned up front edge.

Let me tell you something about cape costume No. 6. It has a printed silk slip dress of corn color and almond green and a plain almond green cape with big, standup, rolled collar. Cape and collar are lined with the dress material. There is an apron tunic of the plain silk. Both cape and tunic are detachable, and with them go the cuffs, leaving the printed silk free to shine by itself, aided by a girdle of the same material. Or, to take plain corn color into partnership as a drape or new tunic, thus making an entirely different appearing afternoon frock.

No sunset is complete without a touch of red, and no assembly of the present day. In the girl far to the right we have the requisite red spot, a pretty girl in serge, cut and trimmed according to Chinese inspiration. White and black are combined in the embroidery, and there is a wide plait of the white at the back of the skirt.

Not least in this spring assembly, though little, are the two youngsters. Their style tendencies follow those of their elders, as you see.

No. 5 with her mamma wears a linen coat of pale gray. The white collar and sleeve ends are embroidered in black. The coat is trimmed with battlemented lines of black cording, and cuffs, collar, and front closing are bound with red. There is a tie sash of red.

Second from the left comes a toddler in a rose velour coat. I am using her to show how even the littlest ones repeat their elders. Example: the bloused top of the coat, the deep neck line, the gray wool trimming, and the little tucker of gray.

It's a fabric and color season, more than an era of surprisingly varied and novel cut to garments. Pictured here we have duvetyn, velour, crêpe, heavy jacquard silk, tricotine, gabardine, and printed silk, and yet we haven't encompassed the whole list by any means. There are still twills, and reps, and camel's hair, and beautiful knitted fabrics for suits.

As to colors, they are pretty much as illustrated, except for the bewildering printed silk weaves, the many black and whites, and black and white combined.

SUPERLATIVE AMERICANS

Fifth Article
Booth Tarkington

IN an old house in Indianapolis—old as houses go in our Middle West—whither I went to seek Booth Tarkington's literary parent, I found Victor Cherbuliez. At first glance the discovery seemed curious. But when it was thought upon and talked over it became as natural as a growing plant, for if it had not much to do with Tarkington the realist—the Tarkington who has been called "the historian of Hoosier manners"—it accounted for the more important and interesting Tarkington — the Tarkington tremulous to beauty, sensitive to the ugliness in the epic of the middle west cities whose population has outrun and overrun their spirituality, the Tarkington who is in the fiber of him more romanticist than realist and who is a good deal more interested in his style than in his plots.

In the old fashioned interview, which took the subject with the rigid seriousness of a daguerreotype, when it came time for the question about "books which have influenced you" the old fashioned lie was "the Bible and Shakespeare." Men honest enough to be trusted with bankfuls of money used to say that without a flicker of abashment. Perhaps they still do.

Tarkington's workroom in the old home at 1100 North Pennsylvania street, Indianapolis.

Booth Tarkington was different. He usually is.

"You can't tell," he said, "what got at you in your youth"—he hunched up his shoulders until they seemed almost to meet his ears and he bent his gaze intently upon his knees, and that is his way of pondering—"but they're the tremendous influences. I have read practically all my life—since I was six years old. Read my eyes out, and do still. Of course I had—you know Stevenson's phrase for it—my 'sedulous ape' period—the imitating of every style that took hold of me—but I suppose the most emphatic influence I came under, or was it the most persuasive?—I suppose it was Victor Cherbuliez. I took him up young. I used to get them from the library—all his books. It wasn't any one book of his—it was his way. It was the texture. Henry James felt it, too, though he is not like him. It would be Cherbuliez' 'Samuel Brohl et Cie.' and 'Le Roi Apepi,' which I loved first. Cherbuliez wasn't a Frenchman, though he became a member of the Academy. In some remote way he was related to Rousseau. He was born about 1830 in Geneva and died a quarter of a century ago."

Mr. Tarkington spoke with awe of "the texture" of Cherbuliez, and when I got home I found in that incomparable "Journal Intime" of Amiel, which Mrs. Humphry Ward translated, rhapsodic references to him as stylist—"this wizard of language, with his irony and chameleonlike variety, . . . with his amberlike delicacy and brilliancy, . . . so limpid and yet so profound . . . a jeweled mosaic of precious stones, sparkling with a thousand lights, . . . an Alexandrine exquisite, substituting for the feeling which makes men earnest the irony which leaves them free." Cherbuliez was still a young man when those words were written! As to his plots, typical is the country boy, scorned once in the village but returning to conquer. That is the barebones of "L'Idée de Jean Tetgrol," and the Baron Saligneaux in it is own cousin to Judge Pike in Tarkington's "The Conquest of Canaan." And disillusioned Antoinette's foolish, plaintive cry, "The man I loved was he whose history you related to me," in "Samuel Brohl et Cie.," is the cry of a dozen of Tarkington's Middle West women passionately in love with their illusions and stripped to the soul at last by the ironies of disillusion.

Going to Meet the Postman.

William Dean Howells was another influence.

"The importance of Howells," he said, "is not at all recognized—yet. It was once. It now happens he is unfashionable. But that is ephemeral. It doesn't matter. His work will come up again. He was one of my influences. When 'Silas Lapham' was coming out in the Century I would hurry out to meet the postman with the new number. My, that was forty years ago, but I can remember the day the number came that told of Silas at the dinner party. I was standing at the gate reading, and my sister called to me, 'What has happened this time?' 'Silas got drunk,' I said, and we looked at one another aghast—as if it had happened to an honored neighbor. There isn't a more poignant thing in American fiction."

There was one of his hunched-up pauses, and then, "Do you know Ade? . . . The person Howells loved best to read was Ade. I don't mean he thought him the most important one to read, but the one he really loved best to read. He told me so. Ade is important; 'literary people' may not take account of him, but real literary people do—the Ade of 'Doc Horne' and 'Pink Marsh'—wonderful! I told Ade how Howells loved to read him, and that that was a warrant for sending him all his books. I hope he did."

We reverted to influences, and I said that I would have sworn to Jane Austen's influence upon him, especially after "Alice Adams." He hunched deeper, and from the depths of his hunchiness came chuckles.

"Do you read her?"

"Over and over."

Jane Austen He Cannot Read.

"Well, I can't get beyond two paragraphs. I've tried—my, I've tried! But two paragraphs, and I'm stalled. Funny, though; Howells detected the Jane Austen influence in my books, and almost the first question Robert Holliday, who wrote that little book about Booth Tarkington—it was quite a little book—asked me was about my debt to Jane Austen. Howells used to praise her by the hour, and all I could do was to look receptive and say 'Eh-heh' and 'Didn't she!' I'm afraid I'm one of Mark Twain's men when it comes to Jane Austen. You know what he said——"

"That about any library's being a good library that didn't have the books of Jane Austen in it?"

"Yes. Howells would laugh at even that when Twain said it. It was great to see them together—Howells laughing at everything Twain said, and Twain peering from under the cliff of brow that almost hid his eyes. Riley said [he meant James Whitcomb Riley] he thought Twain never let you see his eyes because he was afraid if you did you'd see what he thought of you. Once, when I was around, Twain and Howells agreed that happiness was the unconsciousness of troubles we really had. I asked them if maybe unhappiness wasn't the unconsciousness of blessings we really had, but Twain wouldn't have it. 'No,' he drawled; 'the old jackass in the pasture looks over the fence to the young jackass at the plow and envies him his virility, and the young jackass looks at the old jackass in the pasture and envies him his leisure.'"

"Mark will surely live, won't he?" I asked that banality less for information than to keep Tarkington going, for at times he seemed about to subside permanently into his hunchiness. Success was mine, for he came abruptly out of it with this, which, if somewhat broken in context, was decisive:

"He has! He is! Oh my, yes!"

If he enjoyed any part of the six hours during which I "baited him with what and why," he most enjoyed this mulling over old times and vanished comrades. Once we fell into the eheu, fugaces! strain—that strain which men beginning to be conscious that age is upon them take up so gingerly. "Fif-ty-three—years! And where have they gone? And what have I done with them?" He hunched abysmally. (I thought that some twenty volumes of authentic annals—the annals of us in the daily attritions and blunderings and aspirations that make and unmake us and rough-hew for us the crises of our living—I thought them, to say nothing of the treasure in lace and lavender, "Beaucaire," pretty solid extenuation for the fifty-three years.)

But he was not to be that way cajoled.

"Fifty-three years," he mused, "and forty-six of them in this house. Every brick and board in it means something—you know!—father and mother, sister, nephews and nieces, summer nights and the mandolins, Thanksgiving dinners. And now the smoke and the noise and business are driving us out. We've sold the place. We've got to move, and I feel as though I'd had a good, old, kind uncle—and had gone away and left him lying in a field."

It was the epicist of the American front porch, where still the Middle West invites its soul, remembering out loud, and, had the time been thirty years ago, I am confident that Mr. Tarkington and I would tearfully have favored the midnight hour with "Home, Sweet Home."

Tarkington's One Grievance.

Save for the impending eviction, Newton Booth Tarkington contemplates life with equanimity. He is a being who, after some turmoil, concerning which an avid public was regularly kept informed, has found himself as man and as artist. At fifty-three he is a chuckling personality, and if one is not that at fifty-three, one is a grumbling personality. He has chosen the better part. One minor grief he has, but he spoke of it with gentle resignation, as one might with pensive fingers touch the lyre to wake a sorrow that is not wholly pain. "I like," he said, "to get out of the bath tub and into my bath robe, and so start the day's work—old bath robe, you know."

"Yes," I said, "old and soiled—they swathe you better then."

"Precisely! But they take 'em away from me!" (With increasing vivacity.) "My wife sends 'em to the cleaners!"

He relapsed into quiet grieving and into his hunchiness, emerging suddenly to say with an appositeness which for the moment evaded me:

"You know, I ought to be dressed as a clown."

I waited.

"Yes, I ought. Boys come to see me, or boys' fathers nod toward me and say, 'That's the "Penrod" man,' and I don't fill the bill. I can see the boy thinking, 'Gee, there's something wrong here!'"

While he was chuckling—and murmuring his characteristic "Oh my, yes!"—I asked how he happened to take up the boy theme, which since 1914 (the "Penrod" year) he has made as peculiarly his own as Mark Twain and Aldrich made it theirs long ago

"It was my wife," he replied. "One day she said, 'Why don't you write a book about boys?' and I said, 'I don't know anything about them.' 'Don't you realize,' she said, 'that you're always talking about them?'

"Well, that was so, without my knowing it. But I've always been interested in boys and children, because by them you get more easily into the insides [I thought it characteristic that he did not say "the psychology"]—into the insides of people. Except for some complexities of the sex relation, the man is in the boy."

"Can you remember when the impulse to write stories first laid hold of you?"

"Yes, I can. But I didn't write my first story. It was before I knew penmanship, so I dictated it to my sister Mary. It was about somebody on horseback, somebody who had ridden away from home—I can't remember any more of it. That would have been when I was five or six years old. My sister had a story in the last Cosmopolitan under her childhood nickname of 'Hautie.' We used to call her 'Terre Hautie.' How I happened to be a writer is that I failed as an illustrator. As I grew up I always wanted to be an illustrator. At first I sent drawings to 'Life'—finally got one taken, and I decided I was started. Then thirty-three were rejected, and I decided I was not started. Then I discovered that I had always written. It began to take shape—the writing—on the 'Nassau Lit' at Princeton and I thought maybe I could get on a newspaper. But it was the same way with the writings at first. Those first stories!—I used to think they stopped them in Philadelphia, they came back so quick. Never anything but printed rejection slips then, and I would write back and ask the editors for two or three words to tell me what was wrong. Finally my sister took 'Beaucaire' to S. S. McClure, but he rejected it because it was an awkward length—too long for one number of the magazine and too short for two. Then he accepted 'The Gentleman from Indiana,' but made me rewrite it from 100,000 words to 60,000, which was a very good thing for me, because it was good exercise."

Poor Old Roger Tabor.

When I asked him what had been the most decisive success among his books he answered as if I had frightened him, saying. "God, I haven't had that yet!"

"Well, which one do you like best, then?"

"I like 'em all for a little while after I've finished them. Then I'm through. Then I don't like any of them. I never look at them again."

I wonder whether he knew that he was answering in almost the very words pathetic old Roger Tabor speaks in "The Conquest of Canaan" when he looks at his paintings:

I always think they're good when I've just finished them. . . . During those few minutes I seem to see in them all that I wanted to put in them; I see it because what I've been trying to express is still so warm in my own eyes that I seem to have got it on the canvas where I wanted it.

That, too, is the mournful part of the writer's reaction to his writing; it is not what others say about the badness of it that hurts most.

I told him that Fanny Butcher had told me to ask him how it was that he, a best seller, had been able to remain a best seller without taking the clothes off his characters and making them do bacchic dances clad only in their own morbidities. Something like that Miss Butcher wished to know. "Ask him," said she, "what is the idea, for it is an idea that he is making rather unique."

"The idea is," he replied, "that other things are more interesting. They are diluted Zolas—these people that are forcing the nudities into American fiction. It is not truth—it's just bare. You can tell they are diluted Zola by the sentence structure. They are Zola strained through indifferent translations. They imitate his heavy hand and think that is strength. What they get into their work is the clumsiness of a translation; they don't get his supreme quality—his veracity. They're astray—these people. They have taken the style of a gloomy French realist and applied it to a country where it does not belong. A true literature always comes up out of what is native. In Poe, in Hawthorne, in Howells, in Ade, you will find something infinitely more valuable than you can possibly produce by a borrowed medium and a distinctly alien model. If the style is the man, these people are not men at all. They are an echo. They are out of key with the spirit of this country. They make pessimism their god and gloom their god's sultana. They are out of key, because pessimism is not the key here. We are young, hopeful, accomplishing, and pessimism doesn't accomplish. And they are unsophisticated — unsophisticated in their worship of sophistication."

"Do you think the war has had an influence on American fiction?"

"I can't see it—none at all. Why should it have? Would it make a man know how to paint better—or build a house better? If you went to war, would you know your trade better? But then, people don't know that writing's a trade. I know that from the number of letters I get from people who are trying to make up their minds on the question, 'Shall I be a writer, or an invalid?'"

His leisurely linking up of sound art with a sound ethical outlook pulled him toward the subject of the new generation coming up around us. We wagged heads—and then I knew we are getting old—over its passion for excitement and entertainment, and its impatience of reading, and its light idea of the value of money. The type we wondered about is the type of over-confident, predatory adolescents of whom that vicious little wretch—great penetration in him, though—Walter in "Alice Adams" is thoroughly and sadly representative, and I said, "What's the matter with them, anyway?" And he said:

"The matter is that they haven't been raised the way we were raised. Boys and girls we grew up with saw no turkey-trotting. They didn't hear father's loud laugh after his cocktail and they didn't see women they were supposed to look up to with their dresses cut away from their armpits. Our young folks now—they haven't done without much. At least they aren't willing to do without much. You have to take account, too, of the bad influence a coterie which thinks it is artistic and liberated has brought to bear on the young people. It's attitude is 'In French plays they say everything. Why can't we say everything over here?' And they have said it. But the French—they don't take the children to hear the 'everything' plays. The jeune fille is protected. Her literature remains 'L'Abbé Constantin' and 'Paul and Virginia.' And besides, if you are going to say everything, it is the touch that becomes everything. It is as Tennyson used to say, "'It's not what we say but how we say it—but the fools don't know that.'"

Both Sedate and Boyish.

He looked solid and sedate and propertied as he sat in his big workroom—second floor front—and peered out from a divan at his books and his paintings—one of the latter a savory Blumenschein called "The German Tragedian." His only jewelry was a big seal ring of a historical aspect. He rumbled along in a heavy voice that often sank into hesitant mutterings and sometimes rose boyishly on the frequent "O, my, yes!" His manner was easy, touched with a shy kind of courtliness, and he was comfortable to be with. His gift for imitations was astonishingly fine, and time and again he glided into them with the easy confidence of a man who knows he is good at them. By the window stood a drawing table—the kind that raises and lowers on a steel pedestal—and he likes to write at it "because your legs aren't all tangled up in timber." On it lay long wide sheets of yellow copy paper. The top one bore a number and was half filled with writing—a sheet of his next novel. He did not snub me when I asked about its drift.

"A subject," he said, "that touches four generations and will try to express something of the changes, or a phase of the changes, that have come over the country in the last twenty years. I begin with a boy and you see his grandparents for a time. Then his parents. Then he reaches middle age. Then you see his children. The place is one of these middle west cities."

"So in the new book you remain in the Hoosier country and true to your Hoosier neighbors?"

"Yes, they are my people"—and he added with a spurt of vivacity, "Say, in Baltimore the other day a critic reviewing a play of mine—he didn't like it—said 'we suppose these are Hoosier manners.' He meant that he didn't like them either. Well, I think they are very good manners. They are kindly. That's the principal thing."

He rose to throw another log into the big fireplace.

As he did, the clock struck.

Bless me—it was two in the morning!

His manners, surely, had been very kindly toward the stranger in his house.

Good Morning! Mae Tinee

SHE has soft, fluffy, black hair—hazel gray eyes, a nice twisty mouth, a clear paleness to the skin,—and oh, such a charming manner!

When Mae Tinee reviews a picture she says exactly what she thinks of it. She believes in clean pictures; thinks that poisonous pictures will die of their own poison. She courts advice and censure, and gets lots of "kicks" and many encomiums. She wants everybody to write to her and tell what he-or-she-really-thinks!

Mae Tinee sends out much printed matter to those interested in scenario writing, motion picture stars, and the various phases of the motion picture industry. This is done without charge; all that is asked is a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A motion picture criticism by Mae Tinee every morning in The Daily Tribune, A good reason for your reading The Tribune every single day of the week!

If there's one thing above all else people from out of town love to do it's to call on other people from their home town who happen to be on for a trip. Perry and Irene have been waiting since 4:30, opposite the elevators, for Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Vogel. Back in Honesdale Perry and Irene can see the Vogels any day of the week. So why? Can you tell us?

The struggle everlasting between the man who doesn't want to give up the bags to the bellhops.

Head porter and a toothpick.

The beautiful siren at the ticket agency desk, about to foist, if possible, tickets for a poor show on some stranger within the gates. "Have you seen 'Little Miss Typhus'?" she will say. "Oh, that's a superb show! Here's two nice seats for that." Or "How about 'The Eggplant Girl'? That's a swell show!"

The public dinner. This is probably a reunion of the loyal members of the Phi Pan Paw fraternity. If it were the convention of the United Iron Mongers or the Associated Button Perforators it would be a lot dressier. Brother Thele has just arrived. And, by golly! if there isn't old Ned Chutney and old "Slops" Brown, big as life! Bye and bye Brother Brown and Brother Chutney will take Brother Thele aside and pass around the pocket flask. The young gentleman at the extreme right is going to make a speech later on—all about the sacred bonds of Phi Pan Paw.

The room clerk hasn't a thing left except a little room without any water for $8 a day. Something that used to be a linen closet. What's more, the room clerk has been darn haughty about it!

Peacock Alley, which ought to be a lot more peacocky than it is. The glass of fashion and the mold of form are supposed to frequent Peacock Alley at this hour, and the Main Street folks from all over these United States are on hand to watch. Unfortunately, there are so many ladies from Texas and South Dakota that there's precious little room left for the glass of fashion in Peacock Alley. But what's the difference? For as Mrs. S. B. Slanter says, after looking things over (Mrs. Slanter and her husband are standing somewhat to the right of those seated): "The people out home in Marquette dress much better than these New Yorkers."

A big leather chair and a big fuzzy coat with one slightly bored college boy inside. The college boy is waiting for a friend.

Three bellhops and their noble so-called captain on the bellhops' bench.

The cashier is explaining as kindly as possible that every fraction of a day thereafter will be charged as a whole day, etc., etc.

"My dear, there she goes! Look! I know it's she!" At least once a day in every hotel of any size from New York to San Francisco some guest of the hotel spots either Mary Garden or Mary Pickford.

The 6 o'clock crowd around the telephone operator showing the frantic ladies who are calling up Harry or Benny to say they won't wait a moment longer than 6:15.

Accept a Trial Bottle To Try On One Lock of Hair FREE

Yes, Gray Hair Is Unnecessary

As my experience proves

So I ask all who have gray hair to learn my story. Read this advertisement and then accept my offer of a free trial bottle of the scientific preparation I successfully used to restore my own gray hair.

Acceptance of my absolutely free trial offer puts you under no obligation whatsoever. I make it for two reasons—because I wish to prove the sincerity of every statement I make and because this free trial offer protects both me and prospective users of my Restorer against substitutes and imitations.

A person who wishes to restore the original color to gray hair shouldn't risk experiment. You can try out cold creams, face powders, or any other kind of toilet preparation without any unsatisfactory results, but this can't be done with most hair restorers.

If the preparation proves unsatisfactory you are left with streaked, discolored, freakish hair, which in appearance is far worse than hair that is gray. So I want every one to learn exactly what my Restorer is and what it will do before they begin complete restoration of their gray hair.

NOTE AGAIN!

the fairness of my Free Trial Offer. All I ask you to do is to send for our Free Trial Packet to try one lock of hair in the privacy of your own home.

Prove to yourself, without any risk whatever, that Mary T. Goldman's Hair Color Restorer will bring back again the original true shade of your hair, whether your hair is entirely gray, streaked with gray, faded, or discolored in any way.

What acceptance of my trial offer proves

That Mary T. Goldman's Hair Color Restorer is a clear, colorless liquid, as clean and pure as water. It is not a "shake before using" preparation, so there is nothing to make your hair sticky or greasy, so that it lies flat to your head and can't be dressed becomingly. There is no sediment to rub off on your clean hat linings or soil your pillow slips. There is nothing to interfere with shampooing, because there is nothing to wash off.

Then when you make the famous "single lock" test you learn the unexpected ease of application. You simply comb my color restorer through your hair and watch the gray disappear and the natural color return. There is no expert skill required and no chance of failure, which is the most important point of all.

The restored color is perfectly even and natural in all lights. It is there to stay, without further thought or care.

Restores faded, bleached, discolored hair

While most preparations offered for the recoloring or restoration of gray hair cannot be safely used to remedy any other conditions, it is different with my Restorer.

It is just as efficient and satisfactory and results are just as sure if you use it to restore faded or bleached hair or hair that has been discolored by the use of some unsatisfactory dye.

This will be good news to the woman who is waiting for new hair to grow and in the meantime dreads to take off her hat because of the way her hair looks. Use my Restorer the way I direct for the restoration of naturally gray hair and the results will be exactly the same.

Mail the Coupon

Fill out the coupon carefully, for the information asked is important. If possible enclose a lock of your hair with your letter. I will send my special patented free trial package by return mail.

Then when you know how surely, quickly and easily your gray hair can be restored, how you can always keep the beautiful, natural color even and perfect, then begin the restoration of all your hair.

Prematurely gray hair is on the increase and it is both unbecoming and creates the unjustified appearance of age. Don't let it spoil your appearance and handicap your social and business life. Make the acquaintance of my tried and tested hair color restorer and keep your hair always the becoming color of youth.

THE TEENIE WEENIES.

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

INTRODUCING CAPATOLA VICTROLA PINCHNECK JACKSON. BY WM. DONAHEY.

GOGO, the little colored Teenie Weenie, had been acting rather queerly for several days. He kept humming a song about "A Licorice Gal from Bumingham," and he spent much time gazing into the sky. The rest of the Teenie Weenies failed to notice the strange behavior of the little colored fellow, which was probably due to the fact that they were all so interested in the new Teenie Weenie baby that had come to live among them. However, something happened presently to explain Gogo's queer actions.

One morning several of the little men were mending the grass roof on one of the Teenie Weenie houses. It had sprunk a leak, and they were roofing it with a few old playing cards they had found. The Turk was sawing a piece out of the three spot of diamonds, when he noticed a strange robin alight on the ground near the house. He nearly fell off the roof when he saw a Teenie Weenie colored girl slide off the bird's back and walk towards the house. Other Teenie Weenies had seen the bird alight, and the little people came running from all directions.

"Do de Teenie Weenies live heah?" inquired the strange colored Teenie Weenie.

"Y—Y—Yes, madam," answered the astonished General. "Whom do we have the honor of addressing?"

"You all don't have no honah in 'dressin' me—I's jus' plain ordinary cullud pusson—Capatola Victrola Pinchneck Jackson is mah name," said the little woman.

"That's a pretty long name," smiled the Lady of Fashion.

"Yes, 'tis," answered the colored girl. "You see, I's named Capatola aftah mah ma's ma, and Victrola aftah my pa's ma, den my pa he done want to name me aftah my Uncle Jimmie Bowfoot Pinchneck, so day done stuck dat Pinchneck on, too."

At this moment Gogo dashed into the circle of Teenie Weenies, and, catching the little colored girl about the waist, he hugged her so hard the astonished Teenie Weenies thought he would squeeze her in two.

"General," said Gogo, smiling at the wondering Teenie Weenies, "dis is a surprise."

"It sort of appears that way," answered the General.

"Yas, sah," continued Gogo, "I done surprise you all. I done a powerful lot of thinkin' when dat new baby done come around heah, and I say to myself, 'Gogo, dat baby done got to have a cullud nurse, if she wants to grow up right, so I done write down to Bumingham and I says to Miss Jackson heah, 'You all got to pack yo' gripascope and take de first robin comin' north'."

"Well, how about my pay?" said the robin, who had been standing listening to the conversation.

"Yes, dat's so, dat's so," answered Miss Jackson. "I plumb clean done forget about mah taxi bill."

"How much does the lady owe you?" asked the General.

"Five angleworms," answered the robin.

"Five angleworms!" cried Gogo. "What's de mattah with you, bird? I could go clean around de world fo' five worms. Dat trip up from Bumingham is not worth mo' than two and a half worms."

"Is that so! Is that so!" sneered the robin. "Well, I'd like to see you fly up from Birmingham for two and a half worms."

"Well, don't waste no time lookin', bird, fo' I'm doin' no flyin'," answered Gogo, glaring at the robin.

After much argument the robin finally agreed to take twenty grains of wheat for his pay. "And it's none too much," he said as he gobbled up the wheat.

Miss Jackson insisted on taking charge of the baby at once, but Mrs. Guff, the baby's mother, was not of the same opinion.

"I'm perfectly able to take care of my own children," she said; but Miss Jackson was so tender with the tiny baby that the little mother decided to let her help a bit. By the end of the week the little colored girl was in full charge of the baby, and Mrs. Guff wondered how she ever got along without her.

An oily skin is especially liable to infection"

There is constant danger in an oily skin

If your skin has the habit of continually getting oily and shiny, you cannot begin too soon to correct this condition.

A skin that is too oily is not only unattractive in itself—it is constantly liable to infection from dust and dirt.

Begin today to overcome this condition by using every night the following treatment:

FIRST cleanse your skin by washing in your usual way with Woodbury's Facial Soap and luke-warm water. Wipe off the surplus moisture, but leave the skin slightly damp.

Now, with warm water work up a heavy lather of Woodbury's Facial Soap in your hands. Apply it to your face and rub it into the pores thoroughly—always with an upward and outward motion.

Rinse with warm water, then with cold—the colder the better. If possible, rub your face for thirty seconds with a piece of ice.

Within a week or ten days after commencing this treatment you will notice a marked improvement in your complexion.

Get a cake of Woodbury's today, at any drug store or toilet goods counter. A 25-cent cake lasts a month or six weeks. Woodbury's also comes in convenient 3-cake boxes. The Andrew Jergens Company, Cincinnati, New York, and Perth, Ontario.

"Three o'clock in the morning"

Dancing "the whole night through," whatever the wisdom of it, is a strenuous pastime even for those blessed with abundant vitality.

It is now known that energy and vitality depend on proper eating habits—eating plenty of the foods which are rich in health and vigor-building elements, i.e., fresh greens and fruits, salads and a quart of milk daily.

If you don't care for these foods, eat Yeast Foam Tablets regularly—so as to help make up the deficiency. They supply you with a substance your body needs, but which is missing from many common foods.

Yeast Foam Tablets are a pure, wholesome, tonic food made from selected yeast. They are used with unusual success by thousands for appetite and digestive disorders, lack of strength and energy, pimples and boils.

Sold by druggists and made by the makers of the baking yeast, Yeast Foam and Magic Yeast.

A RUM RUNNER'S INGLORIOUS END. This old schooner was a pioneer in the bootlegging traffic between the Bahamas and the Jersey coast. Its owners cleaned up a big fortune. Now they have abandoned the ship in the harbor at Nassau. There it rides at lonely anchor, waiting to sink down into Davy Jones' locker.

GREAT TIME NEXT SUMMER for Chicago Boy Scouts who go to Whitehall. Camp life is one of the best things about being a Scout, but it certainly does make a fellow dirty. The bacon is sizzling on the fire and there is no time to lose. The camp last year was attended by more than 2,000 Chicago boys.

Your Boy's Hair

Will Now Stay Combed

Women

Women who know Stacomb no longer say, "I've just washed my hair and can't do a thing with it." Stacomb restores the natural oils and makes the hair easy to dress.

Stacomb controls short hair and stray locks. Particularly helpful if you are letting bobbed hair grow long again.

Excellent in training young boys' hair.

THOUSANDS of mothers now keep their boys' hair combed by using Stacomb which controls the most unruly hair.

And boys who want a pompadour, want to part their hair in the middle or on either side, or want to comb it in any other style find that nothing else is so effective. They don't have to train their hair for weeks to make it stay in the new way. They just apply Stacomb and comb the hair as they want it.

It's easy to use, too, simply rub a little on palms of hands and apply it to the hair.

A neatly combed effect all day long, with the hair soft and lustrous, is the result. "Cow-licks" stay down and wiry, fractious hair behaves.

Because of these results, proved by the millions who have tried Stacomb, it is the largest selling product ever made for the hair.

Once tried by men, women or children, it is constantly used thereafter. All find that it makes the hair stay combed even after it has just been washed. Dry and brittle hair is unknown to users of Stacomb.

At all druggists and department stores. (Not a liquid).

A slow daily poisoning that wrecks even the strongest constitution–

Day by day Fleischmann's Yeast builds up the flabby muscles of the intestines—exactly as regular exercise builds up the muscles of your arm.

THE first symptoms may not seem alarming. Headache—a touch of indigestion—an "off-day" every week or so—thousands of people don't even suspect that anything serious is developing.

Then comes the day when growing ill-health leads them to their doctor's office. The examination—and the verdict: chronic disease has already fastened upon them.

And when they ask the reason—"Constipation," says the doctor. "Day by day it has been distilling poisons into your blood. Your body is never free from them. This is the result."

The real reason why thousands suffer

Constipation is becoming more common every year. Our whole way of living is unnatural today.

Our work demands less and less physical exertion. And instead of the coarse, raw foods of the forest for which our bodies were built, modern civilization demands a more delicate, concentrated diet, which leaves the muscles of our intestines with no real work to do.

Drugs and cathartics are worse than useless, for their artificial irritation weakens the intestines still more—till at last the muscles refuse to respond at all.

The only way to cure constipation permanently is by exercising the intestinal muscles as Nature intended.

That is why physicians and hospitals are prescribing Fleischmann's Yeast today—not as a medicine but as a fresh corrective food which gives the intestinal muscles regular, natural exercise.

Every cake of Fleischmann's Yeast consists of millions of tiny living plants, which mix with the waste products in the colon, softening them and increasing the bulk of the waste. This greater bulk gently encourages the muscles to act, and at the same time strengthens them by offering just the resistance they need.

Be sure you get Fleischmann's Yeast—yeast in its natural fresh form. Recent experiments have shown that yeast corrects constipation only when its cells are alive and active—and that it loses its power when these cells are "killed" and dried.

Fleischmann's Yeast is in no sense a purgative and does not produce immediate violent action. It is a nourishing food—not an indigestible medicine—and like any other food, it must be eaten regularly to secure results.

Eat at least 2 or 3 cakes a day—plain or dissolved in water, milk or fruit juices—preferably half an hour before a meal, or the last thing at night. If you eat it plain, follow with a glass of water. Get several cakes at a time—they will keep in a cool, dry place for several days. Be sure you get Fleischmann's Yeast. All grocers have it.

SOARING SUGAR
PRICE LAID TO MANY CAUSE

Experts Differ o Tariff Effect.

BY GRAFTON WILCOX.

Washington, D. C., March 25.—[ cial.]—When the price of sugar be to jump in this country a few we ago, leaping from 7 to 10 and 11 ce a pound retail, there was an immedi undercurrent of agitation which le many charges and counter charges garding the cause, and which has n developed into a general demand all sorts of official investigations efforts to prevent a predicted rise price to 20 cents a pound.

Allegations leading to the deman for federal investigation of the su situation were primarily the follow

Indications of an alleged conspira on the part of market manipulat in this country creating an artifi sugar shortage in the United Stat although no real shortage exists, estimates from official sources pred an actual surplus of more than 400, tons of sugar the world over at close of the present year.

Urge Cubans to Limit Crop.

The charge that American sugar interests attempted to induce Cuban producers to limit their crop for the benefit of American ducers, a move which failed and led an alternative to obtaining an raised tariff, which it is declared of automatically to increase the pr of sugar to the American public.

The charge that the secretary commerce issued a bulletin subject interpretation as predicting a thre and serious sugar shortage in t country, and that this was at on responsible for speculation which s sugar soaring to a point costing t
American public $300,000,000.

The agitation which began late
February resulted, first, in an attem
by Senator Brookhart [Rep., Ia.]
induce congress to begin an investi
tion by the senate committee on ma factures into the sugar situation, resolution which was introduced
March 3 failing to pass.

La Follette Makes Protest.

It was followed a few days ago b telegram from the People's Legislati service, headed by Senator La Folle [Rep., Wis.], who is chairman of t manufactures committee of the sena to President Harding, urging him direct the department of justice begin an immediate investigation o
"conspiracy" on the part of sug manipulators to rob the American p ple of millions of dollars. The Pre dent has not been heard from offici in response to that message as y
but it served to disclose the fact t the department of justice had been c ducting an inquiry into the situat since Feb. 27, several days before original Brookhart resolution was introduced.

Besides the investigation by the partment of justice into causes for rapid advancement in the price sugar, the tariff commission has announced that hearings will be h in the near future under the flex provision of the tariff act, on an
